"Brookhaven operates from an "I" formation. They've got a pair of tackles who go around 230. They like to use the power play inside tackle a lot although they pretty much can choose their spot," Robson added.

BESIDES Kesterson's speed, the Bearcats have a powerful fullback available in 200-pounder Jim Limotte, who apparently has completely recovered from a preseason shoulder separation.

"Their quarterback (5-11, 158-pound Steve Campbell) is probably the fastest man on the team," the Tiger grid boss added. "He's been slowed down by bad legs but most teams get well quick when they play us."

Robson certainly wasn't well pleased with his offense against Central. "We just made too many mistakes. We played a very poor game offensively," Robson said. East fumbled the ball seven times, had one TD called back on a holding penalty and wasn't really safe until Griffin's interception score in the waning minutes of play.

ROBSON WAS quite a bit more pleased with his defensive unit, however. Central got only 73 yards on the ground and only one first down.

With East leading 6-0, the Tiger defense dug in and held the Pirates on the Bengal five after an East fumble put the Tigers in the hole on their own 15.

Brightest spots against Central on the East defense in Robson's estimation were end Tim Williams, guard Jim Dillard and middle linebacker Grady Bobo.

"I STILL feel Brookhaven and Central are the two best teams in the City League and Central gave us fits. It could go either way Friday night," Robson concluded.

Groveport represents a real "cross road" for Gahanna.

The Cruisers weren't even mentioned on the pre-season contender list in the Mid-Eight circuit but nobody's beaten Bill McCann's bunch yet this season.

IN THEIR opener, the Cruisers snapped West Jefferson's 19-game win streak with a 19-12 win. The following week, they battled Reynoldsburg to a scoreless tie—the Raiders probably on their way to the FCL title this fall.

Two Mid-Eight opponents followed and Groveport handled them both — toppling Grove City, 33-0, and Mifflin, 25-0.

"Any club that scores that many points in their last two games and doesn't allow an opponent to cross its goal line sure isn't going to be easy," Troutman comments.

"GROVEPORT'S a 'belly ball club'. They use the same type of offense we do. They're something like our twin sister in the league," the Lion mentor added.

The Cruisers' one-two offensive punch is at quarterback and fullback. Signal caller Ross Worch apparently has made a successful transition from halfback and hasn't lost any of the running savvy he picked up at that spot.

The big fullback is Tom Reichelderfer and he's plenty tough to stop on the Cruisers' power sweep. At halfback, there's Chuck Hamilton who's apparently coming fast (picked up over 100 yards vs. Mifflin last week).

"ALTHOUGH they pick up their longest yardage around end, they've got a balanced attack to go along with a good passing game," Troutman warns.

"They've got more speed than we have and they're not as small as they're cut out to be," Troutman added. "We're going to need an all-out effort to win this one."

Admittedly, Gahanna will have an edge in the weight department but not enough to be significant. "They'll make up in speed what they lack in size," the Lion grid boss says.

"I THINK it's safe to say this will be our toughest game to date. They'll be coming up here to play ball," Troutman concluded.

Against Marysville last week, fullback Dave Belli turned in another shining performance, outgaining the entire Monarch offense with 132 yards in 29 carries.

Halfbacks Doug Young (70 yards, 13 carries) and Chuck Freeman (38 yards, six carries) complemented Belli's power with fine yardage. Quarterback Bob Mack rounded out the well-balanced offense by hitting on two of six passes for 30 yards — one 15-yard toss to Mike Bokros resulting in a TD.

DEFENSIVE standouts were soph halfback Bruce Baker (key interception), end Barry Hennis (turned in sweeps), middle guard Gary Shadwick and tackle Nelson Bobb.

In other area games tomorrow night, Bexley (1-3) hosts Mt. Vernon (2-2), Eastmoor (1-3) welcomes North (1-3), Hartley (3-1) journeys to Pleasant View (2-2), Walnut Ridge (0-4) entertains Linden (1-3) and Whitehall (4-0) visits Delaware (3-1).

Academy (2-1) plays Saturday night against St. Mary (3-1) at South High's field.

SLIPPERY DEVIL — Marion-Franklin halfback Calvin Lunsford (49) slips outside a line of Walnut Ridge tacklers Friday night, picking up a first down, several plays before the Devils scored their first TD. M-F downed the Scotties, 32-16.

Dave Brobst, Trexler Keep Bears, Steelers Close In Bantam Loop

The Browns continued to pace the Whitehall Bantam Football League last weekend with their second straight win but the Bears pulled up within a half game of the lead by gaining their second verdict.

The Bears piled up 27 points in the last half to down the Packers, 33-13. Defense highlighted the opening half with Mark Stewart's 39 yard TD (keyed by Rusty Brobst block) granting the winners a 6-0 intermission edge.

BUT THE Bears, paced by Dave Brobst, broke loose in the third period. Brobst broke off guard and sprinted 50 yards to paydirt with Steve Michaels adding the PAT.

Several plays later, Brobst picked off a Packer pass and raced 65 yards for another score. Dave added a third touchdown on a 10 yarder the next time the Bears got possession — the TD set up by a 33 yard pass from Brobst to Stewart. Tom Stravroff added the extra point.

Stewart completed the scoring late in the final period when he swept end for 25 yards and then added the extra points on a pass from Brobst.

STEVE PODOSKI, and Mark Hopkins were defensive standouts for the Bears.

Buck Mayer (two yards) and Rick Harden (25 yards) supplied the Packers' TDs with Cory Hanners adding the PAT.

Mike Gilmore scored twice (60 and 45 yards) and Steve Hill raced 40 yards for a third touchdown but the Redskins still lost out to the Steelers, 20-19.

KEN WELLNITZ went 15 yards to paydirt for the winners but 20 and 60 yard TD runs by Randy Trexler (league's leading scorer) plus Trexler's extra points made the difference.

Trexler's sixth '65 touchdown came in the final minute of play and turned defeat into victory for the Steelers.

Junior Phipps and Dick Smith were defensive standouts for the Redskins while Dick Miller took that honor for the Steelers.

THE BROWNS displayed a well - balanced offense in rambling over the Vikings, 32-6.

Gene Hickle (35 and 40 yards) and Mike Richardson (50 and 60 yards) paced the offense with a pair of TDs apiece while Mike Arends (35 yards) added the fifth six-pointer.

Richardson and Alan Grundy added conversions.

Glen McMullins recovered a Brown fumble in the end zone to chalk up the Vikings' lone touchdown. Skelly and Roncosner were defensive standouts for the Browns.

IN OTHER play last weekend, St. Phillips downed the Giants of the 120 pound league, 42-2.

Here's this week's schedule: Saturday—Steelers (2-1) vs. Packers (1-1) at Canal Winchester (7 p.m.); Sunday — Vikings (0-3) vs. 49ers (1-1) at Rosemore (1 p.m.) and Redskins (0-1-2) vs. Browns (2-0) at Whitehall-Yearling (1 p.m.).

THROAT NOTE
If you are one of those unhappy gals who cannot escape neck makeup, be careful to have the neckline of your frocks always freshly cleaned or laundered. If you wear neck jewelry take care to clean cosmetic strains from that regularly, too. Real pearls will require constant attention as they particularly seem to pick up a fair amount of powder, oil, and stain from the atmosphere.
However, since today's makeup is designed to be practically invisible, most of us can blend it out of sight just under the chin and back of the ears. Unless you have an unusual need to cover up the skin of your throat, it will probably not be necessary to wear makeup on it at all.
AND LIVING COLOR
The sun is more exacting, more revealing, than any TV camera. With that in mind, it is important to consider very carefully when deciding on the correct haircoloring cosmetic. Imperfect amateur work may get by indoors without too much embarrassment, but the tattletale sun reveals the work of the kitchen beautician every time.
TV ADS ARE RIGHT AS FAR AS THEY GO
Anyone can swoosh haircoloring on in the bathroom or the kitchen. However, they don't tell you that only a professional knows the secrets of "color-on-color." Only a professional knows which bottle to select to create color which will be the right complement to your own natural skintones, and the costume color combinations you should prefer. There are other things too numerous to mention. For instance, only a professional knows how to avoid buildup on the ends, and how to guarantee a consistent even color every time.
OUR HAIRSTYLING IS SIMPLE ON PURPOSE. WOMEN ARE WONDERFUL ENOUGH.
HEARD UNDER THE DRYER
It's hard to explain to kids why a nation that spends billions for nuclear bombs is trying to outlaw fireworks.

WHICH PARTY PLATFORM IS BEST FOR WHITEHALL?

HERE IS THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM PRESENTED BY THEIR CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR:

- Renew the street and sewer program which has been at a standstill for two years.
- Insist on financial integrity and spend no funds for projects which will not benefit the city.
- Give attention to all citizen complaints, large or small.
- Improve and equip the city park.
- Call for courtesy and helpfulness on the part of all city employes at all times.

HERE IS THE PLATFORM TO WHICH ALL DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE ARE PLEDGED:

ZONING — Strict limitations on additional apartments and commercial zoning. We continue to be overbalanced with apartments and commercial property and we must give preference to the development of single family homes.

RECREATION PROGRAM — This program must provide recreation for girls as well as boys, and for people of all ages. Existing parks and recreation facilities must be expanded to provide more diverse activities.

A MINIMUM HOUSING CODE — This would prevent your neighborhood deterioration because of someone's failure to maintain their property in proper repair. We also need maximum effort in a program to beautify Whitehall particularly in our commercial and public areas.

A CITIZEN'S GRIEVANCE AND ADVISORY COMMITTEE — This would be a group of civic-minded citizens appointed to meet regularly in the evenings to listen and act upon suggestions or complaints for improving the city's services.

SYSTEMATIC REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE OF STREETS AND SIDEWALKS — Some of our streets and sidewalks are reaching the age where costly repairs will be needed unless a regular systematic program of maintenance at city's cost is followed. Otherwise there is danger of having to reassess property owners if this program is not begun.

BUS LINE EXTENSION — There is no reason why convenient bus service cannot be made available to every section of Whitehall.

APPOINT A WOMAN JUVENILE OFFICER — As other cities have long realized, the woman's viewpoint is vitally needed and has been most effective in helping combat juvenile delinquency problems.

INDUSTRIAL BROCHURE FILED

BEFORE SUBMISSION, Mayor George W. Twyford (left) and Councilman Norman E. (Gene) Shivener, chairman of the city's industrial development committee, look over the finished industrial brochure to induce industry to Reynoldsburg. The booklet was printed and published by the Area Development Department of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company following a complete survey of the city. Shivener filed the brochure with the Ohio Development Department Monday for use by those seeking commercial ventures in Ohio. Originally initiated early last year by Twyford and Councilman Richard J. Daugherty (missing from picture), who met with representatives of the state and the electric company, the city will now be on the distribution of the "Site Seekers," a publication printed each week by the state listing prospective businesses considering settling in Ohio. The highlights of the final draft were published in its entirety in The Spectator last spring. Local residents may examine or study copies which are available for use in the Municipal Building.

Speech Class Takes Prize For TV Script

Reynoldsburg and Franklin Heights High Schools shared top honors when both schools received a $250 award on the Chet Long Show (WBNS-TV, Channel 10), Friday. Mrs. Sandra Bennett appeared on the program to receive the award for her speech class.

Last year Long conducted a program entitled "Youth Reports." It presented an opportunity for all area high schools to have students prepare a TV script about some aspect of their school and have their script presented during Long's newscasts. The project's purpose was to give the public a good view of some of the work being accomplished in the schools.

Mrs. Bennett and her speech class thought this an excellent opportunity to learn about the writing of a TV script. For several weeks, students worked on various aspects and after many drafts, the students chose scripts written by Vic Doritan, Carol Ennis, Bruce McClelland and Bradie Ann Muncy concerning the senior high intramural program. The four of them then worked out the final script which was submitted.

Last fall Long and Dick Ritchie, program director, came to Reynoldsburg to do the script filming.

Carol Houser and Tim O'Brien were chosen to do the narration for the newscast and a panel of judges evaluated the production which was presented last March.

HAVE WORLD OF PROJECTS

Anyone who believes that school is off to a slow start should see the progress in the junior high social studies class. Seventh graders, under Mrs. Palmer, recently completed projects under the theme, "Egypt and the Near East." A few of the students who completed maps, reports, stories and models on the subject were, from left, front: Richard Kyllo, Marsha Mauser, Brenda McKinney, Stephen Molk and Mark Carey. Second row: Vicki Krause, Linda Long, Marcena Upp and Brienne Loftis. Standing, rear: Steve Mueller, Sandra Parker and Ron Herbert.

Honor Rainwater For Test Scores

Harold L. (Larry) Rainwater, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rainwater, Sr., of 6639 Furth-dr, received a letter of commendation last week for his high performance in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT), given last spring.

Larry was among 38,000 students across the country scoring in the top two percent of those completing high school in 1966.

Larry's score ranked just below the semifinalists announced last week.

Partners In Freedom

National Newspaper Week (Oct. 10-16) will have a special Ohio flavor this year. William J. Oertel, national chairman of the sponsoring Newspaper Public Information Committee of the Newspaper Association Managers, Inc., will direct activities for the observation.

Oertel is executive director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, headquartered in Columbus. He is a newspaperman in every sense of the word, having served over the past 36 years as reporter, advertising salesman, editor and university instructor in journalism.

And he has chosen for this year's National Newspaper Week the theme: "Newspapers and Readers are Partners in Freedom."

This is more than a slogan. It is a goal worthy of serious thought and effort on the part of publishers and public alike. It is a reminder that Freedom of the Press is still one of the strongest bulwarks of Freedom of the People.

It is a challenge to publishers to seek and maintain the highest form of ethical journalism; to accurately report both sides of every public issue in the news columns, and to be honest and fearless in stating editorial opinions — on the editorial page.

But there is no less a challenge for the reading public. It is the invitation to participate — particularly through the letters to the editor columns. These, too, are editorials, and probably more effective than any other single means of communication.

Our hope for National Newspaper Week (and every week, for that matter) is that you, the reader, join us in keeping The Spectator a newspaper worthy of serving the best interests of the total community.

We always will welcome your words of encouragement and support. But, more important, we want to know when you disagree with us, and why. A newspaper is both a business and a vehicle with great potential for public service. And our degree of success in either area is limited only by your degree of participation.

The 'You' In UA

How do you measure success?

If the United Appeal campaign now under way attains its goal of $4,563,097, it will indeed have been a successful venture.

But the real success of United Appeal must be measured in people, not dollars.

UA success is seen in the first, hesitant steps of a child with new leg braces. It is the faint smile of hope from those who will benefit from family counseling services.

Success is the salvaging of delinquent juveniles, that they may not become criminal adults. It is love, shelter, food and family for the deserted and neglected infant.

The UA success story is written by many people; by those who volunteer as neighborhood campaign workers, and by all who contribute.

The UA story includes some glorious past chapters. You can assure a happy ending to this year's chapter. It is worth writing well.

Political Hoaxers

Don't be fooled by the "Good Government Committee" hoax too often brought into play in the dying hours of political campaigns.

If there is a bona fide good government committee in your area, it should already have been identified; its leadership and purposes should be a matter of public record.

One certainly can view with suspicion the motives of any committee using a variation of the "good government" theme when the endorsements go almost exclusively to the candidates of one party.

The chances are that the "civic" committee consists of one person to pay the bills and another to sign as chairman of the group.

There are good "good government committees." Their membership is always open to immediate inspection by any citizen.

But there also are those who would prostitute the meaning of good government in quest of public power or the control of elected officials. And those who accept such tainted endorsement are no less guilty than those who perpetrate the hoax.

Columbus Day USA

The Columbus Day USA celebration is more than the marking of an historic event. It also is the marshaling of forces for the march into the future.

This year's activities — from Friday evening through the "Day," itself, Oct. 12, include banquets, a parade and a band concert.

And on Tuesday, Columbus Day, about 500 citizens will participate in a bus tour of the city's West Side—Hilltop area to learn more about the full meaning and impact of urban renewal.

Christopher Columbus started the whole "bit." The Franklinton area (Near West Side) started the Columbus, Ohio show on the road.

And 473 years after it all began, there are still people of vision and action striving to continue the "Spirit of Columbus."

There's a lot of healthy pride wrapped up in Columbus Day USA; the kind that breathes life into the slogan "Come to Columbus and Discover America."

Did I Start All This?

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

Recently the governors of 12 midwestern states met at Mackinac Island.

Hardly anything was said that hasn't been said before. If any action was taken to meet the problems of the states, either individually or collectively, it was not reported.

After much criticism of the encroachment on the rights and prerogatives of the states, the meeting adjourned to again meet in Washington with their Senators and Congressmen to encroach on the federal government by using political muscle to demand that the proposed $280,000,000 atom smasher be put in the Midwest.

This will no doubt induce other governors to arrange similar regional meetings to insist that the development of their area as well as the nation's will be damaged if the atom smasher is not located in their respective regions, Northwest, Southwest, Southeast, Mid-Atlantic, etc.

The federal government will be faced with 12 governors and 24 U.S. Senators from the Midwest states out of the nation's 50 governors and 100 U. S. Senators. The rest of the nation will be similarly fragmented.

Perhaps the desirable result will be a political stalemate, with the federal officials being able to select the site which will best serve the national interest.

All Ohioans of course hope that a site in Ohio will be selected. This is a natural desire, that might have best been served if each of the potential Ohio sites had received the same type of support by state officials. Wherever in Ohio an improvement is made, it redounds to the benefit of the whole state.

The other 11 governors attending the conference were not taken in by the Ohio Governor's claims of inheriting a debt (which he didn't), economies in operation (which were not achieved), and other repetitious claims which have never been supported by fact.

When our Governor was being jibed at the numbers and the amount of bond issues he had sponsored he replied, "We renewed some bond issues the Democrats put on and we refinanced them adequately."

The truth of the matter is that each bond issue from 1953 on was submitted by a Republican-dominated General Assembly.

This brings us to the real problem resulting in the claimed takeover by the federal government. Bond issues may be used to build highways, public buildings, schools, benevolent and penal institutions, but bond issues will not finance the operation or maintenance of these programs.

The states have traditionally lagged behind in furnishing the money required to support health, welfare and education programs. This failure has transferred pressure for support of these programs to the federal government. Good citizens, who for years have tried to maintain the integrity of the states, have finally in despair, realizing the unmet needs in these important programs, turned to the federal government for assistance.

Ohio is not an exception, the buildings constructed by the bond issues and the profits from their issuance (profit is not a dirty word in Ohio) will be retained in Ohio, but since the money for operations has not and is not being provided, Ohio will be standing in line for its handout from the federal government.

At the same time we will continue to hear the speeches about the concentration of power in Washington, and the expense of sending our money to Washington and having it returned to us (incidentally no more expensive than bond issues). These speeches will be continued to be made by the same people whose actions make the whole situation possible.

Letters To The Editor

For Repeal Of 14(b)

(Editor's Note: Because of the wide interest in the issue concerning Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Law, The Spectator is relaxing its word-limit in the publication of this letter. Advocates who favor retention of 14(b) also will be invited to submit their views for publication.)

To the Editor:

Since Senator Dirksen has donned his ancient armor and unsheathed his rusty sword to fight to retain 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Law until the Potomac freezes over, and since numerous editorial writers have been cheering him on, I feel that the million union members of Ohio are entitled to some space to explain what the senator is out to defend so mightily. Why is the repeal of 14(b) so important to union members and their organizations?

Union members have worked hard, taken risks (at times to life and limb) and made sacrifices to establish their organizations and to make them more effective. They did this because collective bargaining filled vital needs in their lives in many ways. They can therefore see no reason why a newcomer in a shop or factory which is covered by a union contract should reap the benefits of the union contract without at least contributing to the cost of maintaining the union. It should be remembered that the union cannot deny benefits or services of a union contract to a worker who does not belong to the union.

The Labor-Management Relations Act (Taft-Hartley) requires unions to negotiate a contract for all employes in the bargaining unit, those of the majority who joined the union as well as those individuals who preferred not to join. Moreover, practicality requires the same thing, for an employer cannot have two sets of wage scales and

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

On the morning of Nov. 24, 1963, the most public murder in the history of mankind was committed by a strip-tease impresario in Dallas, named Jack Ruby.

Literally millions of television viewers watched as Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President Kennedy, came through the jail corridor toward the loading dock with a smirk on his face. These millions saw Ruby move in, heard the bark of a pistol, and watched as Oswald's grin turned to a grimace and he slumped to the floor.

If there ever was a murder case in which there was no mystery, in which the essential facts could be agreed to by stipulation, this was it. Without a shadow of doubt one man had killed another man who was in the custody of the law, shackled and defenseless. There remained only one question: Was the killer mentally responsible for his action, or was he not?

This determination, so far as human beings may rightly determine such an ephemeral thing as mental stability, could have been made within four weeks of the shooting. All of Ruby's pertinent background could have been examined. A score of alienists could have interviewed and observed him. His relatives and friends could have been questioned at length. And, in the meantime, a jury could have been impaneled. The jury, when it finally did get the case 15 weeks after the shooting, reached a verdict in two hours.

As the second anniversary of the shooting of Oswald approaches, the killer sits in the Dallas jail. He has been condemned to death for more than 18 months. He has never even been in the penitentiary. The final disposition of his case seems farther off than it did a year ago.

Here is a perfect example of the growing tendency to turn American justice into legal circuses. What the Ruby case was all about has been forgotten. Instead, we appear to be watching a trampoline act.

The Jack Ruby trial began on Feb. 17, 1964. For a week thereafter, Melvin Belli, the flamboyant chief of the defense, demanded a change of venue. Two weeks were occupied in picking 12 jurors out of 160 veniremen, during which Belli wanted to test prospective jurors with a lie detector and sought to bar all who had seen the shooting on TV. By the trial's end Belli had thought up 41 "errors."

When the verdict was announced Melvin Belli put on an act that has few precedents. He said he feared a plot of Dallasites to kill Ruby in his cell to prevent an appeal.

"The Criminal Court of Appeals," he shouted, "will chastise this kangaroo pouch judge. He didn't walk to the bench, he hopped." And then, with a marvelous mixture of metaphors, he roared, "Dallas is running a kangaroo railroad!"

So the judge, the jury and all citizens of Dallas were on trial, not Jack Ruby.

On April 29, 1964, the trial judge, Joe E. Brown, denied motions for a new trial. Ruby's defense lawyers, now minus Belli, filed notice of appeal.

Six weeks later Chief Justice Earl Warren interviewed Ruby in connection with his report on the Kennedy assassination. On Aug. 7 last year the Ruby defense filed 15 bills of exceptions, citing as errors such things as the refusal of the judge to make prospective jurors swear they were not members of the John Birch Society.

So things rocked along until Feb. 17 of this year when the Ruby family said that Jack wanted to fire defense attorney Joe Tonahill. Tonahill said that Ruby was too insane to fire him. A week later the appeals court ordered Judge Brown to submit Ruby's sanity to a jury.

On March 8 Judge Brown appointed Tonahill

DANCERS, like these at the Luv-A-Go-Go, seldom smile and seem hypnotized by the blaring music.

Go-Go Is Given A Go In Columbus

Story and Photos

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Anthony Delewese stood in the back room of his restaurant and his eyes shone like they haven't since the Les Paul and Mary Ford days.

Tony took a gamble a month ago. He latched on to a hunk of entertainment called the "discotheque." He wasn't even sure what the word meant but he was sure his business was hurting.

Now the Everglades has a marquee out in front that says "Discotheque and the Jet Set Dancing Girls" and Tony Delewese is getting a piece of the night club revenue in Columbus that he had begun to believe was dead.

Tony isn't alone in taking hold of the new entertainment shot-in-the-arm which is threatening to change things radically in the Columbus area. The influence of TV's "Hullabaloo" and "Shindig" has caused local restaurateurs to take a closer look at the type of shows they offer Columbus audiences.

The movement here — although observers feel Columbus is about three months behind in hitting the go-go trail — is gaining momentum.

It's gaining momentum so quickly that now Columbus night club entertainment king Benny Klein is even wondering whether or not it's time to give the belly dancers the gate. He has talked with Delewese about it. Benny doesn't like to change a policy once he starts it, but the soothing sound of a cash register causes a man to do strange things.

VOO DOO IS FIRST

The first discotheque to hit Columbus saw the light of day in the Voo Doo Supper Club on S. High-st. Howard Case has about a half-dozen go-go dancers on his payroll. They perform in cages on either side of the room and one girl gyrates in the center of his circular bar.

The lights are dim at the Voo Doo and it's tough to get a good look at the girls. As with all Columbus discotheque dancers, they wear nylon-net stockings and outfits seemingly conducive to an influenza attack. Most of them have bare midriffs, partially concealed by more nylon net.

Although the Voo Doo was first, Mort Love and his E. Main-st night spot called "Luv-A-Go-Go" came along rapidly. Mort has designed his offering more for the teenagers while the Voo Doo and Everglades would rather stick to the adult crowd.

SATURDAY MATINEES

Love is in his ninth week at offering Go-Go entertainment. His is not a real discotheque since the accepted translation of that word means "a dance to records." Love has a live band backing up his three dancers. A juke box does play during band breaks, however.

You have to be over 18 to enter the Luv-A-Go-Go but Mort hasn't discounted the younger teen trade. On Saturdays, between 1 and 4 p.m., he throws open his doors to anyone old enough to stand up on the dance floor. He closes down his bar and serves only soft drinks and potato chips. The Go-Go dancers tame down their routines.

NOT ALL ROSES

The Go-Go is not really an answer to Columbus' entertainment woes. There has been at least one nitery that has discontinued using the gimmick.

FOR ANYWHERE from $80 to $100 a week, girls—many from the Columbus area — keep up this strenuous pace nightly.

HUGE SPOTLIGHTS illuminate the discotheque action at the Everglades. Most go-go places in Columbus, however, feature dim spotlights on the dancing girls. As with all places, the girls dance in phone-booth like enclosures called "cages."

AN UNIQUE change in the "cages" at the Voo Doo Supper Club includes mirrors which enable customers to get a more panoramic view of the entertainment.

Letters To The Editor

two sets of working standards for the union majority and for the dissident minority.

For all practical purposes, every worker in a bargaining unit covered by a union contract is under the jurisdiction of the union, or in effect a member of the union, regardless of whether or not he pays his dues. The law and practicality in effect require the union to act as the non-dues-paying member's agent in a contract. This distinguishes a union from any other organization.

Moreover, even the dissident members themselves and those who advocate right-to-work laws do not advocate that dissident workers should refuse the benefits of a union contract, and they never do. What advocates of right-to-work laws really favor, then, is the right of an individual to receive benefits and services without paying for them.

To union members there is no issue of freedom involved in the union shop. Taking into consideration the legal and practical aspects which make a union shop necessary, to pass a law freeing a man from the obligation to pay for the benefits and services he receives from a union contract is, to union members, no different from passing a law that would free a man from the obligation to pay taxes which cover the cost of government services.

With no real issue of freedom involved, and with the union shop having no adverse effect on the conduct of union affairs, right-to-work laws seem to union members as just a form of harassing their organizations and of confusing the public mind as to the nature of trade unionism. To counter the lavish campaigns of advocates of right-to-work laws wastes a lot of the union's resources, and this is no doubt one of the key objectives of these campaigns.

The labor movement has no choice. Allowing right-to-work laws to become universal cannot only do damage to the labor movement now, but can be like letting the camel stick its nose into the tent. It can be the prelude to many other harassments by the enemies of organized labor and, for that matter, organized consumers and organized farmers.

Senator Dirksen's projected filibuster is just another instance of the harassing tactics resorted to by those who sometimes pay lip service to our trade union movement but who really don't understand, or don't want to understand, its significance and how deeply rooted unions are in the American way of life.

President Lyndon B. Johnson understands it. He and the Democratic Party platform promised repeal of 14(b)- before the election and they obviously want to honor this promise as they have tried to honor others; some people evidently think this is the wrong thing to do.

The Taft-Hartley Act, Section 14(b), and right-to-work legislation have been thoroughly debated and discussed since 1947, so it isn't likely that a filibuster can add anything. Filibusters are not calculated to shed any light. They are obstructive devices to thwart the will of a Senate majority. They only serve to postpone the inevitable and have little or nothing to do with the merits of legislation, as in the case of Senator Dirksen's efforts.

Educational Hostages

To the Editor:

Once again we are experiencing insult to intelligence.

Once again our children are to be held as hostages, so that we will not dare defeat the increased sales tax — or so the politicians hope.

Those around the State House have put Ohio in hock for a billion dollars. (This is in the black?) They have shamelessly increased their own salaries beyond the point of any of their services could possibly be worth. Now they have realized that with the whopping interest on the billion dollars, and their own greedy grabbing, they may not have enough left for the maintenance of educational needs.

Where to get the money to play with and keep teachers and taxpayers quiet? Why we'll enlist these same teachers and educators to vote for an increase in the sales tax!

We'll take it for granted they will never think how much more they will have to pay for merchandise, thus minimizing any salary increase they might get. And the general public is a push-over where their children are concerned!

The children do need every opportunity to get a good education and a lot of dedicated teachers do need better salaries. But it does not follow that increasing the sales tax will accomplish this. Why? Because, according to the laws of the State of Ohio, THIS TAX MUST FIRST GO INTO THE GENERAL FUND. The irresponsible legislature may do a little to keep criticism down, and they will have more money to waste on political patronage.

One Ohio city whose school bond issue did not pass, found money to increase their teachers' salaries appreciably. Before and after election they had been saying facilities would have to be cut. These things should impel every one to scan closely every proposal to increase taxes either on sales or real estate.

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS—U.S.A.

I constantly thank God for two aspects of my childhood.

First, my parents were devout Christian people who never held a single doubt in their minds about discipline and education. Any time my dad spoke to me, I said "sir," and I always heard him the first time. If my mother spoke to me, I said "ma'am," and just once I sassed her about something. That was the last time.

The other good fortune was being born and reared in a long line of physicians. From age five, I rode a round the country with my wise old doctor Grampa in a two-wheel cart. He kept four horses worn to a frazzle and most of his income was traded out in oats, hay, firewood, potatoes and milk.

I learned how to milk at the age 10 and milked two cows twice daily for a neighbor farmer for two quarts of fresh milk. Our regular diet was corn bread (Johnny Cake) oatmeal, Side meat, home canned fruits and vegetables. What my mother put on the table was food and we never had any remarks about "I don't like this and I don't like that." I ate it or else.

I started by trap line the winter of my 12th year and got 10 cents for a rat hide, $3 for a mink pelt, and up to $6 for a top grade full grown otter hide. Then Granpa got me a beagle and a ferret and I was in business as a typical country kid.

That was my good fortune as a typical country boy. I learned how to read, how to work, how to treat other people and how to pray. I read Gray's Anatomy in Grampa's office when I was 12; and Robinson's Symposium on Arts and Science of Medicine when I was 14. We grew up in Sunday school and then in church and just one time I gave a teacher a smart crack; that was plenty.

Urban society must find a substitute for the "old-fashioned" approach—and soon—or God help all of us.

Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

It is very difficult to decide how to go about collecting coins in a manner that is economical yet satisfying. United States coins are collected in many ways. The most popular approach is to collect a series of a particular type of coin. Most collectors work on series of several types of coins simultaneously. For example, Lincoln cents, Roosevelt dimes and Jefferson nickels are very popular, because they can be completed largely from coins found in circulation. A series collection includes one coin of each date and mint. It is most desirable to collect coins in the best possible condition so that while you are completing a collection of dates and mints you should always be on the lookout for coins that are in better condition to "up-grade" your collection.

An economical way to start your collection is to purchase inexpensive folders or albums to hold the coins required to complete the collections that interest you most, and fill them as far as possible from circulation. This will familiarize you with various dates and mints and the relative rarity of each. A "handbook" should be available at all times so that you can check the mintage and approximate worth of the coins that you find. The "Redbook" or Bluebook" of United States coins will be considered an invaluable aid in deciding what to keep and what to put back into circulation.

One of the most interesting aspects of collecting coins is that you may well find more "rare" coins than you actually need for your collection. You will find that fellow collectors are anxious to trade for coins that they may have. Through trading you may develop your collections to the point of completion or even become interested in other areas of numismatics such as type collecting or one of the earlier series collections.

and Dallas lawyer Phil Burleson to serve as Ruby's attorneys in a future sanity hearing. But on March 18 Ruby's relatives filed a writ of habeas corpus in Federal District Court, claiming that Ruby's constitutional rights were being violated because he couldn't pick his lawyers. When this was thrown out an appeal was made to the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

On May 25 Judge Louis T. Holland of Montague, Tex. subbing for Judge Brown, dismissed Tonahill. On June 21 Judge Brown asked to be relieved of any further Ruby hearings.

On Sept. 10 defense attorneys argued that the case should start over from the beginning because Judge Brown disqualified himself when he agreed to write a book about the trial. Jack Ruby still sits in his jail cell.

Funny? No, utterly tragic.

The law has broken down.

The business of punishing criminals creating psychopaths has been submerged in a gigantic farce written by and for lawyers.

Life in our wonderful country grows more dangerous day-by-day.

Jack Ruby, the man whose assault was seen by millions, is no offender compared to the American judicial system that seems to be at war against decent citizens who need protection by the law.

When are Americans going to get mad?

As is the case with other noted people, there are some misconceptions about Fulton. He did not invent the steamboat — he did build and demonstrate the first successful one.

The power of steam had been known and harnessed in a rudimentary way by the end of the 18th century. John Fitch demonstrated a steamboat on the Delaware River at Philadelphia before members of the Continental Convention in August, 1787.

In December of the same year, James Rumsey operated a steamboat on the Potomac at Shepherdstown. Encouraged by Washington, his earlier experiments had been secret. He disputed Fitch's claim to be the first to operate a boat by steam power.

Fulton was born in Lancaster County, Pa. in 1765. He was not a brilliant student, but could make good drawings and began early to demonstrate his versatility.

In his early teens Fulton designed a skyrocket, and was making his own pencils from bits of lead. He became a gunsmith and designer, and ventured out onto Conestoga Creek in his own paddlewheel boat.

Fulton painted portraits and landscapes, and invented devices for handling canal boats, sawing marble and making rope. He promoted canals by designing aqueducts and bridges.

Experimenting with steam from 1794, Fulton operated a steamboat in France in 1803. He made his famous voyage on the Hudson in 1807, 20 years after Fitch and Rumsey.

It says here . . .

Robert Fulton died at age 50, but contributed much to our American heritage.

SUM AND SUBSTANCE

It's Week For United Giving

By CHUCK HARTLE

The biggest bargain in community betterment is now being made available to the citizens of Columbus and Central Ohio. It's United Appeal, an opportunity to make one gift work for 67 different agencies.

It's not so much that you are saved from being nickeled and dimed to death by 67 different drives, but that you have the opportunity to participate in the work of so many dedicated organizations.

The annual UA drive began Monday and the goal this year, $4,563,097, is eight percent above last year's. Rising costs, rising population and rising needs make this a good time for rising to the occasion by "fair share" giving.

That amounts to one hour's pay per month, according to Drive Chairman William S. Guthrie.

Brrrrrr . . . . it's time to get out the fur!

Fall's first frost nipped the city Monday morning and is expected to play many repeat performances.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

After a September that turned out to be the rainiest in 75 years, the weatherman is predicting cool weather in the days ahead.

No matter how chilly the weather, you can rest assured that the beeting windows at Beulah Park will not be frosted over as the track's fall meeting gets under way Saturday.

Andrew Jackson Cunningham, known as the "Golden Voice of Racing," will be track announcer for the 19 racing days.

The jarring notes of senseless violence disrupted the harmony of the first beautiful week in October. A service station at Main and Grant was robbed of $87 Saturday and the 19-year-old attendant was shot and killed by the robber. The victim, Chester Joseph Scowden, of 931 W. Town-st, is survived by his wife and two children.

On the highways, 25 died throughout Ohio over the weekend.

Gun-toting robbers held up the Kahiki Supper Club Sunday, taking $15,000. And thieves held six employes captive for six hours while they burned open a safe at the Ontario store at 1600 Alum Creek-dr. They got about $5,000.

The Franklin County Juvenile Court will stick glue-sniffers with stiff penalties in an attempt to head off the dangerous practice, a county probation officer said last week. Confinement in an institution under the care of the Ohio Youth Commission is likely, he said.

New superintendent of the Franklin County Home and the Alum Crest Hospital is Erwin Petzinger, 47, of 2770 Petzinger-rd. He has been acting superintendent since May.

Marte Pontiac, Inc., plans a new $.75-million sales and service plant at 960 Morse-rd, just east of the Freeway.

"TJ" is in. The Ohio legislature passed a measure which became effective yesterday, making tomato juice the official state beverage.

Our Columbus is only one of eight U.S. cities so-named. Reminding us of our common tradition is the Columbus Day U.S.A. celebration taking place here this weekend.

Queens from each of the eight cities are here and one will be named Miss Columbus U.S.A. Saturday night. Miss Barbara Druggan, of 1528 Tiffany-ct, is our candidate. Watch for the parade down Broad-st Sunday evening.

Now the Columbus mayor is involved in the smelly business of clearing the air in the vicinity of Frank-rd and the South Freeway. He has ordered prosecution and possible $500-a-day penalties for those responsible for the odors.

It has been strongly suggested by City Attorney John Young that there is nothing in the Columbus City Code to prevent the operation of "live" burlesque as planned at a local theater.

Tom Weiskopf, 22, won the Ohio Open last week at Walnut Hill Country Club and took home $1,300 top money. This was his first victory since turning professional a year ago.

Employes of the Western Electric Corp. in Columbus are knocking down an extra nine to 12 cents an hour. The increase was announced following discussions between the company and Local 2020 of the IBEW. It affects 4,200 production employes.

Roger Williams, 51, of 1273 Gumwood-dr, is the new county welfare director. He was named last week to replace Richard K. Cassidy, who has resigned.

"When you care enough to make your own" is the theme song of Leonard K. Zane, of 1733 Barrington-rd. Several years ago he inaugurated a contest for homemade Christmas cards. Growing interest in the contest each year led him to suggest that the adult education program in the Upper Arlington School System include a course of instruction in Christmas card design.

The course is being offered this fall. Zane is reportedly enrolled in hopes of improving his technique. He has yet to win an award in one of the contests.

PROMOTED AT FEDERAL GLASS

KEY MANAGEMENT POSTS were filled recently as Federal Glass Company of Columbus promoted three men from within the organization. From left, C. C. (Bud) Stein, general sales manager of the company for the past 20 years, has been appointed coordinator of production planning and inventory control. In the middle, Richard A. Howells, formerly sales manager in charge of institutional sales, has been appointed general sales manager. And right, Arthur R. Tressel has been named sales manager of institutional sales.

Nine times out of 10, the coarse word is the word that condemns an evil and the refined word the word that excuses it.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

They Must Forget We've Got Six Girls

ADELINE DALEY

This past summer we apparently reached the age in which not only all of our friends' children seemed to be getting married at once, but also, in increasing numbers, our oldest daughter's teen-aged girl-friends.

In fact, I think I've spent more time (and money) recently buying wedding presents than Tommy Manville's best friend.

It was thus that I became aware of the vast difference between today's newly married couples and those of yesteryear — like us. And how "yesteryear" can you get? I'm beginning to wonder.

It narrows down to a case of the "have" and the "have nots" — and you needn't have to speculate for long trying to figure out what category we belong to.

Not when you inspect our "silverware" and compare it with the average new bride's complete place settings, which cost about as much per individual setting as a whole drawerful of our collection.

And that's what you'd have to call it, because at last count we had a collection of at least six different patterns. (I actually do think that I have four matching teaspoons.)

Today's affluent brides — just as I once hopefully did — leave their choice of silverware and china patterns at department stores in order that friends can complete the set when purchasing wedding presents.

The main difference in my case, however, was that after 18 years nobody came through with even a salad fork. The store advised me that they were reluctantly closing the account. They weren't any more reluctant than I was.

I fared better with dishes. I chose a lovely rosebud pattern which was being offered in one of the better oatmeal boxes and my mother had her friends save me a service for six. (Although I do believe I ended up with mostly cereal bowls. Understandably.)

So you can't blame me each time I attend a wedding reception for being somewhat awed by the "loot" (and that's how they describe it). A newly wedded couple's array of every electric appliance put out by General Electric, cut glass, enough bedding to equip a small hotel, and assorted gifts to delight the daughter of any Shah are unbelievable.

I'm not complaining (or am I?), but it's a far cry from my era of embroidered pillow slips, pot-holders, and chrome-handled potato masher and soup ladle sets.

Of course, I suppose you'd have to say that anybody who invited us to a wedding has a lot of courage or have they forgotten we have six daughters?

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

A Call To Arms . . .

Ever since the unfortunate assassination of President Kennedy in November, 1963, there has been a growing hue and cry to disarm the American citizenry. I am sure a large part of this feeling stems from well-meaning people who, never had need of a gun and wouldn't miss one until it was too late.

Sprinkled in amongst these good folks, I'm just as sure, are those who have 'special reasons' to take away a feller's iron.

THESE ARE those who dread to see hunting season come for fear they will again feel the shower of buckshot from careless hunters, have had a relative hurt or killed by gunshot or have been held up or threatened by gun totera.

Paugh

Then there are the undesirables who would either take away or register all firearms. This includes criminals who would still maintain an arsenal to use on unarmed countryside.

It includes the subversives who would like to change our sweet liberties to shackles. It even includes a very few law enforcement people who mistakenly think it would clear up crime in their baliwick.

THERE ARE already thousands of anti-gun laws in all parts of these United States but none have prevented or solved crimes. There is no way known to legislate against criminal thinking — and that is where the crime is commissioned. No gun ever killed without help.

There is one way to maintain our precious freedoms and reduce the adverse effects of an armed citizenry, that is through education. It needs an education that will not only train the sporting gunner but also calm the non-users.

For many year I have seen good solid citizens of Central Ohio try in vain to interest the fathers of several cities in building a safe, well-managed gunnery range to provide serious shooters with a place to hang their hats.

There is money for swimming pools, golf courses and tennis courts but none for the over one million hunters and shooters of Ohio.

ALTHOUGH isolated conservation clubs try to train youths, no government sanction from any direction has been introduced. There are more guns in the United States in the hands of civilians than there are people in the same United States.

This has been an especially difficult hardship on the city-dwellers. Each new road and development takes away yesterday's favorite shooting spot.

In an exclusive interview with Ohio's Director of Natural Resources, Fred E. Morr, I learned to my delight that the State of Ohio is taking giant steps to assure our pistol-packing public a place to shoot in the crowded years ahead.

DIRECTOR MORR explained to me his plan of installing pistol and rifle ranges on state-owned lands in all parts of Ohio. Already, a trial range at the Delaware Reservoir has proved the common sense in his plan. It is well attended every day of the week.

Director Morr said he will have a total of 18 to 20 ranges when the plan is completed. That will be a range for every five counties. It doesn't sound like many now. However, twenty years from now, it will serve the crowded shooter who otherwise would have to be content to merely admire his firearms.

The ranges will ile administered by the Division of Wildlife and overseen by the game protectors in that area. It will offer the competition teams a chance to start scheduled shoots, the plinker a place to shoot without the usual harshness from the neighbors and it will ideal for the big game hunter who wants to make sure his eye is still right with the gun before the season opens.

MORE THAN all this practical usage, it will mean Ohio has come of age and respects the needs of one-tenth of it's people. Who knows, in the far distant future, we may even beat Russia in Olympic shooting.

Rome Sets Qualifying Dates For Indoor 'Shoe Tourney

THE FINALS will be played the last two weekends in October.

Eight winners of eight different 'shoe tourneys conducted in Central Ohio this past summer are likely to be in the lineup for the indoor match.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Are You Interested?

Bill Fox is a busy guy these days.

Who's Bill Fox? Bill's a 21-year-old South Sider who's got a big dream he hopes will come true some day.

IF IT DOES, the Capital City and thousands of youngsters will be able to say, "it happened here."

Wittenmeier

All Bill wants to do is set up the most comprehensive physical fitness program this city ever tossed around in its wildest day - dreaming with the Federal Government picking up the tab.

The program would require the combined efforts of civic, church and social organizations to better local youth through sports participation.

BILL GOT the idea for his plan while attending summer baseball camps in Missouri — camps which were directed by former pro athletes. "I realized then how many boys never got the opportunity I did for this kind of training."

"We've forced the government to take over the whole concept of physical fitness," Bill says. "Our schools aren't satisfying the physical needs of our youngsters. The YMCA's and Boys Club provide instruction but at a cost to the boys. Everybody can't pay these fees."

Bill's plan would create organized day camps and clinics on baseball and basketball instruction, supervised by former pro athletes.

THE EMPHASIS is on the pro athletes as instructors. "So many of these men are faithful church - goers and are active in civic projects. They would provide the motivation for these youngsters.

"So many of them could use the laurels of their past to play a big role in the future development of these youngsters," Bill added.

Hopefully, a large number of participants in the program would be boys "headed for trouble." He wants the program to work with the juvenile court, welfare department and orphanages.

"I'D LIKE to see more boys participate and fewer be bystanders. The clinics would help those youngsters who don't have that natural ability. To often, these boys look in other directions to exhaust their natural energies."

Athletic leagues would be set up under the direction of churches with the program hopefully dovetailing naturally into other church activities.

Bill has some ideas on how the program could be financed. "It would have to begin as a city project. If it could be proved successful, I believe the program could be assisted by a Federal grant."

SUCH A "no cost basis" program for the youngsters would have to gain substance elsewhere and Bill has been trying to whip up a local appetite for his proposal.

As a beginning, he's contacted the Home Plate Club, City Council president Bill Fornof and Harold Cooper and Chuck Wareham of the Jets, to name a few.

Also, young Mr. Fox is trying to spark the interest of local service clubs, like Kiwanis and the Lions.

"WHAT I need most," Bill says, "is the help of community leaders to sit down and plan this program in a manner which can be proposed to the city. I just don't have the education or experience to organize it myself."

First step toward realizing the dream, in Bill's opinion, would be a banquet, sponsored by a local service organization, which would feature a well - known sports personality as guest - speaker.

Bill hopes to get Stan Musial for the banquet. "Stan has the reputation of a great sportsman and is avidly interested in physical fitness for American youth."

THE BANQUET would be the springboard to gain the interest of local businessmen. Fox plans to contact the Athletic Club, hopeful that it might be able to entice a speaker of Musial's caliber.

Bill's ultimate goal — the Federal grant — looks far, far away. But it would be necessary to supply a full-time staff of pro athletes.

Under them would be staffs of ex - college players and physical education majors. "I also hope to interest high school coaches in providing some time for instruction for these youngsters," Fox added.

THIS WEEK, Bill is busy preparing an outline of his plan to be sent to Bob Stewart, head of the President's Council on Physical Fitness in Washington. He hopes to gain approval from the national organization and receive more literature to help suppliment this present idea.

Bill also is making some research on a plan similar to his own dream which has already been proven successful in Germany.

And what does Bill Fox "earn" if his dream is realized? The satisfaction that someone else will benefit from the experiences he was able to enjoy as a youngster.

STILL AVIDLY interested in baseball himself, Jim's goal is to become an umpire. In fact, that's where he's headed this spring.

"But I'd be willing to stay here and work on this program if I can get other people interested in making it come true," he quickly added.

Bill Fox has bitten off a big chuck of dream. As he admits, it isn't possible to achieve alone — hence this writing.

But Bill believes that the "dream' isn't uniquely his.

BILL'S A busy guy these days — but not too busy to share his hopes for more active athletic participation by American youth. If you might have the same kind of dream as Bill, he's available at 1850 Weiler-av (444-8022).

Maybe you can compare notes.

A new group is being formed at the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, The Newcomers' Club, and will hold its first meeting at the center, 275 McDowell-st, Friday, Oct. 8 from 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

Those eligible to attend will be center members joining in the months of July and August.

Special invitations have been extended to 104 members.

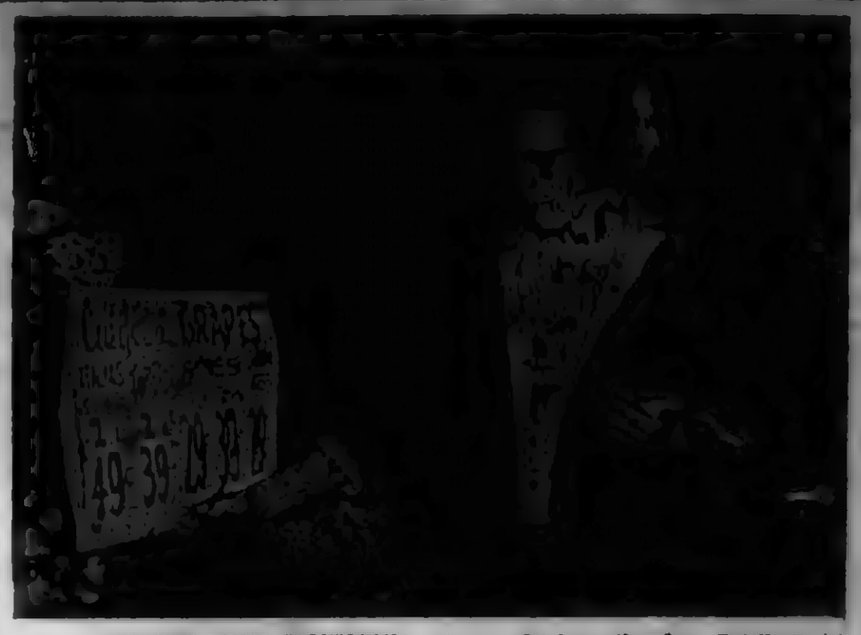
More Glaucoma Tests Offered

Because hundreds of people were turned away on Sight Saving Sunday, Sept. 26, when eight high schools opened their doors for a mass glaucoma screening, some of the doctors have agreed to offer another opportunity for a free glaucoma screening.

It will be at the Columbus Health Department, 181 Washington-blvd, from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 7.

Those who missed being screened last Sunday are urged to come to the City Health Dept. on Thursday.

About 8,000 persons were screened last Sunday. This opportunity is only offered every other year and is sponsored by the Franklin County Committee of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness.



Attention—Class Of '41

A 25 anniversary class reunion of the class of January, 1941, of Central High School students is being planned.

Final 'Food Markets' Submitted By Columnist, Estelle Franks

By JANET MICHAEL

The quiet and efficient Estelle B. Franks, who has brought the best food buys to area homemakers via her column "Food Markets This Week," submitted her last column this week.

Having never missed a deadline in her nine years of writing for The Spectator, Mrs. Franks plans to slow her pace a little. First on her list for relaxation is a trip to Arkansas along with her husband, who is also retired.

The reason? A 14-month-old grandchild, whom they haven't seen for almost a year.

Mrs. Franks, who has served as County Extension Agent, Marketing, for the Cooperative Extension Service at Ohio State University, has mixed emotions about trading in the active life she is accustomed to for one of leisure.

Will Keep Busy

Mrs. Franks admits that her retirement will be, for some part, in name only. She still plans to speak before groups and, of course, will spend a lot of time in her kitchen and doing some redecorating in her home at 193 Canyon-dr.

Before her marriage, she was graduated from OSU College of Agriculture and Home Economics, with a degree in the latter. She taught home ec at high schools and the the university with her main interest in foods and nutrition. Her business career was postponed temporarily when she married and raised her daughter, who is also a graduate in home economics. Mrs. Franks' son-in-law is a professor at the University of Arkansas.

After her daughter was raised, Mrs. Franks accepted her present position because she always felt that consumer education was the missing link in home economics.

In her work she kept food buyers informed of quantities, seasonal supplies and the trend of food prices in the local market. She got the word to the public by newspapers, radio and talks before groups. She also worked with producers in food trade, such as buyers and merchandisers.

Although she is used to checking oranges in food terminals, Mrs. Franks will have a chance to pick them right from the trees after Christmas. She and her husband plan to spend the winter in Florida visiting several members of their family.

Broiler-Fryers Are Thrifty Meat Choice

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — Apples, grapes, bananas.

Vegetables — Cabbage, potatoes, cauliflower, carrots, squash.

Meat and Poultry — Broiler-fryers, beef specials, pork roasts, small turkeys, ground beef, eggs.

Other Foods—Cheese, milk, ice cream, frozen citrus juices.

Broiler-fryers will be the economy meat for the fall months. October marketings are expected to be 10 to 15 percent above a year ago. This ample supply, plus the fact that consumers buy fewer broilers in the fall will assure thrifty prices.

Mrs. Franks

Even so, if you're comparing prices with those of last October, expect them to be up a bit for high beef and pork prices will undoubtedly increase the demand for poultry and therefore hold prices above the very low levels for the fall of 1964.

For Indian Summer cookouts, these plump broilers are perfect, and even for baking and stewing you are probably better off buying large fryers rather than young hens that always bring a premium price.

It's Cheese Festival Time

Cheese is another economical protein you can count on during October — the months for cheese promotion in all retail stores. Cheese products this year through July showed an increase of three percent over last year.

Do the terms "Natural cheese" and "process cheese" confuse you? Here's the chief difference:

Natural cheese is made by coagulating milk, cutting, stirring and heating the curd, draining off the whey, and collecting or processing the curd. It varies according to the kind of milk used, the amount of fat and water in the curd and the flavor and texture obtained during ripening. The lower the moisture content, the harder it is.

American cheddar cheese, sometimes called American cheese or Cheddar, is by far the favorite and is most widely used. The ripening process adds to the cost of manufacturing cheese so the riper the cheese the higher the price per pound at retail.

Processed cheese is made from one or more natural cheeses. The natural cheeses are cut into small pieces, melted, pasteurized, and blended together. A process cheese has a uniform flavor and consistency. No further curing can take place because the bacteria and enzymes needed for ripening are destroyed by the pasteurization.

Process cheese foods and spreads contain less fat and more moisture than regular process cheese. They often have fruits, vegetables, meats, spices and other flavoring agents added.

COUNCIL REPORT

Bexley Ban On Leaves In Effect

It will cost Bexley residents from $5 to $50 to pile their leaves into the street gutters or in the alley this fall.

Council approved the ordinance, making it illegal to place leaves, grass clippings or branches in the streets, or alleys, and setting the fines for violations.

Leaves and trimmings are to be placed on the curb where they will be collected by city crews.

Council also approved a measure levying assessments for the improvement of Astor-av, including sidewalks, from Sheridan-av west.

The city will pay $3,500 of the total $11,690.70 cost, with the rest assessed between three property owners. Their shares were determined on the basis of benefit derived from the improvement.

Robert Willis, resident of 2844 Delmar-av, at Bexley's northeast city limits, returned to Council to discuss a complaint he registered at the last council session.

He protested the continued nuisance of large trailer trucks, using the truck terminal that is adjacent to his property on the east, and is located in Columbus.

The trucks, he contends, keep him awake with their noisy arrivals and departures throughout the night. And, he added, they park on the street and on private premises.

Operator of the truck terminal also appeared at the council meeting to explain the need of the truck traffic, and his efforts to alleviate the problem.

The matter was referred to the safety committee for study of Bexley's ordinances and recommendations for a solution.

City Dems Kick Off Campaign

Columbus Democratic candidates kicked off the 1965 campaign Wednesday night with a dinner at the Deshler Cole Hotel. Ticket sale for the $25-a-plate affair was reported as the most successful ever for such a Democratic event in the city.

Keynote speaker Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner prepared himself to put the campaign in high gear by introduction of the slogan for the council race: "Get-Up-and-Go vs Status Quo."

Answering a request for an idea of what he would tell his partisan Democrats, Sensenbrenner said:

"Status quo on flood control by present council leadership handed over $1 million of Columbus Taxpayers' money to the SCD to support a scheme which would have cost over $50 million in real estate tax assessments and

Portman Hits Fornof Sewer Group Choices

EXCLUSIVE

By FRANK RYAN

A sewer study committee created by Columbus Council President William R. Fornof has come under fire even before its first scheduled meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 19.

The committee was formed by resolution of council on July 26, and was a follow-up to action removing council's controversial sewer bond issue from the November ballot.

Informed that the meeting was to take place, Democratic council candidate M. D. Portman challenged both the timing of the meeting and make-up of the committee.

"I'm not challenging the selection of any particular member of the committee," Portman said. "But I think it is significant that certain groups which have studied this (sewer) problem are not represented.

"For example, why aren't there representatives from the League of Women Voters and Citizens Research. Both of these civic groups spent many hours studying and evaluating information from competent sources. And they weren't even invited to sit in as observers."

Portman said he thought it "unfortunate" that reputable civic groups were "being jockeyed into a position making it appear that the Republican council is really trying to do something constructive."

'Under The Gun'

He said the formation of the committee by Fornof put the civic groups "under the gun" to cooperate.

"Fornof did a careful job in selecting committee members," Portman charged. "He named his running mate (Councilman Carl J. Kegelmayer) to represent council. Why didn't he ask (Councilman Ronald) DeVore, the man he says originated council's bond financing plan.

"And he arbitrarily ruled off the committee some of the civic groups best equipped to add enlightened discussion on the problem."

Portman challenged Fornof to make the sewer study committee "more effective" by broadening its membership to include a wider area of "general public" representation.

ym

"In fact," Portman continued, "If Fornof had the interest of Columbus in mind, he would have invited the three Democratic council candidates to sit in as observers. We just might be the ones who will make the final decision as members of council."

Stanley Not Invited

Portman, the city's first finance director, also criticized the absence of City Finance Director John Stanley from committee membership.

"How can the committee consider suggesting to the city possible methods of financing, yet not invite the city's finance director to contribute his talents and knowledge to the committee's deliberations?

"The whole proposition looks like a typical Fornof tactic of creating motion without accomplishing anything," Portman concluded.

The committee make-up also came in for criticism from a source close to previous deliberations on sewer capital improvement financing. He said:

"It is to be regretted that the committee is unduly overbalanced with real estate interests. It needs more citizens with an independent interest for the good of the whole community, instead of the biases

Schools May Delay 'De Facto' Statement

Columbus Schools' answer to Civil Rightists' demands that an attempt be made to racially balance public schools will probably not be ready in time for next Tuesday's board meeting was expected. Dr. Harold Eibling, schools superintendent, said that a short progress report would be made. He added that more time was needed to draft a detailed policy paper, and that he doubted it would be completed by next Tuesday.

Community Council Will Tour Barnett

Southeast Community Council, formed two years ago by civic, school and church groups to promote the construction of Barnett Recreation Center, will meet at the newly completed center, Barnett-rd just north of Livingston-av, Thursday, Oct. 14, 8 p.m. Paul J. Lynch, council president, has requested all organizations in Columbus' southeastern area to send representatives. The group will tour the new facility. Miss Jeanne Kinsel is the director of the center.

Klan Rally Set In This County

'In Lap' Of City's Southwest

By BETTY DAFT

A four and a half-acre tract at the rear of 4011 Alkire-rd, just east of Demorest-rd, "practically in the lap of Columbus," will be the scene of a cross burning and rally by United Ku Klux Klan Saturday, Oct. 23, according to the Klan grand dragon, Flynn Harvey.

The land was leased on an annual basis with a 20-year option for renewal from Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Peake, to be used "for Klan's rallies, picnics, or any other use."

The lease also authorized use by the Klar of the Peakes' driveway, only access into the site. "Klan security guards will screen everyone who comes in," Harvey said.

Harvey said the Klan would use the land as a private picnic area as well as for rallies, and that it would be available to "any white church or organization—but strictly for white people.

"And the rally will be held," he said firmly, "even if I'm subpoenaed and am in Washington—grand dragons from other states will be here and they will lead the rally."

It has been reported that Sen. John Ashbrook would ask that Harvey be subpoenaed for the House Committee on Un-American Activities' probe of the Klan, slated to start next week.

Congressman-at-Large Robert E. Sweeney, following a telephone debate with Harvey last week over Dayton Radio Station WHIO, added that he

HERBLOCK'S SHARP PEN IS NEW FEATURE

The "Rembrandt" of editorial cartoonists, Herbert L. Block, will become a permanent part of The Spectator editorial page beginning this week.

Spectator Publisher Robert Burdock said that this is another step in efforts to bring the finest material available in the newspapering field to Central Ohio readers.

Herblock

Herblock holds two Pulitzer Prizes for his art work. Newsweek has called him "about the hottest editorial page cartoonist since the rise of Daniel R. Fitzpatrick."

His trademark signature, "Herblock," has become a household word in almost every country of the world outside the Iron Curtain. And many of his cartoons have circulated behind the Curtain through the U.S. Information Service.

Whitehall PTAs Hear Center Facts

Whitehall Recreation Board will outline its plans for a family recreation center for the city before audiences of parents during these final few weeks before the proposal will be placed on the ballot.

Board members will address PTA meetings to explain the bond issue and to discuss plans for the center, its potential benefits and its cost. Questions will also be answered.

Mrs. Eugene Shade, president of Whitehall Council of PTAs, said that such a factual presentation of an issue that is non-political, non-partisan, and offers opposition a chance to be heard by asking questions, is entirely within the policy of PTAs, "providing there is no effort to urge people to vote for the bond issue."

"Whitehall Council (of PTAs) has not endorsed the issue — it simply wasn't introduced for action to be taken in time. However, individual PTAs may vote on an endorsement after they hear the speaker, if they wish."

Dale Bristle, Recreation Board member and publicity chairman for the bond issue campaign, explained:

"We think people want to hear plans for a center for family recreation.

'Let Freedom Ring' Sponsors Will Lose Their Anonymity

Subscribers who use Ohio Bell equipment for recorded telephone messages will now be subject to identification. The new ruling was unanimously approved Tuesday by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

The PUCO acted at the request of Ohio Bell, and a commission member said that a similar tariff regulation change would be approved for the Cincinnati & Suburban Company.

Both requests came as the result of demands for identification of sponsors of recorded phone messages carried under the title "Let Freedom Ring."

The recordings have been used to attack the civil rights movement, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the National Council of Churches and local figures, including Rev. Phale D. Hale, NAACP President, and Rev. Arthur Zebbs, CORE coordinator.

The PUCO ruling will not affect individual subscribers who maintain unlisted numbers for their home telephone numbers. Both the PUCO and Ohio Bell stressed that the ruling will affect only those who use equipment for telephone recordings. The new regulation will apply to Ohio Bell service throughout the state.

An Ohio Bell Columbus spokesman identified the local subscriber for the "Let Freedom Ring" messages as William N. Ohly, of Westerville. He said that Ohly had agreed to being identified after the tariff change request to the PUCO, but before the commission's decision was announced.

Ohly was not available for comment.

Same Reaction Elsewhere

Action similar to that taken by the PUCO has been requested in at least seven other states. In each instance, the "Let Freedom Ring" messages led to requests for identification of the sponsors. One telephone company spokesman said, "It is the first time telephones have been used for these types of messages."

In a recent local recording, listeners were asked to write to Ohio Bell in protest of "collectivists" charged with trying to stop the recordings.

STAY AWAY FROM CHURCH?

After 2,000 years of church divisions, squabbles, politics, uncontrolled ambition, succeed methods and gimmicks to get members, the greatest miracle of all is that there is still anyone going to church.

To be sure, many people have nothing to do with us. Their excuses are: we are unfriendly, too many hypocrites, don't like the preacher and can't stand goody-goody people. This often is true but it also can be true about your local school board, the people at the supermarket, the doctor's office, or your favorite lodge.

Kocher

Let me as a minister inside the church suggest to you on the outside some good reasons for staying away from church:

First, church attendance isn't as all important as we try to make it. Jesus in no instance spent time teaching or putting emphasis on what to do when you get together in a group. In His teaching, getting together was secondary and we appear to have made it the sum total of Christianity. His instruction had to do with how to live when you are not in church.

Second, in our binge for success, prestige and local esteem we need money for bigger salaries, bigger buildings and bigger staffs. Jesus sent us into the world to give and behold instead of giving we have our own hands stretched out.

Third, ministers have come off the end of the seminary assembly line so that we all sound alike. We learned the lingo well. The only trouble is that the lingo is over everyone's head.

Fourth, the church is interested in "the good life" but we have so many meetings and committees every night in the week that you couldn't possibly have time to spend with your own family where the good life is really found.

Fifth, whenever wet get someone new in church we begin working on them. We try to get them "forward" or to sign a card, or to join, or to come to the altar; we must get them to do something, after all, how else can we keep the score? We have forgotten that God does His greatest work slowly, quietly and in His own time.

Sixth, with "57 varieties" of Christianity and each one saying, "come my way," it might seem good sense to assume that all of them are wrong.

Since you have read this far, I would like to tell you the one reason I still am a part of the church. It is this —a long time ago I got involved with Jesus Christ. He and His will and His kingdom have captivated my interest.

I am a minister, but I am also a sinful person, fully aware of all sorts of shortcomings, inadequacy and weakness. Within the church I have found a group of people who have a tremendous capacity for sinfulness. Our joy is that we have found each other.

We don't yet know much about holiness but we know we need Christ and His faith, forgiveness, peace, love and strength. We are not sticking with the church; we are the church and hope some day you will find your way into our midst.

West Jefferson Bible Church

Smith said the program is for teachers to improve themselves in the new specialty on a volume basis.

The Columbus Symphony Orchestra will present a live program to the children of Herbert Mills on Tuesday, Nov. 2. A woodwind quintet will perform in the multi-purpose room for grades four, five and six at 1:30 p.m. and at 2:15 for the first three grades. Principal George H. Patterson said the program is a valuable addition to the school's music education and appreciation projects. Pupils are urged to bring 10 cents to help defray the cost of presentations.

French Run principal James H. Smith, Jr., expresses his appreciation to the two parents who assist each day in the school's noonday lunch program, sponsored by the PTA. The mothers help with the cafeteria lines and in hall duty during the lunch periods.

Due to late summer enrollments, it was necessary to add an additional section to the first grade in the Rose Hill School. The class is housed in a portion of the lunch room and the new teacher is Mrs. Lucille Scott.

There are two student teachers in French Run from Ohio State University. Carol Rush is assisting Mrs. Earleen Judy in the second grade and Sandra Seaman is helping in Mrs. Margaret Gorrell's third grade.

MAIN LEVEL OF THE PROPOSED Whitehall Recreation Center will include a varsity-size gymnasium, which may be divided into two smaller courts with sliding doors, the swimming pool, locker rooms, crafts, game and meeting rooms, auditorium with stage. Not pictured is the lower level with its rifle and archery ranges, general purpose rooms and storage areas. Seating for the pool and gym is on the upper level.

Center Facts—

"We think they want to know that the cost to them, personally, of a $770,000 recreation center will be, for the average, the price of two packs of cigarettes a month — $6 a year.

"They should know that our estimated annual recreation budget, including operation of the center, was reached after getting operating cost figures from the YMCA, Columbus Recreation centers and engineering figures.

"And that our choice of a proposed site next to the high school was made because it is most convenient to all city schools — easier for elementary children to reach after school."

Such a central location would also make its facilities more accessible to schools which could use the center to expand school physical educational program.

School superintendent, Robert Crabbs, said that although the school board has taken no official position of support of the bond issue, "I, personally, feel that the center would be a helpful, a useful adjunct to the school program."

"And," he continued, "I would endeavor to use it (the center) to its fullest."

He said the swimming pool in the center would not only make it possible for the high school to form a swimming team but, he said, "I would encourage its use to teach swimming to elementary students."

There has been an established policy of cooperation between the Recreation Department and Whitehall Schools facilities — elementary recreation programs are carried on in the schools. And unused school land on the Beechwood site was made available to the city for a small park with a shelter house last year.

Proponents of the facility point to its need as a center of recreation for the entire family. Its use would be restricted to Whitehall residents, city employes and their families, and members of Whitehall organizations.

And its facilities would include, in addition to the pool, an archery and rifle range, exercise rooms, arts and crafts, games and meeting rooms, gyms and auditorium complete with stage, and a kitchen.

Program plans are for instruction in hobbies and skills, special interest groups, dances and community events.

The proposed annual recreation department budget of $53,500, including operation of the center — $25,850 more than the current budget—has been termed "impractical, too low," by opponents.

Bristle explained the figure was arrived at after thorough research into operating costs of such a center, "and even includes wax and maintenance of gym floors."

And the charge that "capital improvements—street and sewer work are needed, and should come before a recreation center," was answered by Bristle:

"Capital improvements and a new recreation center do not compare. This bond issue is expressly for a recreation center — funds for its construction would not come out of city funds — and if the bond issue doesn't pass it won't mean that capital improvements will be done instead.

"Approval of the 20-year, $770,000 bond issue would mean only that Whitehall would have a recreation center that would cost the average homeowner the price of two packs of cigarettes a month — that's $6 annually on a home valued at $17,500."

Candidates Tell East Side Story

"The East Side Story" will be told and discussed with City Council candidates at Walnut Ridge High School tonight at 8 in the auditorium.

Everyone is welcome. The discussion is sponsored by the 28th and 34th Ward Democrats and candidates, members of GLADS (good, loyal, active Democrats) Richard Ramey, 28th ward committeeman.

COFFEE BREAK

We're Way 'Out,' Baby—That's What's Happening

I've had a growing suspicion that neither my husband nor I are part of the "in" crowd — whoever they are. Entrance requirements are rather vague, but I have the general idea that the life we lead is "out." Somewhere in the vicinity of outer space.

For one thing, I gather you have to do your dancing at a "discotheque," not at the Avalon Ballroom. At least I know how to pronounce the latter, should I ever ask my husband to take me there. But I think my chances of getting to either place are about as remote as Casey Stengel dancing "Swan Lake."

Much as I dislike casting aspersions, I'd have to say that my husband's ever more "out" than I am. At least, I know that Bob Dylan and Joan Baez are singers. At least my kids tell me they are. But subtract two points from the both of us for not contributing to the "Lenny Bruce Defense Fund."

I suppose we have only ourselves to blame in not being "camp" and a couple of swingers because Lord knows our teenaged kids certainly try to keep us informed about what's "in" and "out."

They have even pointed out that since our automobile is not equipped with a four-speed floor box that it's "out." I'll have to agree, because every time I need the car for shopping, it's "out" all right.

They also quote freely from the fashion magazines (oh, we spend a fortune on them, we do); thus for a brief moment I did think I was "in" when I heard that pajamas were the thing to wear at parties. But I'm now sure after looking at the illustrations that the new flannel pair I just bought from Sears isn't what the fashion co-ordinators had in mind.

I've been after my husband, too, to dress more like the "in" crowd, but he insists on wearing dress socks and black shoes with the Bermuda shorts I bought for him. Of course, he's worn the Bermuda shorts about as many times as he has the beret — once, to try them on.

My fornlorn efforts to find "where the action is" haven't been too successful, either, because I doubt that the check-stand line at the supermarket is where the "in" crowd gathers. And have you ever seen this item in print? "Mr. and Mrs. W. Daley and their seven children were recent dinner guests at Foster's Cafeteria."

Perhaps this hasn't been too informative, but I did want you to know what's happening, Baby.

HAPPY NEWSPAPERBOY DAY!

...from your Uncle Sam

There's A Day For Newspaperboys Too

It happens every October. Maybe it isn't as well known as Christmas or Valentine's Day (or your birthday), but it's an important day for hundreds of thousands of young businessmen who serve you faithfully the year around. It isn't a holiday, especially for them—but they're used to that.

The Treasury Department has a special appreciation for newspaperboys. They have helped over the years to carry the story of United States Savings Bonds to their customers. They have bought Savings Bonds and Stamps themselves out of their earnings. Many of them have helped pay for a college education with bond savings, and thousands of today's newspaperboys are saving for this and other constructive purposes. Meanwhile they help inspire the rest of us to save, to serve, to add to the success story of the free American system.

So from all their fellow bond volunteers and fellow bond buyers—best wishes for a Happy Newspaperboy Day 1965.

After Viet Nam, Look For Indonesian Fuss

A correspondent in Hong Kong writing of Indonesia quotes some underground opponents of President Sukarno as saying he is leading his country to economic ruin and international ridicule.

The first judgment may be sound, but the second is wholly unrealistic — a product of Indonesian prejudice. There is nothing ridiculous about Indonesia or Sukarno.

A glance at a map will tell you why. Between the island world of Indonesia and Red China are eight small nations, ranging from Singapore to North Viet Nam. None has a massive population or much military capability.

But Indonesia, which geographically underlies them, has 105 million people and the largest army in the Far East excepting Red China's. Moreover, under Sukarno it is a rapacious power, and you may be sure Sukarno has technicolor dreams of an "emerging" power of 250 million people, dominating an island and peninsular world from the Philippines to India.

We say we are fighting in South Viet Nam to prevent 16 million from falling into the "clutches" of a communist empire. Meanwhile, eight times that many are already in the "clutches."

For Sukarno, partly under pressure, partly by reason of his insatiable ambition, now speaks of a Peking-Jakarta Axis, and is moving deeply into a Chinese alliance.

This axis is ideological, racial, economic. It rests in hatred of the West, and its targets are Britain and the United States, though it is also inimical to Japan. It is economic because it is based on a communist theory of the production and exchange of goods. It is ideological because Sukarno is making leap-frog concessions to communist elements in his country.

He no longer speaks of "guided democracy," a fake political system unrelated to self-government or freedom. He is as good a Marxist as Mao, and is beginning to admit it.

Now bound to Red China, Sukarno has repudiated the Soviet Union, which in the Khrushchev days gave him a billion in aid, a little more than we gave him before he spurned our aid.

In Washington they are cautious. They appear to think Indonesia can still be saved as a nonaligned nation. This was a gamble several years ago, and the odds against it now are astronomical.

Sukarno builds skyscrapers and culture palaces in Jakarta, with a little help from Red China, far more from printing press money. A penny will bring you 90 rupiahs on the black market. Budget and balance of payments deficits soar by the week, along with prices. Rice consumption is already at the malnutrition stage.

Yet, says the Hong Kong reporter, the peasant mass of the islands look on Sukarno as a demigod who will somehow lead them to power and glory.

WILL OR WHIM FOR WHITEHALL?
(THE PROMISE VS. THE PERFORMANCE)
AN OPEN LETTER

Will Whitehall City Government operation be by the will of the people, or the whim of the politicians? This is the overriding issue you will decide when you vote on Nov. 2.

The Republican candidate for mayor and his supporters now tell you that they have learned their lesson for having permitted excessive apartment construction in Whitehall.

Here is the exact wording of a news release from the Republican candidate for mayor:

"AS FOR APARTMENTS, this question was decided by the voters in the last general election. I feel that we have enough apartments. I also know that our planning, zoning and building regulations must be revamped . . . I have no intention of doing away with the freeze on apartments."

However, his performance in office tells another story. Remember, he spent almost two months in office after "this question was decided by the voters." How well did he follow the will of the people? Here's the documented story:

On Dec. 21, 1963, almost seven weeks after the election results, council met in a special Saturday night session. The meeting was considered so important that one Republican councilman flew in from out of the state. The prime purpose of the meeting was to ram through a final batch of ordinances permitting rezonings for apartment construction.

(It should be remembered that four of the six Republicans sitting on the council had been defeated in the primary and general elections—because of their pro-apartment construction voting records. But they, and the defeated Republican mayor, continued in office until Dec. 31, 1963.)

A news story on the extraordinary council meeting included the following:

"The council sang its discordant swan song to one of the largest audiences in attendance during the past two years of its term. Most of the audience was on hand to protest the multiple-dwelling rezoning ordinances."

Now what does the former mayor have to do with this particular bit of chicanery? Simply this:

THE MAN WHO NOW says "As for apartments, this question was decided by the voters in the last general election" was the mayor who signed the ordinances passed by the Republican members of council. It took all six Republican votes because they had to call the ordinances "emergency" legislation to push them through in the one, final meeting.

Had the former mayor chosen to veto the apartment ordinances, his veto would have been final. But he waited until his last days in office to show his disdain for the voters by signing into law measures he now admits the people did not want.

This is the same man who now says "I know that our planning, zoning and building regulations must be revamped." It is not by accident that these additions to his originally announced platform came about after the Democratic platform was announced. And, while we appreciate the fact that he agrees with us, we must again question what he says in the light of what he has done.

He was mayor for eight straight years prior to being voted out of office in 1963. Where were the revamping programs he now says must be done? If he had attempted any they could not have been very effective, or he would be talking about using them.

AND THIS SAME MAN, who now wants you to return him to office, could not have had much interest in your city affairs while he was out of office. He has attended only one council meeting since January, 1964. He did visit City Hall in connection with attempts to have him named to the $7,200-a-year tax commissioner's job in exchange for his withdrawal from the Republican Primary this year. But the deal fell through.

And his own most influential partisans gave him their support only after he had promised them that certain persons would not be given appointive positions in his administration if he were elected. And he was also required to promise that Republican members of the new council would be given the right of vote over his appointments if he were elected.

Now he wants to forget the past and think only of HIS future.

HE WANTS YOU TO FORGET that he approved every apartment rezoning ordinance passed by council. He wants you to forget the nepotism in choice administrative appointments. He wants you to forget that the city is suffering from the lack of planning during his eight years in office. And he wants you to forget his last defiant act as your mayor when he signed the unwanted apartment rezoning ordinances.

ALL we want you to forget is his name.

Whitehall, Gahanna Lone Area Unbeaten Survivors

The area list of unbeatens was trimmed to two last weekend as Brookhaven edged East, 6-0, leaving only Gahanna and Whitehall remaining with perfect marks (5-0).

Walnut Ridge eliminated the list of "winless" clubs, however, as the fired-up Scotties lambasted Linden, 24-6.

WHITEHALL and Gahanna didn't experience "breathers." In fact, the Rams and Lions were doing most of their heavy-duty work in the final stanza.

Jim Bline's boys exploded for three, fourth-period TDs to provide their breathing room in a 26-0 verdict over Delaware.

Gahanna added up a late six-pointer by fullback Dave Belli to keep Mid-Eight League repeat hopes healthy, via a 6-0 win over upstart Groveport.

ELSEWHERE, Hartley bounced back impressively with a lopsided 40-6 verdict over SSL hopeful Pleasant View; Eastmoor worked the "airwaves" for a 32-14 win over North; Bexley was blanked by Mt. Vernon, 20-0, and Academy lost out to St. Mary, 34-14.

A determined bunch of W-R Scotties played Linden right off its feet to rack up their initial '65 win.

The Scots outgained the Panthers, 287-112, and were never in danger after quarterback Dick Wollett swept around end from the one to give W-R a 6-0 bulge with 3:36 left in the opening period.

WOLLETT ALSO had a big hand in what proved to be the Scotties' winning TD, hooking up with Rick Houchen on a 34-yard touchdown pass play.

Houchen slipped behind Linden defenders, picked off the pass at the two and then fell into the end zone on the final play of the first half.

Jay Hill (18 yards) and Jim Wallar (short plunge) turned in the other two W-R scores, the latter's closing W-R scoring with 2:05 left to play.

CENTER JOE Deweese set up that big Wollett-to-Houchen pass by picking off a Linden pass with 52 seconds left in the first half.

Whitehall had to scramble for its win over Delaware with Mike Allen and Tom Barton providing the fourth period explosion.

The pair each tallied a pair of TDs — Allen's 40-yard punt return six-pointer the picture play of the evening.

GEORGE Troutman's Lions didn't put it away until late in the final period when big Dave Belli banged over from the two with 2:30 showing on the scoreboard clock.

Belli got the score and picked up 138 yards in 34 carries but it was the passing combo of quarterback Bob Mach and end Mike Bokros who turned in the big plays.

After Nelson Bobb gobbled up a Cruiser fumble on Gahanna's 32, Mach hit Bokros on 21 and 34-yard flips, spliced on either end of an interference call.

BOKROS had helped set up an earlier Lion opportunity by intercepting a Groveport pass but the Cruisers dug in and held Gahanna on downs at the Cruiser five.

Four lost fumbles and three intercepted passes put East's solid defense to the test and the Tigers responded stoutly.

But Brookhaven took advantage of another break, nabbing a Bengal punter on his own five late in the first period — a play which set up the only score of the game.

QUARTERBACK Norris Lenahan tallied on a sneak two plays later.

The Tiger defense held three other times — twice on the six and again on the East 12—while East's offense got no closer than Brookhaven's 41.

Eastmoor quarterback Randy Yoakum stole the passing thunder from North's Jack Roth, firing four TD aerials to assist in all of the Warrior six-pointers.

YOAKUM HOOKED up with end Jack Parry on three of the TD tosses and hit Gary Cochran on the other. In all, E-M added up 280 yards, 160 of them coming overhead.

The Warrior defense limited North passmaster Roth to a single TD flip.

Hartley's Hawk put the stopper on the area's top passer (P-V's Charley Hess) while exploding for 20 points in the third period to roll over the Panthers.

THE HAWK offense, held in check last week by DeSales, piled up its biggest point total of the season while adding up 454 rushing yards (Hartley got 196 total yards vs. DeSales).

Scott French, limited to a single TD last week, got back on the scoring track in a big way — turning in three six-pointers.

Quarterback Johnny Brandt kept the Panther defense honest by pitching a 42-yard touchdown strike to Larry Irwin.

JOE GATTO tallied another Hawk TD while Jerry Dill turned in the "long gainer" of the evening, scooting 80 yards to paydirt.

Academy used up all but 2:50 of the first period on a sustained drive against St. Mary but the drive stalled on the Ram 13.

The Vikings muffed another early scoring opportunity two plays later on a fumble after Steve Mahaffey had picked off a John Shepard pass on the St. Mary 20.

A FEW PLAYS later Ram halfback Mike Hodge broke away on the first of three long touchdown runs which helped the Rams to a solid 26-8 halftime bulge.

Neil Larrimer got the Vikings' lone first-half score on an 18-yarder while quarterback Herb Lape added the second tally after intermission on a short plunge.

Bexley added up 258 total yards (just six less than Mt. Vernon) but the Jackets did all the scoring to sidetrack the fighting Lions.

QUARTERBACK Greg Kundrat drove over from the one in the final minute of the first half, breaking a scoreless deadlock. Kundrat rambled 90 yards on a punt return after intermission to quell Lion hopes for a comeback.

VIKING WALL — St. Mary fullback Mike Potochina (with ball) finds a trio of Academy tacklers, including Neil Larrimer, Jim Gordon (38) and Steve Mahaffey (42), too close for comfort on this jaunt to the Rams' 34 yard line Saturday night. St. Mary won, 34-14. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

DAVE ROSS PACES BUCKS:

Little Buckeyes, Skyhawks Notch OVC Grid Victories

Three touchdowns by halfback Dave Ross set the pace for the Little Buckeyes last weekend in an overwhelming 62-6 Ohio Valley Conference win over the McDonald Golden Eagles.

In other loop play, the Lockbourne Skyhawks converted a pair of third period scores into a 13-0 win over the Bremen Black Hawks.

ROSS STUNNED the Eagles with a 76-yard punt return TD, a 19-yard six-pointer on a pass reception and a 35-yard dash to paydirt.

Quarterback Bill Vest (three, 12 yard runs) and Jerry Garriott (20, six yard runs) added a pair of touchdowns apiece for the Bucks who also got TD support from Charlie Fowle and Terry Cashin, the latter Buckeye rambling 62 yards to score.

John Moltenberry (two), Garriott (two), Steve Korpieski (two), John Todhunter and Ross added conversions for the winners.

KENNY FEARS recorded McDonald's lone TD with a 69-yard kickoff return in the opening quarter.

Henry Weaver (15 yards) and Bill Hinton (20 yards) told the scoring story for the Skyhawks, who twice halted Bremen scoring drives with a determined defense.

Bob Bledsoe added the Skyhawks' lone conversion.

Whitehall Faces Arlington In CBL Battle

'Biggest Grid Challenge In School History' – Bline; 'Unlucky' Bob Stuart Plots E-M Win Over Linden

BIG GAME — That's the tag tacked onto Whitehall's meeting with state-ranked Arlington tomorrow night in a battle which could well decide the CBL title this fall. Above, coach Jim Bline (left) goes over game plans with six of his top backs. Kneeling from left are Bline and halfbacks Count Fuller and Harvey Eader. Standing are halfbacks Mike Fleming and Rick Foltz, quarterback Mike Allen and fullback Tom Barton.

"The Arlington game will be the biggest football challenge we've ever had in the school's history. We've never played anyone that highly ranked (UA ranked fifth in AA state ratings)."

That's the way Whitehall coach Jim Bline looks at his Rams' "biggest" one against Marv Moorehead's powerful Golden Bears tomorrow night.

THE LOSER faces practical, if not mathematical, elimination from the '65 Central Buckeye League title picture. That's how high the stakes are riding.

"This is the best start we have ever had (five in a row)," Bline commented. Bline has been at the Ram helm for 11 seasons now.

The Rams face a mammoth job in defensing the Bears, who are currently averaging 39 points per game while limiting opponents to less than five. (UA, at 5-0, has yielded only one TD in the last four games).

BASICALLY, Arlington operates from a Wing-T and goes to an open end and strong wing (by moving halfback over).

Bline's big concern is UA's wide and passing games. "If we stop that, we'll be in the ball game.

Sweeps 'Famous'

"They're most famous for their sweeps. They pull everybody. It looks like the whole team's coming at you," the Ram mentor added.

NUMBER ONE man to bottle up, in Bline's estimation, is Bear halfback Skeet Hopkins. Hopkins, who averaged 20 yards in six carries against Grandview last week, placed second in the District 220 last spring.

"He runs faster backward than most of our boys can run forward," Bliss quipped.

There's not much relief at fullback with big (200 lb.) Gus Crim and Rick Stoner operating there or at quarterback with Chip Neale behind center.

NEALE'S favorite passes are a "sprint out," pass into flat and OSU's "belly pass" (fake fullback into line, QB rolls out).

Favorite targets are big (195 lb.) Jim Mosier at end and Hopkins ("they'll flank him out and turn him loose").

"Man for man," Bline comments, "they'll out-size and out-speed us. We'll just have to 'out-battle' them. It will be a great challenge for our defense."

ANOTHER big offensive threat for the Bears is their ability to bring home punts. Last week against Grandview, Jim McKenzie returned six boots for 171 yards—two for TDs.

Arlington's line is much bigger than the '64 lineup but not as fast.

Defensively, Bline figures his Rams will have to deal with the same type of standard 6-3 they saw against Mt. Vernon. "They'll stick one linebacker over center and the other two over tackle," the Whitehall coach added.

"WE'RE HOPING for a defensive battle. I figure that will give us an edge. We've been working pretty hard on some defensive adjustments we hope will work. But that's a lot of offense to stop," Bline commented.

"I told our boys if they (UA) don't score, we'll win. I'm sure we're going to score."

The Ram skipper doesn't figure he'll need to try very hard to get his club into mental shape for the Bears. "They have a 15 game winning streak and this will be our last chance to get them (Rams drop out of CBL after this season).

"They're ranked fifth and we haven't been mentioned in the polls. We hope to pull the upset of the year."

Packard 'Doubtful'

WHITEHALL figures to be in good physical shape for the Bears with the exception of regular tackle Pat Packard, who has been sidelined with a bum knee since the second play of the Bexley game.

"It's very doubtful that he will see action," Bline said. "We're not counting on playing him."

The Whitehall mentor described Delaware (last week's opponent) as "a team that punishes you physically." The Rams totaled 295 total offense vs. the Pacers — quarterback Mike Allen getting 49 of these yards via four completions in seven attempts.

AGAIN outstanding was Whitehall's defense which yielded only 85 yards all evening, limiting Delaware to one yard gained the entire second half.

Quizzed about his Rams' necessity to scramble for three fourth period TDs, Bline commented, "As usual, a couple of penalties hurt us. It just took us some time to get started. It might have been a combined letdown from Mt. Vernon and too much looking ahead to Arlington."

Defensive "hatchet man" was Gary Stimmell, followed closely by Wes Seymour, Rick Foltz, Jim Heaton and Randy Rhoades. Bline added that Seymour and Rhoades would be "giving away" about 100 nounds each tomorrow night across the line vs. Arlington.

ON OFFENSE, Bline credited Mike Fleming (had a couple of good reverse runs, made nice catch to set up one TD) and Tom Barton ('he ran over a few guys").

'Lights Out'

Bline added one closing comment on the UA game with, "I'll take the same one we had two years ago when the lights went out." The Rams beat the Bears in that one, 21-0.

At Eastmoor, coach Bob Stuart hopes he's guessed right on Linden's defense this week. "They've alternated their last three games between a Oklahoma 5-4 and a 6-2. It should be our turn to get the 6-2 (against E-M passing) but I must be the unluckiest coach in the world when it comes to guessing defenses," Stuart chuckled.

"I'VE NOW missed four out of five ball games on my guesses. It sure doesn't help much when you don't see the defense you've worked on all week."

Stuart, who started the season with a big but green club, admitted "we're getting better all the time but we're still working on the same things.

"When we cut down on our mistakes, we move. I know that sounds trite but it sure is true."

THE WARRIOR mentor lists Linden as a club which operates from a "belly" offense which greatly resembles Eastmoor's. "They would rather run than pass and have a couple of excellent backs (Paul Piper and Larry Davis) to do it," Stuart added.

"Their quarterback (5-6, 140 lb. Bob Guller) is quick and adequate. We sure won't be able to go to sleep against them."

Yoakum Hits

Stuart credited end Jack Parry and quarterback Randy Yoakum with fine showings last week against North. Parry ("he's got a great set of hands") caught three TD pitches from Yoakum, who hit on eight of 14 attempts.

"WE THREW more against North than we have all season and the guys Randy hit were well covered. He just threw the ball real well," the E-M coach commented.

Eastmoor picked up 325 yards total offense to 115 for North and held Polar Bear passer Jack Roth to only eight hits in 32 tries, with Larry Mixon (two), Chuf Refsell and Bill Davis pilfering Roth aerials.

Stuart added that North only had 12 running plays all evening and Roth appeared he'd rather run than pass but E-M's defense "held him in."

GUARD MIKE Ijams, who missed the North tilt with a neck injury, should be ready for Linden tomorrow night.

Hilliard Tough

Gahanna coach George Troutman, whose unbeaten Lions face another "toughie" tomorrow night in Hilliard (3-2) reports that Dave Belli picked up 120 yards in 38 carries to pace Lion rushers against Groveport last weekend.

Quarterback Bob Mack hit on five of seven passes for 62 yards, two to end Mike Boiros setting up Gahanna's lone score. The Lion defense was again stingy, limiting Groveport to 33 yards in 33 rushing atempts.

TOPPING that defense were linebackers Terry Luft and Jerry Serrafini with Doug Young (punter) and Fred Schmidt (kickoff man) providing the Lions with key field position.

In other area games tomorrow night, Canal Winchester (1-4) visits Academy (2-2), Bexley (1-4) journeys to Urbana, Brookhaven (3-2) hosts Walnut Ridge (1-4) and East (4-1) travels to Canton McKinley.

Hartley (4-1) hosts Linn Central Catholic Saturday evening.

Bears Defeated But Keep Bantam Lead

The Packers opened the fourth week of league play with an impressive 31-6 victory over the Steelers in the Whitehall Bantam Football League.

The Packers, led by quarterback Gary Hanner's two touchdown runs, scored in every quarter to rack up their second win in three games and remain tieu for second place with the Browns and 49'ers.

KEITH AND JOHN Hartman and Randy Thompson were the defensive stars for the Packers. Frank Morgan and John Monnig made a valiant edefensive effort for the Steelers.

The Red Skins, becoming a stronger team as the season progresses, upset the Brown, 16-12. The losers jumped off to a first quarter lead on a 40-yard pass play from Alan Grundy to Steve Gunter but the overall play of Mike Gilmore, Jim Fernty, Junior Phipps and Richard Smith proved to be too much for the Browns as the Red Skins came from behind to win.

The Viking eleven was twice stopped inside the 49'ers five yard line by the defensive play of Byron Hughes, Stanley Lopinski, Tom Clark and Tom Jones. Clarence Sesco's running and passing sparked the 49'ers offense to its second win, 13-0.

IN NON-LEAGUE games the (Pee Wee League) Bears and the Giants (120 pound team) traveled to Reynoldsburg but both teams encountered more than they could handle.

The Bears lost 18-6, while the Giants got off to a bad first half due to the Reynoldsburg fine passing attack, losing 27-12.

Mike Knapik, Mark Jefferies, Mike Stephan, and Steve Kantor were outstanding offensively and defensively for the Giants.

DAVE BROBST scored that lone Bear TD against Reynoldsburg's Colts.

Scoring those Redskin touchdowns were Junior Phipps (40 yd.) and Mike Gilmore while Bill Renner and Tom Baker (38 yd. pass from Sesco) turned in the 49ers two six-pointers.

Rick Harden, Dave Wagner and Greg Baucmoyer complimented Gary Hanner's two TD's in the Packer win while Kenney Weilnitz recorded the Steelers lone score.

White Oaks District

By DAVID COFFMAN • 461-3660

Under the direction of Tom Currier of 4405 Dundee-dr, the White Oaks District will hold its annual fall camporee Oct. 15, 16 and 17 at the Central Ohio Coon Hunters Association Park, located on Fairfield County Road 31 three miles from CBS Speedway.

With the theme of "Follow the Rugged Road to Adventure," the Scouts are expected to pack everything they are going to use during the three days. This means carrying in packs, tents, food and anything else the troop feels they will need. They are not supposed to make a second trip back to the cars in which they came.

No canned food will be permitted at the campsites with the exception of fish and milk. This is to show that ample food can be prepared without the modern methods used today.

Each of the activities will be based on the patrol method and the patrols will be competing against each other for points. Items the patrols will need are one ball of four O's steel wool, flint and steel, two 2x4x12 pieces of knot free lumber, three ropes of three feet each, one number 303 tin can, one hand ax and one pocket knife.

During the time the patrols are participating in the different events, explorers from Post 288 will inspect each campsite and the patrols will be given points.

At the Boy Scout court of honor held at the Reformation Lutheran Church, 1355 S. Hamilton-rd, Saturday, Oct. 2, scouting's highest award was bestowed on Kenneth L. Andrews of 599 McCutcheon-rd, Gahanna.

Andrews

Kenneth, a member of Troop 369, was presented the Eagle Award by Donald P. Cook, 4108 Etna-rd, who has been active in scouting in the Hetuck District.

Kenneth is a sophomore at Gahanna Lincoln High School and is 15 years old.

At the same ceremony, Bronze Palm Awards were presented by scoutmaster C. W. Stickel to Eagle Scouts William Prentice, 5204 Bagley-rd and Michael Neibler, 1820 Jason-dr.

Other presentations made were to Ion Sancho, 1527 Country Club-rd, Life Award, and to Charles C. Andrews, Kenneth's father, a special Scouting Service Award for his work with Troop 369, as the troop's first scoutmaster and later as a committee member.

The invocation was given by Rev. Olen A. Peters and following the meeting refreshments were served by the Mothers' Auxiliary.

hoped "the Committee would not overlook the dangerous Mr. Harvey who operates in the Buckeye State when they subpeona witnesses . . ."

Harvey said of the debate, "I think we both made fools of one another. It wasn't good for the Democratic party and certainly wasn't good for the Ku Klux Klan."

Mr. Sweeney said," Harvey continued, "'I will do everything in my power to destroy you' (the Klan). And I told him, 'I will do everything in my power to destroy you'."

Harvey continued, "I would gamble that he won't be re-elected. If he won, I would move out of Ohio."

And Congressman Sweeney, in a statement issued after the debate said:

"Grand Dragon Harvey is a faker of the first order and it's about time that the American people look under his bed sheet and that of his compatriots in the Klan."

Sweeney called for legislation to outlaw the Klan as part of the debate.

He accused the Klan of "targeting in upon the American Negro," and said, "They obviously aim to exploit the social problems of the moment to their advantage and attempt to perpetuate throughout America a social order of segregation.

"Their philosophy is diametrically opposed to the ideal of brotherhood of all men under the fatherhood of God."

Harvey had remarked earlier that the Klan could not be really outlawed. "We could just pick another name and go right on," he said.

The Oct. 23 rally on Alkire-rd will open at noon, with speakers at about 7:30 p.m.," Harvey explained.

"We'll have two tents," he said, "a big one where food will be available and as a shelter in case it rains. And there will be a smaller one where people can go to ask questions or to join."

Robert Shelton, national head of the United Klan, is not expected to attend. Harvey explained that he is busy in Texas.

Harvey said that he planned to see Franklin County Sheriff Stacy Hall this week to acquaint him of the rally plans.

of the real estate interests who wish to avoid paying their rightful share of the cost for the sewer program.

Another source pointed out that Fornof relented from his original decision to have only one representative for both the Development Committee for Greater Columbus and the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce. Each now has a member on the committee.

Opposition Noted

In withdrawing his voted bond plan from the ballot, Fornof had noted that both the Development Committee and the Chamber had voiced opposition to total bond financing.

Both groups have called for financing which would combine non-voted bonding and a raise in sewer rates. The Development Committee has favored a minimum 35 percent increase in rates.

The consultant retained by council to study the sewer rate structure and necessary capital improvements recommended last November that rates be raised to provide 35 percent more revenue annually.

Both council and the Sensenbrenner Administration are in agreement on the type, scope and scheduling of sewer projects. But the (6-1) Republican council has steadfastly refused to consider any program involving a rate increase.

Mayor Sensenbrenner and the Democratic candidates for council point out that total bonding will double the final cost of the proposed (and approved) program through interest payments of 96 cents on each dollar spent.

Will Back Civic Groups

They say they will continue to back a financing program similar to that presented by the council-hired consultant, and supported by almost all major civic groups who have reviewed the alternatives.

The Tuesday meeting of council's study committee is scheduled to begin at noon in the West Room of the Columbus Club. Members of the committee include:

Paul J. Gingher, Metropolitan Committee, who will act as chairman; Warren J. Cremean, Columbus service director; Ralph Metzger, Home Builders Association; John H. Price, Columbus auditor; C. Kenneth Smith, Chamber of Commerce.

Edward E. Slowter, Development Committee; John Ranft, Columbus Board of Realtors; Karl J. Kegelmayer, city council; Frederick B. Hill, Columbus Industrial Association, and Robert N. Greer, AFL-CIO.

NOTICE OF ELECTION ON ISSUE OF BONDS

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a Resolution of the Council of the City of Whitehall, Franklin County, Ohio, passed on the 6th day of July, 1965, there will be submitted to a vote of the people of said City at the Special Election to be held in the City of Whitehall, Franklin County, Ohio, at the regular places of voting therein, on Tuesday, the 2nd day of November, 1965, the question of issuing bonds of said City of Whitehall in the amount of seven hundred seventy thousand dollars ($770,000) for the purpose of constructing a recreation center with a gymnasium and indoor swimming pool, as provided by law.

The maximum number of years during which such bonds are to run is 30 years.

The estimated average additional tax rate amounts to nine cents ($0.09) for each one hundred dollars of valuation, which is 0 mills for each one dollar of valuation, outside of the limitation imposed by Article XII, Section 2 of the Constitution, as certified by the County Auditor.

The Polls for said Election will open at 6:30 o'clock A.M. and remain open until 6:30 o'clock P.M. Eastern Standard Time of said day.

robbed our citizens of vital recreation lands forever.

"Thank goodness for the get-up-and-go of the many civic groups and the army of taxpayers who helped your administration save the flood control program."

Sensenbrenner also indicated that he would take the present council leadership to task for attempts to "sweep decisions under the rug "till after election."

He said the city "cannot afford a council that would rather fight than pitch in for progress." Sensenbrenner also called the Republican leadership to task for "a council staff for status quo (which) almost killed a program (Youth Corps) to help Columbus youth."

Co-chairman for the candidates' dinner were Jerry F. Ryan, chairman of the Franklin County Democratic Executive Committee, and Robert L. VanHeyde, Columbus attorney and former member of council.

Are contact lenses expensive?

The two small discs of plastic from which Contact Lenses are made are relatively inexpensive.

The lenses have value only if they are comfortable and give the wearer good vision.

Their value is in the professional time and skill which transforms them from two small discs of plastic into valuable aids to good vision.

Benefit Dance Nets 'Over $300'

Mrs. Fred Deubner of 2420 Wickliffe-rd, reports the benefit dance for the Shelbi Hindel Fund netted "over $300."

The dance was held Oct. 2 in the Frazeysburg Elementary School.

Donating their time was the dance group "The Trolls." The combo is composed of Fred W. Dubner, Marc Moriva, Joe Hanlyn and Steve Westbrock, junior high schoolers.

Shelbi Hindel, who is about two years of age, lost her eyes last summer due to cancer. The Frazeysburg child's story touched Mrs. Deubner of Columbus, herself a recovered cancer patient, and she told her son who was a guitarist with "The Trolls" about the girl.

The fledgling musicians, along with Mrs. Deubner, decided to hold the benefit dance. Attending were students from Zanesville, Newark, Dresden and Frazeysburg.

Mrs. Deubner and The Trolls were honored in editorials in the Zanesville Times Recorder.

The Spectator carried an advance story of the event in its Sept. 23 edition.

PLEDGE YOUR FINEST HOUR TO UA

When a homeless and neglected child receives food and loving care — this will be your finest hour . . . When a service man far from home is helped to forget his loneliness — this will be your finest hour . . . When research helps to solve the mysteries of unsolved diseases — this will be your finest hour . . . Wherever misery, pain and misfortune are conquered — this will be your finest hour. Often we haven't time to roll up our sleeves and pitch in to help our neighbors. Instead, let's give them our finest hour by pledging an hour's pay per month to those in need through the UA's Good Neighbor Plan.

'Fearless' Predictions

Due to a mechanical goof, seven of the "Fearless One's" predictions failed to see print last week.

It might have been better for the undisputed seer of high school forecasting if none were made public as "Fearless" just made it over the .500 mark for the second straight week.

Five week won-loss mark now stands at 82-33. Week six calls follow:

Canal Winchester at Academy — Indians drop fifth straight. Academy.

Bexley at Urbana — Lions top BAC opener. Bexley.

Walnut Ridge at Brookhaven — Bearcats stay in driver's seat. Brookhaven.

Lancaster Fenwick at Carroll—Irish win sixth straight. Fenwick.

Whetstone at Central — Braves stay 'hot.' Whetstone.

Reynoldsburg at Dublin — Raiders clear final FCL hurdle. Reynoldsburg.

East at Canton McKinley—Tigers swallow second straight setback. Canton.

Eastmoor at Linden—Warriors stay in CL race. Eastmoor.

Teays Valley at Franklin Heights—Falcons too strong. F-H.

Gahanna at Hilliard—Nobody's stopped Belli yet. Gahanna.

Worthington at Grandview — Cards lost in shuffle. Grandview.

London at Groveport — Could be surprised but . . . London.

Marysville at Grove City—Wait till next year. Marysville.

Hamilton Township at Pleasant View — Panthers on track. P-V.

Marion-Franklin at North — Plenty of passes but Devils' Homecoming "spoiler." M.F.

Westerville at Mifflin — Cowpunchers stay winless. Westerville.

South at West — Bulldogs get second victory. South.

St. Mary at West Jefferson—Looks like a dandy. Edge to the Rams. St. Mary.

Arlington at Whitehall—Do I haveta' pick somebody? Coin flip says . . . Arlington.

Heath at Watkins Memorial—Warriors bounce back. W-M.

*__DeSales at Newark Catholic__ — Stallions run wild. DeSales.

Lima Central Catholic at Hartley — Hawks can handle. Hartley.

*__Ready vs. Watterson (at West)__—Shouldn't be easy but . . . Watterson.

Sporting Chances

WHAT'S typical among WIBC's more than 2.7 million women bowlers? A recent survey indicates that the "average" woman bowler is a married housewife who enjoys bowling more than any other hobby.

She's been bowling for about five years, is about 36 years old, wants to know more about rules and bowls mainly for sociability. Her average? About 130 (compared to men's average of 154).

ANSWERS to most frequently asked questions of game protectors: Yes, it is permissible to hunt small game with a rifle or pistol in Ohio on private land. (Deer and waterfowl can only be hunted with a shotgun or long-bow and arrows).

No, hunters may not use rifle, pistol or revolver on any state hunting area during the small game season, starting Nov. 12.

THE FIFTH-PLACE Cleveland Indians cheerfully report these signs of an "encouraging" '65 season:

(1) Rocky Colavito was AL RBI leader (108) and didn't commit a single error all season!

(2) Leon Wagner (28), Colavito and Fred Whitfield (26 each) gave the Indians three of the league's top seven HR hitters.

(3) Cleveland placed four regulars in the "top 10" hitting parade in the AL — Vic Davalillo (.301), Wagner (.294), Whitfield (.293) and Colavito (.287).

(4) The Tribe repeated as pitching strikeout leader with Indian hurlers fanning 1,155 AL batters.

(5) A total of 934,786 fans watched the Tribe play this past summer — the biggest increase in attendance in the AL this year.

All five are a nice way of saying, "wait until next year!"

BEEN UP TO 'HOOVER' LATELY?

THIS TRIO has — and look what they brought back! The unfortunate fellow strung out in the middle of the picture is an eight pound, nine ounce muskie, caught by trolling fast and deep with a jointed bass lure with a perch finish. Dick Burwell (at left) was the lucky fisherman, aided by Harry Schwinn (of Harry and Dot's Bait Store) and his father-in-law, Arthur Watterman. All three are from Central College, just south of the Hoover Reservoir Dam.

Is Everybody Happy?

You'd think a fellow caught in 26A for the OSU-Illinois football game wouldn't get much out of Saturday's game, right?

Wrong!

IF A STROKE of fate hadn't placed us in our not-so-fine seat, we might never have gotten the opportunity to meet the president of the OSU Good Will Corps.

The GWC is a tight-knit group of Buckeye alumni who operate with all the fervor of a Girl Scout cookie drive and yet display an amazing likeness to the CIA.

The nerve center is located in 26A and by the time we got there, the big Scar'et and Gray master board was already flickering frantically.

"JUST EXACTLY what is your function?" we asked the GWC's president, simply known as 26A.

"We keep the Buckeye fans happy," he replied.

"Is that difficult?"

"Sometimes. Take the opener against North Carolina, for example. Our boys had a terrible time trying to explain what the forward pass was to a lot of people. Some of our newer fellows had never seen one."

ABOUT THIS time, Illinois scored a touchdown.

"Oh dear," 26A said. The master board buzzed loudly. "Excuse me. OK, 18C, go ahead."

"Sir, I've got about 25 people grumbling about leaving up here."

"Put 24 into effect." 26A turned back to me. "Plan 24 usually isn't necessary this early but after the North Carolina game—."

"WHAT'S plan 24?" we asked.

"We simply move all the Boy Scouts into the aisles. By the time anyone makes his way to an exit, we're usually back in the ball game again."

The board buzzed again. "Go ahead, 12B."

"IT'S PRETTY rough up here, sir. There's three Illinois fans who got seats back of the posts. They're getting a little difficult."

"Tell 'em Woody probably won't shake hands with Pete Elliott if we lose the game. That'll take their minds off their seating problems for awhile."

While 26A was busy on the board, we looked over his background, discovering that he got the job of president of GWC after talking three scalpers into buying their own tickets back in '61.

THE BOARD lighted up like a Christmas tree as OSU lost a fumble. 26A pushed the button marked "South Bleachers."

"Three fans are fast asleep out here, sir."

"Try to keep them awake until halftime. I understand the band's emphasizing the brass section today."

The public address announcer paged a doctor.

"THAT DOCTOR is one of the university's top contributors. Everytime it looks like the Buckeyes might lose, we fix it so he's called to the hospital. He's never seen OSU lose," 26A said proudly.

The board blinked on and off again.

"OK, 13C, what's the problem?"

"I've got a guy up here listening to the World Series on a transistor."

"Ask him nicely to turn it off."

"I DID, BUT he's a political science prof and says he's a member of the Free Listening Front and we're trying to take away his constitutional rights."

26A looked down at his watch. "I hope the girls got here in time."

"The girls?" we asked.

"YES. YOU know a lot of fine high school football players come to these games. We'd like a lot of them to come to Ohio State. When things get rough on the field, we move a line of our choicest coeds into the row in front of them. We've found this usually takes their minds off any mistakes on the field."

"You fellows have made great strides," I said as the Buckeyes tied the score.

"Yes, but you'd be amazed at the number of people who still grumble when we lose a non-conference game. We really had our hands full at the opener."

THE BUCKS scored another touchdown a few minutes later and 26A contacted the parking lot and had the doctor turned back to the stadium. The board was now completely inactive.

"Well, I guess your problems are all over for this week," we said as 26A slumped down in his seat and lit up a cigarette.

"Not exactly. We're pretty concerned about our big project of the season."

"The Michigan game?"

"NO. WE'VE agreed to set up a testimonial dinner for Woody Hayes after the season."

"That doesn't sound so tough," we said.

"They want us to get Jack Fullen to serve as toastmaster," he said glumly.

"That does present a problem," we agreed.

"OH, THAT'S not so bad. If we just didn't have to land the guest speaker," 26A lamented.

"Who do they want?"

"Forest Evashevski."

MAVERICK
With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

With the passing of Central Ohio's heat and humidity, everyone is able to get out and enjoy the fall season. Hiking or just plain walking is a fine way to soak up some of Ohio's rarified atmosphere.

Someone once said "the wealthy take walks, the middle class take buses and the poor ride in cabs." If that holds any truth, you may get out and live the life of the rich with no trouble at all.

Paugh

TO BE OFFICIAL, a walk should be for exercise only, never for errands or with a set goal in mind. It should be at least one mile in length but not more than 12. More than that is a hike and less is termed a stroll.

A walk is a tonic to the soul. It stimulates the legs, mind and lungs. The best walking weather is from 50 to 60 degrees and one should never be in a hurry. Jackets are much better than leg-encumbering coats, comfortable shoes are a must.

Walking is a blessing offered to all but those in the country are to be enjoyed the most. It has been said also that "God made the country, men made the city." I can only speak for myself, I'd rather walk through leafy dells than a city's smells.

IF YOU PLAN on doing much hunting this season, better get lots of walking in before opening day. The American Heart Association states flatly that for every person accidently killed by gunfire while hunting, three will drop with fatal heart attacks.

The ideal way to be in top shape for the strenuous sport is to stay in shape all year. Most of us lose the battle of the potato chips and must make amends with push-ups and push-aways.

Here are some excellent rules you may follow to stay hale and hearty:

1. If you kill a deer, don't drag it alone.
2. If you have a heart condition, tell your hunting friends about it and what to do for you just in case.
3. Always hunt with a companion.
4. Get plenty of rest the week before going hunting.
5. If you hunt at high altitudes, go early and get accustomed to the lower oxygen.
6. Don't drive yourself, set a spell and rest when climbing.
7. Outfit with lightweight clothing and gear.
8. Know simple first-aid rules.
9. Practice moderation in eating and drinking.
10. When cleaning the deer, be sure your right hand knows where your left hand is.

IF YOU follow these simple rules, chances are you won't be one of the 2,500 who came back feet first last year because they didn't know their own heart.

OCTOBER 8 marked the beginning of grouse season in Ohio hill lands. It will remain open until Feb. 26 except for the few days of shotgun season on deer.

The grouse is a bird that indeed makes all men equal—equally foolish. Take me, for instance, I never have trouble finding those critters, I just can't get them to fly into my scattershot.

On one occasion last year, three plump beauties broke cover right in front of me, the only catch was that I was scaling a creek bank at the time and was in time for a silly grin but that's about all.

This was no new experience, I have shouted at more grouse than anyone else I know.

ALTHOUGH the daily limit is three to the hunter, rarely does a hunter reach the limit. As I see it, the grouse season could be extended to 12 months each year and those barred brown hurricanes would still be safe from me.

The World of Animals

By FRANK MILLER, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm writing about my pet, Ned Newt. He lives in a goldfish bowl and I feed him hamburger on a broomstraw. Lately he has had a case of indigestion and he seems to burp a lot. I want Mother to get him better hamburger, but she says if it's good enough for us, it's good enough for Ned. Can you suggest anything in this case?—Z.R.

DEAR Z.R.: It's true that Ned Newt's nutrition would be improved by a leaner grade of hamburger—the fat could be responsible for his gastric distress. He should do even better on a more conventional diet of worms, insect larvae and small aquatic insects.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My cat, Snoopy, is always getting into fights with his girl friends. As soon as one wound heals he gets some more. All the fur on the upper part of his leg has been missing for the last three months. Is there some way of keeping him out of all those fights? It wouldn't be so bad if he didn't always get the worst of it.—A.S.

DEAR A.S.: some fighters always come out second best. Yet they never give up trying. Snoopy just might be dissuaded with the aid of some surgery — if he isn't too old and set in his ways. The veterinarian should check on that leg anyway. (When the hair doesn't grow back over an old wound area it often means a chronic infection has developed deep in the tissues.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Tamby, our Terrier, Sheltie, Cocker and something else, has just celebrated her 19th birthday. How old would she be if she were a human? (And she almost is.) We have heard that one year of a dog's life is equal to seven of a human's. Is that right? She looks as if that is just about right. But we were just wondered. Thank you.—S.Y.

DEAR S.Y.: They have revised the seven to one figure slightly. It now reads: dog year One is equal to a 16-year-old human; year Two takes it to 24, year three equals 30, year Four equals 35, then add at the rate of one year of dog life to five of human life from then on. On that basis, Tamby is just past the 110 year mark —and that's not bad!

DEAR DR. MILLER: Sometimes I look to the sky and see many birds flying south. I enjoy the sight and assume I am watching all these birds migrating to their winter grounds. Is this correct?—S.A.

DEAR S.A.: Yes, probably so. However, don't assume you've been watching all the birds fly by. Most migrants cruise along at an altitude somewhere between 2000 and 4,000 feet. And it takes a good-sized bird to be spotted at that height even with field glasses. The casual observer would see only the comparatively few birds who fly fairly close to terra firma.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When I took my dog in and bought the distemper shots for him I was very hopeful. Now I am very disappointed because they didn't help him a bit. His temper is just as bad as it was before he got the shots. He still bites everybody, but especially my husband. Now my husband is mad at me because I spent the money for nothing. What can I do?—O.V.

DEAR O.V.: Giving your dog distemper shots wasn't a waste of money — they will protect him from the very deadly distemper virus. Unfortunately, you were expecting too much from them. Distemper and poor temperament are not the same.

DEAR DR. MILLER: These canaries have me in a quandary. I don't know which one to choose. One looks real scraggly, but has a voice you wouldn't believe. It's beautiful. The other is very good-looking, sleek and smooth with good color and shape. But it can't sing a note. Which should I pick—G.M.

DEAR G. M.: Well, would you rather look or listen? Of course, there are other considerations, including, comparative age and health. The good looker may still, with time and training, develop a voice worthy of consideration. The "voice" may manage to grow a new crop of acceptable feathers. To be sure you don't make a mistake, perhaps you should get both.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How old can a gold goldfish get? I've got a two-year-old goldfish. Is that good?—C.H.

DEAR C.H.: Your gold fish is doing better than most. Even so, yours can hardly be considered ancient. A goldfish isn't really old till it hits the 20-year mark, and many can tack another ten years onto that. But goldfish kept in bowls seldom live long enough to grow up, let alone reach old age.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

The youth gets together his materials to build a bridge to the moon, or perchance a palace or temple on the earth, and at length the middle-aged man concludes to build a woodshed with them.—Henry David Thoreau.

Peerless Homes Plan Expansion

Clifford Ayers

Sam Owens

Art DePrizio

Sam Owens, builder in the Columbus Area, recently announced an expansion plan for his firm, Peerless Homes, Inc.

The plan includes acceleration of present building plans for the Grove City, Brookline and Bonanza Homes Division, Owens said.

In addition, Owens will open model homes in Glengarry Heights, a new subdivision located in Westerville in the $15,000 to $20,000 price range.

Additional office facilities for his Peerless Homes Corporation are now being completed at 3216 Noe-Bixby-rd, adjacent to Bonanza Homes Division.

Owens, who lives with his wife, JoAnn, and two daughters, Beverly and Donna, at 750 Overlook-dr, has been a builder for 10 years. Prior to this, he served in an executive capacity with a nationally-known home manufacturer.

Associated with Owens as general sales manager is Art DePrizio, who lives with his wife, Ruth, and son, Doug, at 128 Crown Hill-ct, Gahanna. DePrizio has been associated with one of Franklin County's largest home dealers for a number of years as sales manager. Prior to his entry into the real estate field, he was sales manager for a well known Columbus corporation and was also in public service as a member of the staff at City Hall.

Clifford Ayers, who lives at 6535 Retton-rd, will be in charge of the coming Glengarry Division. Before entering this field, he had many years of public service as assistant registrar of Motor Vehicles for the State of Ohio, deputy service director for the City of Columbus and registrar of Motor Vehicles for the State of Ohio.

Accountants To Help UA

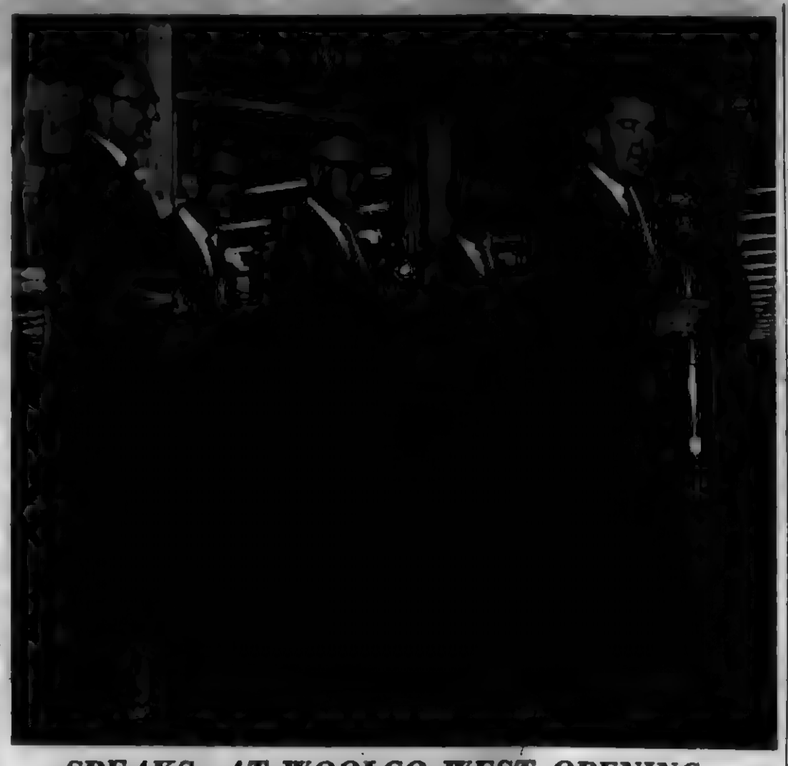
Computer School To Build New Facility In Columbus



The Electronic Computer Programming Institute announced it would establish a new facility in Columbus.

The exact location has not yet been determined.

Columbus will be the 34th community in the nation to have this educational facility, which concentrates exclusively on training programming personnel to meet the demands of the computer population explosion.

The Electronic Computer Programming Institute, more commonly known as ECPI, was founded in New York City in 1956 by a young mathematician, Sydney Davis, whose techniques of instruction proved so effective they have been translated to a standardized curriculum utilizing developments in audio-visual aids.

"Columbus as the home of The Ohio State University and the capital of a state with a successful community college system is ideal for our type school," a ECPI representative said, "for it means a population that is education-minded and aware of the significance and magnitude of the computer revolution."

SPEAKS AT WOOLCO WEST OPENING

ADDRESSING the large number of people who attended the recent grand opening of the Great Western Woolco Department Store, is L. A. Burcham, president of the F. W. Woolworth Company. He thanked the people for their "enthusiastic reception" of the new store, along with the other two local Woolco stores. Appearing with Burcham on the speaker's platform, from left, E. C. Lippe, general manager of the new store; Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner; L. F. Davis, vice president of F. W. Woolworth and general manager of the Woolco Division; and Don M. Casto, developer of the Great Western Shopping Center.

Harold Schottenstein Offers 'Cinch' As Franchise Item

Harold Schottenstein

It's a cinch that the creator of the soft drink "Cinch" is a Columbus man.

Columbus bottler Harold Schottenstein who is also a licensed pharmacist devised the formula after buying the old "Quench" plant which was located at the former Brooks Bottling Co. of Columbus.

He is offering "Cinch" as a franchise item to other bottlers.

Schottenstein though he could improve the "Quench" formula which was used mainly as a mix. He sweetened it up so it would also be attractive as a straight refreshment item, had a new bottle designed and registered "Cinch" under his own name.

The drink was given a professional promotion job by Schottenstein and ad agent Leo Bloom.

The promotion included radio jingles, TV ads, a merchandising campaign which had newspaper coverage, redeemable coupons and a free record offer.

"Cinch" was followed by a similar campaign for its sister, "Diet Cinch" four months after its inception.

Naming The Namecallers

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is to be commended for its positive action in granting an Ohio Bell Telephone Company request that it be permitted to identify subscribers who lease equipment for recorded telephone messages.

This means that those who sponsor the "hate tapes" under the banner "Let Freedom Ring," soon will lose their shield of anonymity.

Under former PUCO tariff regulations, telephone companies could not identify those customers who requested anonymity. This is reasonable and necessary for those who choose to be selective about the telephone calls they RECEIVE. Private home subscribers will continue to enjoy this right of privacy.

But anonymity for those who seek to influence public opinion in areas of government and politics is not fair, and in many cases is prohibited by state statute. If the law, as it now stands, permits a special dispensation for telephone recorded messages, it should be amended.

There can be little doubt that the "Let Freedom Ring" tripe is calculated to further a specific ideology.

Those who promote political causes and public issues through newspaper, radio or television advertising are required by law to identify themselves. And they must file expense accounts and list contributors.

Why should there be an exception because the message is delivered by way of telephone recording equipment?

Let's Hear About Issues

William R. Fornof, acting as spokesman for the three Republican Columbus City Council candidates, fired the opening blast in the GOP councilmanic campaign. It was a usual Fornof "rouser."

There was only one hitch. Fornof apparently delivered the speech he was saving to open his planned 1967 campaign for the mayor's office. He aimed several sharp blows at Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, who has a firm grip on the mayor's office for the next two years.

He didn't say anything about the 1964 Scioto Conservancy District fiasco in which he advocated a plan which, if adopted, would have yanked $50 million from the pockets of local taxpayers.

He didn't talk about the ill-conceived voted bond plan for sewer capital improvements — a measure he pulled from the ballot when its obvious lack of merit made it a political liability rather than an asset.

Under the leadership of Fornof, the topheavy (6 to 1) Republican council has done a consistent job of fighting the Sensenbrenner Administration at every opportunity. Now Fornof seems bent on leading his Republican teammate candidates on a personal vendetta against Mayor Sensenbrenner.

The voters of Columbus will be better served when Fornof decides to postpone his race for the mayor's office until he has settled the issue of running for election to council.

A Penny For Their Plots

The theater — or, theater management — doesn't turn corners. There is reason to believe, however, that the prices of theater tickets in Columbus will, eventually, bring about drastic changes in box-office theories everywhere. Indeed, it may well prevent the death of the legitimate stage.

Columbus theater is a long way from having the tremendous support and appeal experienced in other major U. S. cities. Perhaps that is good. We can't believe that Columbus residents would pay anywhere from $9.90 to $25.00 for any stage production here.

In Columbus, theater is inexpensive. Many times it is as low-cost as a movie ticket is expensive. John and Frank Kenley started the trend here. Now comes word of six outstanding Broadway offerings which will be presented here by the Theatre Guild - American Theatre Society.

Those two groups, in association with Columbus' Danny Deeds and the Hartman Theatre Council, will bring names like Betty Grable, Bob Cummings and Ray Milland and shows like "Hello, Dolly!", "Luv" and "Baker Street" to this city for as little as $2.40 a seat.

Deeds and the Hartman Theatre Council deserve a pat on the back for recognizing the need for attractively priced, top-quality entertainment.

Is it good to peddle the theater for pennies? We think so. You can't entice young people to pay exhorbitant prices. And, it will be the young people who eventually keep the theater out of an untimely grave.

They Also Serve . . .

Is cooking a lost art?

We don't think so, and the Cook Book section you received with this edition of The Spectator supplies ample proof that good cooks abound in our area.

Our Cook Book edition also proves that some of the country's most inventive genius still comes from the kitchens of America.

"A Regular Operating Table With Just A Few Extra Instruments"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

A federal three-judge court is now setting in motion procedures for reapportioning the Ohio General Assembly.

After the defeat of Issue 3 it seemed unlikely that the Ohio General Assembly could agree again on a constitutional amendment to submit to the electorate. The fact that the Ohio Senate was able to agree must be considered a tribute to the willingness of Senators Ted Gray and Frank King to work together to achieve accord on a plan which could and did receive bi-partisan support in the Ohio Senate.

It seems strange now that some Ohio newspapers are trying now to place the blame for the Ohio House's not achieving the same type of accord on the shoulders of Senator King. There is little question that the then-speaker-of-the-House Roger Cloud took the defeat of Issue 3 as a personal affront.

If Speaker Cloud and Governor Rhodes can be given so much credit for the passage of legislation a hundred times more distasteful to the House membership, why shouldn't they also receive the criticism for failure to pass a reasonable reapportionment resolution in the General Assembly during the recent marathon session?

It has always seemed clear that reapportionment in and of itself will not improve the quality of the General Assembly. Over the years I have known good and bad legislators from both urban and rural areas. I have known some Democrats and Republicans more concerned in pleasing special interest groups than in meeting the needs of the public.

It is difficult for the public to follow legislation, since it can be halted at many points as well as by stalling, side-tracking and destructive amendments. I have seen governors being protected by legislative leaders bottling up controversial legislation and other governors forced to accept the onus of having to veto controversial legislation designed to favor a special interest.

Reapportionment will not furnish the complete answer to better legislatures.

Ohio needs a real hard-nosed approach to the vexing problems of campaign expenditures, conflict of interests and tighter regulation of lobbying. In many ways each of these problems are related. Lobbying, campaign contributions and retainers are often found under the same tent.

It is difficult to understand the horror expressed by some editorial writers at contributions made by labor organizations and the lack of concern at the retaining of lawyer legislators by special interests in halting legislation beneficial to the public or promoting legislation beneficial to a special interest to the exclusion of the public good.

Ohio's campaign expenditure law is a joke. It is unenforceable since you can't see the safeguards for the loopholes.

Not until we eliminate basic evils that are rotting away the foundation of our legislative forum will reapportionment be meaningful to Ohioans.

One Man's Opinion

We received a call from a woman this week. She was noticeably upset.

Seems she had allowed her son to ENLIST (Heaven forbid) in the Marine Corps.

Bruney

And all her friends can come up with are comments such as:

"Has he got rocks in his head?" or

"What's the matter—don't you feed him well enough at home?" or

"Well, there goes more cannon fodder!"

One of her son's former classmates, now enrolled in college, could only say:

"Yeah, if I don't make a 'B' average this semester, I'll be there too."

The woman wants to know what her son has done wrong.

Answer:

In a time when the "smart" thing to do is to outsmart the draft board, her son has dared to face his obligation to his country like a man.

Those "rocks in his head" are the result of a condition which too few people have anymore—love of country.

This condition is not very "catching" in a society which has adopted a me-first philosophy of life.—JIM BRUNEY

Letters To The Editor

Markethouse Is Needed

To the Editor:

I would like to take issue with whoever wrote the small article in your Sept. 28 issue titled "Why Bill Taxpayers for Markethouse?"

I, for one, hope we get another market real soon. I have gone to the old market since I was a child — and after marriage my husband and I went every Saturday (a total of 30 years).

Where else can you get good, fresh fruits, vegetables and meats at reasonable prices? Also, good home-made cold cuts like the Thurn's? You can get these things at the supermarkets, but how long have they lain packaged up in trays and cellophane wrappers?

As to the "thousands of Columbus residents who would never go near it," I have yet to see it not crowded at any time I have gone there. Whoever wrote this article in your paper probably has never set foot in the market and does not know what good fresh food really is.

If we do not get another market, we will be forced to pay the high prices at supermarkets for our fruits, vegetables, etc. and if the market goes, the prices will go even higher without this competition.

No, my dear sir, you are so wrong about this. And saying "a handful of merchants who are not abreast of the times" — why, these men are some of our best-known and best-liked citizens and are up there looking far ahead of our times. If it does cost us taxpayers a little, it will be worth it, as we now pay for a lot of worthless things that do not benefit us and this Central Market will be a great benefit to all.

Now, I have spoken my piece and I would like to hear from some more Central Market goers as to whether they would like to have it continued or not.

Commends 'College' Page

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your "Back to College" page. It is evidence of your high degree of interest in education of our young people.

It is unfortunate that more of the young college people from our area do not avail themselves of the opportunity you offer when you ask for their registrations. If all the young people attending college from Grove City High School, Pleasant View High School and Franklin Heights High School had supplied the information you asked, you would not have had room on the page for any other school listings.

Congratulations to you and keep up the good work for education.

THE RUMBLE AND THE ROAR

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

It occurred to me that if I ever wanted to ride The Wabash Cannon Ball I'd better get cracking, for the great old trains are dying like trail cattle at an alkali water hole. The Texas Special, The Dixie Flyer, and most of the Rock Island Rockets expired during the summer. The Frisco's Meteor made its last run in September, and The Missouri River Eagle this month.

So here I was, inhaling buckwheat cakes in the lounge-diner of The Cannon Ball as the train glided out of Detroit's old Fort Street Station and the sun came up like thunder out'er Canada 'cross the river. I felt a little foolish. It would take 10 hours just to reach St. Louis. Had I taken the through jet I could have been home in the office by noon.

But I had a lot of necessary reading, and it would be good to take a close look at mid-America. At 30,000 feet the land is only a carpet, sometimes brown and sometimes green. The new super-highways are tunnels of speed through which you pass mindless of farm homes beyond the fence or villages that cluster about distant church steeples.

Breakfast was hardly finished before The Cannon Ball halted interminably beside a purling stream. At long last the reason for our delay showed up — a roaring freight train behind five diesels, its new super boxcars, auto racks and "Big John" hoppers filling the air with dust and tumult. The fact that The Cannon Ball was in the siding shows where the heart of modern railroad management lies. This was to happen twice more.

We were soon in Indiana, paralleling the Wabash River. The corn was high, the hogs fat, the barns fresh-painted and the old two-story, high-gabled farmhouses had given way in many places to ranch-styles. Fort Wayne was big, busy and grimly-industrial, but we passed through good little towns, too — Huntington, Peru, Logansport and Delphi, each bearing the hallmark of Indiana, the huge old courthouse set in the city square.

This is Booth Tarkington, George Ade and James Whitcomb Riley country. It is not without its tragedies and dark secrets. Sherwood Anderson recounted the confessions of imaginary Winesburg, Ohio. Theodore Dreiser, an Indianian, wrote "An American Tragedy." And Edgar Lee Masters laid bare the heart of Spoon River in Illinois. But mostly it's optimistic, vigorous, friendly country. The Purdue kids who got on at Lafayette looked sharp, and so did the gabbling weekenders from the University of Illinois who came aboard from the Urbana bus at Tolono.

As The Cannon Ball neared St. Louis, its muzzle velocity sadly reduced by the high-priority freights, I looked at my unread pile of books. Too much had been going on. You can describe it in a word—America.

BOOK REVIEW

'Power' Novel May Hit At Conscience

Few Ohioans will be able to read "The Power of Life or Death" without an attack of conscience.

Written by former Governor Michael V. DiSalle and published by Random House, the book is an authoritative indictment of capital punishment.

It is also an intimate revelation of the compassionate character of the author, a man who for four years held the power of life or death and used it to spare six lives. It is to the six who lived and six others who died in the electric chair during DiSalle's term of office that the book is dedicated.

Many books have been written on the subject of capital punishment by prison wardens, criminologists and social reformers. But "The Power of Life or Death" is probably the first treatise by an official who has had the authority to decide if a man should live or die.

Those decisions came particularly hard for Governor DiSalle, a man morally and intellectually opposed to the death penalty, which he twice tried unsuccessfully to have repealed by the state legislature.

DiSalle — the man — found himself pitted against DiSalle — the governor — sworn to uphold the law he personally held barbaric.

Under a cannonade of newspaper editorial criticism, DiSalle personally reviewed each death penalty case which crossed his desk, reading every word of voluminous trial testimony, visiting the condemned in death row and even viewing the scene of the crime.

The book carefully details the reason and the legal precedents each time the author spared a life and just as thoroughly explains why he, as governor, allowed six others to die because of his oath to the law.

DiSalle notes in his book that the Ohio electric chair is reserved for the poor and the friendless. But during his four years in office, no condemned man ever had a better lawyer or friend than the governor of the state.

The book probes deeply into the background of the murderers DiSalle came to know, both in death row and on the household staff of the Executive Mansion. He tells of the implicit trust he and Mrs. DiSalle came to place in the burly killers who served as baby-sitters for the DiSalle grandchildren.

DiSalle blames Ohio's retention of the death penalty, while other states are abandoning it, on hypocritic legislators, the police lobby, politically ambitious prosecutors and a sensation mongering press. The ex-governor reveals an unexpected restraint in his treatment of the Ohio press in his book.

DiSalle writes a strong brief for abolition of the death penalty, an improved penal system and a strictly supervised program of parole.

He expresses hope that the barbaric rite of legal vengeance may one day be abandoned in Ohio — and when that day comes it will most certainly have been hurried by the actions in office and the writing of former Governor DiSalle.

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS—U.S.A.

Nine out of 10 adults who are doing more than ordinarily well in life had their minds and emotions touched at an early age by the influence of some inspiring adult personality.

Once these normally endowed kids do have their thinking set on fire by some tremendous impact of truth and inspiration, life is fuller and brighter for them.

Every educator who has ever left "footprints" on the consciousness of his own time has always been a loyal and dedicated disciple of the eternal truths. The teacher who knows how to make normal minds come alive with a consuming curiosity about the whyfor of the whatever is priceless for any school system. They are so rare that it is a disgrace.

Only hungry minds ever become educated and many of the best adult minds today are doers and achievers, not because of their formal school but in spite of it. First they were taught how to read; then they were given a desire to learn something that makes sense and which will work for them every day of their lives, coping with the monstrous problem of how to stay sane in a world gone "nuts."

Unless they allow nothing to dissuade them in their constant desire to learn, they go through life on a by-guess and by-golly basis and wind up sobbing that they never had a chance to "get an education."

Variety . . .

By I. F. HOWELL

Have you noticed the bronze markers on historical sites erected and dedicated by various historical and patriotic societies?

More and more are being put up each year. The Ohio State Historical Society has adopted a standard design in two sizes. The county societies fall in line.

No one knows how many markers are up in Franklin County. Most of the larger ones have been projects of the Franklin County Historical Society, directed largely by Gilbert F. Dodds and Dan Prugh.

The markers, taken as a group, give a rather complete outline of Franklin County's history, beginning with Lucas Sullivant's founding of Franklinton in 1797. One of the latest is on the site of the old city hall on E. State-st.

One of the most informative markers is on state property at W. Town-st and Civic Center-dr. It's about the Ohio-Erie Canal, the first of three systems in Ohio that linked the Great Lakes with the Ohio-Mississippi Basin.

The Ohio-Erie was begun at Licking Summit, near Akron, when the governors of New York and Ohio turned the first earth, July 4, 1825. The 331-mile system was completed in 1831, linking Cleveland with Portsmouth. Boats were slow, but carried thousands of tons of goods and passengers.

It says here. . .

Railroads killed the canals in the early 1900s. But they had served a useful purpose for nearly a century.

DAN BURDEN

The Columbus Council of AYH is concerned with cycling, hiking, canoeing, skiing, mountain climbing and cave exploration.

But Dan's project is strictly of the two wheel variety. He is trying to attract prospective members into the cycling circle of activity.

A number of events is planned for October. Big on the agenda is the Oct. 23 Circleville Pumpkin Show Tour. An all-day event, bicycle riders will meet at South Franklin School and journey to the granddaddy of all fall festivals at Circleville.

An earlier jaunt is the Oct. 16 Moonlight Cycle Trip which meets at 4:30 p.m. at Westgate Recreation Center. Dan has promised a whole evening of surprises and says that food and lodging are provided.

ABOUT MEMBERSHIPS

The group is interested in people interested in them. To become a member, call Columbus Council AYH at the Central YMCA at 40 W. Long-st.

A member of the council will supply information or one will call or visit later. Dues are: $4 for a youth pass; $6 for a senior youth pass; $7 for an adult pass; and $9 for a family pass which includes children up to the age of 18.

"There are 500 members in the Columbus Council, of which 100 are active," Dan stated.

The group meets formally the third Thursday of the month at the Center of Science and Industry. This meeting is in addition to the full calendar of events from which a member may choose.

Usually, after making contact with the group at the Central "Y", the first cycle trip is free. There are also free trips scheduled as a regular policy for the convenience of those who just want to try it.

"Equipment is just about limited to one functioning bicycle at the start," Dan explained. "After a cyclist progresses to more difficult trips, he can start thinking of the most essential items after the bike: eating utensils and a sleeping bag."

ABOUT THE FEES

"Trip fees are nominal," Dan said. "They run from 10 cents to $1 depending on the monies needed. If food is involved, the group charges the cost. If transportation is involved, members pay the drivers a penny a mile."

The AYH is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political corporation organized exclusively for charitable and educational purposes and open to all people of all ages without regard to race, creed or religion.

Its purpose is "to help all, especially young people, gain a greater understanding of the world and its people through outdoor activities, educational and recreational travel and related programs; to develop fit, self-reliant, well-informed citizens; and to provide Youth Hostels in scenic, historic and cultural areas."

"Incidentally, a hostel is an inexpensive overnight accommodation," Dan explains.

AYH is supported by membership fees, program fees and contributions. Contributions to AYH are tax deductible.

THREE TYPES OF HOSTELING

Hosteling is a method of travel "under your own steam." This travel may be roughly divided in international, national and local hosteling.

International hosteling is common in Europe where hosteling was originated in 1910.

"Columbus Council falls under the local hosteling," Dan explains. "But holding a pass entitles a member to all the advantages of national and international hosteling.

"Rather than just cycling, our group has purpose," Dan says. "We are interested in meeting people, learning of the surrounding territories and their points of interest . . . including historical and scenic sites."

An example of the local operation is the county caravan. The group writes to different counties and asks chambers of commerce and county officials to pick a route containing the main points of area interest. When this route is returned, the Columbus Council maps it out and sets a date for the trip.

Leaders on the trips are trained people. "They have to pass requirements set up by the council and attend a leadership course which is offered once a year," Dan states. "Frequently, they are school teachers or professional people. There are also special teenage leaders and responsible adults who chaperone overnight trips."

Dan says he is particularly interested in families who like to cycle.

"The wheelin' is fun and the dealin' is easy," Dan comments.

THIS GROUP OF CYCLERS is making a tour of Mohican State Forest. The Columbus Council, American Youth Hostel, Inc., has a number of such trips on its docket. Cycling chairman of the Columbus-based AYH is Dan Burden of 3139 Parkside-rd. Dan is eager to attract prospective members to the two-wheel activities of the local AYH.

SUM AND SUBSTANCE

Deep Purple Falls . . . On Broad St.

By CHUCK HARTLE

Tradition says a yellow streak up one's back is a reflection on his courage; a white streak is associated with the skunk; but a purple streak seems to have more favorable implications.

The City of Columbus, this week, went to all the trouble of having a purple streak painted right up the middle of W. Broad-st from Washington to Civic Center-dr.

It was painted in honor of the Columbus Day Celebration which occupied the city over the weekend. Among festivities honoring the great explorer whose name our city bears were:

Selection of a Miss Columbus U.S.A. from among entrants from eight U.S. cities of the same name;

Presentation of the Christopher Columbus Award to retired Air Force General Curtis LeMay;

A parade along the purple streak Sunday evening, and Ceremonies at the Columbus statue at City Hall Sunday.

Almost punctuating the end of the ceremonies was news of recent documentation of the fact that Leif Ericson visited North American shores some 300 years before the great Italian navigator.

Frankly, most people say, who cares? Nobody's going to upstags our patron explorer, "by Christopher!"

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

No coming attraction of such dubious honor has received so much free publicity as the burlesque scheduled to open at the Gayety Theater "later this month." But, in spite of all the public notice, the attraction may never arrive. City Council has directed the city attorney to prepare legislation to ban it.

We'll have to wait to see what comes off.

Two prisoners in the Columbus City jail just north of the city hall lowered themselves from a third floor cell last week and enjoyed a bit of "freedom."

After raising a hacksaw blade to their window by a string lowered to an accomplice on the outside, the two prisoners cut through the bars and escaped during breakfast.

One of the men was captured immediately and the other within two hours. The accomplice was also apprehended.

Students for Liberal Action, the OSU group sponsoring the appearance of self-styled communist Herber Aptheker, are protesting the "conditions" imposed under the revised Speaker's Rule.

The Faculty Advisory Committee has said Dr. Paul Cragi chairman of economics department, must be given 10 minutes on the same program with Aptheker to comment or raise questions.

SLA, which couldn't get this speaker approved at all last spring, is objecting.

Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

The subject of cleaning coins is one of the most controversial encountered in numismatics. We believe it is permissable to clean a coin providing you know "how" and "when." Many valuable coins have been badly damaged by the inexperienced collector using improper methods or cleaning compounds. For this reason most handbooks discourage cleaning coins. Most people refuse to buy an improperly-cleaned coin. It can be damaged from abrasives (steel wool or kitchen cleansers) or from corrosives left on the coin because the cleaning preparation was not properly neutralized. The action from a cleaning preparation may cause discoloration or corrosion even weeks after the coin has been cleaned.

There are many who believe there is nothing more beautiful than a coin with the natural patina that results from time. We are inclined to agree. It will be found only on uncirculated coins that have been carefully protected from the elements. Coins that have not been protected are likely to look quite different — instead of the delicate patina, they may be badly tarnished.

The astute collector welcomes these coins. He can look through the tarnish and see the true condition of the coin. It is an accepted fact that many antique collectors and museums insist upon complete restoration of every item in their collections. Is it unreasonable to assume then that the serious numismatist would want the coins in his collection in the best possible state?

Before cleaning a coin, you must examine it to determine just what type of cleaning is required. There is no set of standards to go by. Experiment with common coins from circulation, never with rare ones.

There are several good textbooks available that are devoted to the details of coin-cleaning and preservation. Your professional coin dealer will be glad to offer suggestions; but, keeping in mind that each coin may require a slightly different approach, show him the coin in question so that the proper preparation can be recommended.

Naming The Namecallers

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is to be commended for its positive action in granting an Ohio Bell Telephone Company request that it be permitted to identify subscribers who lease equipment for recorded telephone messages.

This means that those who sponsor the "hate tapes" under the banner "Let Freedom Ring," soon will lose their shield of anonymity.

Under former PUCO tariff regulations, telephone companies could not identify those customers who requested anonymity. This is reasonable and necessary for those who choose to be selective about the telephone calls they RECEIVE. Private home subscribers will continue to enjoy this right of privacy.

But anonymity for those who seek to influence public opinion in areas of government and politics is not fair, and in many cases is prohibited by state statute. If the law, as it now stands, permits a special dispensation for telephone recorded messages, it should be amended.

There can be little doubt that the "Let Freedom Ring" tripe is calculated to further a specific ideology.

Those who promote political causes and public issues through newspaper, radio or television advertising are required by law to identify themselves. And they must file expense accounts and list contributors.

Why should there be an exception because the message is delivered by way of telephone recording equipment?

Let's Hear About Issues

William R. Fornof, acting as spokesman for the three Republican Columbus City Council candidates, fired the opening blast in the GOP councilmanic campaign. It was a usual Fornof "rouser."

There was only one hitch. Fornof apparently delivered the speech he was saving to open his planned 1967 campaign for the mayor's office. He aimed several sharp blows at Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, who has a firm grip on the mayor's office for the next two years.

He didn't say anything about the 1964 Scioto Conservancy District fiasco in which he advocated a plan which, if adopted, would have yanked $50 million from the pockets of local taxpayers.

He didn't talk about the ill-conceived voted bond plan for sewer capital improvements — a measure he pulled from the ballot when its obvious lack of merit made it a political liability rather than an asset.

Under the leadership of Fornof, the topheavy (6 to 1) Republican council has done a consistent job of fighting the Sensenbrenner Administration at every opportunity. Now Fornof seems bent on leading his Republican teammate candidates on a personal vendetta against Mayor Sensenbrenner.

The voters of Columbus will be better served when Fornof decides to postpone his race for the mayor's office until he has settled the issue of running for election to council.

A Penny For Their Plots

The theater — or, theater management — doesn't turn corners. There is reason to believe, however, that the prices of theater tickets in Columbus will, eventually, bring about drastic changes in box-office theories everywhere. Indeed, it may well prevent the death of the legitimate stage.

Columbus theater is a long way from having the tremendous support and appeal experienced in other major U. S. cities. Perhaps that is good. We can't believe that Columbus residents would pay anywhere from $9.90 to $25.00 for any stage production here.

In Columbus, theater is inexpensive. Many times it is as low-cost as a movie ticket is expensive. John and Frank Kenley started the trend here. Now comes word of six outstanding Broadway offerings which will be presented here by the Theatre Guild - American Theatre Society.

Those two groups, in association with Columbus' Danny Deeds and the Hartman Theatre Council, will bring names like Betty Grable, Bob Cummings and Ray Milland and shows like "Hello, Dolly!", "Luv" and "Baker Street" to this city for as little as $2.40 a seat.

Deeds and the Hartman Theatre Council deserve a pat on the back for recognizing the need for attractively priced, top-quality entertainment.

Is it good to peddle the theater for pennies? We think so. You can't entice young people to pay exhorbitant prices. And, it will be the young people who eventually keep the theater out of an untimely grave.

They Also Serve . . .

Is cooking a lost art?

We don't think so, and the Cook Book section you received with this edition of The Spectator supplies ample proof that good cooks abound in our area.

Our Cook Book edition also proves that some of the country's most inventive genius still comes from the kitchens of America.

"A Regular Operating Table With Just A Few Extra Instruments"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DISALLE

A federal three-judge court is now setting in motion procedures for reapportioning the Ohio General Assembly.

After the defeat of Issue 3 it seemed unlikely that the Ohio General Assembly could agree again on a constitutional amendment to submit to the electorate. The fact that the Ohio Senate was able to agree must be considered a tribute to the willingness of Senators Ted Gray and Frank King to work together to achieve accord on a plan which could and did receive bi-partisan support in the Ohio Senate.

It seems strange now that some Ohio newspapers are trying now to place the blame for the Ohio House's not achieving the same type of accord on the shoulders of Senator King. There is little question that the then-speaker-of-the-House Roger Cloud took the defeat of Issue 3 as a personal affront.

If Speaker Cloud and Governor Rhodes can be given so much credit for the passage of legislation a hundred times more distasteful to the House membership, why shouldn't they also receive the criticism for failure to pass a reasonable reapportionment resolution in the General Assembly during the recent marathon session?

It has always seemed clear that reapportionment in and of itself will not improve the quality of the General Assembly. Over the years I have known good and bad legislators from both urban and rural areas. I have known some Democrats and Republicans more concerned in pleasing special interest groups than in meeting the needs of the public.

It is difficult for the public to follow legislation, since it can be halted at many points as well as by stalling, side-tracking and destructive amendments. I have seen governors being protected by legislative leaders bottling up controversial legislation and other governors forced to accept the onus of having to veto controversial legislation designed to favor a special interest.

Reapportionment will not furnish the complete answer to better legislatures.

Ohio needs a real hard-nosed approach to the vexing problems of campaign expenditures, conflict of interests and tighter regulation of lobbying. In many ways each of these problems are related. Lobbying, campaign contributions and retainers are often found under the same tent.

It is difficult to understand the horror expressed by some editorial writers at contributions made by labor organizations and the lack of concern at the retaining of lawyer legislators by special interests in halting legislation beneficial to the public or promoting legislation beneficial to a special interest to the exclusion of the public good.

Ohio's campaign expenditure law is a joke. It is unenforceable since you can't see the safeguards for the loopholes.

Not until we eliminate basic evils that are rotting away the foundation of our legislative forum will reapportionment be meaningful to Ohioans.

One Man's Opinion

We received a call from a woman this week. She was noticeably upset.

Seems she had allowed her son to ENLIST (Heaven forbid) in the Marine Corps.

Branscy

And all her friends can come up with are comments such as:

"Has he got rocks in his head?" or

"What's the matter—don't you feed him well enough at home?" or

"Well, there goes more cannon fodder!"

One of her son's former classmates, now enrolled in college, could only say:

"Yeah, if I don't make a 'B' average this semester, I'll be there too."

The woman wants to know what her son has done wrong.

Answer:

In a time when the "smart" thing to do is to outsmart the draft board, her son has dared to face his obligation to his country like a man.

Those "rocks in his head" are the result of a condition which too few people have anymore—love of country.

This condition is not very "catching" in a society which has adopted a me-first philosophy of life.—JIM BRANEY

Letters To The Editor

Markethouse Is Needed

To the Editor:

I would like to take issue with whoever wrote the small article in your Sept. 23 issue titled "Why Bill Taxpayers for Markethouse?"

I, for one, hope we get another market real soon. I have gone to the old market since I was a child — and after marriage my husband and I went every Saturday (a total of 50 years).

Where else can you get good, fresh fruits, vegetables and meats at reasonable prices? Also, good home-made cold cuts like the Thurn's? You can get these things at the supermarkets, but how long have they lain packaged up in trays and cellophane wrappers?

As to the "thousands of Columbus residents who would never go near it," I have yet to see it not crowded at any time I have gone there. Whoever wrote this article in your paper probably has never set foot in the market and does not know what good fresh food really is.

If we do not get another market, we will be forced to pay the high prices at supermarkets for our fruits, vegetables, etc. and if the market goes, the prices will go even higher without this competition.

No, my dear sir, you are so wrong about this. And saying "a handful of merchants who are not abreast of the times" — why, these men are some of our best-known and best-liked citizens and are up there looking far ahead of our times. If it does cost us taxpayers a little, it will be worth it, as we now pay for a lot of worthless things that do not benefit us and this Central Market will be a great benefit to all.

Now, I have spoken my piece and I would like to hear from some more Central Market goers as to whether they would like to have it continued or not.

Many thanks for your active support of the third annual Ohio State Farm Science Review. Even though it was cut short one day by rain, the review attracted nearly 50,000 persons and was a big success in the opinions of many exhibitors, the management, and visiting farmers.

Commends 'College' Page

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your "Back to College" page. It is evidence of your high degree of interest in education of our young people.

It is unfortunate that more of the young college people from our area do not avail themselves of the opportunity you offer when you ask for their registrations. If all the young people attending college from Grove City High School, Pleasant View High School and Franklin Heights High School had supplied the information you asked, you would not have had room on the page for any other school listings.

Congratulations to you and keep up the good work for education.

THE RUMBLE AND THE ROAR

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

It occurred to me that if I ever wanted to ride The Wabash Cannon Ball I'd better get cracking, for the great old trains are dying like trail cattle at an alkali water hole. The Texas Special, The Dixie Flyer, and most of the Rock Island Rockets expired during the summer. The Frisco's Meteor made its last run in September, and The Missouri River Eagle this month.

So here I was, inhaling buckwheat cakes in the lounge-diner of The Cannon Ball as the train glided out of Detroit's old Fort Street Station and the sun came up like thunder out'er Canada 'cross the river. I felt a little foolish. It would take 10 hours just to reach St. Louis. Had I taken the through jet I could have been home in the office by noon.

But I had a lot of necessary reading, and it would be good to take a close look at mid-America. At 30,000 feet the land is only a carpet, sometimes brown and sometimes green. The new super-highways are tunnels of speed through which you pass mindless of farm homes beyond the fence or villages that cluster about distant church steeples.

Breakfast was hardly finished before The Cannon Ball halted interminably beside a purling stream. At long last the reason for our delay showed up — a roaring freight train behind five diesels, its new super boxcars, auto racks and "Big John" hoppers filling the air with dust and tumult. The fact that The Cannon Ball was in the siding shows where the heart of modern railroad management lies. This was to happen twice more.

We were soon in Indiana, paralleling the Wabash River. The corn was high, the hogs fat, the barns fresh-painted and the old two-story, high-gabled farmhouses had given way in many places to ranch-styles. Fort Wayne was big, busy and grimly-industrial, but we passed through good little towns, too — Huntington, Peru, Logansport and Delphi, each bearing the hallmark of Indiana, the huge old courthouse set in the city square.

This is Booth Tarkington, George Ade and James Whitcomb Riley country. It is not without its tragedies and dark secrets. Sherwood Anderson recounted the confessions of imaginary Winesburg, Ohio. Theodore Dreiser, an Indianian, wrote "An American Tragedy." And Edgar Lee Masters laid bare the heart of Spoon River in Illinois. But mostly it's optimistic, vigorous, friendly country. The Purdue kids who got on at Lafayette looked sharp, and so did the gabbling weekenders from the University of Illinois who came aboard from the Urbana bus at Tolono.

As The Cannon Ball neared St. Louis, its muzzle velocity sadly reduced by the high-priority freights, I looked at my unread pile of books. Too much had been going on. You can describe it in a word—America.

BOOK REVIEW

'Power' Novel May Hit At Conscience

Few Ohioans will be able to read "The Power of Life or Death" without an attack of conscience.

Written by former Governor Michael V. DiSalle and published by Random House, the book is an authoritative indictment of capital punishment.

It is also an intimate revelation of the compassionate character of the author, a man who for four years held the power of life or death and used it to spare six lives. It is to the six who lived and six others who died in the electric chair during DiSalle's term of office that the book is dedicated.

Many books have been written on the subject of capital punishment by prison wardens, criminologists and social reformers. But "The Power of Life or Death" is probably the first treatise by an official who has had the authority to decide if a man should live or die.

Those decisions came particularly hard for Governor DiSalle, a man morally and intellectually opposed to the death penalty, which he twice tried unsuccessfully to have repealed by the state legislature.

DiSalle — the man — found himself pitted against DiSalle — the governor — sworn to uphold the law he personally held barbaric.

Under a camonade of newspaper editorial criticism, DiSalle personally reviewed each death penalty case which crossed his desk, reading every word of voluminous trial testimony, visiting the condemned in death row and even viewing the scene of the crime.

The book carefully details the reason and the legal precedents each time the author spared a life and just as thoroughly explains why he, as governor, allowed six others to die because of his oath to the law.

DiSalle notes in his book that the Ohio electric chair is reserved for the poor and the friendless. But during his four years in office, no condemned man ever had a better lawyer or friend than the governor of the state.

The book probes deeply into the background of the murderers DiSalle came to know, both in death row and on the household staff of the Executive Mansion. He tells of the implicit trust he and Mrs. DiSalle came to place in the burly killers who served as baby-sitters for the DiSalle grandchildren.

DiSalle blames Ohio's retention of the death penalty, while other states are abandoning it, on hypocritic legislators, the police lobby, politically ambitious prosecutors and a sensation mongering press. The ex-governor reveals an unexpected restraint in his treatment of the Ohio press in his book.

DiSalle writes a strong brief for abolition of the death penalty, an improved penal system and a strictly supervised program of parole.

He expresses hope that the barbaric rite of legal vengeance may one day be abandoned in Ohio — and when that day comes it will most certainly have been hurried by the actions in office and the writing of former Governor DiSalle.

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS—U.S.A.

Nine out of 10 adults who are doing more than ordinarily well in life had their minds and emotions touched at an early age by the influence of some inspiring adult personality.

Once these normally endowed kids do have their thinking set on fire by some tremendous impact of truth and inspiration, life is fuller and brighter for them.

Every educator who has ever left "footprints" on the consciousness of his own time has always been a loyal and dedicated disciple of the eternal truths. The teacher who knows how to make normal minds come alive with a consuming curiosity about the whyfor of the whatever is priceless for any school system. They are so rare that it is a disgrace.

Only hungry minds ever become educated and many of the best adult minds today are doers and achievers, not because of their formal school but in spite of it. First they were taught how to read; then they were given a desire to learn something that makes sense and which will work for them every day of their lives, coping with the monstrous problem of how to stay sane in a world gone "nuts."

Unless they allow nothing to dissuade them in their constant desire to learn, they go through life on a by-guess and by-golly basis and wind up sobbing that they never had a chance to "get an education."

Variety . . .

By I. F. HOWELL

Have you noticed the bronze markers on historical sites erected and dedicated by various historical and patriotic societies?

More and more are being put up each year. The Ohio State Historical Society has adopted a standard design in two sizes. The county societies fall in line.

No one knows how many markers are up in Franklin County. Most of the larger ones have been projects of the Franklin County Historical Society, directed largely by Gilbert F. Dodds and Dan Prugh.

The markers, taken as a group, give a rather complete outline of Franklin County's history, beginning with Lucas Sullivant's founding of Franklinton in 1797. One of the latest is on the site of the old city hall on E. State-st.

One of the most informative markers is on state property at W. Town-st and Civic Center-dr. It's about the Ohio-Erie Canal, the first of three systems in Ohio that linked the Great Lakes with the Ohio-Mississippi Basin.

The Ohio-Erie was begun at Licking Summit, near Akron, when the governors of New York and Ohio turned the first earth, July 4, 1825. The 331-mile system was completed in 1831, linking Cleveland with Portsmouth. Boats were slow, but carried thousands of tons of goods and passengers.

It says here. . .

Railroads killed the canals in the early 1900s. But they had served a useful purpose for nearly a century.

These 'Wheels' Are Kings Of The Open Road

By TED BEARDSHEAR
Spectator Staff Writer

Dan Burden, 3139 Parkside-rd, cycling chairman of Columbus Council, American Youth Hostel, Inc., is anything but hostile.

In fact, he is one of the more friendly young adults to wheel his way into a news room.

And bicycle wheels is Dan's interest. Not just for himself, but for anyone from "four to 94" who loves exercise and the out-of-doors.

DAN BURDEN

The Columbus Council of AYH is concerned with cycling, hiking, canoeing, skiing, mountain climbing and cave exploration.

But Dan's project is strictly of the two wheel variety. He is trying to attract prospective members into the cycling circle of activity.

A number of events is planned for October. Big on the agenda is the Oct. 23 Circleville Pumpkin Show Tour. An all-day event, bicycle riders will meet at South Franklin School and journey to the granddaddy of all fall festivals at Circleville.

An earlier jaunt is the Oct. 16 Moonlight Cycle Trip which meets at 4:30 p.m. at Westgate Recreation Center. Dan has promised a whole evening of surprises and says that food and lodging are provided.

ABOUT MEMBERSHIPS

The group is interested in people interested in them. To become a member, call Columbus Council AYH at the Central YMCA at 40 W. Long-st.

A member of the council will supply information or one will call or visit later. Dues are: $4 for a youth pass; $6 for a senior youth pass; $7 for an adult pass; and $9 for a family pass which includes children up to the age of 18.

"There are 500 members in the Columbus Council of which 100 are active," Dan stated.

The group meets formally the third Thursday of the month at the Center of Science and Industry. This meeting is in addition to the full calendar of events from which a member may choose.

Usually, after making contact with the group at the Central "Y", the first cycle trip is free. There are also free trips scheduled as a regular policy for the convenience of those who just want to try it.

"Equipment is just about limited to one functioning bicycle at the start," Dan explained. "After a cyclist progresses to more difficult trips, he can start thinking of the most essential items after the bike: eating utensils and a sleeping bag."

ABOUT THE FEES

"Trip fees are nominal," Dan said. "They run from 10 cents to $1 depending on the monies needed. If food is involved, the group charges the cost. If transportation is involved, members pay the drivers a penny a mile."

The AYH is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political corporation organized exclusively for charitable and educational purposes and open to all people of all ages without regard to race, creed or religion.

Its purpose is "to help all, especially young people, gain a greater understanding of the world and its people through outdoor activities, educational and recreational travel and related programs; to develop fit, self-reliant, well-informed citizens; and to provide Youth Hostels in scenic, historic and cultural areas."

"Incidentally, a hostel is an inexpensive overnight accommodation," Dan explains.

AYH is supported by membership fees, program fees and contributions. Contributions to AYH are tax deductible.

THREE TYPES OF HOSTELING

Hosteling is a method of travel "under your own steam." This travel may be roughly divided in international, national and local hosteling.

International hosteling is common in Europe where hosteling was originated in 1910.

"Columbus Council falls under the local hosteling," Dan explains. "But holding a pass entitles a member to all the advantages of national and international hosteling.

"Rather than just cycling, our group has purpose," Dan says. "We are interested in meeting people, learning of the surrounding territories and their points of interest . . . including historical and scenic sites."

An example of the local operation is the county caravan. The group writes to different counties and asks chambers of commerce and county officials to pick a route containing the main points of area interest. When this route is returned, the Columbus Council maps it out and sets a date for the trip.

Leaders on the trips are trained people. "They have to pass requirements set up by the council and attend a leadership course which is offered once a year," Dan states. "Frequently, they are school teachers or professional people. There are also special teenage leaders and responsible adults who chaperone overnight trips."

Dan says he is particularly interested in families who like to cycle.

"The wheelin' is fun and the dealin' is easy," Dan comments.

THIS GROUP OF CYCLERS is making a tour of Mohican State Forest. The Columbus Council, American Youth Hostel, Inc., has a number of such trips on its docket. Cycling chairman of the Columbus-based AYH is Dan Burden of 3139 Parkside-rd. Dan is eager to attract prospective members to the two-wheel activities of the local AYH.

SUM AND SUBSTANCE

Deep Purple Falls . . . On Broad St.

By CHUCK HARTLE

Tradition says a yellow streak up one's back is a reflection on his courage; a white streak is associated with the skunk; but a purple streak seems to have more favorable implications.

The City of Columbus, this week, went to all the trouble of having a purple streak painted right up the middle of W. Broad-st from Washington to Civic Center-dr.

It was painted in honor of the Columbus Day Celebration which occupied the city over the weekend. Among festivities honoring the great explorer whose name our city bears were:

Selection of a Miss Columbus U.S.A. from among entrants from eight U.S. cities of the same name;

Presentation of the Christopher Columbus Award to retired Air Force General Curtis LeMay;

A parade along the purple streak Sunday evening, and Ceremonies at the Columbus statue at City Hall Sunday.

Almost punctuating the end of the ceremonies was news of recent documentation of the fact that Leif Ericson visited North American shores some 300 years before the great Italian navigator.

Frankly, most people say, who cares? Nobody's going to upstags our patron explorer, "by Christopher!"

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

No coming attraction of such dubious honor has received so much free publicity as the burlesque scheduled to open at the Gayety Theater "later this month." But, in spite of all the public notice, the attraction may never arrive. City Council has directed the city attorney to prepare legislation to ban it.

We'll have to wait to see what comes off.

Two prisoners in the Columbus City jail just north of the city hall lowered themselves from a third floor cell last week and enjoyed a bit of "freedom."

After raising a hacksaw blade to their window by a string lowered to an accomplice on the outside, the two prisoners cut through the bars and escaped during breakfast.

One of the men was captured immediately and the other within two hours. The accomplice was also apprehended.

Students for Liberal Action, the OSU group sponsoring the appearance of self-styled communist Herber Aptheker, are protesting the "conditions" imposed under the revised Speaker's Rule.

The Faculty Advisory Committee has said Dr. Paul Cragi chairman of economics department, must be given 10 minutes on the same program with Aptheker to comment or raise questions.

SLA, which couldn't get this speaker approved at all last spring, is objecting.

Paul R. Gingher, Columbus attorney and president of State Automobile Mutual Insurance Co., has been re-elected president of the American Automobile Association.

The organization, which represents 9.1 million member-motorists, made the selection at its annual meeting in San Francisco.

OSU Golf Coach Bob Kepler has resigned after 28 years as head pro and coach of the 36-hole University Golf Course. He will become pro at a country club in North Carolina.

Twenty-three freight cars of a Pennsylvania Railroad train were derailed near Weber-rd where the tracks parallel the North Freeway.

The tracks, still in use by "Pennsy," were recently sold to the N&W. No one was injured.

The annual convention of the Ohio Child Conservation Leagues met this week in Columbus under the theme, "Discovering New Worlds."

Columbus is only a "whoosh" from Miami. Eastern Airlines starts jet service on a daily basis from Columbus Oct. 31.

The state of Ohio has been dickering unsuccessfully for the Civic Center-dr land owned by the Temple of Good Will.

A state offer of $1,750,000 was turned down last week. The Temple Corp. will continue to negotiate, according to spokesmen. The state wants the land for an Ohio Historical Center.

"Sanitation Workers Arise." That was the call as some 300 of them gathered Friday afternoon to discuss a march on City Council to protest a new salary ordinance requiring them to work either Columbus Day or the following Saturday.

At council meeting Monday, the city attorney was directed to study the ordinance. There was no march and no indication whether or not the workers would work Tuesday or Saturday.

Board Chairman of the City National Bank, Everett D. Reese will spend the next month in Bangkok, Thailand, as an advisor on industrial and economic development for a Thailand bank.

Reese is donating his services through the International Executive Service Corps.

Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

The subject of cleaning coins is one of the most controversial encountered in numismatics. We believe it is permissable to clean a coin providing you know "how" and "when." Many valuable coins have been badly damaged by the inexperienced collector using improper methods or cleaning compounds. For this reason most handbooks discourage cleaning coins. Most people refuse to buy an improperly-cleaned coin. It can be damaged from abrasives (steel wool or kitchen cleansers) or from corrosives left on the coin because the cleaning preparation was not properly neutralized. The action from a cleaning preparation may cause discoloration or corrosion even weeks after the coin has been cleaned.

There are many who believe there is nothing more beautiful than a coin with the natural patina that results from time. We are inclined to agree. It will be found only on uncirculated coins that have been carefully protected from the elements. Coins that have not been protected are likely to look quite different — instead of the delicate patina, they may be badly tarnished.

The astute collector welcomes these coins. He can look through the tarnish and see the true condition of the coin. It is an accepted fact that many antique collectors and museums insist upon complete restoration of every item in their collections. Is it unreasonable to assume then that the serious numismatist would want the coins in his collection in the best possible state?

Before cleaning a coin, you must examine it to determine just what type of cleaning is required. There is no set of standards to go by. Experiment with common coins from circulation, never with rare ones.

There are several good textbooks available that are devoted to the details of coin-cleaning and preservation. Your professional coin dealer will be glad to offer suggestions; but, keeping in mind that each coin may require a slightly different approach, show him the coin in question so that the proper preparation can be recommended.

Public Hearing On Route Plans Dated

The Ohio Department of Highways proposes to reroute portions of four state and federal routes in Columbus and Franklin County.

A public hearing will be held at 9:30 a.m., Oct. 21, in the Ohio Departments Building, 65 S. Front-st.

The department will also propose that corresponding existing sections be abandoned and revert to the Franklin County road system where not overlapped by other state routes.

The route sections and their locations are as follows:

• SR 104 in Jackson and Franklin townships. Beginning at the intersection of Stringtown-rd and Jackson-pk, north to Frank-rd, east into Columbus to the intersection with US 23. The proposed rerouting will have a total length of 4.02 miles.

• US 23 in Columbus, northbound and southbound routes. Northbound lanes would be rerouted from S. High-st and Livingston-av, easterly to Fourth-st, north to Fulton-st, for a total of .32 mile.

Southbound lanes of US 23, beginning at Mound-st, would go south along Third-st to Fulton-st, west to S. High-st, and south to Livingston-av. Total length is .29 mile.

• Four sections of US 62 in Pleasant, Franklin and Jackson townships, Columbus, Grove City and Urbancrest would be rerouted.

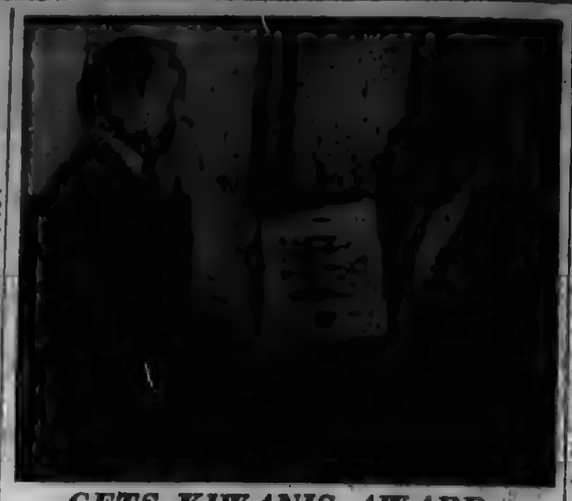
Rerouting on the first section would begin at the intersection with I-71, go northeasterly along Harrisburg-pk, through Grove City and Urbancrest to Central-av in Columbus, northerly along Central to Town-st, and east to Glenwood-av, for a total distance of 11.5 miles.

A northeast bound section of US 62 would be established beginning at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, southerly along Glenwood to Rich-st, east to Main, continuing along Main to Fourth-st. This portion would have a total length of 2.4 miles.

An alternate southwestbound section of the route would start at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, easterly along Town to Third-st, north to Broad-st, and east to Fourth-st, for a total of 2.08 miles.

Also, US 62 would be rerouted from Broad and Fourth-sts easterly along Broad to existing US 62 at Broad-st. Bridge over I-71. Length of this section is .81 mile.

• Four sections of SR 3 would also be rerouted. The first section would follow relocated US 62 from I-71 to Glenwood, and from Glenwood to Fourth-st.



At Fourth-st, SR 3 would turn north to Long-st, east to Cleveland-av and north to Spring-st.

An alternate SR 3 rerouting southwest would carry the route from Spring and Cleveland west to Third-st and south along Third to Town and west to Glenwood.

Two new routes are also proposed by highway officials. One, a SR 315 spur, would begin at the intersection of SR 315 ramps to Goodale-st, go easterly along Goodale, over the Olentangy River and end east of Neil-av at the exit ramp from I-71.

An unnumbered connector route between US 23 northbound and US 33 southbound is also proposed. This would begin at E. Long-st and N. Third, and continue east along E. Long to N. Front-st.

All interested persons are invited to attend the hearing.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ciation has been asked to investigate circumstances d a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demoe candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asson take action on what he termed "careless language ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following statet to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How- I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attorn professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was irman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher :

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me an advertisement of this type throws serious reflecupon the honor and dignity of our profession and I that an investigation should be made into this matand that the Bar Association should take a strong poin criticizing those who cast such disparaging comts.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call a public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap- on this advertisement and that an investigation uld be made as to whether any other attorneys had thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adv ment was submitted and approved by an attorney wh n advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than political propaganda. It involves an attack on our ial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not in advance of the ad placement that the reference wyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't my name was going to be used on any such thing

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ...ciation has been asked to investigate circumstances ...nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demo... candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso... on take action on what he termed "careless language ...ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ...ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is ...pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to ...hrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ...ection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall ... Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, ... Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following state... to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How... I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection ...meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attor... professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that ... been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's ...rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before ...public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was ...irman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher ...:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ...ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me ... an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec... upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I ... that an investigation should be made into this mat... and that the Bar Association should take a strong po... in criticizing those who cast such disparaging com...ts.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call ... public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap... on this advertisement and that an investigation ...ld be made as to whether any other attorneys had ...thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver...ment was submitted and approved by an attorney who ... advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee ... the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men ... are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as ...cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for ...solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ...hall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and ...has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court ... the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not ... in advance of the ad placement that the referenced ...wyers would be included.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Coumbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic condidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

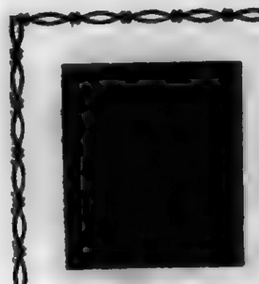
RESTAURANTS

... Elegant Dining and Excellent Cuisine from These Restaurants

The food service business in Ohio is one of the most important industries which directly serve the customers. When measured in terms of retail sales, it is the fourth largest business in the state. There are over 35,000 licensed food service establishments in Ohio alone.



In addition to size, the industry is also important for another reason. The health and well being of the millions of people who eat in restaurants daily, is affected by the food served. Our industry is, therefore a great public enterprise with serious obligations to the customer and communities it serves.

I consider it an honor and privilege to be associated with an industry that includes the fine restaurants listed on these pages and countless others in our great state of Ohio.

New Vistas Opening In Food Field

It takes a youthful spirit and a young mind to keep abreast of the rapid advances in today's world. And Harry Gormley, at 72, is more knowledgeable in the field of modern food than are the young homemakers whom he advises.

A retired army officer, he was associated with the business of food management for many years. The industry was intriguing to Mr. Gormley, and so it was in this direction that he turned for a hobby that would be both interesting and absorbing.

His research into modern convenience foods, and his constant correspondence with a lengthy list of about 30 food associations, has resulted in his brand new, altogether different recipes.

He shops himself and purchases all the new food products as they appear on the shelves. And at home he uses the items to devise new, distinctive recipes.

"The wonderful world of Ohio foods" has captured his interest, and he has created entire menus of dishes using only home-grown Ohio foods.

He has demonstrated his ingenuity by providing an entirely different menu each month for several years for the Retired Officers' Association monthly luncheon meeting. The hotel follows the menu and prepares the dishes according to his recipes.

"It's a never-ending job, keeping up with the new foods. Right now I'm researching all the packaged rice products — and there are so many.

"The hobby keeps me busy. I'm getting correspondence and monthly reports from food associations all over the country. I've become sort of a consultant," he said.

He's happiest when he's able to pass on some of his know-how, and regularly answers questions and often creates a new recipe to solve someone's problem.

He has shared some of his intriguingly different recipes with The Spectator Cookbook readers.

SWEETBREADS WITH WILD RICE

Portion: ½ pair sweetbreads. Recipe for 4 servings.

- 4 oz. wild rice, uncooked
- 2 prs. sweetbreads
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons or more white wine
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup mushrooms, sliced

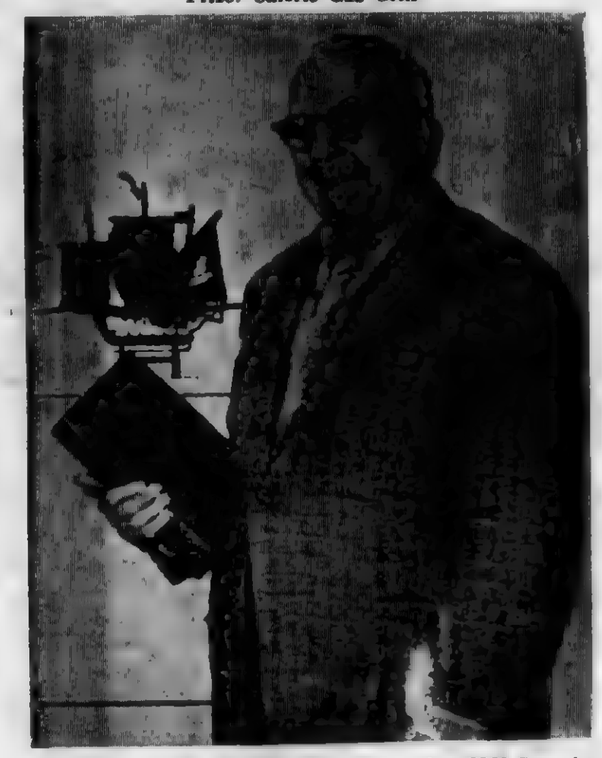
Wash rice. Cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and cook steadily for 25 minutes.

Drain, and dry rice in open kettle for a few minutes away from the heat. (Rice will remain light and fluffy if not stirred.)

Parboil sweetbreads. Remove outside tissue. Slice sweetbreads lengthwise.

In another saucepan make the sauce. Melt the butter, add the flour and blend well. Add milk. Cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly.

Add wine and sauteed mushrooms. Saute sweetbreads in 2 tablespoons butter.



Place a mound of hot rice on platter. Top with sweetbread slices. Pour wine sauce over all. Serve at once, garnished with parsley.

For variation, try "Village Inn" curry rice, herb rice or rice flamenco, available at grocers.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Coumbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

Ohio's First Lady Loves To Cook

Helen Rhodes Finds Time To Plan The Daily Meals

Although numerous activities keep her on the go, Helen Rhodes loves to cook.

Ohio's First Lady, wife of Gov. James A. Rhodes, Helen doesn't have as much time as she would like to spend in the kitchen, but she still plans the menus for every meal that is served.

Even when there are no guests for a luncheon or dinner, planning three meals a day is a king-size job. In addition to the Rhodes family, there are 10 house boys to be fed. But when there are several dozen dignitaries coming for dinner, Helen simply lifts the phone and "leaves the cooking to us" . . . the caterers that is.

For the past three months, Helen has been helping her new chef, adding her personal touch to special dishes. It seems her girls like mama's cooking and so Helen must inform the head cook that "the baked potatoes are not to be wrapped in foil."

One of Helen's favorite recipes is one called "Fool Proof Fudge." Her youngest daughter, Sherry, has used this recipe for several years and hasn't had a bad batch yet.

Another recipe, handed down from her mother, is for Corn Chowder. This dish takes very little time and should be useful to women who work away from home.

Chicken and Rice Caserole could become a Monday night "special" in many homes, as it makes good use of Sunday's leftover chicken.

While she loves to cook, there is another thing that Helen admits openly to. And that is, when it comes to washing dishes . . . she hates to!

CORN CHOWDER

1 stick butter	1 cup green peppers
2 cups onions (chopped)	2 cups milk
4 cups corn (cream style)	3 cups cream

Saute onions and butter together. Add cream corn, and milk. Add salt and seasoning. Salt to taste. Add green peppers and put in double boiler to cook. Add a little thickening.

CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE

1 cup cooked rice	1 cup chopped chicken (or more, if desired)
1 can undiluted cream of chicken soup	3 hard boiled eggs (chopped)
1 cup chopped celery	2 teaspoons grated onion
¾ cup salad dressing	Chopped mushrooms and pimento if desired

Sprinkle mixture with cracker crumbs and bake one hour at 350 degrees.

FOOL PROOF FUDGE

32 marshmallows	¼ lb. butter
¼ cup water	½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups granulated sugar	1½ 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate
1 6-oz. can evaporated milk

In top of double boiler, combine marshmallows and water and cook until marshmallows are completely dissolved. Stir occasionally.

In a large heavy saucepan combine sugar, butter, milk and salt. Bring to a rolling bubble over medium heat — continue boiling for eight minutes, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and stir in marshmallows and chocolate. Mix until thoroughly blended and pour into 8 x 12 in. buttered pan. Cool and cut into squares.

(If desired, add one cup chopped nuts before pouring into pan to cool)

Mrs. James A. Rhodes
First Lady of Ohio

WITH THE HELP of a cookbook, a woman's knowledge of cookery and his own 28 years experience, Mike Marcello can and does whip up a meal fit for a governor. This is a typical kitchen scene at the Governor's Mansion as Mrs. James A. Rhodes discusses daily menus with her chef.

"PINEAPPLE DELIGHT" SALAD

2 eggs	30 or 40 small marshmallows, cut up
2 tablespoons flour	½ cup chopped peanuts
1 can crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar

Cook eggs, flour, sugar and pineapple juice together. When thick, add pineapple, remove from stove and cool. Add marshmallows. Pour into dish, making alternate layers of mixture and chopped peanuts. Cool for at least one hour. May be used as salad or dessert.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ...sociation has been asked to investigate circumstances ...nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demo... candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso... on take action on what he termed "careless language ...ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ...ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is ...pletely uncalled for."

...Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to ...phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ...nection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall ... Committee supports only Republicans for office.

"A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, ... Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following statement to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. However, I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection is meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attorney's professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that ... been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's ...rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before the public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was ...rman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher ...:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ...ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me ... an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec... upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I ... that an investigation should be made into this mat... and that the Bar Association should take a strong po... in criticizing those who cast such disparaging com...ts.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call ... public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap... on this advertisement and that an investigation ...ld be made as to whether any other attorneys had ...thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver...ment was submitted and approved by an attorney who ... advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee ... the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men ... are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as ...ncil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for ...solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ...hall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and ... has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court ... the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than ... political propaganda. It involves an attack on our ...cial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not ... in advance of the ad placement that the reference ...wyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't ... my name was going to be used on any such thing

"Among all the dramatic and exciting stories of the modern Christian missionary enterprise, I predict that this will be one of the classics. Make a graham cracker crust as directed on the graham cracker crumb package. Line a deep pie pan. I prefer pyrex.

1 8-oz. package cream cheese
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sugar

Cream eggs, cheese, vanilla and sugar. Crumble cheese and blend slowly and smoothly. Add eggs, sugar and vanilla. Put in crust and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. After cool, sprinkle with cinnamon and the topping. Chill, serve with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY TOPPING

1 package (10-oz.) frozen strawberries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Pinch of salt

Thaw berries just enough to remove ½ cup juice. Heat juice. Add cornstarch which has been mixed with a little water. Cook until clear. Add sugar, lemon juice and salt. Fold into berries. Cool and cover the cheese cake. This cheese cake is also very good when topped with 1 cup Blueberry or Cherry pie filling which comes in a can.

MRS. M. E. SENSENBRENNER
Eating at home is a treat. . .

Official and public duties of a mayor are demanding, his schedule is hectic.

And Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's gracious wife, Mildred, has created a home of serenity and grace for those precious leisure hours of Columbus' chief executive.

"And on those very, very rare occasions that we eat at home it is very enjoyable," Mrs. Sensenbrenner said.

A quiet, leisurely meal at home is more of a rarity for the Sensenbrenners than a banquet is to most people.

"Everyone has favorite foods that aren't always found at banquets, and it's a very real pleasure for me to fix a favorite meal at home for just the two of us or for the whole family," Mrs. Sensenbrenner added.

And "family for dinner" for Columbus' first family means a lot of cooking. "We have eight grandchildren, and they are such a pleasure. Five of them are girls and this is fun because, having only two boys, we never had any little girls around the house."

Swiss steak has top listing as a family favorite. "Not that I do it any differently, but the family seems to find that mine tastes best," she laughed.

Sauerkraut is another favorite of the mayor. "And I suppose I cook swiss steak and sauerkraut more often than anything when we do eat at home," Mrs. Sensenbrenner concluded.

A first family favorite recipe was sent along to be included in The Spectator cookbook.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ciation has been asked to investigate circumstances nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Democ ic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso on take action on what he termed "careless language ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to hrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following statet to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How- I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attor- professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was rman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher :

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec- upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I that an investigation should be made into this mat- and that the Bar Association should take a strong po- in criticizing those who cast such disparaging com- ts.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call a public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap- on this advertisement and that an investigation ld be made as to whether any other attorneys had thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver- ent was submitted and approved by an attorney who advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of lehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than political propaganda. It involves an attack on our cial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not in advance of the ad placement that the referees wyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't my name was going to be used on any such thing

Mills Chef Started As Dishwasher

Twenty-nine years ago, Heeman Humphrey had a big decision to make.

He had a car and seven suits of clothes, but no food.

He finally landed a job in a hotel for $22 a week, which wasn't bad for the '30's, but he still found himself hungry each Wednesday until payday on Friday.

This young man, a former athlete with semi-pro teams, decided something had to be done about his poor eating schedule . . . so he applied for the pot washer's opening at Mills Restaurant.

Now his salary was only $12.50 a week, but Heeman could be assured of three meals a day, seven days a week.

Heeman was on his way up.

From pot washer, he was promoted to dishwasher and from there, he went on to meat cutting after attending night classes at OSU. Heeman got plenty of experience in the butcher shop and cooking in the Greenfield-Mills Restaurant chain. He worked in the local restaurant as well as the other restaurants in Ohio and Michigan.

Today, the once-hungry man cooks for hundreds weekly as chef at Mills Restaurant.

During his climb toward the top, Heeman took a bride, his high school sweetheart, Ethel. Ethel earned a bare $5 a week as a housemaid. While engaged, the couple scrimped and saved and finally purchased their furniture two years prior to their marriage.

Heeman has no regrets, and should be an inspiration to young men of today.

As Heeman puts it, "I've had a full life and a lot of fun. I got serious at the right time and stayed serious."

Mrs. William Ford, manager of the bake shop at Mills Restaurant submitted one of her favorite recipes.

Pineapple Cashew Cake

6 oz. butter
10 oz. sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs yolks
10 oz. buttermilk
1½ oz. Royal Scotch Baking Powder
½ C. milk
8 oz. crushed pineapple
3 eggs whites

Cream butter, sugar, salt and vanilla on machine. Add egg yolks in three portions and continue creaming. Remove from machine and continue process by hand. Sift flour and baking powder and add in three portions alternately with milk. Chop crushed pineapple and add to batter mixing until well combined. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into batter carefully but thoroughly. Pour on greased layer cake pan. Bake 330 degrees F. 25 minutes.

To Assemble Cake: Put cake together with five ounces Pineapple Cashew Icing between the layers and icing on top and sides. Sprinkle three and one-half ounces chopped, toasted cashew nuts on top and sides of cake.

Pineapple Cashew Icing

5½ oz. cashew nuts
½ oz. butter
11 oz. XXXX sugar
7 oz. sweet butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk
4 oz. crushed pineapple

Place nuts in a thin layer on baking sheet and toast in 350 degree F. oven for one hour, turning them over occasionally. Place in mixing bowl, add butter and sprinkle with salt and mix well. Let cool. Chop coarsely and shake in sifter to remove fine particles. Cream sugar, sweet butter and salt. Add egg yolk and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Add chopped crushed pineapple (do not drain) and continue creaming until well mixed. Allow five ounces icing between layers of Pineapple Cashew Cake and icing on top and sides. Sprinkle top and sides of cake with toasted cashew nuts.

DON'T TRY THIS unless you are an experienced as Heeman Humphrey, chef for 14 years at Mills Restaurant. With a flick of the wrist, Heeman sent his homefries flying without so much as a single bite escaping his skillet.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Coumbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic condidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

MARSHMALLOW FUDGE CAKE

Cut 3 squares of unsweetened chocolate into very fine pieces and place in large mixing bowl. Pour ¾ cup boiling water over the pieces and stir until chocolate is all melted. Cool the mixture slightly.

Sift together 1¾ cups sifted cake flour, 1½ cups granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon baking soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir into the chocolate mixture. Add ½ cup shortening and beat thoroughly until well combined and smooth. Stir in 2 unbeaten eggs, ¾ cup buttermilk and 1¾ teaspoons vanilla. Beat hard to mix thoroughly.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic condidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John M. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Coumbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic condidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

Firemen Deftly Switch Helmet For Chef Hat

Better to "switch them starve" — and firefighters, on their 56-hour duty stints, switch from helmets to chef hats to plan and cook huge, delicious meals and wash dishes with a proficiency that would astonish most of their wives.

"On duty" means just that for fire-fighters — for 56 hours they leave the firehouse only to answer alarms. And they learn soon, on their first turn as cooks, that it's best to plan food that can wait.

The alarm rings as often at mealtime as at any other hour.

Big meals in the firehouse are at noon, with food in quantity and quality to satisfy harvest hands — and firefighters. Breakfast is coffee and doughnuts, and there is usually enough left from noon for the evening meal.

Each man contributes 75 cents a day, or more if the budget doesn't stretch, and takes his week-long turn as cook.

"Some of them have never cooked before," said Whitehall Fire Chief Arthur Reddy, "but it's surprising how fast they learn.

"One man," he chuckled, "on the first day of his first turn as cook, simply bought cans of beef stew, opened them and dumped them in a pot hetoat. But he never tried that again — the men never let him forget it."

The chief added a favorite baking tip of his own, "Use chicken fat — you can buy it in a poultry store — for shortening in chocolate cake. It makes the best, richest chocolate cake you ever tasted."

Sometimes the cook is in an adventurous mood, and tries something different — like the baked oranges.

The firemen were a bit wary of these at first. "We couldn't figure out how to eat them," the chief explained, "and finally settled on forks. But they're just great," he said.

DEVILLED SALMON
(50 servings)

Mix and add:

Mix well, fill casseroles and top with one quart buttered crumbs. Bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees.

BAKED ORANGES

Wash oranges and grate skin slightly. Cover with water and boil 30 minutes. Drain and cool, cut off small slice from blossom end and remove core. Put one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon butter in center of each. Place in buttered baking dish, fill two-thirds full of water, cover and bake at 350 degrees for two hours.

MEAT CAKES and hash brown potatoes, fish, fresh green beans, corn, cole slaw and ice cream for dessert was the dinner menu of Whitehall Firefighter Dick Stoughton, taking his turn as cook for a week. A U.S. Navy cookbook for cooking in quantity is a favorite recipe source for the men.

BREADS

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

Pour warm water into a large bowl. Sprinkle the yeast over the water; add sugar and salt; stir to dissolve completely. Add egg, soft butter, and 3 cups of flour. With wooden spoon or electric mixer at medium speed beat very hard two minutes or until smooth. Gradually add 1 cup flour, beating hard after each addition. Using hands, work remaining 2 cups flour into the dough. Continue working dough with hands, until smooth and elastic. Brush top of the dough with melted butter; cover with a double thickness of plastic wrap or damp towel. Let the dough rise in refrigerator at least 2 hours or until double in bulk. Punch down dough and refrigerate. Store in refrigerator 1 to 3 days, punching it down once a day. Shape and bake (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Time varies with oven.

RYE BREAD

Heat buttermilk to warm (it will separate, but that is all right); sprinkle in yeast; stir to dissolve. Add molasses, shortening and caraway seeds. Mix salt and 3 kinds of flour together. Slowly add to milk mixture, beating well after each addition. Turn out on floured board; cover with inverted bowl; let rest 10 minutes. Remove bowl, knead dough until very smooth. Place in greased bowl, turn dough over to bring greased side up. Cover with clean cloth. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down dough, turn out on floured board, cut in half. Shape each half into a round loaf. Place on greased baking sheets, cover with damp towel. Let rise until doubled in bulk. With sharp knife slash a cross ¼ in. deep into top of each loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees), 50 to 60 minutes. Freezes very well. 1657 calories per loaf.

BUTTER-PECAN ROLLS

Soften active dry yeast in warm water or compressed yeast in lukewarm water. Combine hot milk, shortening, sugar and salt; cool to lukewarm.

Add 1 cup of flour; beat well. Beat in softened yeast and egg. Gradually add remaining flour to form a soft dough, beating well. Brush top lightly with soft shortening. Cover and let rise in a warm place till double (about 1½ hours). Punch down; let rest five minutes; turn out on lightly floured surface and divide dough in half. Roll each piece in 12x8 rectangle about ¼ in. thick.

Filling:

Brush each rectangle with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Combine ½ cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon; sprinkle half over each rectangle. Beginning with long side, roll each, jelly-roll fashion; seal edge. Cut each roll in eight 1½ in. slices.

Topping

In each of two 9½x5x3 in. metal loaf pans, mix ½ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine and 1 tablespoon light corn syrup. Heat slowly, stirring frequently till blended. Remove from heat. Sprinkle ½ cup pecans in each pan and top with 8 rolls, cut side down. Cover; let rise in warm place until double (about 35 to 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes or till done. Cool 2 or 3 minutes; invert on rack and remove pans. Makes 16 rolls.

FAVORITE DOUGHNUTS

Beat egg yolks well. Beat in sugar and shortening. Stir in milk. Measure flour by dip-level-pour method or by sifting. Blend dry ingredients; beat until smooth. Turn part onto generously floured cloth-covered board. Turn to lightly cover with flour. Roll gently one-third inch thick.

Place fat or oil (3 to 4 in. deep) for deep fat frying in a heavy kettle or deep fat fryer. Heat to 370 to 380 degrees (a cube of bread browns in fat in 60 seconds).

Cut dough with floured sharp doughnut cutter. Take board close to kettle to transfer. Lift with spatula; slide quickly into hot fat. Fry as many at a time as can be turned easily. Turn doughnuts as they rise to surface. Fry 2 to 3 minutes total, or just until golden brown. Lift from fat with long fork. Do not prick. Drain on absorbent paper in warm place. Serve plain, sugared, or glazed. Makes 3 doz. 3 in. doughnuts.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ...ciation has been asked to investigate circumstances ...nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demo...ic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso...ion take action on what he termed "careless language ...ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ...ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is ...pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to ...phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ...lection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall ... Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, ...a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following state... to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How... I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection ...meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attor...'s professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that ... been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's ...rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before ...public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was ...rman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher ...:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ...ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me ... an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec... upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I ... that an investigation should be made into this mat... and that the Bar Association should take a strong po... criticizing those who cast such disparaging com...

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call ... public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap... on this advertisement and that an investigation ...ld be made as to whether any other attorneys had ...thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver...ent was submitted and approved by an attorney who ... advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee ...the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men ...are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as ...cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for ...solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ...hall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and ...has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court ...the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than ... political propaganda. It involves an attack on our ...al process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not ... in advance of the ad placement that the reference ...yers would be included.

"I know nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't ...w my name was going to be used on any such thing.

The route sections and their locations are as follows:

• SR 104 in Jackson and Franklin townships. Beginning at the intersection of Stringtown-rd and Jackson-pk, north to Frank-rd, east into Columbus to the intersection with US 23. The proposed rerouting will have a total length of 4.02 miles.

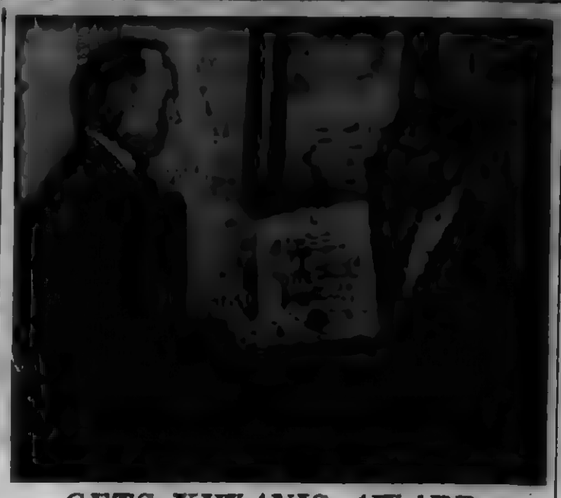
A northeast bound section of US 62 would be established beginning at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, southerly along Glenwood to Rich-st, east to Main, continuing along Main to Fourth-st. This portion would have a total length of 2.4 miles.

An alternate southwestbound section of the route would start at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, easterly along Town to Third-st, north to Broad-st, and east to Fourth-st, for a total of 2.08 miles.

Also, US 62 would be rerouted from Broad and Fourth-sts easterly along Broad to existing US 62 at Broad-st. Bridge over I-71. Length of this section is .81 mile.

• Four sections of SR 3 would also be rerouted. The first section would follow relocated US 62 from I-71 to Glenwood, and from Glenwood to Fourth-st.



At Fourth-st, SR 3 would turn north to Long-st, east to Cleveland-av and north to Spring-st.

An alternate SR 3 rerouting southwest would carry the route from Spring and Cleveland west to Third-st and south along Third to Town and west to Glenwood.

Two new routes are also proposed by highway officials. One, a SR 315 spur, would begin at the intersection of SR 315 ramps to Goodale-st, go easterly along Goodale to the Olentangy[illegible] east of Nel[illegible] ramp from I-

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

WARRINGTON CHERRY SQUARES

Base:

½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups rolled oats — (either kind) uncooked
½ cup brown sugar — packed

Filling:

1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits water (see below)
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup red maraschino cherry halves or slices
½ cup coarsely cut pecans
1 cup cream for whipping

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter as oven heats. Use 9 in. square pan. Set pan out of oven and stir rolled oats and brown sugar into butter. Mix well with a fork.

Bake mixture about 10 minutes. Take out ½ cup of mixture and set aside. Pack rest firmly into baking dish or pan. Cool.

For filling:

Drain pineapple, and to the juice add enough water to make 1 cup liquid. Combine this liquid with the gelatin, sugar and salt. Let stand five minutes for gelatin to soften, then heat almost to boiling and stir to make sure gelatin and sugar have dissolved. Cool slightly. Add pineapple tidbits, cherries and pecans.

Chill until just beginning to thicken. Whip cream and fold into gelatin mixture. Pour over crumb base. Sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture. Cover with foil or waxed paper and chill in refrigerator until firm, or freeze. Cut into squares to serve. Makes 9 squares.

For a Christmas dessert use red and green marashino cherries.

For St. Patrick dessert use all green.

For Valentine, Washington's birthday, etc., use all red.

The long cooking kind of rolled oats makes a coarser, nuttier tasting base.

If you freeze this, take it out of the freezer a few minutes before you plan to serve it.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ...ciation has been asked to investigate circumstances ...nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by ... Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demo...ic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso...ion take action on what he termed "careless language ...ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ...ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is ...pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to ...phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ...ection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall ...t Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, ...a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following state...t to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How..., I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection ... meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attor...'s professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that ...e been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's ...rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before ...public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was ...irman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher ...:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ...ity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me ... an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec... upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I ... that an investigation should be made into this mat... and that the Bar Association should take a strong po... in criticizing those who cast such disparaging com...ts.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call ... public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap... on this advertisement and that an investigation ...ld be made as to whether any other attorneys had ...thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver...ment was submitted and approved by an attorney who ... advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee ... the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men ... are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as ...cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for ...solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ...lehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and ... has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court ... the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than ... political propaganda. It involves an attack on our ...ial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not ... in advance of the ad placement that the reference ...wyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't ... my name was going to be used on any such thing.

Public Hearing On Route Plans Dated

The Ohio Department of Highways proposes to reroute portions of four state and federal routes in Columbus and Franklin County.

A public hearing will be held at 9:30 a.m., Oct. 21, in the Ohio Departments Building, 65 S. Front-st.

The department will also propose that corresponding existing sections be abandoned and revert to the Franklin County road system where not overlapped by other state routes.

The route sections and their locations are as follows:

• SR 104 in Jackson and Franklin townships. Beginning at the intersection of Stringtown-rd and Jacksonpk, north to Frank-rd, east into Columbus to the intersection with US 23. The proposed rerouting will have a total length of 4.02 miles.

• US 23 in Columbus, northbound and southbound routes. Northbound lanes would be rerouted from S. High-st and Livingston-av, easterly to Fourth-st, north to Fulton-st, for a total of .32 mile.

Southbound lanes of US 23, beginning at Mound-st, would go south along Third-st to Fulton-st, west to S. High-st, and south to Livingston-av. Total length is .29 mile.

• Four sections of US 62 in Pleasant, Franklin and Jackson townships, Columbus, Grove City and Urbancrest would be rerouted.

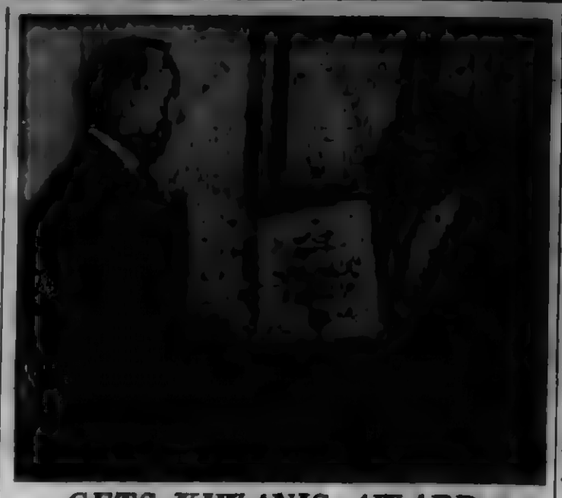
Rerouting on the first section would begin at the intersection with I-71, go northeasterly along Harrisburg-pk, through Grove City and Urbancrest to Central-av in Columbus, northerly along Central to Town-st, and east to Glenwood-av, for a total distance of 11.5 miles.

A northeast bound section of US 62 would be established beginning at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, southerly along Glenwood to Rich-st, east to Main, continuing along Main to Fourth-st. This portion would have a total length of 2.4 miles.

An alternate southwestbound section of the route would start at the intersection of Town and Glenwood, easterly along Town to Third-st, north to Broad-st, and east to Fourth-st, for a total of 2.08 miles.

Also, US 62 would be rerouted from Broad and Fourth-sts easterly along Broad to existing US 62 at Broad-st. Bridge over I-71. Length of this section is .81 mile.

• Four sections of SR 3 would also be rerouted. The first section would follow relocated US 62 from I-71 to Glenwood, and from Glenwood to Fourth-st.



At Fourth-st, SR 3 would turn north to Long-st, east to Cleveland-av and north to Spring-st.

An alternate SR 3 rerouting southwest would carry the route from Spring and Cleveland west to Third-st and south along Third to Town and west to Glenwood.

Two new routes are also proposed by highway officials. One, a SR 315 spur, would begin at the intersection of SR 315 ramps to Goodale-st, go easterly along Goodale to the Olentangy[illegible] east of Nei[illegible] ramp from I-

MAIN DISH

CHICKEN WITH PECAN PILAF
(Recipe for 8 servings)

2 3½ lb. frying chickens, cut up
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon tarragon
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups chicken broth
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 tablespoon [illegible]
6 cups hot cooked rice
1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 lb. mushrooms

Garnish with mandarin oranges and green grapes in clusters.

Note: Chicken may be prepared the night before. Refrigerate chicken and sauce (combined in baking dish) until about 1 hour and 20 minutes before you plan to serve it. Bake according to directions, allowing another 10 to 15 minutes longer.

Mix flour with seasoned salt and tarragon. Coat chicken pieces with mixture and let dry a few minutes. Save remaining flour mixture. Melt 3 tablespoons butter (or margarine) in large skillet. Saute a few pieces of chicken at a time on both sides until golden brown. Transfer to baking pan. Add mushrooms to skillet and cook a few minutes to brown lightly. Spoon this over chicken. Add remaining butter (or margarine) to skillet. Stir in ¼ cup of the reserved seasoned flour. Add the chicken broth and bouillon cube.

Cook, stirring, until smooth and thickened. Add curacao. Pour this sauce over chicken and mushrooms. Cover tightly with foil. Bake until tender, about 1 hour, in a slow oven, 325 degrees.

For pecan Pilaf, toss hot rice with the pecans. Taste for seasoning and adjust.

To serve, arrange chicken pieces on a bed of the Pecan Pilaf, spoon a little sauce over all and .... the rest.

For variation, use prepared herb rice, saffron rice, curry rice or rice flamenco. These are available at grocers with gourmet foods.

This recipe may be adjusted for fewer or more servings.

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Coumbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic condidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

ROLLED CHICKEN WASHINGTON

½ finely chopped fresh mushrooms or 1 2-oz. can (¾ cup) broiled chopped mushrooms, drained
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ cup light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1½ cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
6 or 7 boned whole chicken breasts
All-purpose flour
2 slightly beaten eggs
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs

For cheese filling: Cook mushrooms in butter, about 5 minutes. Blend in flour; stir in cream. Add salt and cayenne; cook and stir until mixture becomes very thick. Stir in cheese; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Turn mixture into pie plate. Cover; chill thoroughly about 1 hour. Cut the firm cheese mixture into 6 or 7 equal portions. Shape it into short sticks.

If not already done, remove skin from chicken breasts. To make cutlets, place each piece of chicken, boned side up, between two pieces of plastic wrap. (Overlap meat where chicken breast is split.) Working out from the center, pound with wood mallet to form cutlets not quite ¼ in. thick. Peel off wrap (or ask your meat man to flatten the chicken breasts for you.). Sprinkle meat with salt.

Place a cheese stick on each chicken breast. Tucking in the sides, roll chicken as for jelly-roll. Press to seal well.

Dust the chicken rolls with flour; dip in slightly beaten egg, then roll in fine dry bread crumbs. Cover and chill chicken rolls thoroughly, at least 1 hour (or fix ahead when entertaining. The rolls can chill all afternoon or overnight). About an hour before serving time, fry rolls in deep hot fat (375 degrees) 5 minutes or until crisp and golden brown; drain on paper towels. Place rolls in shallow baking dish and bake in slow oven (325 degrees) about 30 to 40 minutes. Serve on warm platter; trim with spiced grapes. Makes 6 or 7 servings.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar ...ociation has been asked to investigate circumstances ...nd a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by ... Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Demo...ic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Asso...ion take action on what he termed "careless language ...ich) is a definite reflection upon our profession and ...ich) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is ...pletely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to ...phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in ...nection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall ...t Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, ...a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following state...t to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. How...r, I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection ...meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attor...'s professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that ...e been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's ...rd as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before ...public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was ...irman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher ...:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and ...nity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me ...t an advertisement of this type throws serious reflec...upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I ...that an investigation should be made into this mat...and that the Bar Association should take a strong po...in criticizing those who cast such disparaging com...ks.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call ...a public repudiation by the attorneys whose names ap...on this advertisement and that an investigation ...uld be made as to whether any other attorneys had ...thing to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this adver...ment was submitted and approved by an attorney who ...n advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee ...the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men ...are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as ...cil president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for ...solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of ...tehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and ...has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court ...the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than ...political propaganda. It involves an attack on our ...ial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not ...in advance of the ad placement that the reference ...wyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't ...my name was going to be used on any such thing

AN EDITORIAL

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar Association has been asked to investigate circumstances behind a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by the Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Democratic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Association take action on what he termed "careless language which) is a definite reflection upon our profession and which) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is completely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to the phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in connection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall First Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following statement to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. However, I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection is meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attorney's professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that have been made with reference to Walter H. Moling's record as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before the public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was chairman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher said:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and dignity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me that an advertisement of this type throws serious reflection upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I feel that an investigation should be made into this matter and that the Bar Association should take a strong position criticizing those who cast such disparaging comments.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call for a public repudiation by the attorneys whose names appear on this advertisement and that an investigation should be made as to whether any other attorneys had anything to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this advertisement was submitted and approved by an attorney who is an advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee that the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men who are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as council president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for city solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of Whitehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and that has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court and the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than a political propaganda. It involves an attack on our judicial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not know in advance of the ad placement that the reference to lawyers would be included.

"I know nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't know my name was going to be used on any such thing

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Haytcher Protests GOP Ad

By FRANK RYAN

The Legal Ethics Committee of the Columbus Bar Association has been asked to investigate circumstances behind a political advertisement placed in The Spectator by the Whitehall First Committee.

Whitehall City Attorney Paul J. Haytcher, the Democratic candidate for mayor, requested that the Bar Association take action on what he termed "careless language which) is a definite reflection upon our profession and which) places lawyers in a very unfavorable light and is completely uncalled for."

Haytcher called attention of the Bar Association to the phrase "Don't Be Fooled By Lawyer Talk," used in connection with the political ad. The sponsoring Whitehall First Committee supports only Republicans for office.

A central figure in the controversy is J. Craig Wright, also a Whitehall attorney. Wright gave the following statement to The Spectator.

"Mr. Haytcher is an able and respected lawyer. However, I think he would make a poor mayor. No reflection was meant to be made on Haytcher's or any other attorney's professional status.

"We meant to draw attention to the distortions that have been made with reference to Walter B. Moling's record as mayor of our city, and to put the facts before the public. Mr. Haytcher knows perfectly well that I was chairman of the committee which drafted the ad."

In his letter to the Legal Ethics Committee, Haytcher said:

"The Canons of Legal Ethics teach us that honor and dignity of the profession are to be upheld. It seems to me that an advertisement of this type threws serious reflection upon the honor and dignity of our profession and I feel that an investigation should be made into this matter and that the Bar Association should take a strong position criticizing those who cast such disparaging comments.

"I further feel that the Bar Association should call for a public repudiation by the attorneys whose names appear on this advertisement and that an investigation should be made as to whether any other attorneys had anything to do with the preparation of the copy.

"It has been called to my attention that this advertisement was submitted and approved by an attorney who was an advisor to the Republican mayoralty candidate."

Haytcher pointed out to the Bar's Ethics Committee that the advertisement advocated the candidacy of two men who are lawyers, Walter J. Siemer, seeking re-election as council president, and James Maxwell, Jr., candidate for city solicitor.

Haytcher's letter also commented that the mayor of Whitehall is also an officer of the (mayor's) court, and that he has an obligation to maintain the dignity of the court and the administration of justice."

He concluded by saying:

"Consequently, the problem involved is more than a political propaganda. It involves an attack on our judicial process."

Attorney Siemer told The Spectator that he did not know in advance of the ad placement that the references to lawyers would be included.

"I knew nothing at all about it," he said. "I didn't know my name was going to be used on any such thing

Vote A Split Ticket Nov. 2 For Columbus Progress

To insure the continued and orderly growth of the City of Columbus, The Spectator Newspapers urge voters to split their tickets Nov. 2.

We support for election to city council the three Democratic candidates—M. D. Portman, Donald L. Woodland and James L. Baumann.

Their election would give Democratic Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner the necessary four to three vote margin in council to carry out his administration's programs — stymied now because of Republican obstructionism.

To balance Democratic control of council and the mayor's office, The Spectator urges the re-election of Republicans John C. Young as city attorney and John H. Price as city auditor.

The Spectator Newspapers honestly believe that these recommendations are in the best interests of all of the residents of Columbus, regardless of party affiliation.

The three incumbent Republican city councilmen can offer no convincing arguments for their retention. Republican Council President William R. Fornof has shown repeatedly bad judgment regarding the city's financial affairs and has used council chambers as a stage for his own political ambitions to become mayor.

His colleagues, Republicans Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, both serving by appointment, have shown they are willing pawns in Fornof's game, demonstrating talents only as end men, rather than as responsible legislators.

The Democrats seeking to unseat Attorney Young and Auditor Price have made no real case to warrant replacing tried-and-experienced public servants with potential political talent.

Both Democrats Albert L. Bell and Hugh J. Dorrian, respectively, seeking the city attorney's and auditor's posts, are young enough to try again in some future campaign.

The next two years will be critical years for Columbus, years during which the best of administrative and legislative abilities will be tested on such issues as sewer financing, urban renewal and waste disposal. These are problems which daily affect all residents of Columbus and which should be met without the expensive delay of political wrangling.

Few persons doubt Mayor Sensenbrenner's devotion to the City of Columbus for whose growth he should be in part justly credited. Given a working margin in council, with the checks and balances provided by an opposition party city attorney and city auditor, Mayor Sensenbrenner will have no whipping boy should he fail to give Columbus the type of progressive government it deserves as Ohio's fastest growing city.

Help your city get the government it deserves. Put aside party and vote a split ticket Nov. 2.

County Will No Longer Make State Plumbing Inspections

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

The Franklin County Board of Health — a long - time agent for state plumbing inspections — flushed the practice Tuesday rather than get involved in legal entanglements.

Assistant Health Commissioner Howard Reynolds said that the county would "no longer represent the state" in plumbing inspections. The surprise decision was reached in a meeting held Tuesday morning.

The Spectator learned of instances where plumbers were being charged double for the inspections.

In Grove City, for example, Building Inspector Vernal Jenkins said he inspected a Kroger store there and that the county, then representing the state, failed to recognize Jenkins' authority and allegedly made the plumber pay for a county-state inspection.

Ohio's Chief Plumbing Inspector John Lewis would make no comment on the overlapping of fees. He said he knew of no such practices.

Reynolds added that his department would continue to make county inspections when necessary.

Final Urban Renewal Bus Caravan To Include View Of East Side

It's The Big Roundup Before Election

A caravan of buses with police escort will roll through south and east sections of Columbus next Tuesday morning, Oct. 26.

It will highlight the "week-before-the-election" windup to the $6 million urban development bond issue campaign.

The tour will be centered around Lockbourne Industrial Park in Southeast Columbus with airplane rides over the park during the "leg-stretcher" and refreshment break hosted by W. A. Storing, Inc. first tenant on the industrial facility developed by Owen Dickerson of the Dickerson Shoe Co.

The caravan will load at Capital University at 9:15 a.m. with faculty wives from both Capital and OSU, East and South Side realtors, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant women and others interested in seeing the "big picture" of urban development.

The itinerary includes Berwick Shopping Center, the Southerly Seweage Treatment plant, Williams-rd storm sewer construction, Inland Products, possible sites for the proposed $1.6 million satellite airport, Port Columbus, North American Aviation, the site of a recreation center on the books near Blackburn School, German Village, six federally-assisted urban renewal areas and typical residential areas including Bexley, Whitehall and Brentnell.

Schools Ponder De Facto

A new facet was added to the many-sided de facto segregation issue in Columbus Schools at the Board of Education meeting when an officer of NAACP, who is also a teacher at Eastwood School, questioned that perhaps it was not wholly the schools' responsibility to racially balance the city schools.

"Some of us (in NAACP) feel that housing might be the answer," said Mrs. Rowland White, executive board member of NAACP, "and, if this is the solution, the school board couldn't be expected to bring this about (changing housing patterns)."

NAACP and Columbus CORE leaders have firmly placed the school board and administration as responsible for correcting de facto, and insist that they devise some means for racially balancing the schools.

A statement by Superintendent Dr. Harold Elbling that a detailed response to Civil Rightists' recent requests was being prepared, and that a Council on Intercultural Education would be activated, was met with approval by Rev. Arthur Zebbs, coordinator of CORE.

GOP Council Candidates Upstage Columbus C of C, Woodland Says

Republican incumbent council candidates were accused, Tuesday, of trying to upstage the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce in forming a Community Improvement Corporation for Columbus.

The charge was made by Democratic Council candidate Donald L. Woodland in a talk before Chamber of Commerce members. Woodland, and fellow Democratic council candidates James L. Baumann and M. D. Portman were invited to address the chamber members.

The three Republican candidates will meet with the chamber next Tuesday.

Woodland assailed a news release issued by the Republicans saying in part:

"In order to assist industries we urge the formation of a Columbus Improvement Corporation as suggested by the Ohio Department of Development so that every avenue to attract industry is available without additional cost to the taxpayers."

Woodland told the chamber members:

"I dare say their release was more familiar to you than to almost anyone else who read it. I have learned that your organization was instrumental—if not responsible—for formation of the Columbus Area Growth Foundation (CAGF) incorporated more than two years ago.

"I learned that the CAGF

Bexley - Maryland Children Welcome Louis Slobodkin

Louis Slobodkin, famed author and illustrator of children's books, winner of the national Caldecott Award for co-authoring and illustrating the James Thurber book, "Many Moons," will be the guest of the Bexley-Maryland Elementary School today according to Mrs. Samuel E. Ingwersen, PTA president.

Slobodkin, noted sculptor and painter, is coming to the Bexley school to highlight and celebrate "Slobodkin Day," the culmination of a project begun through a library program. Slobodkin will meet with 400 youngsters and parents in two sessions during the day.

His visits highlights an extensive project in which each class in the school, grades, kindergarten through sixth, has been involved for the past two and a half months. Youngsters have been illustrating and creating different presentations that commemorate one of the author's many books.

Sixth graders of Mrs. Mildred Holmes will present a six by six foot newspaper to the author that depicts the many activities which have gone into the preparation of his visit. The visit, sponsored by the Bexley-Maryland PTA, will have parents sitting in with their youngsters when the author gives one of his famed illustrated chalk-talks.

Slobodkin will be a featured speaker at the third grade section of the Central Ohio Teachers Association luncheon at the Desert Inn on Friday, Oct. 22.

"THE UP-AND-INNERS need God just as much as the down-and-outers," said Mrs. Eleanor Searly Whitney as she addressed a group in Washington, D.C. Seen in the photo are President Johnson and Lady Bird.

Kansas Man Speaks Here

Duane Service

Rev. J. Darrel Handel of Prairie Village, Kan., evangelist and Bible conference speaker, will be the guest speaker at Faith Bible Church, 780 Westphal-av, Oct. 24-31.

Rev. Handel, for 12 years, was the associate evangelist to Dr. Theodore Epp of the "Back to the Bible" broadcast. He was assistant pastor to Dr. Walter L. Wilson, noted Bible teacher, and for the past eight years has pastored in the Kansas City area.

Duane Service, host pastor, will welcome the public.

IF YOU LOVE HIM

'Don't Keep God A Secret'

By JANET MICHAEL

If ever there was a female counterpart to Billy Graham, Mrs. Eleanor Searly Whitney is it.

She is dynamic, loving, gracious, warm and sincere. And like Billy Graham, she has eyes that generate all these traits. Even is she were mute, you could tell that Mrs. Whitney was a Christian, just by looking at her.

But Mrs. Whitney is not mute. In fact she has a beautiful voice. Whether singing or speaking, she conveys the message, "Ye must be born again."

Mrs. Whitney was in Columbus last week and spoke before 350 women on Friday at the Columbus-Sheraton Motor Hotel. She was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Leckie, who held the coffee in her honor.

Mrs. Whitney, born in Plymouth, O., and now living in New York, was converted during a Billy Graham Crusade eight years ago.

"Oh, I was a good church worker before that," she contends. "There were rummage sales and bake sales. You name it—I was raising money for it."

That was before she was born again. That is what Mrs. Whitney calls "Sitting Bull Christianity." "You just sit and shoot the bull about religion," she said.

Mrs. Whitney, a four generation Lutheran, is also a very wealthy woman. And for those who don't believe that the wealthy make good heaven material, Mrs. Whitney will tell you that "God wants some chic Christians."

"Do you remember the hour and the day you became a Christian?" Mrs. Whitney asked as she looked over her audience. "Not everyone does. I do because it was during the crusade. But some people have an 'onion skin' religion . . . understanding and truth peals off a little at a time."

Mrs. Whitney, who was married for 18 years to Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, has a 16-year-old son, Cornelius. She has owned a dozen houses, yachts, shooting lodges . . . she has lost her husband through divorce and her daughter and mother by death.

Mrs. Whitney knows that her love of God has seen her through her trials. "When a rich woman gets her finger slammed by a door it hurts just as much as a poor person's does."

Urging the women present to start Bible classes in their homes and their places of business, Mrs. Whitney said that their friends might call them "religious nuts," at first. "Just remember though," she added, 'the mighty Oak is just a fallen nut that took root."

Mrs. Whitney concluded her talk with a statement that gave the women something to thing about as they returned to their husbands and families . . . "there is a God-shaped vacuum in every heart."

GUEST PULPIT

'KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES'

The other day an automobile salesman said to me, "Why will people with little or average income strive so hard to squander it on the most showy type of merchandise? Why can't they look ahead and see that they and their mate will be nervous wrecks quarreling when the next payment is due?"

The simplest answer is that this indicates "ego hunger." People want to feel important and accepted. This is a universal desire of mankind. The average person feels somewhat inferior in educational, cultural and social standing, so he wants to move into a higher social stratum. He thinks to himself, "If I drive as swanky an auto as the banker does, or if my wife wears as ritzy a fur coat as does my employer's wife, then people will notice me and think I am a big shot." What a fallacy!

Swift

This is a materialistic, secular age in which we live. People want more luxury, leisure and laughter. They want more pleasure, personal comfort and painless everything. The sad fact is that even with all of this, there is less real satisfaction and happiness. They crave more, get more, expect more, but are content less.

The Bible tells us, "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silved; nor he that loveth abundance, with increase." (Ecclesiastes 5:10).

Yes, this is a greedy, grabby, grumbling society that values friendship on the basis of the dollar, what people can do for me, how does it look to be seen with these people? They worship Almighty Dollar . . . but not Amighty God!

The Christian should not be guilty of trying to keep up with the Joneses in more luxury, leisure and lasciviousness, because he has a different standard. The ego-hungerer has his mind centered on the "here and now," not on the "then and there" as does the Christian. He lives for the temporary and the trivial, not the eternal and the elevating like the Christian.

The Christian will use his time, talent and treasure for God and His work of bringing this world back to God through a life not inconsistent with what his lips profess, and not compromising his beliefs just to be accepted and popular and keep up with the Joneses.

A Christian is a God-pleaser, not a man-pleaser. Instead of trying to "keep up with the Joneses," why not try to keep with Jesus? And then others will want to have what you have as a Christian and try to keep up with you!

Rev. Donald D. Swift, pastor
Mifflin Presbyterian Church.

Local Junior High Students Enjoy Saturday Field Trip

Members of Laurence A. Myers American and Ohio History classes took a field trip Saturday to tour the 175th centennial celebration of the landing of the French at Gallipolis.

About 204 Reynoldsburg Junior High students, teachers and parents left Saturday morning in four school buses. Along the route they saw Lancaster, Logan, Nelsonville, Athens and Pomeroy. The tour stopped at the museum and battle grounds at Point Pleasant and arrived in time to eat lunch in the Gallipolis Methodist Church.

The group visited the Our House Museum and watched the central parade then took a planned historical tour of the city, witnessing the winners of the "Kangaroo Court," (the awarding of first place honors for the special 14 different French type mustaches and beards grown by residents for the affair.

They also took a trip down the river to the Roller Dam and saw the grave of Anne Bailey. They returned to the church for their evening meal and had reserved seats for the pageant of the "French 500 Landing," featuring residents dressed in original costumes of the area. They also enjoyed a band concert and fireworks during the program. Held up by fog, they arrived home shortly after midnight.

Myers had arranged to keep a committee busy there for reservations and food, etc., for the large group. The sheriff met the buses and escorted them into town. The chief of police arranged for an escort and furnished information on the tours. Myers even had a doctor and a nurse on call in the event of illness. All this for only $4 per person.

Hope Springs Eternal For Gahanna, Whitehall

Hawks, Vikings, Lions Win; Gahanna, Whitehall 11s Lose

By BOB WHITMAN

Area football prestige dropped last weekend with only three elevens—Hartley, Academy, and Bexley — escaping defeat.

Hartley dropped Lima Central, 22-6. Upper Arlington proved to be too much for Whitehall, 13-6. Bexley rocked Urbana, 16-14; Linden surprised Eastmoor, 16-6; East took its lumps from Canton McKinley, 28-8; Brookhaven spilled Walnut Ridge, 30-6; Hilliard shocked Gahanna, 13-6, and Academy bested Canal Winchester, 34-14.

POWERFUL ARLINGTON assured itself of at least a title tie in the Central Buckeye League last Friday night, but not without some tense minutes.

It took the talented Golden Bears almost 47 minutes before they could relax and chalk up their 16th straight victory.

GUS CRIM sparked the winning drive with three carries within the 12, finally busting over from the one for the winning margin.

Whitehall scored the game's first TD with 5:45 remaining in the second period on a floating pass from quarterback Mike Allen to Mike Fleming.

The Golden Bears had two shots at Fleming, but the tricky halfback eluded them.

Allen attempted to throw for the extra point but quick Arlington defenders batted his pass away.

WHITEHALL never gave up its fight, for when Allen tossed another pass to Fleming it was momentarily intercepted. Fleming, however, grabbed it back from the Arlington safetyman for a key Whitehall first down.

Both of Arlington's tallies came in the waning minutes of each half. Crim scored the first touchdown with 45 seconds showing in the first half, but had to bust against Whitehall's line three times from the one yard line before scoring.

On the last Arlington drive, the Golden Bears alternated Skeet Hopkins and quarterback Chip Neale with slams to the right of the Rams' line.

THE TWOSOME brought the ball from their own 31 to Whitehall's 12 before they turned the running chores over to Crim.

Whitehall picked up 107 yards on the ground and 128 by the airlanes, while Arlington rushed for 146 yards and gained only 41 through the air.

BEXLEY SCORED all of its points in the first period to drop Urbana, 16-14.

The Lions were plagued with fumbles, losing four to the Hillclimbers, but the first period's output was enough of a leg to stand on.

Paul Davis scampered for a 10-yard touchdown and Rick Weber plunged over from the one-yard line. It was Weber's two conversions that spelled the difference for the Blue Lions.

HILLIARD PULLED the mighty Gahanna Lion down Friday night, but had to fight off the rushes of Dave Belli to do it. Belli picked up 123 of Gahanna's 162 yards.

It took the Wildcats until the fourth period to figure out the Gahanna defense, but once the problem was solved it was "Katie-bar-the-door."

Dave Walker raced to the six-yard line on an 80-yard pass play to set up the first Hilliard score. Pete Miller banged over from the six a play later.

WALKER WASN'T through with the heroics by any means. He stole a pass and the game from Gahanna later in the fourth period and scampered 20 yards for the night's final tally.

Paul Viet scored the lone Gahanna tally in the third period on a 12-yard run.

BROOKHAVEN TURNED six Walnut Ridge fumbles into another City League success as the Scots were symied until the fourth period when they scored.

The Bearcats showed spark early on a 78-yard play from Steve Campbell to Mike Polaski in the first quarter.

The stingy, hard-hitting Brookhaven defense held until midway through the final period. The Scots put together a 90-yard drive climaxed by Roger McElroy's 17-yard pass to Rick Houchen.

VIKING NEIL Larrimer charged over Canal Winchester with a pair of scores en route to scalping the Indians 34-14, Larrimer had a five and a 52-yard run.

Herb Lape tossed a 40-yard TD pass to Steve Mahaffey, and Al Unetic plunged over from the one for the other Viking tally.

Canton McKinley dropped East, 28-8. Paul Smith scored the lone Tiger tally plunging over from the one.

JOE BARNETT buzzed to the 12-yard line following a 74-yard tour of Canton's stadium, but time ran out before the Tigers could score.

The returning old grads at Hartley's fifth homecoming watched speed merchant Mike Cunningham reel off two long touchdown runs of 65 and 71 yards to boost the Hawks' record to a best-ever 5-1 mark.

CUNNINGHAM, a slick junior halfback, buzzed through the Lima Central Defense for 172 yards on eight carries.

His first score, the 65 yarder, came on the second play of the game. Later he gave Hartley a 22-0 edge going into the final frame with a 71-yard break-away with 8:21 showing in the third period.

Hartley picked up 281 rushing yards compared to Lima's

NOT QUITE—Whitehall end Tom Kleinlue (89) almost snagged this first quarter sideline pass from quarterback Mike Allen but UA defender Jim McKenzie helped make matters tough and the ball fell incomplete.

Little Bucks Win Fourth

The Little Buckeyes won their fourth straight game in Ohio Valley Conference play Lockbourne Skyhawks, 46-0, last weekend by downing the Buckeye halfback Jim Kuhn paved the way with three touchdowns on a 55-yard punt return, 45 and six-yard runs.

Quarterback Bill Vest scored two touchdowns on a 75-yard kickoff return and a two-yard plunge.

Vest also passed to Terry Cashin for a 21-yard scoring strike.

Cashin scored his second TD on a 19-yard end sweep.

The Little Buckeyes apparently have a "magic" uniform in their possession. Buckhalfback Dave Ross scored three TDs last week but suffered an ankle injury prior to Sunday's game.

Ross provided Kuhn with his jersey and the latter promptly responded with three TDs against Lockbourne.

G-L Battles Leader London; Whitehall Meets Worthington

Jim Bline's Whitehall Rams and George Troutman's Lions have a couple of things in common this week.

Both elevens dropped their first games in six outings last weekend and both are looking for "comeback" wins tomorrow night.

BUT WHILE the Lions can get themselves right back in the Mid-Eight title race with a win over leader London (6-0), the Rams need an "assist" to hang onto lingering hopes for a share of the CBL rung.

A Mt. Vernon win over Arlington, coupled with a Ram win over Worthington would close out CBL play with a neat three-way deadlock (providing Mt. Vernon beats Worthington).

But Bline isn't looking for any cakewalk at Worthington, despite the Cardinals' not-so-impressive 1-5 slate.

LOST IN the ballyhoo of the Rams' meeting with UA last weekend was the Cards' initial win over Grandview.

Worthington trailed 22-8 at halftime but simply poured across 28 points in the final period to win, 42-34.

"They'll be sky high for us," Bline warned. "After all, they've got everything to gain and nothing to lose. If they can beat us and Mt. Vernon back-toback, everybody up there will forget about the first part of the season, and they know it.

"THEY'VE GOT the potential. They always have some of the best material in the area up there. They just hadn't jelled yet. But it looks like they jelled pretty quick last Friday."

Worthington operates from a pro-type set with split ends, slot backs, strong 'I' formation, etc. "They've got just about everything up there — plus a good passer," Bline added.

That good passer is quarterback Johnny Grant, who has been just about the most consistent performer in the Cardinal backfield this fall.

THE RAM coach figures his club will face either Worthington's 4-4 defensive alignment (it gives you problems") or a "gaming" 5-4 which the Cards introduced against Arlington ("makes you adjust your offense").

Looking back at his Rams' initial setback last week against Arlington, Bline commented: "We were real proud of the way they stuck in there and played. I don't like ties, but after looking at the game films, our guys really deserved it.

"They put everything they had into it and, in my opinion, might have outplayed Arlington. If they're ranked fifth, we ought to be sixth. But," the Ram mentor added, "I suppose we won't even make 35th."

"WE PLAYED against a line that averaged close to 225 and we controlled the ball for almost the entire third period," Bline added.

The Whitehall mentor wasn't particularly pleased with the officiating at the game.

"I never have said an official ever cost us a ball game and they didn't cost us one Friday night. But we saw 11 infractions in the movies that were missed in some situations which could have really helped us out," Bline commented.

THE RAM gridmaster listed two big plays as "turning points" in the tight struggle. The first was a clipping penalty which nullified a fine interception return by Mike Allen.

"But," Bline lamented, "instead of having the ball first-and-10 on Arlington's 30, we had a first-and-25 situation back in our own territory."

The second was a long pass to Arlington's five a few plays later. "Mike (Allen) got hit just as he was releasing the ball," Bline said, "causing him to overthrow slightly.

"ALL I remember seeing were those three black shirts wide open down there near the goal line."

In that penalty department, incidentally, UA was hit with 10 yards (as compared with Whitehall's 65).

Bline referred to the narrow defeat as a "team effort" all the way but did give special praise to "hatchet man" Rick Foltz, Jim Heaton, Gary Stimmel and Wes Seymour for their defensive efforts.

ALSO IN line for credit in that department were defensive halfback Harvey Eader and Count Fuller, who moved up quick to help on a number of tackles.

Offensively, Bline felt his entire offensive line turned in a fine game. "We also felt (halfback) Mike Fleming turned in another great job of receiving," Bline added.

In the passing department, Allen hit on 10 of 18 tosses—one for the Rams' lone TD. Bline also pointed out that punter Gary Stimmel averaged 37 yards a boot against UA.

GAHANNA can get right back into contention tomorrow night when the Lions travel to London — but the task is no small one.

Point-wise, the Raiders, who just missed out on a share of the Mid-Eight title last fall in a narrow loss to the Lions, have the edge in both offense and defense.

Offensively, London leads, 148-112, also holding a 26-45 edge in the points surrendered department.

TOP THREATS to Lion "comeback" hopes are quarterback Dwight Cox, who starred in London's 14-0 win over Groveport last weekend and halfback Cookie Cunningham, a real speedster.

Gahanna will have to counter with fullback Dave Belli, who outrushed the entire opposition offense for the fourth straight week at Hilliard last Friday.

Belli compiled 113 yards in 23 carries but couldn't make up for three key plays which coach Troutman admitted "hurt us badly."

ONE WAS a failure to score in the first period after driving to Hilliard's one-foot line, two was an inability to cash in on extra points and three, was the 'Cats long pass gainer which set up their first TD.

86, but the visiting Thunderbirds passed 16 times, connecting on 11 for 72 yards. It was through the air that Lima made it close enough to score.

HARTLEY'S second touchdown came by the airways. With a fourth-and-two situation on the Lima 23, John Brandt hit Larry Irwin in the end-zone for the score with 16 seconds left in the opening quarter.

Eastmoor was surprised by Linden's Panthers, 16-6.

Jack Parry scored the lone Eastmoor touchdown on a pass from Randy Yoakum.

FOLTZ FOILED—Ram back Rick Foltz (33) appears surprised as his trip around UA's end is suddenly ended by a persistant Jim McKenzie (behind Foltz). Arlington came from behind to down Rams in hard-fought OBL contest, 13-6.

Air vs. Land Battle Looms As Capital 11 Meets Akron

Capital will have to battle a flashing air show in Akron Saturday as the Crusaders meet the Zips in the headliner of the Ohio Conference's six game schedule.

Dazzling Mike Martin, chief Zip with the football, has uncorked 130 passes during the first five games this year.

MARTIN heads the league's passing list with 64 completions for 680 yards and four touchdown strikes.

As talented as Martin is, however, it takes four to make up a backfield. Akron will have to contend with a completed Capital backfield that leads the league in total offense.

So, both defenses will be tested.

THE CAP speedsters have 1335 yards in four games en route to a 3-1 log. Akron is unbeaten in the loop action, and holds a 2-2-1 mark overall.

In other OC action, Muskingum (4-0) meets Wooster (0-3), Mt. Union (22) battles Hiram (3-1), Denison (2-1) is at Oberlin (0-2), Marietta (0-3) at Otterbein (2-1) and Wittenberg (21) plays Heidelberg (0-2-1).

BCA Slates Nov. 4 Meet

Plans will be discussed for the annual Christmas tree lighting, the BCA's citizenship day in the schools and other community activities.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 4, at the Jeffrey Mansion.

For additional information call the Bexley Recreation office between 12 noon and 5 p.m. at 258-5755.

Announces Movie Schedule

The junior high Parent-Teacher Association has announced that eight Saturday movies will be sponsored this season. The annual program will be held in the auditorium.

Publicity co-chairman, Mrs. Wayne Pfautsch listed the following dates and titles for the movies to be shown.:

Nov. 20, Geisha Boy.
Dec. 4, Flippers New Adventure.
Dec. 18, Alice In Wonderland.
Jan 15, Broken Arrow.
Jan. 29, Cheaper By The Dozen.
Feb. 12, Captains Courageous.
Feb. 26, Abbott and Costello in Hollywood.
Mar. 18, Unsinkable Molly Brown. (This will be family night).

Battle—

That pass, taken 78 yards by end Dan Walker, was authored by sophomore Tom Cole, making his first start as the Wildcat QB. Cole hit only two of seven but the pair of completions netted the 'Cats 100 yards.

Bright spot for the Lions was Belli (who Hilliard coach Norm McElheny listed as definate "all-state" talent) and defensive standouts Jerry Serrafini, Steve Miller and Terry Luft.

TROUTMAN summed it up thusly: "Anytime you can hold Hilliard to 63 yards rushing, your defensive unit is really tough."

In other area games tomorrow night, New Albany visits Academy (3-2), Bexley (2-4), journeys to Delaware (2-4), Easmoor (2-4) travels to East (4-2) and Walnut Ridge (1-5) entertains Hartley (5-1).

WHITEHALL BANTAM: Bears Maintain Lead; Packers, 49ers Close

The hard-charging Bears continued their quest for the Whitehall Bantam championship last week as they rolled over a strong Steeler team, 31-12.

The outstanding offensive play of Doug Morgan, Roger Day, Marty and Gary Glass, along with the running of Randy Trexler, made the Steelers a threat throughout most of the game.

DAVE BROBST of the Bears kept his club unbeaten with touchdown runs of 42, 25 and three yards. Quarterback Brobst hit Mark Stewart on a 90-yard pass play for the final touchdown.

The Bears fashioned a strong defense led by Mark Hopkins, Chet Funk and Mitch Oyler.

THE TWO second place teams, the Packers and 49'ers, won their games easily to remain in contention for the league title.

The Packers downed the Browns Saturday night at Canal Winchester.

The 49'er quarterback, Clarence Sesco, amassed more than 100 yards on passes as he led his team to a 33-13 win over the Redskins.

Tom Baker scored all the 49'er touchdowns — four of them on passes from Sesco. Mike Gilmore scored the Redskins' touchdowns.

Raiders Battle Winchester 11 For Title Share

BLOCKING HELPS — and Reynoldsburg fullback Gene Harshaw (extreme right) got all he needed on this 30-yard TD jaunt against Dublin Friday night. Clearing the way for the Raider fullback are Bob Britt (40) and Gary Shade (15). Harshaw also tallied on a 70-yard sprint as Raiders took undisputed lead in FCL race.

Reynoldsburg's Tough Defense Tackles Indians' Single-Wing

"I'd hate to stumble now. We've come too doggone far."

That's the way Reynoldsburg coach John Thompson is looking at tomorrow's visit to Canal Winchester.

SHOULD THE Raiders (4-1-1) whip the Indians (1-5), Reynoldsburg can do no worse than collect a share of the 1965 Franklin County League title.

There's not too much to report on the Indians except that they'll provide the Raiders with their first look at a single-wing offense in at least five years.

That offense relies mainly on a power attack with the emphasis on counters and sweeps with a few passes thrown in for good measure.

TOP RUNNING threat is Jim Woodward but the C-W offense in general hasn't been rating too many headlines since an opening 35-0 win over Pickerington.

In five straight losing efforts since their opener, the Indians have managed only 37 additional markers, losing decidedly to two Reynoldsburg victims (Dublin, 34-0, and West Jefferson, 38-0).

Defensively, the Raiders should get at look at Winchester's 5-4 "stunt" alignment or possibly a 4-4 setup.

"THIS BALL club has come a long way," Thompson stated following his Raiders' crushing 52-6 win over Dublin—a club which figuratively loomed as Reynoldsburg's last big FCL obstacle.

Thompson was admittedly "amazed" at the ease with which his Raiders disposed of the Shamrocks. "That defense was supposed to be Dublin's best in (Shamrock coach Howard) Millisor's time at Dublin.

"We had our reserves in the game with nine minutes to go in the second period," Thompson stated.

IN ALL, the Raiders amassed 484 total yards (all but 61 in rushing) against that Dublin defense while surrendering 273 yards to the Shamrocks.

Dublin's passing game, dangerously effevtive in previous years, was way off Friday night. "They completed 11 to themselves and six to us," Thompson commented, adding that reserve defensive back Terry Black picked off three Irish aerials himself.

The Raider grid boss was especially pleased with the blocking job done on the Shamrocks last weekend. "This club has developed into the best downfield blocking team I've ever had."

THOMPSON referred to fullback Gene Harshaw's blocking as "outstanding." "It was really something to see," he added.

Thompson also added Larry Rainwater, Gene Lockard and Denny Spires to the "top blocking" list.

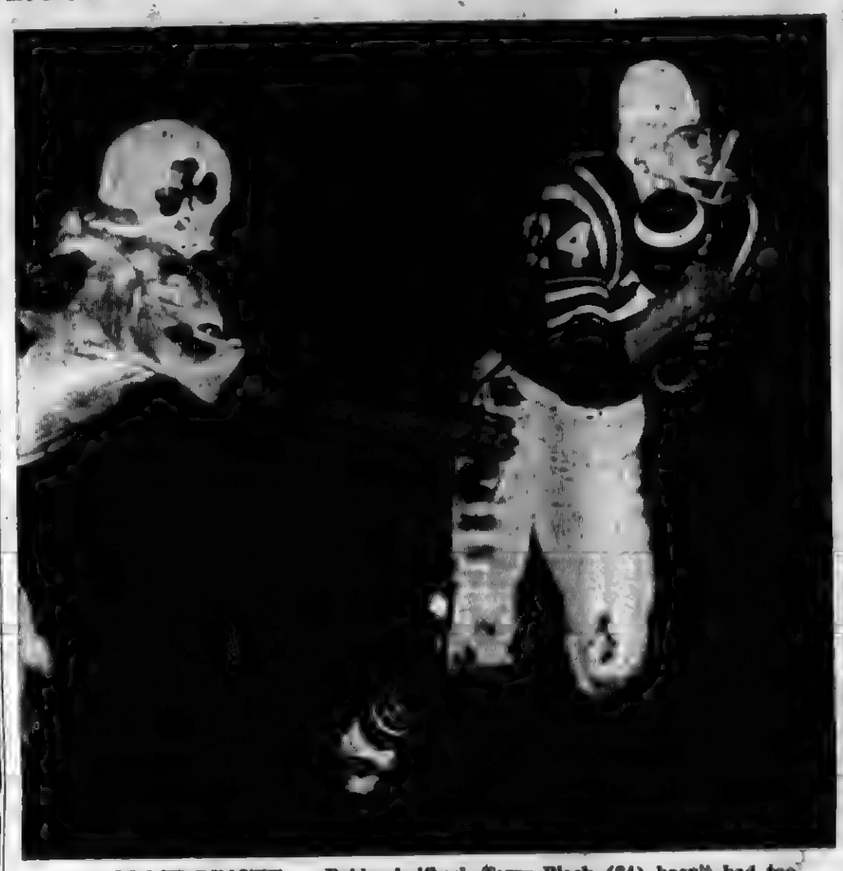
Spires turned in his best effort of the season in the ball totin' department also, rushing for 130 yards in five carries (26 yard average).

ALSO CREDITED on the defensive units were backs Gary Lacey and Bob Gerdeman, who turned in "the best pass rush we had all night."

Game-wise, the Raiders struck for 22 points in the opening quarter and were never in trouble after that early explosion.

Spires scored on the second play from scrimmage on a 65-yard burst and Harshaw went 70 yards to paydirt on the first play after Reynoldsburg regained possession.

THE RAIDERS third TD in that first period was delayed more by penalties than Dublin's defense as three booboos (including two 15-yarders) pushed Reynoldsburg back.



Harshaw added a second TD (30, run), quarterback Gary Shade scored twice (14, 40 runs), Mike Gorrell tallied on a 20-yard strike from Shade and Terry Black converted one of his interceptions into a six-pointer.

The Raiders will be a little thin in the halfback department tomorrow night with Thompson listing regular Bob Britt as "doubtful" with a bad ankle sprain.

HALFBACK Joe Daniels broke his arm in a reserve game last week and has been lost to the varsity for the remainder of the season.

A win over the Indians tomorow and Academy the following Friday will provide the FCL title to the Raiders outright.

Reynoldsburg closes with a pair of away non-league encounters with Whitehall and Westerville.

BLACK BEAUTY — Raider halfback Terry Black (24) hasn't had too much opportunity to score this season but the senior gridder heard opportunity knocking on this play Friday at Dublin, picking off an Irish aerial and racing for a 20-yard TD. Reynoldsburg smothered Shamrocks, 52-6.

Shackelford, Coulter Pace W-M To 4th Win

Warrior halfback Doug Shackelford and quarterback Lonnie Coulter combined efforts Friday to spark Watkins Memorial to a 28-0 verdict over Heath — W-M's fourth win in six outings this season.

Shackelford raced 55 yards for one score, plunged one yard for a second and then pulled in a TD pass from Coulter which covered 50 yards and his third six-pointer of the evening.

END PAUL McConnell nabbed a 27-yard aerial from Coulter to account for the Warriors' fourth touchdown while Roger Kuseski added a pair of conversion passes.

According to W-M assistant coach Joe Varacalli, the Warriors compiled 402 yards total offense—165 of them coming through the airwaves.

A stout Warrior defense limited Heath to a total of 77 yards.

SHACKELFORD (120 yds. in 12 carries) and Coulter (completed nine of 14 passes) were offensive standouts.

The pair also shined on defense at deep back spots. W-M has intercepted 16 enemy aerials in six games, Coulter accounting for seven himself.

The Warrior defense as a whole has allowed but 22 points all season and only eight points in their last five games.

GRANVILLE, the Warriors' opponent tonight, stands 4-1—its only setback (like W-M) to state-ranked Johnstown.

Basically a running club from a wing-T offense, Granville should be a tough test for the Warriors.

The Warriors' hosts rely heavily on counter plays, often double-teaming the opposition tackle.

ONLY WARRIOR missing from tomorrow night's lineup should be 219 pound tackle Ken Foor, who suffered a concussion recently and will be out for the season.

Foor's replacement at tackle will be sophomore Duane Landis.

JUST THOUGHT YOU MIGHT LIKE TO KNOW

Myth: A person should drink from six to eight glasses of water a day.
Fact: Nonsense! You can rely on your sense of thirst to guide you if you are in normal good health.
Myth: Drinking water with meals is fattening.
Fact: Not true. Water has no calories regardless of when you drink it.
Myth: Water from mineral springs has special health qualities.
Fact: This type water has no effect on the health although it may have a laxative effect.

HOW IS OUR EYESIGHT?

A famous movie star now retired from the limelight said in a recent interview that, quite frankly, the most difficult thing for her to do when she was no longer surrounded by people to tend to her every personal need was to learn to see herself realistically. It was a long time before she adjusted herself to the importance of checking her appearance for all the little things which she had taken for granted, such as making sure her stocking seams were straight— that her lipstick was applied in a firm clean line and that none of it had come off on her teeth and her hair was freshly arranged.

YOUNG VIEWPOINT

Is the beauty parlor part of your regular way of life? If it isn't yet there are more reasons than ever why it should become so this year. There never was a season with so many hair and makeup fashions to choose from. It's extremely difficult for any of us to choose the right ones for ourselves. There is more meaning in the slogan "Only Her Hairdresser Knows For Sure" Beauty salons are fashion centers these days—not mere places to have your hair done.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

A woman can't stay young at heart once she is no longer important to herself. It isn't the way she looks that matters so much as the fact that her appearance reflects her inner emotional and physical health. By the same rule we can detect the brittle over-groomed woman with too great an anxiety about herself.

For information on any beauty problem come in, write or telephone. No charge of course.

HEARD UNDER THE DRYER

A girl's life cycle consists of safety pins, hair pins, fraternity pins, and safety pins.

Bexley High School

Lions' Roar

By LANCE LISLE

Nomination for Bexley High School's homecoming queen and her court are Cini Blatt, Linda Falk, Jo Ann Friedman, Betsy Kearns, Dianne Krech, Carol Lowenthal, Penny Main, Linda McClure, Wendy Monroe and Sherry Smith.

Elections held last Wednesday selected the top five from which the queen will be elected Oct. 28. Plans for homecoming are now being prepared by student council. the culmination being the homecoming game with Grandview.

Science Club will present as its first speaker, Col. Jack Noles, the man who fell 10 miles to the earth from his plane and survived.

Science Club is designed to introduce students to the many facets of science and to supplement and update information from science texts. This year Judy Hagler is president; Lance Lisle is vice-president; Kurt Krauss is secretary; and Larry Peters is treasurer.

Six Bexley seniors are ranked first in their class of 238 and have maintained a four-point average for the last six semesters. They are Charles Burkham, Bruce Byrnes, Bill Cohen, Woody Jones, Phil Levoff and Tom Shafer.

Other students in the top 25 are Judy Engleman, Fritz Laird, Carol Becker, Karen Gingrich, Cynthia Blatt, Dianne Krech, George Beverly, Susan Dworkin, Diane Saint, Rosalie Wamack, Betsy Kearns, Sylvia Bornstein, Phil Spohn, Jeff Bloom, Penny Main, Steve Gutter, Steve Samuels, Jennifer Harr and Mimi Deaton.

The Bexley Debate team has begun preparations for the coming season. The team is under the direction of president Robbie Solomon. As a member of the National Forensic League, the team will debate on subjects decided upon by the national committee. To help prepare the novice debaters, a debate will take place at East High School between novices early in November. The regular season will begin in late or early December. Bexley debates with schools in the surrounding communities.

French Club will hold its annual rush party Oct. 25 at Jeffrey Mansion. At this party new members will be inducted and the purpose of French Club explained. This year's officers are Debby Tallis, president; Tom Lutzy, vice-president; Laurie Samuels, secretary and Nancy Zipser, treasurer.

Future Teachers of America held the first meeting Oct. 13. The purpose of FTA is to introduce students to the teaching profession and to help them gain practical experience through observation. Officers are Jean Grevenow, president; Marcey Goulder, vice-president; Beth Cooper, secretary; and Kris Lindquist, treasurer.

Bexley tennis varsity and reserves and golf teams are opening practice early this year in preparation for the 1966 spring season.

During the first week of school, Chet Weld, tennis captain, and Mr. James Click, coach, organized a round-robin tournament. The netters will compete against each other to give Coach Click an idea of next year's varsity ladder.

Also beginning practice this fall is the golf team. Under the direction of Carlton Smith, each linkster is required to play 45 holes. From the scores obtained, Coach Smith will be able to estimate the strength of the team next spring. The four players with the four lowest scores will probably make the annual practice trip south next spring.

Five Bexley senior boys are national merit semi-finalists: Charles Burkham, Woody Jones, Fritz Laird, Steve Samuels and Phil Spohn. Receiving letters of commendation for scores only slightly below those of the semi-finalists were Bruce Byrnes, Bill Cohen, Ann Corcoran, Karen Gingrich, Phil Levoff, Penny Main, Sharon Free, Gary Roselle, Tom Shafer and Gloria Ziskind.

This year a new system of grade reporting will be initiated with the end of the first grading period. Grades will be processed on computers of the Franklin County School system. The cards are cumulative. The first card will have the first six weeks grade, the second card both the first and second periods' grades. This will enable the student to see his progress or decline. Each report will be sent directly to the student's parents.

Mrs. Rozella Stigler, junior high guidance counselor and special reading teacher, has contributed an article in the new county curriculum guide for arithmetic in grades one through eight. The article is about a fourth grade arithmetic enrichment class she taught for two years while at French Run.

All fourth and sixth graders in Herbert Mills have taken the Iowa Tests of basic skills during the past 10 days. The program measures pupil skills in vocabulary, reading comprehension, spelling, language usage, work skills and arithmetic skills. No scores or grades will be made, but later pupils and parents will be informed of their child's performance in comparison to national averages in his age and grade levels.

A pot luck supper was held in French Run auditorium last week for the staff and their family. It was planned by the school's social committee.

High School Geared For High Standards

Executive Head of Reynoldsburg Local Schools Robert P. Heischman says questions are often asked such as: "Are our schools accredited?" and "Who sets the standards for our schools?"

Heischman said there are two agencies which evaluate our schools in relation to their standards and make decisions on accreditation. These are the State Department of Education and the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The state sets standards for all elementary and secondary schools in Ohio. These are considered minimum standards which must be met before charters are issued and schools can be accredited.

State standards include requirements concerning organization and administration of the school curriculum and instruction, pupil services, staff personnel, instructional material and equipment, physical facilities and evaluation. The state requires annual reports and periodic visits by state supervisory personnel in checking on the compliance with their standards. Local schools are fully accredited by the state.

The North Central Association is an agency which is concerned only with accreditation of secondary schools. Their standards are not considered as minimum but are aimed at developing and maintaining the best possible high school program. The senior high became a member of this association in 1962 and has maintained standards necessary to retain its membership since that date. The NCA report for the last school year indicated that 533 schools in Ohio held membership and that Reynoldsburg was one of the only 168 which were fully accredited without notification of any deficiencies. The NCA standards include requirements on the program of studies, extra classroom activities, guidance services, organization and administration, training and certification of teachers and administrators, library services, school plant, teaching load, length of school day and school year among various other requirements.

Schools are accredited for an indefinite period and membership is valid as long as the school satisfies conditions for accreditation. A yearly report is made to the school after an evaluation is completed near the end of each school year.

Local Schools Push PEP Program Here

Executive Head Robert P. Heitschman explains why the local school district is behind the PEP program so vigorously.

"To be voted upon as State Issue No. 1, it is a plan to provide financing for Ohio schools through the State Foundation Program. An additional $116 million annually in State funds would be used to improve schools by providing for teacher salaries, text and library books, instructional materials, counseling and guidance service and other operating expenses.

"It is designed to give aid where it is most needed. Reynoldsburg is one of the districts which would benefit more than others since the total property valuation in the district is low in comparison with the number of children enrolled in school.

"The latest figures received indicate that local schools would receive nearly $200,000 more in operating funds next year than would be received under the recently revised state foundation program. An additional 6.5 mill operating levy would be required to furnish this amount if raised through local funds. The issue proposes that funds be raised through a one cent increase in the present sales tax. This would relieve some of the burden of providing the major finances through real estate taxes.

"If the issue is not approved, the local board of education will be faced with obtaining additional operating funds from other sources. The only other possible means would be through an additional operating levy. The board has already indicated that action will be taken to place a levy on the ballot at a special election in December if the issue is not approved."

Recreation Meeting Brings Out Needs

Recreation Director James Cottrell reported to the Recreation Commission in its meeting on Oct. 5 that work has begun on the basketball court at Huber Park. The backstop, goal and six basketballs have been delivered. Members Warren Parsons and William Van Fossen agreed to work with Cottrell in forming the program.

Chairman Richard Van Atta said the board promised its support to the youth football organization if it unincorporates and becomes subservient to the board in all matters of policy and finance. The board also discussed the publicity for the recreation levy which will appear on the November ballots.

WILL OR WHIM FOR WHITEHALL?

(The Promise vs. The Performance)

AN OPEN LETTER

Will Whitehall City Government operation be by the will of the people, or the whim of the politicians? This is the overriding issue you will decide when you vote on Nov. 2.

The Republican candidate for mayor and his supporters now tell you that they have learned their lesson for having permitted excessive apartment construction in Whitehall.

Here is the exact wording of a news release from the Republican candidate for mayor:

"AS FOR APARTMENTS, this question was decided by the voters in the last general election. I feel that we have enough apartments. I also know that our planning, zoning and building regulations must be revamped . . . I have no intention of doing away with the freeze on apartments."

However, his performance in office tells another story. Remember, he spent almost two months in office after "this question was decided by the voters." How well did he follow the will of the people? Here's the documented story:

On Dec. 21, 1963, almost seven weeks after the election results, council met in a special Saturday night session. The meeting was considered so important that one Republican councilman flew in from out of state. The prime purpose of the meeting was to ram through a final batch of ordinances permitting rezonings for apartment construction.

(It should be remembered that four of the six Republicans sitting on the council had been defeated in the primary and general elections — because of their pro-apartment construction voting records. But they, and the defeated Republican mayor, continued in office until Dec. 31, 1963.)

A news story on the extraordinary council meeting included the following:

"The council sang its discordant swan song to one of the largest audiences in attendance during the past two years of its term. Most of the audience was on hand to protest the multiple-dwelling rezoning ordinances."

Now what does the former mayor have to do with this particular bit of chicanery? Simply this:

THE MAN WHO NOW says "As for apartments, this question was decided by the voters in the last general election" was the mayor who signed the ordinances passed by the Republican members of council. It took all six Republican votes because they had to call the ordinances "emergency" legislation to push them through in the one, final meeting.

Had the former mayor chosen to veto the apartment ordinances, his veto would have been final. But he waited until his last days in office to show his disdain for the voters by signing into law measures he now admits the people did not want.

This is the same man who now says "I know that our planning, zoning and building regulations must be revamped." It is not by accident that these additions to his originally announced platform came about after the Democratic platform was announced. And, while we appreciate the fact that he agrees with us, we must again question what he says in the light of what he has done.

He was mayor for eight straight years prior to being voted out of office in 1963. Where were the revamping programs he now says must be done? If he had attempted any they could not have been very effective, or he would be talking about using them.

AND THIS SAME MAN, who now wants you to return him to office, could not have had much interest in your city affairs while he was out of office. He has attended only one council meeting since January, 1964. He did visit City Hall in connection with attempts to have him named to the $7,200-a-year tax commissioner's job in exchange for his withdrawal from the Republican Primary this year. But the deal fell through.

And his own most influential partisans gave him their support only after he had promised them that certain persons would not be given appointive positions in his administration if he were elected. And he was also required to promise that Republican members of the new council would be given the right of veto over his appointments if he were elected.

Now he wants you to forget the past and think only of HIS future.

HE WANTS YOU TO FORGET that he approved every apartment rezoning ordinance passed by council. He wants you to forget the nepotism in choice administrative appointments. He wants you to forget that the city is suffering from the lack of planning during his eight years in office. And he wants you to forget his last defiant act as your mayor when he signed the unwanted apartment rezoning ordinances.

ALL we want you to forget is his name.

on paths of progress by casting a "yes" vote on the $6 million Urban Renewal Bond Issue. Voters should remember that passing this vital issue will NOT increase taxes. The bonds will be retired from city income tax funds already set aside for such bonding.

Urban renewal has already paid off handsomely for Columbus. Since its inception, a total of $9 million in local funds has brought to the city an additional $30 million in federal funds and more than $70 million in private capital investments.

The city has been able to convert much land from the tax liability status to revenue-producing property. Equally important is the fact that urban renewal is no longer a crash program of slum clearance.

The "new concept" urban renewal concerns itself with prevention of blight through neighborhood rehabilitation and housing code enforcement programs. Urban newal Bond Issue, don't forget to save a "yes" vote for bond issue will keep it that way.

And while you're about the process of saving the city money by casting a positive vote for the Urban Renewal Bond Issue, don't forget to say a "yes" vote for the referendum approving the reduction in the electric rate for all residents of the city.

Anti-Klan—

has scheduled a Klan rally Saturday at the rear of 4011 Alkire-rd, just east of Demorest-rd.

Miss Trugman said she thought the photocopies were intended as a threat to discourage her from picketing the rally.

However, Harvey's wife, Nancy, said she did not believe the materials were sent by a klansman.

'Troublemakers'

"They could have been sent by somebody who wants to get the Klan in trouble," Mrs. Harvey said.

Miss Trugman, who has led pickets to all Klan rallies in Ohio during the last year, said the magazine article would not frighten her away from this weekend's rally.

"As long as there is a Klan, I will oppose it, and I mean that," Miss Trugman said.

'Immoral, Un-American'

"The Klan's goals are immoral and un-American, and I do not want to share in its guilt by sitting quietly on the sidelines," she continued. "People who recognize wrong, and then do nothing to combat it, must hold themselves accountable for the outcome."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities opened its investigation of the Klan to the public in Washington this week.

However, Mrs. Harvey said her husband had not been subpoenaed.

news director of the Blue Ribbon Citizen Committee for Urban Renewal, more than 200 areas of industrial, commercial and urban renewal development will be covered.

The Blue Ribbon Committee was organized earlier this month with West Side developer George H. Deffet named chairman. Other officers of the 200-strong committee made up of outstanding businessmen and labor, church and civic leaders are East Side trucking executive Eldon Ward, vice-chairman; Mrs. Richard Hahn, president of the United Church Woman of Columbus and Franklin County, secretary and Leo Blum, downtown advertising executive and property developer, treasurer.

A running commentary on the fast-changing scenes will be given by informed tour guides, and each bus will be hosted by one of the committee members or his or her wife or husband.

Tickets for the tour at 50 cents a piece may be reserved by calling Urban Renewal, 469-6102.

The Tuesday affair is the final of six tours made recently to publicize the bond issue which is endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Development Committee of Greater Columbus, the League of Women Voters, Franklin County AFL-CIO, and the Hilltop Community Council. Backing has also been received from the PTA, Junior League, United Church Women, Council of Catholic Women and the Jewish Community Council.

Pendergast states that a majority vote for the bond issue will mean $100 million worth of progress for the city during the coming decade.

We don't consider manual work as a curse, or a bitter necessity, not even as a means of making a living. We consider it as a high human function, as a basis of human life, the most dignified thing in the life of the human being, and which ought to be free, creative. Men ought to be proud of it.—David Ben-Gurion

SOMETHING FOR THE SCOWDENS

'THE BONNIVILLES', rock and roll group from Bishop Hartley High School, deliver a check for $150 to Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner to boost his "Joe Scowden Fund." Joe Scowden, 19, was killed Oct. 2 in a senseless $80 robbery at a Grant and Main-st filling station. Already more than $10,000 has been donated by the public to assist Scowden's pregnant wife, Connie, and her two small children. To raise their money, the Bonnivilles sponsored a dance at their school Oct. 10. From left are Nick Cenci, John Farley, Gene Ammer, Dick Bishop, the mayor, Mike Smith, Dave Bohn and Craig Ryder.

as this. I did not and do not endorse the use of the phraseology. I think the rest of the ad was very good."

Siemer said "the fact that he (Haytcher) can speak well does not detract from his ability as a lawyer.

"If Paul is sending this letter, I will write and tell them (the Legal Ethics Committee) I did not know of or condone" the reference to lawyers. "I have the highest regard for Paul Haytcher as an attorney, and I have told him that I am against his candidacy for mayor."

The second attorney on the ticket, Maxwell, commented that "Mr. Haytcher's position is ridiculous." He said he did not know of the ad content, and answered "No" when asked if it would have made any difference.

Republican mayoralty candidate Walter B. Moling also disclaimed any pre-knowledge of content of the political advertisement.

"The first I saw it," he said, "was in the newspaper."

Asked if he would have approved such a reference to attorneys, Moling said:

"No, I'm not a campaigner to get in any mudslinging campaign. I don't know if it would fall in that category or not. If it's taking a slap at attorneys, I wouldn't go for that. I don't know what the darn thing means to tell you the truth."

The fact that the various Republican candidates did not know, beforehand, the exact wording of the advertisement is not unusual. In most campaigns where a slate of candidates is being endorsed only the major candidate, or a small committee, approves advertising material.

Schools—

urged that an advisory committee, to include representative citizens, be formed to study the problem and make recommendations to the school administration and board on ways of alleviating de facto.

Dr. Eibling envisioned the proposed council as including community leaders, and emphasized that the board "move with dispatch to activate a council. . ."

He added that details of the "purposes, composition and operations of the council will be included in the completed statement (answer to Civil Rights' requests) that will be submitted at a later date."

Mrs. White explained that her personal opinions on how de facto segregation might be corrected, was in no way that of all NAACP members.

"We are all agreed that we are unhappy with de facto segregation, and I believe that you (the board) is, too. Negro and white children must study side by side to understand each other.

"We agree that de facto must end," she explained, "we just differ on the method."

Some NAACP members, she said to the board, "are with you," "we feel you are acting with integrity and are as concerned as we are about this problem."

Rev. Zebbs, while expressing appreciation of the plans for a council and "the present stance of the board in dealing with segregation problems in schools," brought two other matters to the school board's attention.

He said CORE was concerned about the case of a Monroe Junior High girl who, Zebbs said, was "mistreated" by the school principal.

Board President Paul Langdon's statement that, "as I understand it, the parents of the girls are satisfied" with disposition of the case was challenged by a CORE representative who said, "the parents are most dissatisfied, as are others in the area."

Parents of the girl arrived at the meeting after members were adjourned.

The other matter CORE had concerned itself with, Zebbs said, was the board's failure to renew the contract of a teacher at Glenwood School last year. He said that the man was not given a chance to defend himself against charges.

Robert Shaw, attorney for Columbus Education Association, is representing the teacher in an effort to have a hearing before the School Board.

"If the board will move with dispatch against both of these issues," Zebbs said, "we could go on with the matter at hand (de facto)."

is, in fact, a Columbus Improvement Corporation. And I learned that the only thing needed to fully implement its purposes is sanction of a government body, such as Columbus City Council."

Woodland told the chamber members that he did not yet know enough of the plan to promise support as a member of council, but that he was aware of the "spirit of cooperation" which exists between the city (Sensenbrenner) administration and the chamber in programs to attract industry to the area.

He chided the three Republican candidate councilmen—William R. Fornof, Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II—by saying "The three who would rather fight than switch have stolen a slogan that fits them to a tee, It represents their history in office and their philosophy for future conduct."

Woodland told the audience that, had the Democratic candidates chosen to base their campaign on a "plagiarized slogan, we would have picked one to suit us, and one you would appreciate — 'Progress is Our Most Important Product.'"

Has Council Burst Burlesque Bubble?

By JANE ROBINSON

No one is guaranteeing that burlesque will never wiggle onto the Columbus scene.

However, Columbus council pulled a legislative finesse Monday night that may strip this peculiar art form of one of its fans of defense.

At the pop of a balloon, burlesque operators are apt to cry "discrimination" when local authorities strike out against them.

And Council is willing to try to zone them out of town.

Recognizing the problem, it lumped burlesque with 19 other businesses for which few cities have much love.

On the list are kennels, rendering plants, acid manufacture, distillation of bones and such and explosive manufacture.

Basis for inclusion on the list seems a little vague, except that most of them, in the minds of many, smell to high heaven — and that includes burlesque.

Apportion Plan Threat To Local GOP

By FRANK RYAN

The reapportionment "ace-in-the-hole" played last week by Ohio's Republican leadership apparently has been "trumped."

The Ohio Apportionment Board ruled last Friday that it had "officially" reapportioned the state to create a 99-member House and a Senate of 33 members.

The board membership, Governor James A. Rhodes, Secretary of State Ted Brown and State Auditor Roger Cloud, claimed their action was final and binding. But Senate Democratic minority leader Frank W. King took the matter to the state appeals court and gained a restraining order.

The net effect of the court-imposed restraining order against the Apportionment Board, political observers believe, will be to keep the jurisdiction with an appointed three-judge federal district court.

The federal court had ordered last year that the state be reapportioned to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court "one man — one vote" edict. The Ohio Legislature failed to meet the 1965 deadline set by the federal court.

Actually, had the Ohio Apportionment Board proposal been permitted to stand, it would have brought howls of protest from political leaders of both parties.

By and large, Democratic leaders throughout the state are willing to take their chances with a decision from the district federal court. They feel the court will be less influenced by political considerations.

The alternative to a court-ordered apportionment is one worked out by either the state's Apportionment Board or the Ohio Legislature. The former body is totally Republican, the latter is controlled by the GOP.

The board's action apparently came without consultation between the Rhodes Administration and state Republican leaders. State Chairman John Andrews, reached in Toledo, Tuesday, said that he had not been consulted either before or since the apportionment edict signed by Rhodes.

"This thing is in the courts," Andrews said. "I have not said anything and I am not going to."

Andrews conceded, however, that the board's plan made it "obvious that Republicans are going to have substantial losses in the rural counties (and) some gains in larger counties."

But Franklin County is an area where the board's plan would not figure to be greeted with Republican enthusiasm. William Schneider, county Republican chairman, who adopted a "no comment" attitude when contacted Tuesday by The Spectator, is more than a little miffed.

Jerry F. Ryan, Democratic county chairman, has adopted a wait-and-see attitude. He said he would make no public comment until he has discussed the board's action with local and state Democratic leaders and chairmen from other counties.

If adopted, the Apportionment Board plan would spell trouble for the local Republican stranglehold on state legislative seats. The GOP now holds both Senate seats and six of the seven positions in the House of Representatives.

But a seven-district county, as proposed in the board's plan, would lump at least five of the present GOP officeholders into one district.

Democrats could be expected to come on stronger in selected areas when they would not have to contest on a countywide basis. The idea of setting up strong "district" candidates does not augur well for the prime element in consistent GOP victories — discipline.

A man who needs support in only a limited area of the county would be less inclined to depend on the county chairman for victory. And legislators elected on the basis of personal strength among the voters might be less inclined to cast a "team" ballot on legislative matters.

All in all, there would appear to nothing in the board's plan to bring cheers from county Republican leaders. If it is dumped by the federal court, it will take some exceptional acting ability on the part of any Franklin County Republican to raise much of a protest.

Senior High 'Playday' Is Fun Filled Event

Nearly 100 girls filled the Senior High gymnasium Oct. 9, when the annual Girls' Athletic Association "Playday" was shared with eleven schools, Canal Winchester, Brookhaven, Upper Arlington, Whitehall, DeSales, Mifflin, New Albany, Gahanna, Hamilton and the local junior high.

There were 12 girls participating from the host school. They were: Gayle Boggs, Marcia Clingo, Pat McLaurine, Brenda Mongold, Bonnie Poulton, Pam Seevers, Sue Shields, Linda Sisk, Sue Combs, Carol Wall, Cheryl Watts and Jean Gurtner.

The girls were divided into teams and each team given the name of a color. The events began after registration and lasted until 3 p.m. The program included volleyball, basketball, aerial darts, table tennis, tennis, kickball and track.

The girls took a break at noon to eat sack lunches. Everyone finished up by the group singing their school's alma mater and fight songs.

Charms from a local jeweler were presented to the winning team, "The Lavenders." Its members were: Becky Conrad, Canal Winchester; Susan Johnson, local junior high; Cheryl Colvin, Brookhaven; Brenda Beaty, Gahanna; Nancy Davis, Upper Arlington; Marie O'Neal, New Albany; Jayne Barry, DeSales, and Carol Wall, Reynoldsburg.

JA Efforts Reward Girl With Trip; National Ranking

She flew by jet to New York City for the recent national award ceremonies of the New York Stock Exchange. She was a guest of the exchange.

Martha, president of the Junior Achievement Company Ecojac, was winner of fourth in the exchange's contest for best report to stockholders.

The contest was nationwide, including Canada, and Martha was one of four regional winners presented awards on the floor of the exchange.

She also had lunch with Dr. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, saw a show at Radio City Music Hall, visited the World's Fair and took in a performance of the Broadway musical, "Half a Sixpence."

Martha returned by jet to Columbus Oct. 5.

Ecojac, a JA company which prepared a special mixture of wild bird seed and marketed a bird feeder to dispense the food, was sponsored locally by Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Ecojac won first place in the central region of Junior Achievement, including the states of Michigan, Kentucky, West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and London, Ontario, before its report to stockholders took the national ranking of fourth in the stock exchange contest.

Junior Achievement provides pre-business experience for high school students by organizing companies under the guidance of local major business firms to learn the workings of the American system of private enterprise.

JA centers in Columbus are located at 214 N. High-st, 2390 Wellesley-in and 2688 Westerville-rd.

Preliminary meetings for organizing new JA companies began Oct. 11 with some 3,000 students from 38 area high schools applying for membership in 58 companies.

Der Willage Vanderer

By R. L. SCHMITZ

Is der Vanderer crazy, veruckt, mashugga? You be der yudge.

I hereby go on record: in der year to come — Oct. 15, 1965 to Oct. 15, 1966 — more houses vill be bought und restored in German Willage than in all rer preceding years combined. So, if for reasons too selfish to go into here, you vant German Willage restoration to go slowly, put my prediction in your meerschaum und smoke it.

When I vas last in New York City I heard this story about der thin valls in der huge modern apartment houses that are going up all over Manhattan, Jersey und Long Island: a boy sat in der living room of a new apartment house. He looked up from his geography lesson und asked, "Daddy, what is the capital of Bulgaria?"

Before his Vater could answer, a woice from the apartment below said, "Budapest". A woice from der apartment above then chimed in "Prague". From der apartment to der right a woice next said, "Vienna". Und from der apartment to der left another woice added, "Sofia".

For all I know der curse of Papier-thin valls exists in der modern apartments that jumble Columbus suburbs. Not so here in German Willage. Several veeks ago der new tenant in a German double asked his landlord if der tenants on der other side had complained about his noise. "Why?" asked the der landlord.

"Because I had a house warming party with a seven-piece band," replied his tenant. When der landlord checked der other side, he learned that der tenants had slept der night through unavare that a party vas going on beside them.

Our thick valls down here do present a few problems. For instance, it is impossible for me to hear our front doorbell in my upstairs study. Consequently, I have a second bell at der head of der stairs. Also, mein Frau cannot make herself heard vhen calling from downstairs. Nor can she be heard vhen calling from der kitchen to our living room alcove. Nor can she hear me in der kitchen vhen I call to her from our front basement.

That's vhy ve have four telephones in our little Haus. Rather than yell ourselves blau in der face, ve simply dial 4251, hang up und let der phones ring in other parts of our Haus. Multiple telephones is another reason vy I like German Willage.

Vhen ve lived on Long Island und in New York City ve used to throw many big parties. After each ve had long distance calls on our telephone bills. This is an accepted thing amongst some easterners — chiseling on a party-giver's telephone bill. Vhy, vonce ve even had a call to Tokyo placed under our name. Here in German Willage der Schmitzes have had as many as 50 friends jammed into our little Haus, yet that first unsanctioned long distance call has yet to appear.

Sometime ago I wrote that German Willage vas becoming Lazarus South. It still goes in that direction, with two new Lazarus employes living across Beck und across Lazelle from me. Later der Ohio State University crowd began discovering us.

After all, German Willage is only 10 minutes from State by way of Route I-71. Now the Battelle Institute crowd has learned that quaint, picturesque German Willage is only 10 minutes from their Atomic Age think - factory. The Battellites are moving in such numbers that German Willage will soon be called Brainsville.

WHICH WAY WHITEHALL?

FORWARD ——→ OR BACKWARD ←——

Whitehall Can't Afford To Go Back To The Old MOLING Gang!

- We MUST NOT Go Back To Stand Pat Village Thinking!
- We MUST NOT Go Back To Setting New Records For Broken Promises!
- We MUST NOT Go Back To Zoning Without Planning!
- We MUST NOT Go Back To Nepotism In City Hall!

VOTE FOR PAUL J. HAYTCHER AND THE DEMOCRATIC TEAM

Here Is The Platform To Which ALL Democratic Candidates For Office Are Pledged:

ZONING— Strict limitation on additional apartments and commercial zoning. We continue to be overbalanced with apartments and commercial property and we must give preference to the development of single family homes.

RECREATION PROGRAM— This program must provide recreation for girls as well as boys, and for people of all ages. Existing parks and recreation facilities must be expanded to provide more diverse activities.

A MINIMUM HOUSING CODE— This would prevent your neighborhood deterioration because of someone's failure to maintain their property in proper repair. We also need maximum effort in a program to beautify Whitehall particularly in our commercial and public areas.

BUS LINE EXTENSION— There is no reason why convenient bus service cannot be made available to every section of Whitehall.

SYSTEMATIC REPAIR and MAINTENANCE of STREETS and SIDEWALKS— Some of our streets and sidewalks are reaching the age where costly repairs will be needed unless a regular systematic program of maintenance at city's cost is followed. Otherwise there is danger of having to reassess property owners if this program is not begun.

APPOINT A WOMAN JUVENILE OFFICER— As other cities have long realized, the woman's viewpoint is vitally needed and has been most effective in helping combat juvenile delinquency problem.

A CITIZEN'S GRIEVANCE AND ADVISORY COMMITTEE— This would be a group of civic-minded citizens appointed to meet regularly in the evenings to listen and act upon complaints, or suggestions for improving the city's services.

It is Interesting To Note That The Opposition Has Lifted Several Of Our Planks To Give Their Original, Anemic Platform A Transfusion. Don't Be Fooled By The Imitators!

WE MUST NOT FORGET:

- That during Mr. Moling's last term in office he personally signed into law rezoning for 1496 apartment units.
- That the old City Hall was sold for $10.00.
- That $92,000 was paid for an old building to be used as a city garage.
- That an apartment was called a motel to circumvent a previous "freeze" on apartments.
- That promises for a city park have been made during each campaign and today it is still incomplete.
- That Mr. Moling left the city on the brink of financial disaster.
- That choice appointments went to relatives and cronies instead of qualified individuals.
- That Mr. Moling has attended only one council meeting since being voted out of office.

Responsible Government--Not Issue 1--Best For Schools

The Spectator urges every responsible voter among its readers to vote "No" on State Issue 1.

Issue 1 proposes to increase the state sales tax to provide additional millions for public school education.

If it were as simple as that, The Spectator would no doubt be strongly in favor of it.

But it's not that simple.

State taxation and state support of public school education are vastly complex subjects, far too vital to Ohio's future to be determined by a well-meaning and often misinformed electorate.

These are matters to be properly considered by the state legislature under the leadership of the state administration.

Remember. This exact proposal was before the recent session of the legislature. And it rejected it.

Governor Rhodes is bound to a "no new taxes" pledge — and no Republican-controlled legislature was going to send a tax measure to a Republican Governor under those circumstances.

It is indeed a pity that in a state as rich as Ohio the needs of school children must await the proper political climate to be met.

And it is similarly regrettable that persons devoted to higher standards of education must take their case to the voters, rather than to their elected representatives.

However, Issue 1 is poorly timed. The legislature did act to meet at least partially the growing money demands of public schools. In fact, it even screwed up its courage to add $20 million more than Governor Rhodes recommended, but for which he promptly took undue credit.

Issue I was conceived before the legislature acted. And as a result, Issue I would provide far more millions than are required to meet the school aid standards for which it calls. These added millions will help forestall the day of reckoning for the present administration's policy of fiscal irresponsibility.

Indeed, although the present administration will not openly support Issue 1, it would welcome its passage with open coffers.

For remember this. The added funds produced by passage of the proposed increased sales tax are NOT earmarked solely for education. Revenue produced beyond the standards set by Issue 1 would be available to the administration for other uses.

But beyond this, the legislature created two commissions to deal with problems of education and taxation and make recommendations to the General Assembly in 1967. To make the drastic changes in both these areas now as proposed by Issue 1 would be flying in the face of responsible government and would sabotage chances for legitimate reforms.

A vote against Issue 1 is not a vote against public schools. A vote against Issue 1 is a vote for responsibility in state government.

Vote 'Go' On Other Two

It isn't unusual when a particularly controversial state issue on the ballot will force other important voter issues to the point of obscurity.

State Issue 1 is getting most of the heat and the headlines. But there are two other important measures to be decided by all Ohio voters. They are listed as "Issue No. 2" and "Issue No. 3."

The Spectator urges passage of both of these proposals.

Issue No. 2 is a proposal to permit the creation of urban service authorities. The "authorities" could be authorized to provide important, basic services such as sewage disposal, garbage collection, water, drainage or transportation.

It should be remembered that the Constitutional change on the ballot would merely PERMIT the organization of such public service bodies. The leadership would be elected by the people to be served, and then only after the people have first voted such an authority into operation.

Franklin County is not yet ready to consider such a course of action. And it is too bad. The City of Columbus and its many suburban communities have still not come to realistic grips with the problem of how best to provide the basic public services.

But there is hope that concerned leadership throughout Franklin County will yet find solutions on the common ground of necessity. And when that day comes, the passage of Issue No. 2 will have provided us with a vehicle for better meeting the common public needs of a growing metropolitan area.

Issue No. 3 has no direct effect within the borders of Franklin County, yet it is worthy of a "yes" vote in the interest of helping our neighbors.

Passage of the issue, which affects counties of less than 40,000 population, would permit the same person to serve as a judge of more than one court. This, like Issue 2, is a PERMISSIVE measure. Its implementation would always be by a vote of the citizens to be affected.

Its potential benefits are obvious. It would increase the likelihood of quality service, while at the same time effecting a savings in tax dollars.

Issue 2 should be a natural for Franklin County voters. It is an opportunity for us to help solve someone else's problem without its costing us a cent.

Too Good To Pass Up

Franklin County voters are being asked to approve a bond issue to enlarge and equip the Juvenile Detention Center, including the Court of Domestic Relations and Juvenile Court facilities.

There is no question of the need—there should be no thought of turning down this important and inexpensive issue.

The job can be done for $1.5 million. The average increase to the tax duplicate will be 0.05 mill, or one-half cent for each $100 of property valuation.

And, because property is appraised at about 40 percent of market value, this means that the owner of a $15,000 home would be assessed the "grand" sum of .30 (thirty cents) annually. Yes, we said thirty cents.

The present Detention Center was built in 1939, when the Franklin County population stood at about 380,000. Franklin County now has a population in excess of 800,000.

The present facility, as one Juvenile Court judge aptly put it, "is busting at the seams for staff space, as well as detention home facilities to meet the population needs.

There is much to be done in Franklin County, and in every area of the state, to meet the very serious problems of increased juvenile delinquency and decreased activity in the "preventive medicine" of family counseling.

We already are paying a high cost for not having considered such a bond issue earlier. By passage of this bond issue we can quit the practice of spending dollars (and wasting human resources) to save pennies.

Common sense and human compassion dictate a vote FOR the bond issue.

Help Local Schools

Voters in several of the areas served by The Spectator Newspapers will face school bond and tax issues which merit approval by the electorate.

Because the need in each instance is about the same, we ask a favorable vote for all school issues in Franklin County. There is no more important investment as we are called upon to make than the education of our children.

Until the "middle ground" is reached between the inadequacies of State aid and the expedience of State Issue 1 proposals, the burden of education remains too heavy at the local level.

But the answer should never be a decision by voters to make the children suffer until the politicians meet their responsibilities. This would only result in a heavier burden for all in the years to come.

Our responsibility of citizenship demands that the interest of the children be always paramount. If it works a hardship on those of us at the local levels, our redress must be to the State — not against the children.

"Personally, I'm Interested In The Right To Knock Off Work"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

These are the "dog days" for political writers and prognosticators.

The off-year elections do not ordinarily provide state-wide interest. This year the special election in the Seventh Ohio Congressional District will provide many aimless words which will be space-taking if nothing else.

Republican State Chairman John Andrews has said he believes Clarence Brown Jr., running to fill the vacancy caused by his father's death, will win. Of course, like any seasoned chairman Andrews was quick to add that they were taking no chances. Some of the same political prophets who professed to see a close race in the Republican primary (which Brown won going away) again are building up a tight race in the general election.

The claim is being made that President Johnson carried seven of the eight counties in the district. Laying aside the fact that the district managed to contain one of the four Ohio counties carried by Goldwater, it should not be overlooked that in the face of President Johnson's 1,000,000 - vote majority land slide win in Ohio that Clarence Brown Jr. also carried seven of the eight district counties. Brown lost one county, Clark County, by 431 votes and carried the district by 22,165. Goldwater was losing Clark County by 15,000 votes.

It is true that the Democrats are represented in this year's race by a seasoned and proven vote getter. James Berry was elected county prosecutor in 1960 by 1,600 votes while Richard Nixon was carrying the county by 9,000 votes. He was re-elected in 1964 with a margin of 10,000. Berry faces tremendous odds in this year's special election. In seven elections, including 1952 when Brown was unopposed he lost one county, Clark in 1964. The record is ominous:

1954 — Brown carried eight counties, 27,317 plurality.

1956 — Brown, eight counties, 44,219.

1958 — Brown, eight counties, 26,091.

1960 — Brown, eight counties, 49,578.

1962 — Brown, eight counties, 41,773.

1964 — Brown, seven counties, 22,163.

Add to the record the fact that Brown is a strong political name in Ohio, and that the Seventh District hardly can be considered a Democratic stronghold, a victory by Clarence Brown, Jr. hardly could be construed as a repudiation of President Johnson's policies.

However, a victory for Jim Berry could really be hailed as a great personal victory for him as well as an indication that President Johnson has made historic inroads where Democrats have done rather poorly in the past.

After all, the Republicans cast 41,965 votes in their primary, nominating Brown, while the Democrats were casting an approximate 25 percent in sending 10,498 to the polls to name Berry.

Letters To The Editor

Alarmed At Film Ad

To the Editor:

In my daily newspaper this evening I was confronted with a huge ad enticing the reader to come and drink of the Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure, better known as Fanny Hill.

One wonders how a story fit for even the lowest element of movie trade could have been extracted from this novel in view of the declaration of Judge Benjamin Gassman of New York with Judges Simon Silver and Vincent Impellitteri concurring: "Fanny Hill consists of 298 pages almost entirely devoted to a detailed description of and recital of illicit intercourse (and a long list of perversions). While it is true that the book is well written, such fact does not condone its indecency. Filth, even if wrapped in the finest packaging, is still filth . . . it is just as important to protect youth against deterioration of their morals as it is to protect them against deterioration of their bodies." (Operation Yorkville Newsletter, December, 1963).

In spite of the recommendation "For Adults Only" appearing in the newspaper ad, I was informed by our local theater ticket agent that teenagers were in attendance at the time of my call (I had called to register my objection to their showing of this film), that one parent had taken a 12-year-old girl in with her, and that a 12-year-old boy had also been admitted with a parent the previous night.

My main concern is not with those who may go to see this movie because of my letter (for surely the advertisement is inducement enough for this type of person). It is with the welfare of the children. I hope they may be kept from such movies because of the concern this letter might possibly instill in parents who may not be aware of the seriousness of the situation.

Many civic and church leaders as well as parents are missing the boat where our youth are concerned if they don't soon organize effectively to clean up this moral cancer that is in our midst. (This movie is also playing in the university district.)

I am sure that the Interfaith Committee for Better Entertainment of Columbus, O., and also the Citizens for Decent Literature, Box 555, Columbus, O., would welcome the support of all concerned and would be happy to answer any questions. Another organization active in this fight is Operation Yorkville, a group of clergymen of all faiths, doctors, lawyers and civic leaders, at 44 E. 84th-st, New York 28, N.Y.

Desperate For Leaders

To the Editor:

I am a den mother for Pack 421 and by the middle of November will be living in Pittsburgh due to a transfer of my husband's work.

I have 12 Cub Scouts in my den. We are only required to have eight, but Cub Scouts is so much a part of growing boys it is hard to say no when another wants to join.

I have an ad in your paper trying to get some den mothers for the area I live in, mainly to replace myself, but also for the number of boys who want to join.

With these things in mind, would you please again stress the need for volunteer Boy Scouting, Cub Scouting, Girl Scouting and Brownie leaders in the Columbus area.

Interview Appreciated

To the Editor:

The Franklin County Committee for Employment of The Handicapped wishes to thank you for Jane Robinson's excellent interview with "Bill" Hoalcraft, a person who works from a wheelchair at North American Aviation.

The success of the Employment of Handicapped program has been gradual, but through the efforts of the various civic minded organizations such as yours it has succeeded. Now it is much less difficult to place qualified handicapped persons than 20 years ago.

A MATTER OF DIRECTION . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

One hundred years ago this month, General Robert E. Lee, astride his gray horse, Traveler, rode into Lexington, Va., to become president of Washington College.

It was a picayune position for the beaten South's greatest hero. The college's five little buildings had been gutted during the Shenandoah Valley campaigns. There were five faculty members and about 50 students. And the president's salary was $1,500 a year.

Oddly, however, General Lee had needed a job. Lee's daughter, Mary, had remarked to a friend that, while the Southern people were willing to give her father everything he might need, no one had offered to let him make a living.

When Robert E. Lee heard he had been elected president of a tiny college he had never seen and at a clerk's wage, he objected on two grounds, neither having anything to do with dignity or money. He demurred, first, because he feared his prominence as a rebel might endanger the future of the school and secondly, because he didn't feel sufficiently strong to be both an administrator and a teacher. But early in October of 1865 the General took over.

It would be nice to record that Robert E. Lee turned into a whale of an educator. He really didn't. Lee was about the same kind of educator Ike Eisenhower was when he went to Columbia 85 years later. General Lee's contribution was neither instruction nor administration. It was direction.

The young men who gathered that day in Washington College had seen death, perhaps even inflicted it. The wealth of their fathers had been swept away. Their country was occupied by conquerors. The comfortable cavalier philosophy had been shattered.

But Robert E. Lee was not going to mother them. He had no intention of tolerating that degree of self-expression that leads to chaos. He understood the vast difference between resistance to tyranny and plain self-indulgent, sloppy behavior.

His rules were simple. As a student of the time put it: "Truth, honor, courtesy were relied on to maintain good order. We were not exactly afraid of the General, but we were so unwilling to do anything that would justly merit his censure that this respect really amounted to fear."

The first wave of carpetbaggers had entered Virginia, including some early civil-righters who ostentatiously lived with Negroes. When some Washington College students pelted them Lee fired the students on the grounds that gentlemen didn't harass those who expressed honest convictions.

Under this leadership things began to happen at little Washington College. Cyrus McCormick, a Virginian, whose harvester plant in Chicago was going great guns, made an endowment. In Lee's five years the faculty tripled in number and the student body quadrupled. By the time he died, and when the college name was changed to Washington and Lee, an honor system had been established that is still the pride of the University.

All over America today we have great universities and colleges filled with brilliant teachers. Cheating is a major problem. The rationalization of immorality is a popular pastime. Student strikes and demonstrations are common. Four-letter words are displayed at Berkeley in the name of intellectual freedom.

"Our colleges," as one professor recently said, bitterly, "are afraid to value judgments."

Maybe we could use a few Robert E. Lees.

SPECTATOR SUPPLEMENT

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS—U.S.A.

The "drop-out" situation in our high schools which once seemed to be going from bad to worse, has now made a most encouraging turn toward improvement. This re-direction of purpose is not any by-product of the Socialistic pap out of Washington. Nor is it due to any noticeable change of policy by the PTA.

The real correction for the better has evolved from the constantly improving counselling service of the school administration. More and better-trained teachers are getting back to the old and sane policy of considering each child an individual. Mass production of supposedly educated adult citizen failed for the last forty years because it is impossible to standardize human nature and congenital capacity.

Thank God that after too long a period, the top brass of our educational structure have seen the impossible wishful thinking about education fail to turn out useful adults. Now, it is again "in" for teachers to make kids mind and work at learning something that makes sense — something which fits them to some need in our rapidly-changing social structure. Increasing numbers of dedicated teachers are discovering all over again that it is impossible to cram a Ph.D. mentality into a fifth-grade IQ.

Private industry deserves credit for forcing this issue out into the open. Every large and wisely managed corporation now searches out such kids and helps them to get ahead with study and on-the-job training.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM — FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION — INSURED

By TOM SESLAR
Spectator Staff Writer

A movement to abolish the military draft and end U.S. intervention in Viet Nam has come into sharp focus in recent weeks.

Thousands, mostly college students, staged public protests of the draft and the war in about 100 major U.S. cities last weekend. Similar demonstrations were held in other countries including England, Germany and France.

Why? What has happened to the red, white and blue spirit that has helped the nation win its wars in the past? How serious is the problem?

An examination of the Columbus scene might provide some of the answers.

Locally, the week was filled with activities of the Columbus Viet Nam Day Committee which opposes the draft and accuses the U.S. of imperialism.

Several hundred Ohio State University students rallied on the steps of the Student Union building last week to discuss the draft.

LED BY CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

John Perara, chairman of the Columbus Viet Nam Day Committee, told students he thought war is "a waste of time and money."

Perara, currently enrolled at OSU, described himself as a conscientious objector and said he worked for two years under a conscientious objectors' program in San Salvadore during the middle 50's.

"There is no excuse for any kind of war," Perara said. "It is immoral, senseless and costly. No conflict is worth a single man's life or a single tax dollar."

Shortly after the rally at the Student Union, many student leaders received letters urging their support of and participation in future anti-draft, anti-war activities

Friday evening several hundred OSU students and other Columbusites gathered at the Unitarian-Universalist Campus Center, 121 E. 16th-av, for a screening of "A Visit to A Viet Nam Village."

The controversial film, banned in some areas, repeated the charges of American imperialism and attempted to make the U.S. forces in Viet Nam look like villains.

Saturday, about 60 members of the Columbus Viet Nam Day Committee marched from the OSU campus to the State House where they picketed for four hours.

They carried signs saying: "Cease Fire Now;" "America Wants to Dominate the World;" and "What Have We Gained from 25 Years of War?"

The pickets distributed leaflets to passersby and sang songs including "Eve of Destruction" and "Ain't Gonna Study War No More."

OSU student Carol Light carried a cross with drippings of red paint over her shoulder.

LEAFLETS STATE AIMS

The leaflets they handed out were entitled "An Appeal to the Conscience of America: For Peace With Honor in Viet Nam." They attacked President Johnson's publicized reasons for U.S. intervention in Viet Nam and urged the following:

- Recognition of "The basic national rights of the Vietnamese and all other peoples."
- Recognition of the Viet Cong "for purposes of any direct discussions."
- An immediate cease fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops.
- A return to the conditions of the 1954 Geneva Agreements on Viet Nam.

Some persons walking along High-st took the leaflets, some refused them and others took them and threw them to the sidewalk.

Two pickets — John Cotter and Michael Murtha — were knocked to the ground by irate passersby. Murtha is an OSU graduate student and Cotter is a former undergraduate student.

Monday, Murtha filed assault and battery charges against a "John Doe" alleged assailant. Murtha said he could not identify the person.

Meanwhile, a group of about seven persons began a counter-picket.

COUNTER-PICKETS ON SCENE

James Weyer, a former OSU student, carried a large sign charging that "This Is A Pro-Communist Demonstration." He and his associates were cheered by many persons watching from across the street.

Weyer said: "I am opposed to this demonstration because some of its participants undoubtedly are hard-core Communists.

"However," Weyer continued, "even those who aren't Communists are dangerous because they are promoting the Communist line."

Weyer told some reporters his group was the John Birch Society, but later refused to tell other reporters the Love Of Country And All That . . .

THE COLUMBUS Viet Nam Day Committee, composed largely of students, took a noon break from picketing to line up for a "folksing" in front of the McKinley statue Saturday. The songs included "Eve of Destruction" and "Ain't Gonna Study War No More."

Resources Cash Misued

To the Editor:

At the time the Natural Resources Department was established, I happened to have been president of the Ohio Conservation Congress, representing over 100,000 sportsmen and conservationists.

I had 150 members of the congress from different parts of the state to attend a hearing before the conservation committee of the House of Representatives, and I had 13 to testify before the committee in behalf of the Natural Resources Bill.

Members of the Ohio Conservation Congress were influential with members of the Legislature in their respective counties in getting them to support the bill.

I say, in no uncertain terms, that Gov. James Rhodes is playing politics when he uses $150,000 of hunting and fishing license money to help print a book as propaganda for himself. And he is using the same source to publish his pet tourist magazine, which is losing money.

The people were high pressured and coaxed by Gov. Rhodes and the bankers and bonding companies who will clip the interest coupons, to vote for several bond issues. Gov. Rhodes and the Natural Resources Department are using some of this bond money in pork barrel fashion and the politicians are having a glorified picnic in furthering their ambitions.

Stories Appreciated

To the Editor:

We hope that you will find room to tell your readers how much your stories on the recent co-sponsored meeting of the Ohio Chaplains' and the Ohio Mental Health Associations were appreciated.

We feel that the work of the chaplains in our state hospitals, schools and prisons, as it relates both intramurally and extramurally to the community, has become clearer to many persons. The stories and pictures aroused considerable interest in the meeting, increased the attendance and have stimulated inquiries from many quarters.

Such cooperation encourages we of the clergy to carry on an increasing program of service by the institution and the community in the treatment and prevention of mental and emotional illness.

New Pepsi-Cola Bottling Plant Comes To Columbus

THE PEPSI-COLA bottling plant at 1241 Gibbard-av, is capable of producing, with its two production lines, 588,000 bottles of Pepsi-Cola per eight-hour working day—or enough to provide seven bottles each to a capacity crowd in the Ohio State University Stadium.

$3-Million Facility Will Employ Over 175

Ceremonies marking the dedication of the new Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company plant at 1241 Gibbard-av, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 23.

Officials to Attend

Academy Award motion picture star, Joan Crawford Steele, who is a member of the Board of Directors of the Pepsi-Cola Company; Donald M. Kendall, president and chief executive officer, PepsiCo, Inc., and James B. Somerall, president and chief executive officer, Pepsi-Cola Company, will head an outstanding array of parent company officials taking part in the dedication.

Public open house will be held from 11 to 5 p.m., featuring free Pepsi and Frito-Lay products, gifts, prize drawings, tours and entertainment.

There will also be a live radio show from the plant, with WTVN's Bob Conners. Other local personalities present will include TV-4's Spook Beckman and WBNS-TV's Flippo the Clown.

On 10-Acre Site

The facility consists of an unusual facade construction of charcoal gray brick and buff block with stainless steel appointments and provides 170,000 square feet of space under roof. It houses two bottling lines, general offices, warehouse space as well as bottling, syrup and water treatment rooms. The latest in industrial architecture, the new plant features acoustical tiling, spacious warehousing square footage and the ultimate in automated bottling machinery.

The new bottling plant occupies a site totaling ten acres and is capable of producing 588,000 bottles of Pepsi-Cola each eight-hour working day.

The consulting architect was Kellam and Foley, Columbus, and contracting services were provided by Elford, Inc., also of Columbus.

Employing over 175 people, the franchise runs 60 route trucks and services the counties of Madison, Fairfield, Pickaway, Fayette, and large portions of Union, Delaware and Licking counties.

The facility represents an investment, including land, buildings and equipment, of over $3,000,000.

Started in 1925

Gross & Jarson Associates, owners and operators of the new bottling plant, entered the soft drink business in Cincinnati in 1925, with the purchase of that city's Grand Pop Bottling Company. The firm was purchased by Walter L. Gross, Sr., and the late Mr. I. N. Jarson. At that time, it operated 10 trucks and employed 35 people.

In 1935, it received the franchise for, and began bottling and distributing, Pepsi-Cola. Since that time, the firm has built plants in Hamilton, Ripley and Portsmouth, O., and in Lexington, Ky., in addition to the Columbus franchise. The company also operates warehouses in Blanchester and Chillicothe, O., and in Ashland, Ky. Presently, it is in the planning stage for an additional manufacturing plant in Winchester, Ky.

In 1954, the firm divested itself of its interests in the Cincinnati franchise and, in April of 1963, purchased the Columbus Pepsi-Cola franchise. In all, Gross & Jarson now employs more than 650 people and operates more than 250 trucks.

The company also has several real estate holdings and operates several warehouse facilities.

Since Gross & Jarson began operating the Columbus franchise, the company has introduced: Teem, Diet Pepsi, Patio flavors, and Mountain Dew. The Schweppes mixer line has also been added.

Since 1950, it has enjoyed an average sales increase of 17 percent per year.

GAS costs less... because we store it underground
We take natural gas out of the ground in the Southwest, move it hundreds of miles to a gas field near you, and pump it back into empty gas wells until wintertime when you need it.
We developed underground storage long ago to cut costs and improve gas service. Underground storage is one reason natural gas costs less and does more than any other modern energy. New cost-cutting techniques will keep gas the future's best bargain in modern energy for your home, office or industry.

We 'Early Birds' Are 'Rebuilding' This Year

ADELINE DALEY

You, sir, sitting in the stands, so you think that the life of a professional athlete is all glory?

Sure, maybe you've heard about the grueling practice sessions, the injuries that plague many teams, and most of all, the personal heartaches players suffer in being traded away, or worse, cut from the squad. But, believe me, you have to LIVE it to realize the full anguish.

Now, the Ladies' Early Bird Bowling League in which I play once a week may not strike you (or us either because we get very few of them) as being equal to the pressures of NFL or AFL competition, but to those of us who play to win (and we know no other way), it's all the same.

I happen to be a member of the rather ill-starred "Peterson and Erikson General Contracting" team which has spent more time in the cellar the past four years than a vintage bottle of wine. Thus, I am well acquainted with another problem the pros face—dealing with an irate owner, or sponsor, as the bowling industry so delicately phrases it.

When a sponsor buys uniforms, pays for the lettering of its firm name and puts out additional money for entry fees, it is not particularly happy to back losers—even if they are affectionately known as the "Mets of the Maplewoods." Perhaps that's why we were sold outright by the "C and M Plating Works" who footed the bills last year.

But I have emphasized to our new owners that the season has just begun and things may be looking up, despite the fact that we've already lost four out of six games. I have found it wise in reviewing our record, however, not to be too optimistic. It is better to stress how strong the competition has become.

For instance, the ever-competitive "Western Plumbing" team which has bolstered its bench is being tabbed as the team to beat. Last year's champs, "The Herald," aren't going to abdicate the throne without a fight. The feared "Garay's Enterprises" foursome, steadily climbing up the ladder with both depth in veterans and a couple of raw rookies, may come through. And so it goes.

We feel (our team of Rena, Jo and Mary Ann) that this is not the time to point out to the sponsor that we have a high handicap, because I'm certain that in sponsoring us he feels he has one, too. In fact, the only phrase which seems halfway appropriate is to tell him "We're rebuilding for next year."

What sweeter words to a sponsor in the construction business?

OCT 1965

UN Day Festival Is Planned

A two-day festival marking the 20th birthday of the United Nations is being planned by a 15-mar committee headed by co-chairmen Donald B. Leach, attorney, and Paul J. Lynch, director of guidance at Bishop Watterson High School, with residence at 2976 Schwartz.

The co-chairmen were appointed by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner when he proclaimed Oct. 24 as UN Day.

The festival will be held Oct. 23 and 24 in the Lausche Youth Building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, and noon to 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 24.

Saturday's program will include exhibits, a food fair and an international cabaret featuring a popular orchestra for social dancing, and special song and dance entertainment.

Sunday's highlights will be exhibits and food booths serving international foods, folk dances and a special presentation of "Voices of the UN" by John Brock Jones, coordinator of youth activities, Catholic Youth Council.

The public is invited to all sessions of the festival. There is no admission charge.

Retail Merchants Rap PEP Measure

The Ohio Council of Retail Merchants raised two new points agaist PEP here this week.

John Mahaney, Jr., representing the merchants' group, told a public forum audience of 50 at North Broadway Methodist Church Sunday that he thinks the Ohio Council for Education's proposal — Issue 1 on the November Ballot— may be unconstitutional because it contains both a revenue-raising section and a formula for spending.

Further, Mahaney said it "discriminates" against efficient and honest retailers who keep detailed books on their sales. Businessmen who force the state to assess the sales tax on gross receipts could end up paying less, according to Mahaney.

He called Issue 1 a "sloppily written bill."

State Senator Oliver Ocasek of Akron, Mahaney's debate opponent, brushed aside the criticism and claimed the bill was properly drafted. He said that the public schools' pressing need for more financial support outweighs all other considerations.

Said Ocasek, "Too little support for education in Ohio could hamper the state's economic development."

Ocasek said an increase in the sales tax rate, as Issue 1 proposes, will hurt low-income taxpayers less than would putting the sales tax on services, as the Retail Merchants Council suggests.

As for a state income tax, which some propose, Ocasek said it might require a three percent tax to meet education's needs, reimburse cities forced to forego their present income taxes and pay the high administrative and enforcement costs.

SUM AND SUBSTANCE

COTA Meet Is Tomorrow

By CHUCK HARTLE

An annual meeting to be held in Columbus tomorrow will profoundly affect the lives of hundreds of thousands of Central Ohioans and their families.

It's the convention of the Central Ohio Teachers Association. The large mass of people so deeply affected will be the children not in school and their mothers who will have a taste of summertime "togetherness" for the day, especially if it rains.

About 12,000 teachers will meet in both Veterans Memorial and Mershon Auditorium. Among activities will be installation of a new president. He is Robert F. Darrow, coordinator of teacher personnel for Columbus Public Schools.

After intensive publicity over many months, Herbert Aptheker spun out his Marxist line to a packed Hughes Hall at OSU Monday night.

Hundreds were turned away at the gate as the program, sponsored by the Students for Liberal Action, got under way.

Earlier in the day, Aptheker was hung in effigy. It took a "cherry picker" crane to get the dummy down from the tree. Who knows what it would take to get Mr. Aptheker off the limb of logic by which he demonstrates that socialism makes possible a desirable human social order such as is found in East Germany.

and had asked that it not picket with large numbers. He would not identify the city officials.

Weyer's group later set up a card table and sold conservative books including "None Dare Call It Treason."

Columbus police watched the picketing from across the street.

Except for the two incidents of pickets being knocked down, the demonstration was peaceful.

HETIC DAY ELSEWHERE

However, other cities were not so lucky. In Oakland, Calif., police stopped the march of about 5,000 demonstrators.

An anti-war float preparing to enter a homecoming parade at the University of Michigan (Ann Arbor) was overturned.

Raw eggs were thrown at marchers in Chicago.

The Hell's Angels motorcycle gang attacked demonstrators in Berkeley, Calif., and a policeman's leg was broken in the ensuing riot.

In New York City, at least one student burned his draft card, and marchers were showered with paint.

Campus police arrested five students who were picketing a Marine Corps recruiter in the student union at Michigan State University (Lansing).

MAJORITY DISGUSTED

In Columbus, The Spectator interviewed more than 30 persons who passed Saturday's picket on High-st.

A few of those interviewed said they supported the pickets' goals, but most expressed disgust.

The Spectator asked the passersby what they believed was causing the surge in anti-draft, anti-war sentiment. The most frequent answers were:

• "American youth since World War II have been pampered too much and have not had to work very hard for anything."

• "The threat of nuclear war and the demoralization of society have bred a generation without hope and goals."

name of the organization. He then would only say that it was a "local conservative group."

He said that city officials had contacted the group

• "Communist professors have brainwashed many students."

• "Increasing emphasis on education — especially on the college level — has caused students to more seriously question their world."

Col. William P. Richardson, Ohio chief of the Selective Service Manpower Division, said he was "concerned" about the opposition to the draft, but added that at the present it is difficult to find out whether the movement is affecting enlistments.

"I hear more about opposition to the draft now, but I am not sure whether the problem has increased or whether the publicity given to it has increased," Richardson said.

He said he thought enlistments currently "are reasonably proportionate to the draft call."

Dr. John Corbally, OSU vice-president for the administration said he did not think those students in Saturday's picket were representative of the student body.

"They are only 60 out of a nearly 40,000," Corbally said.

He also pointed to the fact that OSU's three ROTC military programs have proven very sucessful. The Army ROTC unit at OSU is the largest in the nation.

"Military inspectors continually praise our ROTC units and the the fine officers we turn out," Corbally said.

However, those opposing the draft and the Viet Nam war apparently have not been discouraged by their meager reception in Columbus. They have scheduled another rally on the steps of the OSU main library this afternoon (Thursday).

Area High Grid Coaches Agree — 'It's A Crowded Sky'

A wise, old veteran grid coach [illegible] remarked when quizzed about the rarity of the forward pass in his offensive attack: "When you throw a football, three things can happen — and two of them (incompletion and interception) are bad."

There's no disputing that fact. But football coaches, at least, area high school [illegible]tors, are taking the odds on that one remaining benefit of the forward pass with more and more regularity these days.

IN FACT, you might tab Central Ohio football, '65 edition, as the "year of the pass."

For a number of seasons, a forward pass in Ohio Stadium (coming from the Buckeyes' side of the line) would have caused more stir than a flock of Dodo birds flopping down out of C Deck.

OSU didn't need the pass to win and took the safe side of the odds. But that's no longer the case.

SUNDAY pro games on TV has a lot to do with the high school switchero, state most high school coaches.

Watterson mentor Dick Walker goes one step further with the evolving pattern. "I think the biggest change is the offense itself," Walker commented.

More Varied

"Five years ago it was pretty rare to find a high school team using anything but the set 'T.' Today, offensive sets are much more varied with all types of wings, slots and double slots. These alignments put much more pressure on an opponent's defense."

THE THEORY that you're playing poor odds by passing doesn't appear to be a myth, however, if you consider the five-game records of the four area elevens who have leaned at least 50 percent toward passing (Pleasant View, North, South and Marion-Franklin).

Of the quartet, only one has a winning margin through five games, the foursome totaling seven wins and 13 losses in a composite grouping.

But when it comes to fan appeal, the forward pass has little equal. "We've been able to keep it interesting even when we lose. It keeps the fans happy," says North's Roger Hendrix, whose Polar Bears go overland about 75 percent of the time.

HENDRIX is a dissenter from the suggestion that more teams are passing more. "The real good ball clubs are still running," Hendrix says. "They only use the pass when they need it — to open things up."

The Bear coach admittedly would rather operate offensively with more emphasis on power football ("more off-tackle and counter stuff"). "But I'm sold on the running pass. I wouldn't want to drop that. But 75 percent passing that's just too much."

Loaded Defenses

Whitehall's Jim Kline, South's Bob Jackson and Arlington's Marv Moorehead all agree that it's necessary more than ever to pass in order to establish a running game and prevent "loaded" defenses.

AS MOOREHEAD puts it: "You must have the pass in your play book today. The day is over when you could count exclusively on a running game.

"The pros and colleges have taught us a lot about passing. They've proven that many types of passes can be thrown with a reasonable degree of success and a minimum chance for interception. We know a lot more about the passing game today. It's been proven to be a consistent weapon."

Who's filling the air with all these passes? Let's take a look at several of the area's top "pitchers" (statistics are for five games only):

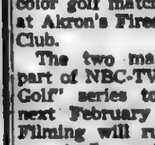
JACK ROTH, NORTH — a 5-8, 150-pound senior. Has completed 44 passes in 110 attempts for 675 yards. Has eight TD passes (at least one in each game) with only eight interceptions. Also rushed 50 times for 139 yards accounting for 814 total yards. Favorite pass is cross pattern and "flag cut" (down and out). Favorite target is senior end Phil Tyne who worked with Roth on passing game all summer.

DALE DAENELL, MAR-ION-FRANKLIN — a 6-2, 200-pound senior. Has completed 43 passes in 87 attempts for 585 yards and six TDs. Percentage should be much better, according to coach Jim Harper, but too many passes dropped. "Dale throws any time we get the opportunity (16 times in fifth game)." Has good size and speed but doesn't run much. Second year as regular quarterback. Throws from pocket, TD passes came on down-and-out patterns.

DAN HOFFMAN, SOUTH — a 5-9, 155-pound junior. Has completed 34 passes in 90 attempts for 460 yards, three TDs and two extra points. Has faced probably toughest defenses of top passers (Watterson, Arlington, DeSales, Central) with not overly strong South team. Favorite pattern is "down and outer," usually deep.

CHARLEY REES, PLEASANT VIEW — (six games), a 5-10, 155-pound junior. Tops entire area in attempts (145), completions (78), and total passing yards (844). Has thrown for nine TDs and has hit over 50 percent mark in every game but one. Equally effective from pocket or on rollouts. Best effort was 17 for 25 (177 yards) vs. Grandview.

Good passers don't always get to throw, however. Consider quarterbacks at Arlington, Whitehall and Watterson.



'Clutch' Aerials

All three elevens list passing as 25 percent or less of their offense. At Whitehall, 6-0, 195-pound senior Mike Allen has only thrown 44 times but hit on 23 of those tosses for 279 yards and two TDs.

THOSE TWO passing scores, incidently, came in the Rams' crucial win over Mt. Vernon when the Jackets decided to play it rough on Whitehall's ground game.

A strong runner, Allen is instructed to "run first, pass second" any time he has possession of the football. In 87 "handles" in five games, Allen has ran 43 times, passed 44 times.

At Arlington, Chip Neale has another kind of problem. "We've been blessed this year with a pair of quarterbacks, either one of which is darn near as good as any we've ever had," says coach Moorehead.

Neale

AS THE RESULT, Neale often plays only half the time but still has hit 18 completions in 36 attempts for 310 yards and three touchdowns.

The 5-11, 150-pound senior hit on seven of 13 (114 yards) vs. Urbana when the Bears went upstairs 31 times.

"Chip just doesn't get the opportunity to pass that he might on another team," Moorehead adds. "But his biggest asset is the rollout pass. He has excellent speed. In fact, he's fast enough to be a real good halfback."

M-F'S DAENELL

DITTO FOR 5-8, 165-pound senior Watterson quarterback Joe McDonough.

Accurate Thrower

"If Joe played for a team who threw more, he'd be a standout passer," comments coach Dick Walker. "He's a very accurate thrower."

McDonough's percentage underlines Walker's statement (13 of 23, five TDs). The Eagle quarterback's ability to hit in the "clutch" was proven in Watterson's battle with Lancaster.

WITH THE 'Gale defense bottling up the Eagles' potent rushing game, McDonough simply hit on seven of 10 tosses, two of which clicked for six-pointers in the 22-6 win.

McDonough's favorite pattern — rollouts with emphasis on the bootleg.

And you could go on and on — mentioning Jeff Wiler at Franklin Heights, Randy

NORTH'S ROTH

Yoakum at Eastmoor and several others.

YES, THE '65 emphasis is on the forward pass.

As one City League coach said: "When you see (Eastmoor's) Bob Stuart throwing, you know it's a trend." (Stuart's Warriors have a long-standing reputation for sticking to the ground, Buckeye-style).

Be A 'Giant Killer' . . .

What is wilderness? What is its worth?

Wilderness is God's untouched land, our land — as the first explorers found it. Wilderness can be properly valued after it is gone, replaced by the trash and pollution of unthinking mankind.

LAST YEAR, Congress enacted an important piece of legislation known as the Wilderness Act of 1964. It set certain Federal lands aside and designated them as Wilderness Areas. These areas were to remain virgin and uncut forever.

Paugh

Since that time, selfish people representing special interest groups have lobbied strongly for the right to sully these areas with logging programs that ruin the areas for the wilderness-loving sportsman.

The area specifically in trouble is known as the Boundry Waters Canoe Area of upper Minnesota. It is an area roughly on the northern edge of the Superior National Forest.

FROM THE Appalachians in the east to the Rockies in the west, the Boundary Waters area is the only designated wilderness area to serve the great section known as Mid-America. Special provisos of the Wilderness Act will permit 'multiple use' of the Boundary Waters land.

This means that roads, logging camps, power boats, etc. will ruin the virgin splendor of this haven. Along with the interlopers will come, as always, the litter and noise of civilization.

The Izaak Walton League of America has undertaken the job of alerting honest citizens to this one million acre massacre. It is a very big job they have volunteered to undertake. The only possible way to turn back the roar of chain saws, the harsh growl of the boats and the meshing of truck gears is through grass-roots pressure.

IF YOU HAVE ever pictured yourself as a giant killer, a hero in the face of overwhelming odds, here is your chance. If you enter the battle, you might very well lose. If you win, there will be no medals for you — you might never see the results of your efforts.

You may enter this battlefield and do your unmost without spilling a drop of blood or even leaving your home. It is the worst kind of battle. It's against the apathy of a sleeping nation.

Very few people will read this column and of those that do, very few have the courage to sit down and write letters of protest. (We just don't like to write letters, do we?)

ON JAN. 12 of this year, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman issued an history-making directive, altering the original management plans in favor of protecting the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

In response to his attempts to save our wilderness, special interests have mounted a major campaign to defeat his good directive. Only tremendous pressure from all over the nation can counteract the loggers.

Meanwhile, back home, will you take thirty minutes out of your busy TV watching and a couple five cents stamps to become a hero? Sit down and write simply this: Please save the Boundary Waters Canoe Area for the chain saws. I want my children's children to know how God made this land of ours.

OR BETTER yet, say it in your own words but SAY IT. Mail letters to:

The Hon. Orville L. Freeman
Secretary of Agriculture
Department of Agriculture
Washington, D.C.

And

Thank you Ike Walton and thank you, folks.

SANDWICH COINS
First of a Two-Part Series

Some time before the Christmas shopping season begins you will notice a shiny new quarter with a copper-colored pin stripe around its edge. This will be one of our new "sandwich" coins that will replace our present silver ones.

In size and design, the new coins will be just like the current Roosevelt dime, Washington quarter and Kennedy half-dollar. The new dime and quarter will contain absolutely no silver. They will consist of an outer layer alloy called cupronickel and a core of pure copper. The copper core between the nickel facing results in the reddish stripe at the edge.

The new half-dollar will also be a three layer coin but will lack the copper pin stripe around the edge. The outer layers will be of a lustrous 80 percent silver alloy; and the inner layer, or filling, will be a 21 percent silver alloy. This results in an overall silver content of 40 percent. All of the present dimes, quarters and halves have a 90 percent silver content.

All these sandwich coins will be slightly lighter in weight than our present ones. The new dime and quarter are expected to resist wear better than their silver counterparts even though their "ring" will be less impressive.

The reason we have had to go to this new type of coin is that our silver supply just isn't great enough to meet today's demands for coinage, jewelry, photography and industry. The world's silver mines can't produce what is presently required, and we will demand more as time goes by. Because of this silver shortage, most countries have already switched to silverless coins. If we did not make this change, the U.S. Treasury's silver stockpile would be depleted within three years.

The Treasury Department has been investigating various ways of making silver-saving coins for two years. Battelle Memorial Institute recommended the sandwich type coins last February after three months of intensive research.

You Get What You Pay For

Kids grow up fast these days.

One day they are on formula, the next on tricycles and before you know it on a 40-hour week trying to establish a toe-hold in a highly competitive world.

In their brief years of youth the adult world shoulders the responsibility of giving young people the tools with which to hew a new life.

Morality of the home and faith of the church are two of these.

But in the 20th Century, to send a young man or woman into the world poorly-educated is to send him forth to fight dragons with a paper sword.

Bexley schools are facing a crisis. Bexley prestige and property values are also at stake.

The city has a choice.

It can either maintain Bexley schools at their present, enviable position in the state — a contributing factor to the city's property values—or it can give their children a second-rate education.

The latter would be a cheap way out — for the present.

But lowered standards of education are no bargain at any price. Its tag reads "Youth Armed With Paper Swords," and "Cheaper Homes Because of Cheaper Education."

Voters can play ostrich, but it won't make the problem go away.

Good schools must be paid for today with tax dollars.

Poor schools are paid for tomorrow with botched-up lives of adults who were short-changed as children, and lowered price tags on city homes.

Bexley teachers, most important factor in any school system, now rank fourth in the state in terms of training and experience but have a lower salary scale than those in any surrounding community.

It costs money to attract and retain teachers with these qualities. And since Bexley does not qualify for any federal aid as do depressed communities, it is the sole responsibility of citizens to keep their school standards high.

Primary purpose of the five-mill tax levy is to raise teacher salaries.

Status Hasn't Remained Quo

The needs of youth, its safeguards during the growing-up years, and the needs and safeguards of maturity . . . much the same, yet in some ways different.

Responsibility and vision, and the wisdom of being prepared for an emergency are unchanging.

But varying is the viewpoint, the manner of preparing for the unexpected.

Bexley's problems were those of youth when the City Charter was devised.

But the city at maturity has assumed a new stature, a completely unique position. And there is a necessity to adopt a mature attitude to continue the city's responsible, secure status.

The charter must be updated to assure continuance of the good government Bexley citizens have enjoyed in the past.

Sections relating to duties of the mayor and succession to the office, should it become vacant, are not realistic today.

The amendments, if they are approved by voters next Tuesday, would give council the power to appoint any of their members, or a qualified elector of the city, to serve as mayor until the next election.

As it now stands, the charter specifies that only council president could assume the post should it become vacant.

The other amendment would give council the authority to separate the duties of service and safety director from the office of the mayor, should it become necessary.

Both are mature viewpoints, both are keyed to continuing responsible government in a mature city.

Expect Light City Vote Tuesday; Issue Pull May Be Key Factor

Neither Republicans nor Democrats in the torrid "nonpartisan" race for three city council seats are claiming victory with any degree of assurance in their voices.

Prediction of a relatively small voter turnout Nov. 2 by county election officials would seem to augur well for the incumbent Republicans. But some political observers feel that the "stay at home" vote just might have a heavier Republican flavor this time around.

The three Democratic candidates, James L. Baumann, M. D. Portman and Donald L. Woodland have followed a consistent theme of labeling the incumbent Republicans "obstructionists," and reckless handlers of the city's finances.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL

The "Unswitchable" Republicans — William R. Fornof, Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II, are just as persistent in claiming that the Democrats would be a "rubber stamp" for the Sensenbrenner Administration.

It would take a clean sweep by the Democrats to give Sensenbrenner a "working majority" of four on the seven-member council.

The heat of the council race has all but obscured the other two city office races. Incumbent City Attorney John C. Young is seeking his second elective term against the challenge of Democrat Albert T. Bell. The other incumbent Republican being challenged is City Auditor John H. Price, who faces Democrat Hugh Dorrian.

Columbus voters also will ballot on three state issues, a county bond issue, and two city questions — a $6 million urban redevelopment bond issue and ratification of an electric rate decrease.

The polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

COUNCIL REPORT

Bexley Okays Campus Plans

It takes a building permit to build in Bexley, and Capital University is no exception.

Construction under way on the university's new dormitory was halted until its planners came to council for approval and issuance of a building permit. Builders appeared at this week's session to correct their oversight.

Council also learned that ground breaking ceremonies for the planned campus center, with students present fored. the event, would be held Saturday morning at 11.

And plans were disclosed that new sewer lines, necessary for campus expansion, would be laid from Collegeav to Astor, west to Sheridan and Astor, and then to just east of Alum Creek. It will be 1967 before the $84,0000 project gets under way.

And, perhaps sometime in the future, five or six-story dormitories — to exceed Bexley's present three and a half story limitation on campus buildings — may be proposed.

Dems, GOP Swing Hard Final Shots

The spotlight on the Whitehall election campaign shifted, briefly, Tuesday night from the mayor's race to the contest for city solicitor.

Democratic candidate James M. Toomey, addressing a gathering of his fellow candidates, raised the question of whether his Republican opponent would devote full time to the post.

"I would like to ask these questions of my opponent," Toomey said:

"Is he going to continue his practice of law and his numerous other business associations, or will he devote full time to the solicitor's office? Will he continue to represent the apartment interests in whose behalf he filed a suit against the city over sewer tap charges for apartments?"

James Maxwell, the Republican candidate to whom Toomey's questions were directed, was not available for comment. He left the city last weekend for California, and is not expected to return before election day.

Toomey pledged that, if elected, he "will have one office only, and that will be in the City Building. And the Three State Issues On Tuesday's Ballot

All Franklin County voters will help decide the fate of three state issues and a county bond issue at Tuesday's General Election. The state issues on the ballot include:

THE STATE

ISSUE NO. 1 — A proposal to amend the state's school foundation program by increasing the state sales tax from three to four percent to provide an approximate $116-million annually in state aid to public education.

ISSUE NO. 2 — A permissive measure to allow creation of urban service authorities to perform public service functions on a regional basis. Such authorities could be formed only by a vote at the local levels to be served.

ISSUE NO. 3 — Would permit the same judge to serve in more than one court in counties of less that 40,000 population.

THE COUNTY

A measure to permit enlarging, improving, furnishing and equipping the County Juvenile Detention Center. The $1.5-million bond issue would cost the average homeowner 30-cents per year for a maximum of 23 years.

THE CITY

Columbus voters will ballot on two additional local issues—an urban renewal bond issue and a decrease in electric rates.

THE URBAN REDEVELOPMENT bond issue is for $6-million, but will not result in any property tax increase. The bonds will be retired from funds already set aside from the city income tax fund for such purposes.

THE ELECTRIC RATE DECREASE was negotiated between the City and Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., earlier this year, but must be ratified by a vote of the people to become effective.

IT'S HOMECOMING FRIDAY IN BEXLEY

IT'S HIGH SCHOOL HOMECOMING time, and in Bexley the event is a feature of the fa... with the traditional parade before Friday night's football game against Grandview. A locomotive for the "One Track For Victory" theme, is the senior class parade entry. One of the bevy of beauties in front of the float will reign as queen of festivities and the others will comprise her court. They are, from left, Sherry Smith, Gini Blatt, Carol Lowenthal, Penny Main and Betsy Kearns. And on the float, just starting to affix the thousands of paper rosettes on the locomotive frame are, from left, in in front, John Simpson, Mike McClary, Albie Schottenstein, Doug Smith, Mike Grayson, Bill Lavoff and Tom Shafer, and on top, David Cook, Larry Turk and Mimi Deaton.

A resident of 2681 Fair-av, she is married to Dr. Sheldon J. Mann, DDS, and is the mother of two adult sons, Richard and Frederick. She is a member of Christ Lutheran Church and a graduate of Ohio State University.

Schoedinger states he believes "in the continuation of the non-partisan administration of the affairs of Bexley . . . the absolute integrity and fiscal responsibility which has made Bexley a model and the envy of most."

And for the future — "The problems of a mature and aging Bexley are different than the problems while Bexley was growing. The major problem is maintaining the real estate tax duplicate and preferably increasing it to help offset the increasing cost of operations.

"I favor the appointment of a Citizens Committee to review the City Charter and make recommendations for changes to be voted on by residents."

He and his wife are parents of three children — Daniel, 21; Nancy 19, and Peggy, 14.

Loop Crown, Basement 'Prizes' In Bexley, W-R Clashes

Two area games — with opposite functions — highlight grid play this weekend as the '65 season heads into its final third section.

Bexley Lions (2-5) play host to Grandview's Bobcats (3-4) in the Buckeye Athletic Conference title game while Walnut Ridge's Scotties (1-6) journey crosstown to West (2-5) in an effort to keep the City League basement below them.

OTHER AREA games tomorrow night find Academy (4-2) at Reynoldsburg (5-1-1), East (5-2) at Marion-Franklin (5-2), Eastmoor (2-5) at Portsmouth Mifflin (0-1-6) at Gahanna (6-1) and Urbana (1-6) at Whitehall (6-1).

Hartley (6-1) rests until Saturday night when the Hawks play host to Ready (3-4) for CCL warfare.

Scores against commen opponents don't help much to figure a favorite in the Bexley-Grandview tilt.

THE LIONS have downed Worthington and lost to Delaware while the Bobcats have done just the opposite. Both clubs lost to Mt. Vernon.

A Bexley victory would provide a title share with Delaware (BAC season already completed) but a Lion defeat would hand the title outright to the Bobcats, who would close their loop sked with two wins and a tie.

Strangely enough, a tie would also give Grandview a share since the BAC operates on a point system and the Bobcats and Delaware would each have four points.

GRANDVIEW holds the offensive edge (80-44) but Bexley is stingiest on defense (91-161).

Asked if he believed the game would develop into an offensive or defensive battle, Bexley coach Don DeJong commented: "I'd welcome an offensive game on our part."

"We'll have to get our offense into gear and score some points to win," DeJong added. "We've had a lot of pressure on our defense all year."

THE LION mentor will be counting on that stout defense to reckon with Grandview's Iowa-style wing-T offense.

"They (Grandview) have a well balanced ttack," DeJong commented, "with a good running game that's complemented by a fine passing attack."

Most successful Bobcat plays this fall have been outside sweeps and inside counters with a flanker back going on the sweep plays.

Workhorse of the Grandview offense is fullback Ray Stegmeier. "He's not big (155 lbs.) but he's got awfully good drive," the Lion mentor stated.

DEFENSIVELY, DeJong expects to see Grandview's 5-4 "monster" alignment (three men deep) or a six-man front with linebackers playing over the guards.

"For us, it's simply a matter of getting our offense moving. The only time it's really moved this season was against Gahanna (second game) and that was mainly due to our passing."

THE LIONS' dormant offense (six TDs in seven games) didn't get going last weekend vs. Delaware either, getting no closer than the Pacers' 30-yard stripe.

DeJong credited his defensive unit with another fine job, adding that punter Mike Luby's kicking kept the Pacers in the hole most of the evening.

Delaware drove 37 yards for its lone TD after a 53-yard Luby boot put the Pacers back on their own three-yard line.

A FAKE punt run for a first down and a pass completion helped Delaware get to Bexley's 20 where the Pacers got the biggest break of the ball game.

On a third-and-ten situation, Delaware fumbled but recovered on an ensuing scramble which carried the ball forward to Bexley's eight-yard line.

"We haven't shown much offense and they haven't either. We'll just have to hope somebody slips an offensive play in there somewhere Friday night."

SO SAYS Walnut Ridge coach Ralph Webster, who rates his Scotties' meeting with West's Cowboys as a "toss-up."

The Scotties climbed out of the City League basement after a "too long" stay last season but need a victory over cellar-dweller West tomorrow to avoid a "dead end" finish this season.

"The team that scores first should have a distinct advantage," Webster commented, pointing out that comparative '65 scores on the two clubs prove nothing.

"WEST" (flanker-T offense) has a well-balanced team which passes well when it does to a couple of good receivers. Their line looks rugged and they've got better than average speed. (Fullback Mike) Hughes seems to be a biggest part of their offense," concluded Webster.

The Scottie mentor wouldn't hazard a guess as to what his offense might see in a West defense. "It'll probably be the one we didn't practice for this week. We planned on a 5-4 Oklahoma from Hartley and they never played it all evening."

"You just can't trust these coaches," Webster added with a laugh.

WALNUT RIDGE yielded 376 total yards to Hartley while gaining 142 on its own part.

Asked if the Scotties sustained any injuries in the Hartley game, Webster commented, "No, we didn't get close enough to them for anyone to get hurt."

Gahanna coach George Troutman is hopeful that Lion fullback Dave Belli can continue his "workhorse" rushing job through Gahanna's final two loop games with Mifflin and Grove City.

THE LIONS will be entertaining Mifflin tomorrow night for Homecoming and a battle for the coveted Blue Jug.

Belli, running behind the fine blocking of Barry Hennis, Nelson Bobb and John Marsch, was 90 percent of the Liens' offense last weekend in their "big" win over London.

The 200-pound fullback increased his All-State stock by rambling for 132 yards in 30 carries (4.4 average), running his seasonal yardage total to 935 yards in seven games.

TROUTMAN lauded the defensive efforts of sophomores Mel Heston, Bob Callicoat and Al Strickling and Doug Young, who came up with a key interception.

- We MUST NOT Go Back To Nepotism In City Hall!

VOTE FOR PAUL J. HAYTCHER AND THE DEMOCRATIC TEAM

Progress Means Moving Forward, Not Going Back

You can do more for a better Whitehall next Tuesday, Nov. 2. Your vote can elect men who will work with you to build a greater Whitehall. WARNING: Beware of last minute, irresponsible charges by those who would deny you time to learn the truth.

Our programs, our pledges and our charges were made public well in advance of Election Day. If our message sounds familiar it's because we have gone to the public for our programs. And we have gone to the public record for our facts. We ask only that you consider the same.

WE MUST NOT FORGET:

- That during Mr. Moling's last term in office he personally signed into law rezoning for 1496 apartment units.
- That the old City Hall was sold for $10.00.
- That $92,000 was paid for an old building to be used as a city garage.
- That Mr. Moling left the city on the brink of financial disaster through election year expenditures which reduced the total General Fund to a frightening $12,000.
- That Mr. Moling has refused all invitations to publicly debate the issues.
- That promises for a city park have been made during each campaign and today it is still incomplete.
- That an apartment was called a motel to circumvent a previous "freeze" on apartments.
- That choice appointments went to relatives and cronies instead of qualified individuals.
- That Mr. Moling has attended only one council meeting since being voted out of office.

EDITORIAL: Whitehall Needs Leadership; Best In Each Political Party

When partisan political platforms are almost equal, the voter is under the greater pressure to weigh leadership qualities of candidates. Such is the case this year in Whitehall.

Voters may be finding it more difficult than ever before to make choices in the councilmanic races. Both the Republican and Democratic slates are well stocked with competent candidates.

But leadership for the city begins at the top of the ticket — in the race between Republican Walter B. Moling and Democrat Paul J. Haytcher. And on the basis of proven leadership ability, The Spectator Newspapers strongly recommends the election of Haytcher.

Paul Haytcher has been more than a competent city attorney during the past four years. He has been a respected advisor to all Whitehall city officials, both Republican and Democrat.

He has been an able leader of Democratic officeholders, and a worthy standard bearer during the present campaign. Haytcher has balanced his campaign pledges with a performance record that clearly indicates that he will furnish the leadership so important in the mayor's office.

He has issued a strong indictment against former mayor Moling, who had served four consecutive terms before being voted out of office two years ago. But Haytcher has aimed his criticisms at the record of Moling the mayor, not at Moling the man.

Unfortunately, the Republican counterattack has been aimed at Haytcher on a more personal basis. The Moling supporters have indicted Haytcher for being young, for being an attorney, and for being ambitious.

This is the same Haytcher who served his first term of office during Moling's last term. And Haytcher performed his duties so well that he was not opposed when he sought re-election.

And if he were running for a third term as city solicitor, those who now oppose his candidacy would be among his strongest supporters. Instead, they charge Haytcher with wanting the mayor's office to further ambitions for higher elective office. But they want you to forget that Moling once was a village treasurer with ambition for higher office — an ambition he satisfied.

Whitehall residents should hope that Haytcher has plans for eventual higher public service, because he can best achieve such a goal by being the best mayor Whitehall has ever had.

And we think he will be just that if elected.

The race for city solicitor could be much closer than the difference between the candidates. Clearly, Democrat James M. Toomey is much the better qualified candidate. Toomey is a competent attorney and a thoroughly scrupulous man. His staunchest supporters include some of Whitehall's leading Republicans.

Incumbent Republican Council President Walter J. Siemer is another candidate who clearly merits the confidence of the voters. He is seeking a third term. Siemer certainly deserves much of the credit for the orderliness and "good conduct" of the recent councils on which he has served.

Six candidates are vying for the three at-large council seats. Two of them merit special mention.

Democratic incumbent Marvin H. Levine enjoys the distinction of being a "candidate's candidate." He earned this honor through tireless and effective service during his first term on council. He deserves re-election.

A newcomer to the political scene is Republican Theodore R. Harmony. He has conducted an intelligent, vigorous and purposeful campaign. He should be a natural for those voters who seek a change.

Incumbent Auditor Walter Helber, a Democrat, enjoys a wide margin in both experience and ability over his opponent, and incumbent Treasurer Francis (Red) Shaeffer, a Republican, is a proven performer.

Third Ward residents are assured of a new councilman because incumbent councilman Toomey chose to move up to the solicitor's race. We recommend a vote for Republican John A. Bishop as the better of two good candidates. Bishop has served faithfully and well as chairman of the Whitehall Recreation Board, and will bring the dedication and determination to his council duties if elected.

But perhaps the most important thing to remember is this:

Whether you agree or disagree with our conclusions will be of little consequence unless you exercise your right of a selective vote on Nov. 2. Remember — VOTE, and the choice is yours.

It's An 'On-Year' Election

The importance of next Tuesday's elections will not escape those who have a true concern for the direction our country will take in years to come.

The term "off-year election" is meant merely to denote that there are no state or national offices on the ballot. With far too many people, the phrase is synonymous with "unimportant election."

Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The "off-year," or local election is actually the most important balloting you can participate in as a concerned citizen. It is an election where you have a choice based on firsthand knowledge — not on what the press agents and image-makers tell you about a candidate.

Next Tuesday's elections are the most important to both you, the citizen, and the leaders of both political parties. It is a selection of tomorrow's leaders at the state and national levels.

It is the time for the most discriminating vote you will ever cast. Party labels are least important of all at the grassroots level of elective choice. This is the time for selecting the best individuals for responsible future roles in each political party.

Granted, there are the corrupt and the unqualified to be purged at the upper levels of elective office. But, it is a senseless waste of time and effort to boot them out and yet allow equally inept or devious understudies in from the wings — from the local offices they now hold.

If we would have the best state and national government, we must have men of quality and integrity in local offices. Can anyone deny that public apathy over local elections is the biggest single contributor to the election of unqualified people in the so-called higher public offices?

The simple truth is that the fate of our nation rests at the local level. Your vote next Tuesday can very well shape the course of national and international affairs.

Think about it. Be discriminate. And vote!

Of County-wide Interest

Judicial races are always non-partisan, and that is as it should be. But the relative merits of candidates in these races are almost always lost in the fanfare and ballyhoo of partisan politics. And this is not as it should be.

All Franklin County residents will have an opportunity to select two Columbus Municipal Court judges. The court has county-wide jurisdiction.

Candidates for the full, six-year term are incumbent Judge Alan E. Schwarzwalder and William W. Holmes.

The Spectator Newspaper strongly recommends that Judge Schwarzwalder be re-elected to office. He has had nine years' experience on the bench and has proven himself well qualified.

Judge Schwarzwalder carries the endorsement of the Columbus Bar Association, whose membership voted by more than 95 percent that he be retained in office. His record merits continued support of the electorate.

The second Municipal Court judgeship race is for an unexpired term ending Jan. 1, 1968. Candidates are incumbent Judge Kenneth L. Sater and Fred Rose.

Both are capable men, but Judge Sater would seem to be the more attractive candidate because of his working experience in both the Franklin County Common Pleas and Municipal Courts.

Meet Newsroom Nemesis

The femme fatale of the newspaper world is the pushy mother.

No other breed of reader causes an editor more headaches than the woman who trots breathlessly into the office and demands an eight-column spread about her son who has finally attained wolf rank in the Cub Scouts. Or the woman who brings the stupendous news that her daughter is to appear, along with 95 other tots, in a dance review with a non-advertising studio.

Beardshear

And the list does not stop with cubs or dance revues. It continues through honor rolls, junior club offices, high school achievements and beauty contests.

Nowhere in the world is there a more irate human being than a mother whose dear child's name has been dropped from an honor roll.

Hell hath no fury like a woman whose son or daughter was elected flag-bearer for the junior whimple-sniffs . . . a report of which she wants on the front page.

May the Lord preserve the unwary editor who does not take instant action on Wilbur's C-minus English theme on "What George Washington Means To Me" which was read to the entire 23 students in English I.

And woe betide the newsman who does not sit up and take instant pictures of Brenda Smersh who represented Finkle's in a supermarket lot beauty contest and came in 75th.

The pushy mother comes in all styles. Sometimes she is the cool, calculating, smiling charmer who subtly plants her story. Then there is the frank, outspoken and indignant mother who blurts it out and demands action. And finally there is the heckler who hounds every editor in the news room by phone and letter to plant her story.

Yes, the nemesis of the news room is the pushy mother.

But, God love her. She's the woman who provides the grist of journalism with the grind of current events.

And SOMETIMES she has something that is REALLY worthwhile. — TED BEARDSHEAR

"How Do You Think This Looks To People Abroad?"

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

Recently the State Administration's oversized staff of highly paid publicists announced their version of 1,000 days in office.

Many accomplishments were claimed, and some were overlooked.

For example one of the most obvious and one of the easiest to come by was not even mentioned. Do you realize that during these 1,000 days the state managed to increase its debt at the rate of $1,500,000 per day?

The claim was made that Ohio had vaulted to national economic leadership. Then came along the Wall Street Journal (which the administration had favored with several full page ads at $15,000) to point out that Ohio was lagging behind other large industrial states at a time when an all-time record prosperity was pushing the nation along to new records in jobs and gross national product.

Among other non-accomplishments noticeable by their absence were the 11,000 new beds for those Golden Age Villages that were to provide new life and hope for the elderly patients of our mental hospitals. In fact, in 1,000 days not one bed was produced.

The claims of new industries and expansion of existing industries again were just numbers. Time and time again attempts have been made by the press to verify these wild figures, but the Department of Development hides the documentation more carefully than Iron Curtain countries hide their failure in agricultural production.

It is almost time that the Ohio press begins to realize that it is outnumbered. There are more full-time public relations people turning out press releases for state government than there are full-time reporters assigned to the State House beat. It is impossible for the press to keep up with the new series of claims that are released almost daily.

The First 1,000 Days

In the face of by far the highest spending in the state's history, claims are still being made of large savings.

An example of this administration's hit-and-run technique came to the surface during the past two weeks. On Nov. 23, 1963, the people of Ohio were shocked when 63 elderly people died during a fire in a nursing home in Fitchville, O.

Many promises were made. The truth of the matter is that in the 1962 campaign those nursing home operators who were dissatisfied with the past administration's attempts to secure realistic and enforceable regulations gave political support and comfort to the present administration.

On Sept. 16, 1965, a fire broke out at Roni's Nursing Home on Franklin-blvd in Cleveland. Fortunately the 31 elderly patients were brought to safety. As the Cleveland Press editorialized:

"Nobody hurt, therefore no outrage. Yet it developed that the second floor and basement were in use even though the city had ordered evacuation."

It now appears that 65 out of 86 nursing homes in the county do not even have operating licenses from the State Health Department. Why and how have they been operating, some in the face of repeated complaints?

The Cleveland Press, which has strongly supported the administration, said,

"Must Ohio suffer another holocaust before responsibilities to human beings are fulfilled?"

The Plain Dealer wanted to know why an administration that prides itself on efficiency should permit this condition to exist.

The truth is that the administration is not efficient, it finds it easier to make promises than to keep them. Only tragedy or near tragedy seems to excite those who blandly believe the press releases.

Responsibilities to human beings are not being fulfilled in welfare, in education nor in other areas, but the flames of the damage to people and the state are not visible to those who might be able to minimize the harm even at this late date. Consequently, it will be left to another generation to sift through the ashes and attempt to recapture the loss in time and achievement.

Letters To The Editor

No Alternative To Issue No. 1

To the Editor:

Issue I is on the ballot in November because the cowardly, evasive and rubber-stamp majority in the Legislature failed to provide sufficient funds for education.

Our governor's austerity policy made him forget many campaign promises including those to education. Austerity for every facet of state government except GOP officials and Big Business has created a lamentable imbalance in state services.

If we want facts about Ohio's educational dilemma, we must rely on those engaged in education and not on the almost total captive press which serves the Rhodes chicanery.

Necessary taxes are inescapable and the life blood of government. Even Mr. Rhodes exemplifies this fact when he burdens taxpayers with colossal bond interest indebtedness while mouthing the myth of "no new taxes" to the gullible electorate. This huge interest tax will retard business growth in Ohio where profit was never a dirty word.

Additional sales tax is as imperative as it is distasteful. It is the most equitable mode of taxation because everyone contributed to it and it will not burden even those least able to pay. It will not adversely effect business expansion for which Mr. Rhodes claims undue credit.

The press reported that Mr. Rhodes has been approached to relinquish the governorship and become baseball commissioner. He could then continue traveling and playing and no longer be guilty of neglecting his duties in the governor's office by his absence.

We need a governor whose god is people not money.

Homeowner Favors Issue No. 1

To the Editor:

I am writing to oppose your editorial concerning Issue 1.

Your main argument seems to be that the Governor would not have to use the money for schools. He had better if he wants to remain in office.

I am voting for Issue I because taxes increased by the school levy have taken most of the seven percent increase in Social Security. I own a small home.

Isn't it just possible that with the many millions for the schools from Issue I, our real estate taxes will stop rising every year?

Slams U-R Publicity

To the Editor:

The proponents of the Urban Renewal Bond Issue must be desperate indeed! In a front page article in the Herald, Oct. 20, submitted by a member of the Columbus Urban Renewal Department, the writer calculated boldly that in the last paragraph he would leave the impression with the unsuspecting reader that the "program" (what program?) had the support of several huge organizations—among them the United Church Women, the Catholic Diocese and the Columbus Public Schools.

Being a Catholic, I questioned the implication that my church had endorsed the issue. A secretary of the Chancery assured me the Catholic Diocese has not endorsed this issue. Only the bishop speaks for the Diocese and he has not spoken.

Being a taxpayer I questioned the right of the Columbus Public Schools to endorse the socialistic concept of Urban Renewal. A telephone call to the Board of Education assured me the Board has not endorsed this issue.

The United Church Women were identified as "participating in the program." As a Catholic I cannot speak for a Protestant, but an interesting statement appeared on propaganda handed out at a meeting, Oct. 21, at Veterans Memorial: "Urban Renewal is endorsed by . . . the Executive Board of the United Church Women . . . and has active cooperation and support of the Catholic Diocese . . ."

The fact that individual citizens or clergymen have blindly lent their names to this land grab gives the Blue Ribbon Citizens Committee for Urban Renewal and the Urban Renewal Department no moral right to claim the support of the gigantic organizations with which these people are affiliated. This propaganda is prepared by professionals in brainwashing and is dangerous.

THE PUBLIC HAS A RIGHT TO KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT SO-CALLED URBAN RENEWAL. Public refutations are in order. They should be made immediately — before Election Day — not after.

Says No To Go-Go

To the Editor:

So "Go Go is Given a Go in Columbus" — John Auble Jr. must be finding it hard to find anything to write about these days.

There is enough publicity on this type of entertainment without putting nearly a full page of it in our neighborhood paper.

Otherwise it is a very good paper!

THE NEW MATERIALISM

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

A recent editorial in The Wall Street Journal criticized the architects of "The Great Society" for their materialism.

People who are totally absorbed in the increase of their possessions and the expansion of their personal comforts can be said to be materialists. According to American tradition Wall Street is their headquarters and The Wall Street Journal their Bible. How does such a publication, gaining its livelihood from the patronage of men who hope to make a profit, have the impudence to criticize the vocal humanitarians of the Great Society?

The answer is simple. The Journal is right. There has never been an American political administration that promised so many material rewards and comforts to so many people. And, unlike the ill-fated two chickens-in-every-pot hopes of Herbert Hoover, many of these goodies are to be delivered painlessly and without the requirement of any labor or obligation by the recipient.

Most of us are materialists to a degree. We do not willingly dress in sackcloth, or starve ourselves, or mortify the flesh. We glory in eight cylinders when six would do us well enough and most of the world still walks.

Nor should Americans be apologetic for our restless quest for the better mousetrap — we have developed techniques for convenient, opulent living that are the envy of the world and the despair of our ideological opponents.

But our current political leadership has embraced the dogma that social problems and collective spiritual illnesses in America can be cured by a simple outpouring of things on the part of government.

We are to cure ignorance by crash programs of instruction.

We are to cure crime by the construction of huge public apartments and playgrounds.

We are to cure child neglect by giving money to mothers.

Unemployment will vanish beneath a flood of job corps projects.

We will have a "war on poverty" and obliterate this evil by hurling gold at it.

Unhappily, our early experiences with this effort to follow the appropriations committee into the Great Society have not been altogether satisfactory.

Admittedly, it is too early to develop a fair picture of all these grandiose experiments. Certainly, a number of citizens will be made more hopeful, more healthful and more nireable by any windfalls in aid and training.

But whether for sentimental or political reasons it is interesting that these gigantic new aid programs have little or nothing to say about the obligation of the individual to himself and to the state which is trying to help him.

Instead, the idea is peddled that a cruel and unfeeling social system has been responsible for the fact that an individual lacks what he wants, that youths are in trouble with the police, that children can't keep up in school.

Long before the Great Society was thought of philosophers and religious teachers maintained that part of man's regeneration must come from within, and that the more one rationalizes a man's failures the less determination he will have to improve himself.

To buck up our under-performing citizens is a noble work. But to prop them up can be an endless and growing task.

School Executive Writes

To the Editor:

Any time citizens are faced with an issue for schools on which they may vote, controversy arises. I respect the right of every American to have an opinion on any issue as this promotes the democratic way of life. These opinions should reflect objective thinking.

I appreciated the letter from Mrs. Saunders which appeared in The Spectator Sept. 30. Like Mrs. Saunders, I wish citizens would think first of the effect their vote may have on the children of today and tomorrow. Personal issues should never stand in the way of educating our youth.

Unfortunately, we, as Americans, cannot vote no if we disagree on the amount of money spent on foreign aid, welfare, federal highway spending, etc. One area where we are permitted a direct vote is on school issues, and this is appreciated. I don't feel, however, that we should let this be the place where we finally draw the line and say "no more taxes." Good schools pose no threat to the future —they can only aid in the total advancement of our society.

I would ask that all residents of the West Jefferson School District go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 2, 1965, with a favorable attitude towards the bond issue for a new high school.

K. W. Harris, executive head

Disagrees With 'Spectator'

To the Editor:

I disagree with your estimate of the telephone program "Let Freedom Ring."

If their contentions are libelous, the remedy lies in the courts, and if they are merely "tripe" as you assert it is a simple matter to list them and rebut their alleged falsehood.

You may have a point in insisting that its sponsors be named, but not one editor or newsman in the State of Ohio has had the courage to protest the vicious Cincinnati ordinance making it a misdemeanor to circulate printed matter tending to cast aspersions on race or religion.

This is a direct abridgment of the press and curiously enough many of its sponsors vigorously opposed the slightest censorship of obscenity, pornography and perversion in film and print which is rapidly debasing our young people.

'One Bright And Shining Light . . .'

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Spectator Staff Writer

It was no good at all. The Toastmaster General of the United States tried hard but he couldn't seem to find much goodness in the world to toast.

Ageless showman George Jessel talked to some 70 members of the Columbus Chapter of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences Oct. 19 but his voice was throbbing like it never did to the strains of "My Mother's Eyes."

He was in Columbus to promote the Jackie Gleason talent search, and the local television professionals making up the Columbus Chapter of the National Academy were expecting to hear about Jessel's opinion of the 21-inch industry.

Somehow it didn't work out that way. Viet Nam was on Jessel's mind . . . the smelly, sleazy, dirty Viet Nam that Jessel wallowed in only days ago.

He saw action on 18 fronts there. He lived in a tin tent and saw people living like animals in the soil.

He stood there in Columbus in a double-breasted suit with a silk handkerchief in his pocket and wearing French cuffs but his thoughts were with U.S. fighting forces in South-East Asia, where he wore the uniform of the U.S. Army. He remembered seeing two company commanders embrace and kiss each other in the jungles there after each thought the other dead.

The usually jovial Jessel wasn't smiling now. His knee ached where he caught a piece of a Viet Cong bullet. He revealed this to The Spectator but he hesitated in saying anything about it. "I don't want to discourage other performers from going there," he said.

MAD AT STUDENT TREASON

The fact that Jessel was placing more emphasis on Viet Nam than he was on television didn't seem to matter to his Columbus audience. They had witnessed, or had heard about, the recent demonstrations by college students on the State House grounds protesting the draft and U.S. foreign policy in general.

"I can't help it," Jessel said, almost sobbing. "I just can't take it when I see college students acting treasonably against the United States of America . . . college students who never helped an old lady across the street or performed any other kind of human act.

"Who the hell wants Viet Nam?" Jessel asked. "We are there for a purpose . . . nobody wants to be there. But, if we let the commies take Viet Nam now, they'll march on later . . . to Cambodia, Thailand and even Japan.

"Saying 'let's forget about Viet Nam' is like forgetting about the Polish Corridor. Getting out of Viet Nam is as ridiculous now as a man living on the tenth floor of the Sheraton Hotel and saying 'who cares' when he learns that there's a fire on the third floor."

Jessel was spitting the words out. He was sincere and almost in tears. If the words sound cold here in print it's because you can't write voice inflections — or sincerity — into sentences.

SAYS HE'S BANNED FROM TV

When Jessel got around to talk television, his eyes didn't change, nor his tone. He condemned the influence of advertisers in dictating program content.

He openly admitted that he was banned from all television shows except Gleason's and Johnny Carson's. He said he doesn't know the reason why.

"There's another thing that bothers me," Jessel said. "There hasn't been one American of my religious persuasion to cross the threshold of the White House to entertain there in the last 10 years.

"It started during another administration," said Jessel, "and John Kennedy wasn't in long enough to change it."

But that was a digression. He wanted to denounce Madison Avenue's influence in program content and he did just that.

"Clients are dictating far too much today as to what goes on the air. If they don't like a joke, they order it out. If they don't like the color of a woman's hat, they order her to take it off."

He had a reason for making his point. The Columbus Chapter of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences votes for the annual Emmy awards. "Consider the advertiser's influence before you pass judgement on any program," he cautioned.

"I'm allowed on Gleason's show because he has spot announcements and Gleason . . . well, Gleason doesn't care if he goes on or not. He doesn't take orders from Madison Avenue or anyone else. He's his own boss."

Then it was all over. Jessel said his good-byes and recited a poem about friendship and walked quickly out of the restaurant. He hardly had time to hear the applause that's probably still echoing there.

business transacted there will be city business only.

"I have no conflicting interest that will prevent my serving the city," Toomey concluded.

Democratic mayor candidate Paul J. Haytcher told the group that the decision for Whitehall voters is whether they want the city to move forward or "go back to village thinking." Alluding to the May Republican Primary, he recalled that his opponent, Walter B. Moling, won nomination with 45 percent of the vote cast.

"I intend to be a 100 percent candidate and a 100 percent mayor," Haytcher said.

Republican candidates, in an earlier rally, were heartened by a turnout of 80 persons who braved a steady rain.

Council President Walter J. Siemer was the chief spokesman for the candidates, who were introduced by Moling.

Cites GOP Progress

"Look back over the years," Siemer said. "It has progressed when there has been a Republican administration. We don't have to apologize to anyone."

Accusing Democrats on council of "just simple lack of guts," Siemer said there are Democrats on council "who give no thought to city problems between meetings."

He asked for a return to a "complete Republican" control of city offices "so Whitehall can move on."

Siemer saved his words of highest praise for Moling, pointing to the former mayor's long service in elective office. He lauded Moling as "a dedicated public servant whose only desire is to serve his community."

The Republican rally included a magic show performed by "Skip" Moling, grandson of the former mayor. The youngster almost stole the show from the candidates, but finished in their good graces by pulling their individual bumper stickers from an "empty" box.

Whitehall voters will have their say next Tuesday in one of the most aggressive campaigns for all offices the city has seen. Only in the nonpartisan school board race is there a lack of competition. The three incumbents will gain automatic election.

The voters will also decide the fate of a .9-mill bond issue for construction of a multi-purpose recreation center which will include an indoor swimming pool.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, on Tuesday, December 7, 1965, at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall, 360 South Yearling Road, to consider Ordinance No. 62-65, Amending Sub Section 133.5 (1) of the Codified Ordinances of the City of Whitehall entitled "General Commercial District" to add to permitted uses bicycle sales and garden and yard implement stores.

Firemen said the fire started in an upstairs closet. Two of the children admitted to Arson Squad investigators they had been trying to smoke cigarets in the closet.

If You Live in Whitehall
LOOK AT THIS

The Democrats have chosen to use rough tactics and double talk. The Republican candidates have not and will not reply in kind. The candidates noted below are qualified for the office which they seek. This slate has enough new blood to insure idealism and Progress. The slate also has seasoned and experienced candidates which will insure the stability that is very important to the success of any city administration.

PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL

X | Walter J. SIEMER

Mr. Siemer is an experienced attorney who has displayed judicial temperament as President of Council and in his service as Judge of the Mayor's Court in the absence of the Mayor. Because he is completely impartial to both Republicans and Democrats on Council, he has been able to keep the peace in Council meetings for the past five years. HE IS AN EXCELLENT BACKUP MAN FOR THE MAYOR AND SHOULD BE RETURNED TO OFFICE!

MAYOR

X | Walter B. MOLING

Under the leadership of Mayor Moling, the City of Whitehall has grown from a village to an entire city. Mayor Moling is a dedicated, experienced and honest man who has proven his ability to lead. Everyone in the city is familiar with his character and his human approach to the problems of the city. Mayor Moling has been the leader in all of the development which has taken place in our city, all of the streets which has been improved and in the five-year struggle to get the state to improve Hamilton Road, all at a tremendous savings in cost to the citizens of Whitehall. WE CAN'T DO WITHOUT HIS EXPERIENCE AND ABILITY! KEEP ROLLING WITH MOLING!

SOLICITOR

X | James MAXWELL, Jr.

Mr. Maxwell is a successful attorney who has had experience both as a prosecutor and as a defense attorney. He was Solicitor of Whitehall during the period of Whitehall's greatest growth. He handled all of the finance and bond issues in the most important and critical time in the development of the City of Whitehall. Mr. Maxwell is noted for his ability to get things done and because of his experience as a practicing attorney and his dedication to the rights of the citizens, he will bring kindness and human understanding into play in dealing with the problems of the people. JUSTICE BEGINS WHEN MAXWELL WINS!

TREASURER

X | Francis E. SHAEFFER

Mr. Shaeffer is presently Whitehall's Treasurer, a former Councilman and Chairman of the Civil Service Commission. He has a complete knowledge of the city's financial condition, having served four years as Chairman of the Finance Committee prior to his election as Treasurer.

AUDITOR

X | F. Eugene COOK

Mr. Cook is new to politics, however he is an experienced accountant for business firms and an expert mathematician. He is dedicated and capable. We need him, as a Republican, to work cooperatively with our Treasurer, Francis E. Shaeffer, in handling the fiscal affairs of the city. Both Mr. Cook and Mr. Shaeffer agree with the conservative philosophy of Mayor Walter B. Moling in the handling of the taxpayers' money. IT'S TIME A REPUBLICAN AUDITOR WAS ELECTED!

COUNCIL-AT-LARGE

X | Theodore R. HARMONY

Ted Harmony is a newcomer to politics. He is an idealist who is also a doer. He has shown his desire to serve his fellow man by his varied church activities. He is a very sincere young man whom many of you have met and talked with about the affairs of the city during this campaign. WE SHOULD DO OUR BEST TO BRING HARMONY TO CITY HALL!

X | Linn L. HIATT

Mr. Hiatt is a working salesman who knows the value of pleasing his customers and his public. He is an experienced legislator, having served in the past as a Councilman-at-Large. Mr. Hiatt's activities in the Recreation Committee brought about the establishment of the Orton L. Davis Memorial Park. The children of our community know Mr. Hiatt well through his efforts to provide recreational facilities for our citizens. HE WILL DO HIS UTMOST TO BRING A WELL-ROUNDED EXPERIENCE TO HIS OFFICE!

X | Raymond E. SHIPLEY

Ray Shipley is a man without peer in the legislative procedure and one who is known for his prompt response to any complaint brought to his attention by any citizen, Democrat or Republican. Mr. Shipley has served on Council for many years and is well known to all of us. He has served on every important Council committee and is well known for his ability to see the problems of the community from the eyes of its citizens. THE CITY NEEDS RAY SHIPLEY!

WARD I COUNCILMAN

X | Lester K. BALLENGER

Les Ballenger is a reasonable man and a civic-minded leader who has served the First Ward faithfully without fanfare or rabblerousing. Mr. Ballenger has cast his votes without fear or favor and has exercised his best judgment in his office. HE MOST CERTAINLY DESERVES RE-ELECTION!

WARD II COUNCILMAN

X | Roger R. STAHLEY

Mr. Stahley was named Most Outstanding Young Man of the Year by the Eastern Junior Chamber of Commerce for his civic activities. He is now the Second Ward Councilman and has served with dignity and intelligence and with sincere regard for the rights of the people. He is well known to the people in his ward as a common and honest man. HIS INTELLIGENCE AND DEVOTION ARE NEEDED IN CITY HALL!

WARD III COUNCILMAN

X | John A. BISHOP

John Bishop is a serious young man who has served without pay for many years on the Whitehall Recreation Board. He is a civic-minded man who cares very much about the future of our city. He attends council meetings regularly and has studied the past and present of the city with great dedication. IT IS VITAL TO THE PROGRESS OF WHITEHALL TO ELECT JOHN A. BISHOP!

WARD IV COUNCILMAN

X | Charles R. CARROLL

Mr. Carroll will bring a fresh approach to municipal problems. He is a personable and serious-minded man seeking election as Fourth Ward Councilman. He is supported wholeheartedly by his primary opponent, Mr. Fred Cooley, Jr. THE CITY NEEDS MR. CARROLL'S ENERGY AND DEDICATION!

WHITEHALL RECREATION CENTER

A YES VOTE . . .

on TUESDAY'S BALLOT for the .9 mill, 20 year tax levy to finance construction of a $770,000 center of culture and recreation will make possible . . .

Of size, and with scope of facilities and programs to serve ALL residents, ALL ages, ALL interest groups with a satisfying program of fun, relaxation, recreation and entertainment, can become a reality now, not some time in the vague future.

• INDOOR SWIMMING POOL

• GYMNASIUM

For use by all youth and adult leagues, for area tournaments and play-offs, and for free-time play.

• GAME ROOMS

For everything from ping-pong, handball and shuffleboard to chess and checkers.

• AUDITORIUM WITH STAGE

For development of cultural interests, drama groups, Little Theatre, for presentation of musical programs, plays, movies, and lectures, and to double as a banquet room, a dance floor, or even an auxiliary gym.

• MEETING ROOMS

For clubs, groups and organizations, with kitchen facilities for serving luncheons, dinners, and light refreshments.

• EXERCISE ROOMS

For physical fitness program for men and slimnastics for women, equipped with exercise apparatus.

• PISTOL AND ARCHERY RANGE

For instruction and development of these skills, for development of pistol and archery teams, and as a practice range for the Police Department.

• ARTS AND CRAFTS ROOMS

For instruction in skills and handcraft suited to children, adults and senior citizens, including ceramics and painting, and also to double as meeting rooms.

ASK YOURSELF!

ARE THEY WORTH 2 PACKS OF CIGARETTES?

The benefits of health, happiness and well-being for Whitehall youth, adults, and senior citizens—realized from a recreation center—will cost the average homeowner the price of two packs of cigarettes a month, or $6 a year.

WHY WAIT? WHY NOT NOW!!

WHY WAIT until the city's capital improvements -- streets and sewers -- are completed before building a community center? The delay would be futile. Express purpose of the levy is to build a recreation center, nothing more, and its defeat or its passage would in no way affect capital improvements.

WHY NOT NOW enjoy the year 'round, wholesome benefits of family fun, games, swimming, and entertainment that a community center would provide!!

WHY WAIT? The proposed facility, to be truly a "center" to the total community, should be centrally located, easily accessible -- within safe walking distance to the majority of Whitehall Schools. Recommended site is on Yearling-rd, just north of the high school. Outdoor facilities immediately possible, within the center's cost estimate, would be a play area for tots, and perhaps tennis courts. The high school athletic field would be available for center use, and more outdoor facilities are envisioned in the future.

WHY NOT NOW enjoy a recreation facility that will truly be the "heart" of the community, centrally located for the good of all citizens!!

WHY WAIT before building a recreation center? Whitehall is progressing, steadily and surely. Business expansion, industrial growth, and building is apparent throughout the city. And this progress spells a healthy increase in the city tax duplicate. Operation of the proposed recreation facility is estimated to increase the current recreation budget by only $25,840 annually. The economy of centralizing a program now scattered throughout the city's schools, accounts for the low total cost of $53,350.

WHY NOT NOW enjoy the many-faceted programs that are definitely within the city's financial ability!!

WHY WAIT until city park is completed? Development of the park is not a function of the recreation board; funds for park improvements are not a part of the recreation budget. Delaying a recreation center would be a futile sacrifice since the center and the park are entirely separate facilities. The city needs both -- a city park and a recreation center.

WHY NOT NOW enjoy safe, supervised fun for the city's young people, and a leisure hours' program for adults and senior citizens to be found at a community center!!

CONSECRATION SERVICES FOR THE UNUSUAL New Christ Methodist Church, 1480 Zettler-rd, will be held Sunday, Oct. 31, 10:45 a.m., under the direction of Bishop Gerald Ensley, assisted by Dr. Claude Garrison, district superintendent of the Columbus District, and Rev. James H. McCormack, pastor. An open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. for those who would like to visit the church. Refreshments will be served during this time by the WSCS.

Fast Growing Christ Methodist Began As White Frame Church

The life and work of Christ Methodist Church dates back to May 7, 1851, when John Young deeded one acre of land near Courtright on the National-pk to the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church. A white frame church was built and served as a place of worship for the congregation. In 1909 a Sunday School was organized in the Whitehall schoolhouse. Two lots at the corner of Main and Ruby were given to the church by J. E. Koontz and a new structure erected in 1914. An educational facility was added in 1947.

With the growth of Southeastern Columbus, the congregation decided to relocate the church in 1956. Five acres of ground on Zettler-rd were purchased. After a year of meting in Scottwood School, the educational wing and fellowship hall at 1480 Zettler-rd, was completed and consecrated in the fall of 1958.

The church membership has grown from 463 in 1959 to 743 in 1965. To meet the expanding needs of a growing congregation, the church set out in June 1963 to work towards the completion of its facilities. The architectural firm of Wright, Gilfillen and Keske was hired to draw plans for the new sanctuary, plus administrative wing and parlor. Following a fund raising drive which realized over $100,000 in pledges, a contract was let for construction to Belco, Inc., general contractor.

The new unit is very unique in design, having the shape of a fish which was the symbol of the early Christian movement. Beautiful stained glass windows, in the narthex, designed by Russell Heizer of Westerville, through symbols depict the life of Christ and the sanctuary seats 450.

The altar area is circular in nature, accommodating 40 people at one time for communion. Overlooking all, is a 25-foot hewn cross.

The new structure has over 9,000 square feet in it, giving the church a facility of over 25,000 square feet, all on one level. The new structure was built at a cost of $230,000.

PLANS WORKSHOP

HANDWITH COINS
(Second of a Two-Part Series)

In choosing the material for the new coins, many engineering problems unique to this automated nation were encountered. Our 12 million coin-operated vending macines had to be taken into consideration as well as parking meters, pay telephones and automatic toll gates on our turnpikes. It is necessary that these devices accept the new coins as well as the old ones, since it would take years to alter them.

The problem was to develop silverless dimes and quarters that would deceive these coin-operated devices. At the same time, such things as appearance, wear and corrosion resistance had to be considered.

Battelle experts first considered metals used in coins in other parts of the world. Most of these, however, were quickly eliminated.

Aluminum is very popular but it is so readily available and takes impressions so easily that counterfeiting would be a problem. Regular CUPRONICKEL (the same material from which our nickel is made) is by far the most popular in world use, but it would be odd for a dime-size coin to be worth more than a large coin of the same alloy.

Pure nickel, as is used in the Canadian nickels, could not be used since it is attracted by a magnet. Even the simplest U.S. coin machines accept only coins that are non-magnetic.

Many of the more sophisticated coin machines employ an "eddy-current" test for density and conductivity that virtually identifies a coin's metal type. The laminated cupronickel-copper coins are accepted every time.

The new coinage will cut our silver consumption for coins by 90 percent and will, of course, be cheaper to manufacture. The Treasury Department is now faced with the problem of what to do with the millions of dollars in added profits. We trust that someone will find a way of using it.

Frosting On The Cake

By 'UNCLE DOC' ROSS—U.S.A.

For a half-century this Irishman has been looking at, listening to and writing about the American scene. Many times it has been great fun to marcel at the idiocies of the moment, the "temporary in" slant in human behavior and the immediate status symbol for all those who suffer with self-consciousness.

Today, it is "in" to be "way out" on appearance, dress, hatred of soap and hot water and be a socialist blarrerer. Well, my long-tuffering and tolerant readers, I now have seen everything. Last Monday night, Oct. 18, I went up to Hughes Hall at Ohio State University to hear Marxist Herbert Aptheker speak. I wouldn't have missed it for the world.

Two-thirds of the audience was made up of the sort of inferiority-complex show-offs that one might expect. The "farthest-out" bird I ever saw sat right in front of me. The back of his neck, what showed at all, was mangy and his ears had probably not been washed since he escaped from his Mama's clutches. This bird, his shirt open to the waist, sprawled out into the middle aisle and was bored to death, because he had to sit up and allow an older man to take a vacant seat.

The speaker is obviously an educated man and of foreign extraction. He looked and sounded as though he actually believed what he was saying.

So what? Only a small percentage of the University population has any real interest in the entire mess.

United Appeal, Politicos Both Want Tuesday Victories

By CHUCK HARTLE

After coming up short at the end of its regular campaign, the United Appeal drive has been made longer by a week. Last Friday night's "victory" dinner was the scene of Drive Chairman William S. Guthrie's announcement that the total collected was $335,432 short of the goal of $4,563,097.

Guthrie stated that the money is "there," but that volunteer workers have just not been able to get it on time. Consequently, the drive was extended a week and the "victory" luncheon rescheduled for noon, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

That means we've all got a second chance to do the generous thing.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

Election day is next Tuesday. It doesn't take long to vote and it is important. Also, you won't have another chance until the primaries next spring to make your opinions felt.

• • •

Success fills the air everywhere. New cars are selling at an even faster pace than last year, unemployment is down, and Beulah Park seems certain to set a new record in the amount of money wagered during a single meet.

Average put on the line is $280,896 for each of the first 13 days.

Two Columbus servicemen have returned from the war in Viet Nam with impressive records and honors. Marine Pfc. Raymond Gibbs, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbs, of 1351 Mound-st, was commended for "professional competence as a grenadier . . ."

Capt. George W. Ervin, of 2081 Farleigh-rd, is being reassigned after receiving 14 air medals while flying more than 350 missions in C123 troop carrier planes.

Anyone with doubts about politics being "smelly business" would have been put on the right scent by attending Monday night's Columbus City Council.

Two of the political pigskins being kicked around were these: An investigation of water pollution which led to bad smelling water last summer was called for by Council President Fornof. And city fathers continued jockeying for position on the purchase of garbage trucks. Council has withheld the appropriation while calling for new bids.

So far in 1965, 48 people have died in traffic accidents in Columbus. Of the 28 who were driving or riding in autos, none was wearing a seat belt. Police estimate half of them might have survived if they had taken this simple precaution.

• • •

Downtown Kiwanians have named Mack A. Grimes their new president. He is secretary of the Dean and Barry paint company.

Important new buildings in Columbus include the new Franklin County Red Cross Building at 995 E. Broad-st and the Ohio Highway Patrol Academy on the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The 32,000-square-foot Red Cross building includes the Regional Blood Center. The patrol academy has facilities for training and housing 100 men.

Rainfall in a three-day period last week totaled 2.22 inches. It caused the closing of many streets and evacuation of some families from their homes in southwestern Franklin County.

• • •

The OSU Art Gallery has reported the theft of a painting by the late Murray Jones. It was insured for $1000.

• • •

OSU is in touch with outer space. Just completed is the electronic instrumentation to receive and interpret messages coming from various government satellites in the university's four-dish parabolic reflector antenna system.

The installation, easily visible just east of North Star rd, is called a saucer field sytem. That's just about what it looks like—saucers in a field.

Upper Arlington and Columbus Watterson continue in orbit around the Ohio football world. They are ranked sixth and eighth respectively in the UPI Ohio high school ratings.

EASTMOOR BACKS HAVE 'POWER-LINE'

IF THOSE FOUR Eastmoor backs seated so securely in the foreground look a little snug, it could be because that quartet behind them will be playing on their side of the line tomorrow night when the Warriors hit the road for Portsmouth. Seated (from left) are fullback Steve Casto, halfback Phil Starks, quarterback Randy Yoakum and halfback Hermit Hawkins. Back row includes tackle Steve Gutridge (240), tackle Bill Wood (200), guard Steve LeFebvre (210) and tackle Gary Stewart (220).

THEY HAVE POINTS ON HAWK SCOREBOARD

Hartley's 'Scotty' (French) Puts Bite On Scotties; Gahanna, Whitehall 11's Get Back On Win Track

By BOB WHITMAN

The area football horses pranced proudly to the winners' circle five of six times last Friday night, with two of the wins coming at the hands of neighborhood buddies.

Hartley roared over Walnut Ridge, 44-14, East outfought Eastmoor, 12-0, powerful Whitehall drubbed Worthington, 22-0, and Gahanna stayed alive in the Mid-Eight League race with its 14-12 squeaker over previously unbeaten London. Elsewhere Academy nipped New Albany, 22-18, and Delaware stunned Bexley, 6-0.

WHITEHALL ENDED its loop campaign with an impressive win over cellar-dweller Worthington.

Herb Seymour scored for the Whitehall defense with a 75-yard run after recovering a fumble in mid-air.

The Rams dandy signal-caller Mike Allen passed for two extra points and hit John Bankes on a 14-yard TD strike.

RICK FOLTZ'S four-yard run rounded out Whitehall's scoring in a win that boosted the Rams' overall record to 6-1 and its loop final mark at 2-1.

Gahanna's magical fullback Dave Belli belted the hosts' line groggy for 124 yards in 29 carries to fire the Lions' over rugged London.

BELLI CRASHED over from the five-yard line in the third round to give the mighty Lions a 14-12 edge going into the final period.

Tension mounted in the fourth quarter and the Lions had sweaty paws as London's Big Red front inched closer to the goal line.

The hard-hitting London line spilled the talented Belli hard enough to cause a fumble in the fourth and recovered on their 47-yard line to have one final thrust at the victory.

THE GAHANNA defenders fought off that effort but barely.

London's Dick Cunningham motored to the nine-yard line for a first-and-goal, but that is where London ended its last drive.

Three passes were batted down and Cunningham's field goal bid sliced off to the left to give Gahanna the win.

BOB MACH added the other Lion TD in the first half on a one-yard plunge.

Cunningham scored for the Lions on a 19-yard run, and picked up 120 yards in 20 carries to pester Gahanna all night.

HARTLEY BOUNCED Walnut Ridge on the momentum of a 30-point first quarter.

Scott French, Hawk scoring leader, flashed for three TD runs of 37, 51, and five yards.

Hartley rushed for 340 yards and a tough defense yielded on 93 yards. The Hawks rolled up a 44-0 lead going into the final period.

BESIDES French's running, Joe Gatto raced 37 yards for a TD, and John Brandt tossed a 14-yard air strike to Larry Irwin.

Dick Wollett tossed for both of Walnut Ridge's scores — to Rick Houchen on four and 34-yard plays.

EAST, PACED by George Strickland's 109-yard rushing effort, bounced Eastmoor to stay on the heels of Brookhaven in the City League race.

Strickland cruised off tackle for four yards to give East the necessary points, but Chuck Wright added an eight-yard run for insurance.

It was almost needed, however, as Eastmoor moved from its own 40 before stalling on the Tigers' six, later in the game.

ACADEMY BACKS toured the gridiron on long drives all night as New Albany couldn't stop the long bombs.

Herb Douce rolled 98 yards for the Vikings, fullback Al Unetic drove 75 yards down the sidelines, and Jack Hannon raced 44 yards to lead Academy to it fourth win against two defeats.

Academy picked up 360 yards and 20 first downs compared to New Albany's 384 yards and 17 first downs.

DICK KELLETT was the big Eagle with two scores on 64 and 67-yard runs. He picked 167 yards in 12 carries.

'Fearless' Predictions

Except for a complete flop in the Mid-Eight League and a rather embarrassing miscue in the SSL title game, the "Fearless One" didn't do too badly last week, racking up a 16 right, six wrong score.

The perturbed predictor now stands at 117-42 after seven weeks. (For the record, "Fearless" is four games off his '64 pace at this time.)

HERE'S the outlook for week eight:

Senior Citizens Selling Mart Dated; Chairman Is Named

Mrs. Karl Ausenheimer, 2684 Regina, was chosen by N. J. Barack, superintendent of the Columbus Recreation Department, as chairman for the annual Senior Citizen's Selling Mart to be held Nov. 10-13, at the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st. The four day sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

The selling mart is sponsored by the Columbus Recreation Department and offers an opportunity to all citizens of Franklin County 60 years of age and older an outlet where they might sell items they have made. It is planned in November to help them secure Christmas money and to assist shoppers in purchasing original and unique presents, Mrs. Ausenheimer stated.

Mrs. Leslie Diehl, 3551 Wenwood-dr, and Mrs. John Young, 730 Island-ct, are co-chairmen for the intake of articles. The days for accepting merchandise are Thursday and Friday, Nov. 4 and 5, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. No items will be accepted after the Friday deadline. Mrs. Diehl said items are to be brought to the Senor Citizen's Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, should be either antiques or handcraft items. Christmas novelties should be personally labeled, and entered in saleable condition. Consultants will be present to assist the supplier with pricing, particularly with antiques, and Mrs. Diehl said only those items which are antiques will be accepted. All else must be handmade.

The sale is open to the public. The center is available by public transportation using the Mound Street bus or via the South Freeway (I-71) leaving at the Town Street exit. The center's canteen will be open for lunch both during intake days and during the sales.

Committee Raps U-R Bond Issue

The Committee to Remember Dennison Avenue urges voters to vote "no" on the urban renewal bond issue.

Chairman of the committee is Mrs. Virginia Matchett of 116 W. Ninth-av.

Mrs. Matchett says, "Whatever the goal of urban renewal, the methods for acquiring land have brought financial ruin to thousands of property owners nationwide."

According to Mrs. Matchett, the Dennison Avenue Project caused much hardship to property owners. And she maintains that these people are not alone. She claims the appraisals and the prices offered under urban renewal regulations are far below other appraisals and other prices paid for similar kinds of property in this (Dennison-av) project area..

Mrs. Matchett says, "Progress for our city is a worthy objective. But should progress be bought at the price of financial ruin for certain Columbus citizens?

"It is too late to help the Dennison Avenue victims but voters can do something to see that such injustice is never again brought to bear upon any other Columbus citizen.

"The practices of the federal Urban Renewal Administration cry out for reform. Until such reform is effected by City Council, Columbus should not be committed to any additional projects. Neither should any money be voted for such projects."

Issue No. 2 Is Town Meet Topic

Topic for the Columbus Town Meeting will be "Issue No. 2: Shall An Urban Service Authority Charter Commission Be Chosen?"

The telecast will be aired from 12 noon to 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, over WBNS-TV.

Radio rebroadcast of the program will be from 9:10 to 10:10 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, over WBNS Radio.

Speakers include: John Chester, Columbus attorney; Senator Thomas P. Gilmartin (D), 23rd District, Youngstown and Robert Southwick, Franklin County commissioner.

Moderator will be Huntington Carlile.

Viewers of the telecast can call in questions to the speakers during the show. Telephone number is CA. 8-3881.

Speak Of Low Prices

You the cars listed below are so low you would think the cars were in poor condition if we were to mention the price, so come to Bob Daniels Buick and see these trade-ins for yourself as you will soon see that these are quality cars at a far from quality price.

The REASON

is, we have to take less profit and sell more cars as we desperately need the room for the many, many more '65 trades which will be received in daily on our very well accepted '65 new Buicks.

Democrats Gain Council Control

By FRANK RYAN

Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner views the victory by the three Democratic city council candidates as a "vote of confidence" in his administration.

The winners — James L. Baumann, M. D. Portman and Donald L. Woodland — pledged "our earnest cooperation with other elected and appointed officials in our deliberations and actions."

One of the bitterest city council campaigns on record ended with the voters reversing the GOP team's slogan by deciding to "switch" rather than "fight."

The biggest surprise in the six-man council race was the last-place finish by incumbent Council President William R. Fornof. The other two GOP losers — Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II — were appointed to council this year.

The Republicans retained control of the city attorney and auditor offices, with incumbents John C. Young and John H. Price winning easy victories. Young beat Democrat Hugh Dorrian by a two-to-one vote in the city attorney race, while Price won by more than 20,000 votes over Democrat Hugh J. Dorrian in the auditor's contest.

Columbus Urban Renewal Department officials were stunned by the magnitude of defeat of the $6 million urban redevelopment issue which would not have involved a tax increase. One official said the issue suffered because of the negative reaction by voters to State Issue No. 1 — the one percent sales tax increase proposal which was soundly defeated locally and throughout the state.

He pointed to the more than 1,700 votes cast against the electric rate decrease as an indication of local feeling against issues in general.

Voters throughout the county turned down the bond issue for improvements at the Juvenile Detention Center by more than 15,000 votes. There was no organized opposition to the measure.

The only state issue to gain approval of both the

★ THE ISSUES ★

In Bexley

Bexley voters registered a resounding vote of confidence in the future of their city at the polls Tuesday with their approval of charter amendments by more than a four to one vote, and the school levy by a majority of more than 800.

The Spectator endorsed both issues.

Charter amendments give council the power, in the event the mayor's office should become vacant, to appoint any of their number, or a qualified voter of the city, to serve until the next general election.

Council will also have the authority, should it become necessary, to separate the duties of service and safety director from the office of the mayor.

Salary Scale Raised

Approval of the school levy was particularly significant, in an election that indicated a wide-spread rebellion against taxes and in view of the fact that only 37 percent of Bexley families have children in the city schools.

Prime purpose of the levy is to insure the continued high quality of Bexley teachers by raising their salary scale, now lower than surrounding communities.

Bexley voters are to be congratulated for their foresight in providing wisely for continued, competent leadership in the event of an emergency.

And by passing the school levy they have continued Bexley's high quality of education, and safeguarded the city's property values—partly determined by their schools' prestige position of excellence recognized throughout the state.

In Whitehall

The recreation center levy in Whitehall went down in a decisive 2144 to 1585 defeat, in the first, unofficial count. The issue passed in only one of Whitehall's three wards—Ward 2, where the center's proposed Yearling-rd site was located.

Disappointed proponents of the center, searching for an answer, looked toward the county-wide trend with its surprising number of defeated issues.

CAP PREXY IS PLOUGHMAN

WITH 100 STUDENTS as his energetic "horses," Capital University President H. L. Yochum used a plow to break ground for a $2 million Campus Center Saturday. The center, to be built south of the tennis courts behind Yochum Hall, is the largest building ever to be constructed on the Main-st campus. It will measure 196 by 158 feet and is designed to meet the needs of Capital's present enrollment of 1,650 and proposed future enrollment of 3,000.

Gala Homecoming Weekend On Tap On Capital Campus

Capital University students and alumni will have a gala "Fling in New York" this weekend, with local sites of the planned festivities transformed into New York settings in keeping with homecoming theme.

Golf at noon Friday at the Stoney Creek Country Club will be followed by a style show in Troutman Hall at the university.

"Lilliom," the dramatic production which was the basis for the Broadway musical "Carousel," will be presented at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall by the Masquers, the thespian group on campus.

An alumni brunch, a parade of floats and the homecoming queen's coronation will precede the homecoming football game with Wooster.

Beth Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Huber of New York State, will reign as homecoming queen, and

HOMECOMING IS FRIDAY AT WHITEHALL

REIGNING BEAUTIES at Whitehall High's homecoming Friday evening, Nov. 5, will be, from left, front, Rhonda Hopkins and Glenna Henson, and in back, Cindy Shipman, Linda Ray, and Kim Glass. The students' selection of queen will be disclosed at half-time during the game with Reynoldsburg, and the others will serve as court. A dance will follow the game.

Whitehall GOP Gets Council; Democrats Control City Hall

The emphasis will be on city government experience when Whitehall's elected officials begin their new terms next January. Ten of the current elected officials will be back — two of them in higher office.

Only C. E. (Bill) Leeson, Democratic councilman-elect from the Third Ward, will be holding office for the first time. The other "newcomer" is Linn L. Hiatt, who won election as councilman-at-large, and who held the same office on the 1961-63 council.

"Musical Chairs"

The electorate played the political version of "musical chairs" Tuesday, by advancing City Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher to the mayor's seat and moving Third Ward Councilman James M. Toomey into the solicitor's place. In the process, the city has its first Democratic mayor and a three-to-one Democratic edge in administrative elective offices, including Toomey and City Auditor Walter Helber, who won re-election handily.

But, if Republican City treasurer Francis E. Shaeffer feels out-numbered, he has the satisfaction of having led all candidates in total popular vote. He polled 2,267 votes, 558 more than his Democratic opponent, Layton Feiber, who sought office for the first time.

Mayor's Race Surprise

Toomey was 20 votes behind Shaeffer in defeating Republican James Maxwell by 527 votes. But the biggest surprise was Haytcher's 255-vote margin over former four-term Republican mayor Walter B. Moling. Each side in the hotly-contested mayor's race was predicing a much closer result.

W-Y Concert Band To Premiere New Score

Premiere performance of a new composition by the internationally known composer, arranger and conductor, Vaclac Nelhybel, will be presented by the Whitehall-Yearling Concert Band Thursday, Nov. 11, 8 p.m. at the high school, 675 S. Yearling-rd.

The concert is open to the public and tickets are available at the door.

It will be the first time as far as it is known, that a high school band in this part of the country has performed the first public presentation of a work by a composer of such prominence.

Nelhybel will arrive from New York Tuesday evening to work with the musicians Wednesday and Thursday morning, and be present for the concert.

A reception and seminar will be held Wednesday evening at Rosemore Junior High School at 8. He will use a piano to illustrate his answers to questions on composing and arranging. Everyone interested is invited.

Night Parade Will Honor Veterans

Again this year Franklin County's main Veterans Day event (Nov. 11) will be a parade downtown at night.

At 8:30 p.m. Thursday about a thousand marchers will proceed on Broad-st from Fourth-st westerly over the river bridge to Washington-blvd.

Veterans, military, and patriotic groups in three divisions will execute "eyes right" as they pass a reviewing stand in front of City Hall. A three-bomb salute to the dead and "Taps" will conclude the program. There will be no service in the Veterans Memorial this year, although some veterans posts will hold ceremonies of their own.

Robert A. Billups, coordinator, said the Franklin County Council, American Legion, again chose to hold the parade at night so hundreds more could take part and be spectators.

"Public interest in past parades has been pitiful," said Billups. "If ever our people need to show patriotism, it is during this Viet Nam crisis. We should crowd the sidewalks down there next Thursday night and be proud we're Americans."

Among honor groups in the reviewing stand will be: Spanish War veterans, Gold Star Mothers and Blue Star Mothers. Honorary parade marshal will be Victor J. Bodish, Columbus postmaster. Special guests will be: Mrs. Lester Merritt, 12th District Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, County Council Auxiliary; and Mrs. Helen Cotter of the Eight And Forty.

Miss Johnson Becomes Mrs. Davis As Vows Are Repeated At Parkview

The Parkview Presbyterian Church of Reynoldsburg was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Miss Sherry Lynn Johnson to Mr. Roger Stuart Davis on Sept. 4. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Johnson, 430 Taylor-rd, Reynoldsburg, and Mr. Davis is the son of Mrs. Florence Mickey, 39 Collingwood-av.

Dr. Vernon P. Martin, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony against a setting of ferns and arrangements of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white brocade featuring a fitted bodice, natural waistline and three-quarter length sleeves. The controlled belle front skirt flowed into a chapel train at the back waist. The front neckline was a soft scoop, the back a V neckline.

Her three tier ballerina-length veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by an open crown fashioned of seed pearls and lace.

Miss Joan L. Johnson served her sister as maid of honor in a floor-length sheath gown featuring an empire waistline with soft gold French crepe skirt and deeper gold brocade top. The soft scoop front neckline was squared in back where a floor-length brocade panel fell from a self bow. She carried a cascade of bronze, tan and yellow mums and bronze sea oats.

Bridesmaids, Miss Janice Davis, sister of the bridegroom and junior bridesmaid, Miss Nan Lynn Alley, cousin of the bride from Cincinnati, wore gowns identically styled to the honor attendant, with soft green skirts, emerald brocade tops and back panels. Matching brocade bows held their scalloped short veils and they carried cascades of yellow and tan mums and natural sea oats.

Serving as flower girl, Miss Lori Lee Smith, cousin of the bride from Newark, wore a floor-length gown of lilac organza with matching purple hat and belt and carried a white lace basket with rose petals.

Mr. Harold Metzger, Jr., served as best man, while Mr. Thomas E. Davis, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Joe Phillips, seated the wedding guests.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church.

The couple is residing at 4709 E. Broad-st.

Christmas Cards Bear German Village Scene

Original art work by Leland S. McClelland, featuring a German Village scene, has been chosen by Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae members for the Christmas card they will distribute this year to benefit the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

McClelland, a well known, local artist, drew a typical red brick German Village home, decorated for the holidays, to portray the season's greetings.

Sorority members are mailing over 15,000 sample cards to local residents and businessmen to show the special greetings that can be used this Christmas to help someone less fortunate.

The cards have a small message printed inside that reads, "By sending this greeting we have contributed to the program of direct services of the Society for Crippled Children."

Any amount of cards may be ordered for Christmas mailing from Alpha Gamma Delta members or from the Crippled Children's office, 555 S. Monroe-av, Columbus 43205, telephone 253-5523.

The cost of the cards is a donation to the society for the amount that is ordinarily spent for conventional Christmas cards. This amount is tax deductible.

The Christmas card project has been an undertaking of Alpha Gamma Delta for several years. Miss Margaret Lunn, 2116 Summit-st, is the altruistic chairman for Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae.

BOWL YOUR WAY TO SUNNY FLORIDA AT HEART FUND BOWLING TOURNEY

Plans for the ninth annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament are being announced by Tahlman Krumm, 65 Meadow Park-av, president of the Franklin County Heart Association. Earl R. Flora, 3654 Dublin-rd, will serve as chairman.

Dates for the tournament are Nov. 7-13. For the second successive year a roll-off will be a feature. Highest scoring man and woman at each house in Franklin County and at those in the Central Ohio Heart Association's 47-county area will be eligible to compete.

The roll-off will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, at Olentangy Village Lanes. Winners — a man and a woman —will be awarded a trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for themselves and their spouses for a week's stay at the Yankee Clipper Hotel, and other prizes to make the trip a gala vacation. All prizes have been donated.

Members of the tournament committees are Ray Adams, 67 Summit-st; Marge Ernst, 2143 Fairfax-rd; Nita Ditrick, 1097 17th-av; Jane Holliday, 3755 Karl-rd; Paul Hornung, 3995 Mountview-rd; Tom Keys, 395 S. Chesterfield-rd; Flo Seeds, 2583 Atwood Terrace; Annie Shaw, 170 Olentangy-st; Darlene Smathers, 4644 Morris-av, and Marge Werkhaven, 2585 Andover-rd.

Tourney is sponsored by the Franklin County Heart Association in cooperation with proprietors of local lanes. Last year's tournament netted $8,392 for research.

Tournament rules remain unchanged from previous years. League bowlers can compete at the same time they roll in league competition any time during tournament week by filling out an entry blank and payment of a $1 entry fee.

Seventy cents of this goes to support research for more knowledge about cardiovascular diseases, which, despite great advances are still the No. 1 killer. The remaining 30 cents is used for cash prizes at the individual lanes.

Scores are determined on the basis of the number of pins downed over the bowler's established league average in a three-game series. This gives low scorers as well as experts a chance at the prizes, Flora pointed out. Entry blanks will be available at the lanes.

GETTING INSTRUCTIONS for the ninth annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament from tournament committee member, Annie Shaw (left), is Juanita Reed, 3052 Atwood-ter, chairlady for Broad Olympic Lanes. Tournament will be held at all local lanes, Nov. 7 through 13.

Landmarks In Watercolor Displayed At Scottwood

Bill Arter

Watercolor scenes of familiar Columbus and Central Ohio landmarks are included in the current exhibit at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd. They are the work of Bill Arter, whose diverse skills as a business executive, journalist, professor, and artist, are well-known to readers who follow his weekly column, "Vignettes," in the Sunday Magazine Section.

A native of Hillsboro, Arter attended Columbus Art School and was graduated from OSU where he has taught classes in advertising and design for 19 years. Now a visiting assistant professor in the School of Journalism, his articles have appeared in such national magazines as Industrial Marketing, Ladies Home Journal, True, American Business, and many others. His weekly science feature, "Today's World," appeared in 400 dailies throughout the U. S. from 1957-62.

In addition to his journalistic pursuits, Arter is a serious painter whose work has appeared in shows at the Athletic Club, Ohio Union, Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, and the Schumacher Gallery of Capital University. He was presented the Award of Excellence by the Art Directors Club of Columbus during their third annual exhibit in 1961.

The artist, who is vice-president and creative director of Byer and Bowman Advertising Agency, is currently in the process of capturing via watercolor all of Ohio's 88 courthouses.

Included in the Scottwood Community Church exhibit are original "Vignettes" of Central Market, Eugene Gray House (Kappa Kappa Gamma Headquarters), and the Schumacher Home, as well as watercolor paintings of the Columbus skyline from Sixth and Oak, and a view of Broad and High as seen from Trinity churchyard.

The exhibit will remain on display through November, and may be viewed daily from 9 to 5 and on Sundays, 9 to noon and 5 to 7 p.m.

'And They All Forsook Him . . .'

Orth

During my 30 years of ministry I have served my Lord in many congregations. Don't tell me people everywhere are the same — they certainly are not.

But in one respect, I have found out they are the same. Whenever the pastor tries to get away from conventional Christianism, whenever he dares to preach the gospel boldly and sincerely — the way Jesus used to preach it — an uproar will follow and you will be reminded that you are scaring people away and if they will not support the church they will be unable to pay your salary.

I just used a general example, but what I want to say is that on such occasions, when undoubtedly the preacher is right, all the seemingly sincere and good church members keep silent, disappear. Yes, they just follow the example of the disciples in Gethsemane. . . "And they all forsook Him and fled."

There is an old story of a dictator who was a hunchback. He could speak with such eloquence that it took him little time to convince people that it is the greatest honor to be a hunch back. So, very soon everybody looked like him.

But one day a young man threw away his burden from his back and openly declared that the dictator was a false prophet. He was arrested, his execution set to a certain time. But when the people saw his half-naked body tied to the stake they all started to throw away their humps and it was a matter of hours to depose their tormentor.

One just person in any congregation who has the courage to stand up for the truth can change the tide of events because, don't forget, a brave, God-fearing man or woman compose an overwhelming majority.

'Oh, What A Tangled Web..'

Deception apparently has become so ingrained in our present state leadership that it must be the chief ingredient of even basically worthy proposals.

The issue this time is re-apportionment of the state. And the final result achieved by the Ohio Apportionment Board may, in retrospect, prove to be the least inequitable of the various methods suggested to date.

But the best interests of the state never are served when major public decisions are made in secret meetings of elected public officials. Secrecy in government should begin and end in the voting booth.

The totally Republican Ohio Apportionment Board includes three of the state's top elected officials, the Governor, auditor and secretary of state. Each of these officeholders took the same oath to serve ALL Ohio citizens. Each has violated that oath.

Their decision to re-apportion the state was founded and grounded in political partisanship. And the final compromise was put forth only after the Federal District Court clearly indicated that it could wait no longer for a decision from state government leadership.

A review of the Ohio apportionment dilemma shows clearly that the controlling Republican leadership sought to circumvent the U.S. Supreme Court "one man - one vote" ruling. Only as a last, desperate act did they meet the minimum requirements of the High Court's decision.

The original plan supported by Governor Rhodes was placed on the ballot by a special session of the Republican-dominated 105th General Assembly. The people defeated the plan in last May's election.

The saddest aspect of that decision by the electorate is that it was an exercise in futility. Even those who promoted the abortive Republican re-apportionment plan must now admit that it would not have met the U.S. Supreme Court requirements even if it had passed.

Republicans continued to hold the balance of power in both state offices and the Legislature after the 1964 elections. And re-apportionment moved not one step closer to reality during one of the longest legislative sessions of record.

Then came the "11th hour" political compromise by the Republican Apportionment Board. Because the plan won approval of the three-member Federal District Court, it may well be in effect for the 1966 elections.

But the Apportionment Board's plan may have no more than "temporary" effect in Ohio because the board members may have exceeded their authority under the Ohio Constitution. This question must yet be answered in the courts.

Had the Apportionment Board members acted openly and in the public interest, there would not now be so much bitterness and confusion; there would not have been a highly emotional (and worthless) issue on last May's state ballot, and there would not have been such senseless waste of tax dollars.

The present Republican concept of government by "sloganitis" unfortunatey suggests adoption of the motto "Deception Is Not a Dirty Word in Ohio."

Be Safe, Not Sorry

Personnel from the Columbus Division of Housing Inspection are concentrating this week on checking heating equipment as part of the annual "Monoxide Drive Week."

In the seven years since the program started, there has been a marked decrease in reports of people falling victim to monoxide fumes in the home.

The rules of safety for properly functioning heating equipment are relatively simple and easily obtainable from city officials or your nearest fire station.

There is no such thing as a minor defect in heating units when the defect can lead to monoxide fumes.

If you haven't made your annual check of heating equipment in your home, do it now. You may save your family a visit by the rescue squad.

"A Guy's Entitled To A Jury Of His Peers, Ain't He?"

The Riot That Wasn't

Let's talk about gossip — and stupidity.

Gossip can be relatively harmless, such as "Mrs. So and So looks pregnant" or "the Joneses bought a new convertible when they are old enough to settle for a sedan."

Gossip can also be vicious.

Mrs. Robinson

Reputations have been ruined, homes broken and businesses bankrupted by those whose tongues resemble a Gatling gun.

Recently gossipmongers had a real heyday in Circleville.

The rumor they spread was vicious — and it was dangerous.

It concerned civil rights leaders moving into Circleville and readying a racial demonstration to be staged during the Pumpkin Show.

The story, according to Circleville Police Chief Bob Temple, spread throughout the entire state.

After hearing about it (complete with the tale of the city being jam-packed with out-of-state cars), a half-dozen times the week before the show, I smelled panic and drove down.

My pride in my reporter's nose hit bottom when Temple patiently told me that probably I was the last representative of news media in Ohio to contact him.

My faith in hyperbole soared when I counted three strange automobile plates, including the one on a power-line repair truck.

And my disgust with rumor skyrocketed when the chief filled me in on the latest.

He had been informed that 20,000 Negroes were camped at the edge of town. (The only strange trailer we could find was a stored vehicle belonging to Gooding Amusement Co.)

He had also heard he had already issued king-sized billy clubs, tear gas and crash helmets to his force. (An inspection of the men's lockers revealed nothing more interesting than a pin-up gal in a garb conducive to pneumonia.)

The report that civil rights leaders were gathered outside of Detroit making preparations for a 10,000-strong paratroop drop on Circleville probably was the most preposterous of the stories making the rounds.

The only fact to the entire rigamarole was that a dance was planned the last night of the Pumpkin Show — one of a series that in the past has enjoyed large Negro attendance.

The Pumpkin Show is now history.

It went smoothly, dimmed only by the weather.

But Temple is still appalled at the wildfire rumors.

What could have happened if there had been a personality clash and a fistfight?

The hue and cry could well have gone up, "THIS IS IT!"

And the riot could have begun.

God gave man two eyes and only one mouth.

Maybe this would be a better world if he would use them in that ratio.—JANE ROBINSON

Calling Ohioans

By MICHAEL V. DiSALLE

Secrecy in the handling of public affairs deserves to be looked upon with suspicion.

Obvious attempts to circumvent law or even accepted public policy should be observed with concern. Slickness in attempted explanations of why the public and press were excluded from deliberations which were of total concern to the people of Ohio deserves the unstinting attack of those self-styled guardians of "freedom of the press."

It is doubtful that any one topic has been the subject of more discussion and debate during the past two years than legislative reapportionment. It was the subject of a hard-fought constitutional amendment. The General Assembly spent much of the last session attempting to find a solution. The question has been and continues to be the subject of litigation.

Ohio has been known as a leader in the adoption of the open meeting law. Yet three top officials of the executive branch of state government held secret meetings and as a result of those meetings announced what they called an accomplished plan for reapportionment. Very little editorial concern was heard from the press as to the secret method used.

Section 121.22 R. C. makes specific provision not only that meetings of boards and state agencies or authority be open but also that the minutes of such meetings be promptly recorded and such records shall be open to public inspection.

Not only were these meetings not open but the minutes were not promptly recorded or available for inspection. One of the individuals present gave a rather weak excuse that the three officials did not constitute a board nor did there exist an apportioning board. The case of State Ex rel Herbert v Bricker

Secrecy Works Against Public

1390S499 refers to an apportioning board consisting of the Governor, auditor of state and secretary of state and refers to their constitutional obligations in making an apportionment at the end of the decennial period.

But even should the Constitution of the State of Ohio not make specific reference to a formal name, it is the obligation of public officials to observe the spirit as well as the letter of the law. This responsibility rests on all public officials, but specifically on those to whom others must look for example.

Letting alone the questionable method utilized by the apportioning board, we cannot help but raise the implicit constitutional question. Art. XI Sec. 11 states that the three officials or a majority of them shall act at least six months prior to the election following the decennial census. Having acted under a mandatory section of the constitution which provides that they act at that time for the ensuing decennial, does the board still possess the authority to act again prior to 1971?

The harm resulting from secret meetings, the lack of public notice and hearings is quite evident in the results of their closed deliberations. Whole political subdivisions have been left out of the announced plan. Boards of elections will be forced to unwind actions taken pursuant to the 1960 census; that is, if the secret reapportionment plan is sustained.

It is not enough to justify the plan as being fair because some political leaders of both parties are complaining about the political results. What is really important is that the law was violated, the public was had and public confidence in government has been set back.

Letters To The Editor

Blasts Reapportionment

To the Editor:

The method that Gov. James Rhodes and the other members of the Reapportionment Board used in carving up the state is an example of the worst sort of dictatorship.

In the first place they met in secret and the public was not aware of their conniving and did not have an opportunity to make any suggestions. In the second place, their jig-saw puzzle apportionment deprives thousands of citizens of proper legislative representation.

The present House membership of 137 and 33 senators really is not sufficient to give the ten million people who live in Ohio adequate representation in the formation of our laws. To reduce this membership is undermining our democracy.

Instead it should be increased. Look at the state of Vermont with a population of 339,881. It has 246 state representatives and 30 senators; and New Hampshire, with a population of 606,921, has 400 representatives and 24 senators.

Mr. Rhodes and his rubber stamp board had the audacity to cut the House membership to 99 and put the Senate to 33. They have scrambled two, three and four counties together, allowing only one representative for each respective group of counties.

It is to be hoped that the courts will nullify Mr. Rhodes' unfair and diabolical scheme of reapportionment.

Concerned About Pollution

To the Editor:

Several years ago I called attention to the danger created in the drinking water of this city by the sea-going monsters that ply the two city dams, night and day, keeping our drinking water in a constant state of roil, contaminating it with poison from gas and oil from underwater exhausts and grease.

The experts are taking note of this at long last but are being over-cautious in not spelling it out in plain understandable language. People are using these reservoirs for recreational purposes, building homes with cesspools that dump into solid rock, with little or no absorbing leaching beds, due to laws that either do not exist or are completely ignored.

The City of Columbus is faced with a dangerous situation and must now choose between making a play house and garbage dump of these reservoirs or eliminating all contributing conditions.

The citizens have reason to demand that the city move fast to clean up this mess.

Hopes City Keeps Market

To the Editor:

I have been going to Central Market since I could first walk — that is going back more than 50 years.

I know all of the butchers and vegetable men by their first names. I go every Saturday morning at 7:30 and the place is crowded.

Whoever wrote that editorial a few weeks ago must have been there after closing time.

As far as prices are concerned, you can buy one apple or orange, or two slices of lunch meat, or even a bargain English roast. Try to get those in a supermarket.

I have been reading all about this market house deal and that there's a chance the city will sell it. I believe it is a political football.

Everyone I have talked to (ever since we all made out cards to keep the market) say they want it kept. They should write in their feelings again. The City of Columbus should have kept the building in good repair. All it needs now is some downspouting and paint inside.

Since I have spoken my piece, I would like to hear from others.

About That License Money . . .

To the Editor:

Having read Mr. William L. White's letter in your letters section, I feel that it is my obligation to write this.

Being an avid fisherman and hunter I was very disappointed last spring to hear that my license money was used for propaganda purposes by Gov. James Rhodes. I believe that this money should be used to restock the waters or to create wildlife habitat.

There also is a very serious problem of restoring a lot of our waters to a pure state.

I believe that this money could be used for what it is intended by people who buy these licenses. I do hope that I am not alone in my ideas.

THE STUDENT LEFT

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Editor, Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

The auditorium in the Commerce Building at the University of Wisconsin belongs to the people of Wisconsin. But the voice coming out of the loudspeaker belonged to Cheddi Jagan, Marxist ex-prime minister of British Guiana. And the speech was a down-the-communist-Party-line denunciation of the U.S.A.

It was my first "teach-in." This one had a twist. A mass meeting protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam was being held on the campus of Toronto University, and it was being piped to a number of American campuses.

The University of Wisconsin has long been beloved of the left-wing, not because the University is dedicated to Marxist revolution, but because of its rigid adherence to a dogma that its students and faculty may use university facilities to preach anything they wish, including revolution. This dogma stems from the dear old transcendental days of the 19th century when the University coined the phrase that all must be "sifted and winnowed" in the interest of Truth.

In those days the technique of Communists for seizing an institution and using it for their own purposes was unknown, but still the great institution at Madison holds doggedly to its ideal. In the meantime, it has become, quite naturally, a nursery for radicals.

It would be inaccurate to label all criticism of American involvement in Viet Nam as Communist inspired. There are the sincere pacifists and those who are scared to death of military service. But it is fair to say that Communists and left-wing Socialists are united in denouncing our Viet Nam policy, not merely for the purpose of causing us to lose that war, but with the longer-range view of promoting their sadly-delayed revolution in America.

Two days after the Wisconsin "teach-in" I was on the campus of Harvard University, where members of the "Harvard-Radcliffe May 2 Committee" explained to me that it was an "anti-imperialist student organization" fighting U.S. efforts to "deprive peoples of their freedom."

On the campus of Columbia University in New York the next day, students manning a table in front of the library handed me pamphlets from the Socialist Workers Party, the Youth Against War and Fascism, the War Resisters League, the Du Bois Club, the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors and The Progressive Labor Party.

Boy, is the campaign rolling!

It must be said that the overwhelming majority of American college students is either unfooled or uninterested. But it may be time to ponder the question whether the cause of intellectual freedom is well served if university property is turned over to groups which, if they could prevail, would set up totalitarian systems that would not tolerate intellectual freedom.

This spring, when State Department personnel attempted to explain Viet Nam policies at the University of Wisconsin, they were drowned out by catcalls and boos from heckling leftists who appeared to hold a rather selective view of freedom of speech.

It might be instructive for college administrators to tour South America, where Communist-lining professors and students have seized control of many universities, driven away the opposition, and turned the institutions into mere centers of agitation and subversion.

Is Columbus Ready For The 'Big Time?'

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Spectator Sports Editor

Hesitation and cold feet never won a ball game.

Columbus — the "All-American City," the "City of Champions" — has been hesitant about its athletic future and the old scoreboard clock has just about run its course.

Hopes that the Capital City will land a spot in the "big time" (major league baseball, pro football and basketball) by following its present course have passed the point of "skating on thin ice."

In fact, they've "fallen in."

Columbus has been written off the list while the Atlanta's, Denver's and Miami's have landed the big fish.

GET COLD SHOULDER

NFL expansion plans, for example, do not include Columbus — although Cincinnati is being given consideration.

"Big time" sporting interests will not be wooed by the fact that 84,000 fans pack Ohio Stadium on a football Saturday.

Why?

Because Ohio Stadium would not be available for lease to house a pro football team.

Columbus cannot be "big time" until "big time facilities" are available.

Can a city attract a big time franchise if the facilities are available?

'EGG' FIRST

There's no guarantee. But the "chicken" can't be hatched without the "egg."

The Urban Renewal Department has proposed plans for that "egg" in the form of a stadium and arena as part of the Riverside Development Plan in downtown Columbus.

Modeled on a similar program now under way in Pittsburgh, the proposal would provide a stadium (seating capacity of 52,000 for football, 54,000 for baseball) and arena (20,000 seats).

On-site parking would accommodate 6,000 autos and 250 buses with additional parking space available in nearby downtown facilities for 23,800 additional vehicles.

Estimated cost of the two facilities and parking areas is $32 million.

OTHERS PAID 'BIG'

Granted, that's no small order but other "big time" cities had to pay a similar price to land their franchises.

The Urban Renewal report points out that Columbus' population (nearing one million) is not the only consideration.

It would be reasonable to assume that a major athletic franchise would be a drawing card for an area encompassing a radius of 50 to 65 miles (includes 25 counties and a total population which should reach three million within the next 10 years).

The one major consideration is acceptance and support of a "big time" franchise by Central Ohio fans. This should present no problem.

Admittedly, Columbus has no sterling past record of support for athletic functions not eminating from N. High-st.

WHERE ARE FANS?

Where were the fans? Journeying north to watch the Browns and south to cheer for the Redlegs or staying home and watching them on TV.

Lex Mayer, who led the campaign to provide semi-pro football for Columbus for several years, is optimistic about acceptance here — despite his ill-fated experience with the Columbus Colts.

Mayer points out that the Colts lacked proper facilities and paid an exorbitant rate for rent of Jet Stadium without concession rights.

The growth of the city has pretty well put a crimp in the long-standing theory that local fans will support only OSU football.

There's a novelty in the "big time." Milwaukee was drawing but 800-900 fans per game before stepping up to the big time.

The Wisconsin city set major league attendance marks before the announced move to Atlanta last year stopped up the turnstiles during the past season.

WON'T 'CALL US'

Atlanta died as a minor league town but didn't sit on its crystal ball and wait for something to fall into its lap.

The "big time" operates on a "don't call us, we'll call you" basis. Up to now, nobody's "been home" in Columbus.

Providing the facilities would at least give us a "busy" signal.

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Spectator Staff Writer

There are whispers. They say, in effect, that Columbus is trying to pull on long pants before figuring out ways to keep its knees from being skinned in short pants.

They sound like whispers only because of some loud shouting coming from city hall this week that says "let's go big time" as Columbus unveils plans for a $32-million stadium and arena development along the Scioto River.

Shouting loudest for the "big time" is city Urban Renewal Director Patrick Phelan, whose department devised the athletic complex to entice major league sports to Columbus.

And as Phelan shouts, a man named Lex Mayer thinks about the time he started a semi-professional football team in this town called the Columbus Colts. There isn't any team called the Columbus Colts now. They are defunct because Columbus just didn't want to throw itself at them and support them.

FOR AULD LANG SYNE

"That was old time thinking," Phelan says. "Columbus has changed. There are new people here now." Phelan, and other city administrators, are hoping that the new $32-million stadium and arena will attract a major league professional football and baseball team to this city . . . this city that loves little else but champions.

Urban Renewal says little about financing the venture. Phelan is comparing it to Pittsburgh. He said, "Pittsburgh has a unique financing method in the use of revenue bonds guaranteed by the city and secured by two primary 40-year leases with the Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Club and the Pittsburgh Steelers Football Club."

It's working in Pittsburgh. A city's a city.

And there's Lex Mayer again. He does say that a lack of facilities kept his Colts from accepting an American Football League bid back in the old days.

These are new days, however, and Lex Mayer points out that "expansion has already taken place in both the National and American football leagues." It may be a case of poor timing.

'BUCK FEVER' WANING NOW

"Columbus supports more than just champions," Phalen says again. But several Ohio State University sages are saying that interest in Buckeye football is even dwindling this year.

There never really was much interest in the Columbus Colts, or the Ohio Colts, or the Columbus Jets, these sages say. Fans stuck to OSU football. If that interest is dying, how can the city feel that Columbus would support two professional sports teams? For the novelty of it? That wears off, too.

Speaking of the Jets, there is no room for them in Urban Renewal plans. The Jets would have to move if a major league baseball club decided to set up shop here.

Minor League Baseball Commissioner Phil Piton thinks about this. He says it wouldn't be feasible to operate a minor league and a major league club in the same city.

Piton remembered when this did happen . . . in Cleveland, many years ago. It was a disaster. The minors also used to operate out of Jersey City just across the Hudson from the Yanks but that didn't last long, either.

"Columbus has always been one of our finest minor league cities," Piton commented. "But, as in the past, the minor leagues have never objected to any cities putting on long pants and going to major leaguedom."

Perhaps Jet Stadium could be turned into an outdoor movie.

WHAT ABOUT VETS MEMORIAL?

The area planned for the river-front complex is estimated at $7 million and would seat 20,000. Phalen lists the arena's uses as "conventions, basketball, boxing." The arrangement of uses, placing "conventions" first like that, could be a blow to Veterans Memorial on W. Broad-st.

Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner emphasized that the city "doesn't want to hurt Vets Memorial" but the nearby location of a $7 million arena is like erecting a supermarket next to a corner grocery.

Are we ready for the "big time" sports push?

Columbus is too fickle to give a straight answer — that should be disturbing enough when $32 million is involved.

COLUMBUS URBAN Renewal Director Patrick Phelan (right) shows plans for a $32-million stadium-arena complex for the city's Scioto River Front area to Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner. The plans were unveiled in the mayor's office Friday. Phalen says the plans are similar to the stadium-arena set-up in Pittsburgh and added that he hopes it will entice a major league football and baseball team to Columbus.

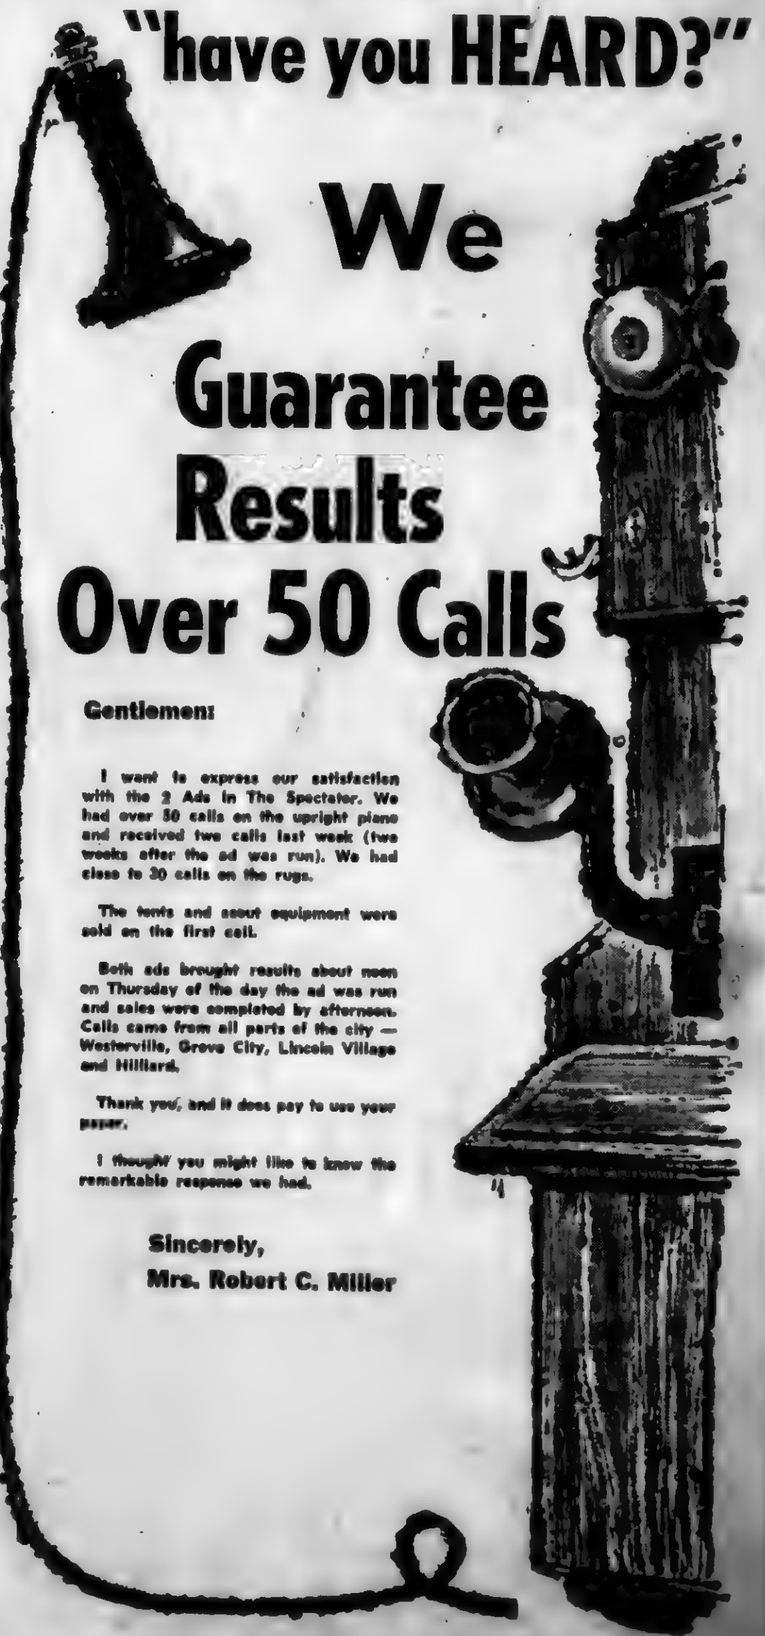
Collector's Item

By RONALD D. WINGET

The new 1965 Washington quarters have been released for general circulation. This is the first denomination to bear the 1965 date as well as the first of the "clad" composition to appear.



Much has been said regarding the coin shortage. Some would have us believe that the collector is largely responsible. People very close to the hobby will say, without exception, that the true collectors are not responsible. Primarily the coin shortage is a result of the needs of the millions of coin-operated devices in use today and the individuals who hoard coins for speculative purposes. The accelerated output of both mints was not enough to keep up with the demands of speculators. We should point out here that there is a very distinct difference between the investor and the uninformed speculator. A person who invests in numismatic material should use the same criteria as he would for stock and bonds. His investments are based upon fact. The speculator, or hoarder, simply accumulates coins without regard to their potential. Most people who withhold coins from circulation do so not realizing that they are contributing to a condition that will make money, but only for a few profitters.

For the first time in fifteen years, the U.S. Mint found it necessary to suspend production of proof and mint sets for collectors because their facilities were completely taken for the production of coins for general circulation.

Let us review our holdings and put back into circulation the coins that are not required for our collection. We have been assured by the Treasury officials that when the supply of circulating coins is sufficient to meet the demands of business, the production of proof and mint sets will be resumed. Let's work toward this end and not save the new quarters in quantity until after Christmas.

We Guarantee Results Over 50 Calls

Gentlemen:

I want to express our satisfaction with the 2 Ads in The Spectator. We had over 50 calls on the upright piano and received two calls last week (two weeks after the ad was run). We had close to 30 calls on the rugs.

The tents and scout equipment were sold on the first call.

Both ads brought results about noon on Thursday of the day the ad was run and sales were completed by afternoon. Calls came from all parts of the city — Westerville, Grove City, Lincoln Village and Hilliard.

Thank you, and it does pay to use your paper.

I thought you might like to know the remarkable response we had.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robert C. Miller

SOME PEOPLE REALLY LIVE IT UP

BUT THERE'S A South Side attorney by the name of Joseph Murphy, 471 S. High-st, who looked less than delighted when Jim Woodyard, fellow Eastern Sertoma, handed him the keys to the above limousine. You see our friend Joe, even though he is membership chairman of the club slipped up and didn't get around to bringing in a "live one" during the annual drive. But don't shed too many tears for Murphy. He's got good transportation for a week as long as he doesn't have to go in reverse, average better than seven miles an hour, or travel at night. (Lights are rough on 15-year-old batteries, you know.) Murphy figured he best get on the ball and rid himself of his "hair shirt" before his public image is completely ruined.

local and statewide electorate was the proposal to permit a judge to serve in more than one court in counties of less than 40,000 population.

In countywide contests for two Columbus Municipal court judgeships, incumbent Judges Alan E. Schwarzwalder and Kenneth L. Sater won easily. Schwarzwalder defeated William W. Holmes for the full, six-year term. Sater downed Fred Rose for an unexpired term ending Jan. 1, 1968.

The three Democratic council winners said they are "ready for immediate consultation and briefings with present council members and the administration."

They pledged to do "the kind of job we hope will justify the confidence shown in us."

One of the first tasks for the new council will be election of a new council president to succeed Fornof. It is believed that William P. Hoermle, the lone Democrat on the present seven-member council, will have "first refusal" for the post.

The Democrats will gain one political patronage plum in taking control of council — the post of council clerk. It is a foregone conclusion that Gordon Serrott, present clerk, will be ousted.

The 1966 Democratic council probably will inherit the problem of financing the city's sewer expansion program by means of a combination of bonding and a sewer rate increase. It is not likely that the present Republican council can be prodded into action on the problem in the remaining two months of GOP control.

Concert—

He will conduct a similar seminor at Capital University Thursday afternoon.

Whitehall's selection for the honor of performing Nelhybel's newest work for the first time in public is a result of a meeting at a band clinic in Michigan three years ago, attended by the school's band director, Lawrence Griffin, and J. M. Day, and by Nelhybel, then in this country only one year.

Since high school and college bands are mostly nonexistent in Europe, Nelhybel had never authored a composition of this type, but his interest prompted him to write two—the first was premiered by a college band.

"Slavic Dance," his third band composition, was finished in July, and at Griffin's request Nelhybel agreed to have it performed first by Whitehall Concert Band.

Born in Czechoslovakia in 1919, Nelhybel is now an American citizen.

He was permanent conductor of Radio Prague and the City Theatre from 1940 to 1946, and in '45 and '46 served as assistant conductor of Czech Philharmonic. He was music director and conductor of Radio Free Europe at Munich from 1950 to '57.

He has been guest conductor with the Vienna Symphony, Munich Philharmonic, Bern Symphony and many others.

Nelhybel has first performances in opera, ballet, oratorio, string orchestra, chamber orchestra, full orchestra and concert band, as well as many instrumental solos and ensembles. He has several recordings under the Folkways Label.

Among his awards are prize and medal for the ballet "In The Shadow Of The Lime Tree," at the 1947 International Festival of Music and Dance at Copenhagen; 1954 state prize for best score for Radio Prague, and a first prize in 1954 for the opera, "A Legend," by the Ravitch Music Foundation, New York City.

"Slavic Dance," will be the featured number of Whitehall's "Veterans' Day Memorial Concert."

GOP—

The council races at the ward levels were more predictable. Lester K Ballenger, First Ward Republican, and G. H. O'Shaughnessy, Fourth Ward Democrat lived up to their "favorite" tags. The normally Democratic Third Ward stayed that way in picking Leeson over Republican John A. Bishop.

Bishop, chairman of Whitehall's Recreation Board, was one of the GOP's best hopes for picking up a Democratic council seat. But the 20-20 hindsight indicates that his open support of the badly-beaten recreation bond issue did not strengthen his bid for office.

Control Reversed

But the Republican reversed the present four-to-three Democratic control of council by knocking incumbent Democrat Loren F. Mason out of an at-large council seat in favor of Hiatt. Republican Ray Shipley led the winners in gaining his sixth consecutive council term. Incumbent Democrat Marvin H. Levine took the third spot.

First-time Republican candidate Ted Harmony is being urged to stay close to the city government scene. He came within 25 votes of giving the GOP a sweep in the at-large council battle.

And Whitehall Democrats are similarly urging Second Ward candidate Phil Neubecker to stand ready for the next campaign. In his first try for public office, Neubeck lost to popular Republican incumbent Roger R. Stahley by only 25 votes.

Mayor Grateful

Mayor-Elect Paul J. Haytcher views his clear-out victory as an approval from the electorate for the programs he advocated during the campaign.

"I am very grateful to the people of Whitehall for the confidence they have shown in me, and for the honor of being elected mayor," Haytcher said in the traditional victory statement.

"But more important for the City," Haytcher continued, "is the decision by the voters to put Whitehall on the paths of progress outlined in our campaign platform."

The two-term city solicitor said he does not anticipate any major difficulty between the Democratic administration and the Republican-controlled council. "Each of us," he said, "was elected by most of the voters to serve all of the citizens, whether at the ward level or at large.

"And if we disagree in specific areas, we can do so without being disagreeable."

Whitehall-Yearling High School

RAM-blings

By KRIS COTTINGHAM

Whitehall Yearling's concert and training bands will present a Veterans' Day memorial concert Thursday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The price of the concert is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

The main feature of the concert will be the performance of "Slavic Dance," which was written especially for the band by Vaclav Nelhybel. Nelhybel, a Czechoslovakian, was music director of Radio Free Europe for six years. He is an orchestral and choral composer. Due to other work, "Slavic Dance" will be the last composition written for band for at least two years.

"Navy Hymn," "Hands Across the Sea," "Serenata," and "America the Beautiful" are several of the other selections to be performed.

The DECA I class attended the South Eastern Regional Conference on Tuesday, Oct. 19. Whitehall's Jim Stacy was elected president out of 33 schools attending this conference. Jim is also president of DECA I organization.

The National Thespian Troupe attended a state convention in Dover, O., Oct. 16. They brought back ideas of direction, costuming, acting and staging of plays.

Wendy Brummel and Kendall Lewis were chosen students of the month. They were selected through a system of grading by all the teachers in the high school.

CHORAL CONCERT SET AT EASTMOOR

AN EARLY 16th CENTURY work, "Gloria," by Antonio Vivaldi will be sung by the 90-voice A Cappella Choir of Eastmoor High School in its choral concert Friday, Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. From left are Pam Frybarger, Sandy Danneman, Bob Krupnick and Dan Taylor, choir members. A string quartet from Capital University will also participate. Director is B. Neil Davis.

Whitehall Senior Heads Southeast Region DECA

Whitehall High Senior, Jim Stacy, became the latest of the school's DE students to distinguish himself and bring honors to the school, with his election as regional president of Distributive Education Clubs of America.

The election was part of the annual regional leadership conference held at Ohio State University Oct. 19. There were 30 DE departments in attendance from a 21 county area.

Jim will represent the district's 900 DE students while working with business leaders, educators and members of the state DE staff. He will help plan the state leadership conference to be held in Columbus in March.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Estel E. Stacy, 4114 Powell-av. His DE training station is Dietz Shoes at Town and Country, where he has been employed for 18 months.

This marks the second consecutive year that a Whitehall DE student scored a first in regional competition. Last year Mary Hughes was the first girl ever elected as regional president.

This year also marked the first time a school has had students elected to this office.

DE PUPILS PROMOTE PROGRAM

WHITEHALL DE STUDENTS are proud enough of their program to shout about it. But voices don't carry too far from the high school rooftop, (and besides, Principal Austin Poole wouldn't allow it) so they chose to express their pride in a full page in The Spectator on the eve of National Distributive Education week, Nov. 7 through 13. Submitting their page layout to The Spectator advertising director, Don R. Bucknam, at right, are Lorraine Polzer, layout artist, and from left, Dan Thompson, teacher-coordinator William Ruth, Ray Barnett, Julie Jacobs, Mike Schleppi and Larry Snyder. Students will be heard in an interview with Dick Compton at 11:07 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 6 on WRFD Radio (820 kc). The program was taped Tuesday morning and students later toured the station. Hartley-Watterson Favorite Lost In 'Smoke Screen'

Ram 11 Gets 'Metro' Preview Vs. Reynoldsburg Tomorrow

The area gridders won five of eight last weekend with Bexley bringing a piece of the Buckeye Conference pie home.

Bexley nipped Grandview, 14-12, Whitehall stopped Urbana, 32-0, Gahanna beat Mifflin, 24-0, Hartley whipped Ready, 28-8, Eastmoor beat Portsmouth, 20-16, Academy dropped a big one to Reynoldsburg, 26-16. East lost to Marion Franklin, 8-0, and Walnut Ridge fell to West, 16-6.

HARTLEY'S Mike Cunningham went to afterburners on two touchdown runs of 85 and 48 yards to trip Ready in a Catholic League battle.

The win gave Hartley a handsome 7-1 record overall and a 1-1 CCL mark.

Hartley got on the scoreboard on the fourth play of the game when Joe Gatto buzzed off-tackle for seven yeards.

THAT SCORE climaxed a 72-yard drive in four plays. The gem of the march was John Brandt's pass to Tom Miller that covered 62 yards of the winner's field.

CUNNINGHAM'S first touchdown came on the second play of the second period when he out-raced Ready defenders before they could lay a hand on him.

Scott French scored in the third period from the 10-yard line to uphold his pace as one of the top scorers in the county.

The lone Ready touchdown came in the second period on a one-yard plunge by Dave Oddi. That capped a 33-yard drive in 11 plays following a Harley fumble.

WHITEHALL DRUBBED Urbana with points in the last three quarters.

Mike Allen, Tip Nelson, Lewis Anderson, Rick Foltz, and Tom Barton scored in the Rams' 32-0 Breeze over the visiting Hilliclimbers. Barton lunged one yard, Nelson eight yards, Foltz 10 yards, Anderson drove five yards, and quarterback Allen raced 11 yards.

WALNUT RIDGE'S lone score came in the third period on a four-yard run by Dan Ariedge.

The loss gave the Scots an overall 1-7 record and the win boosted West's mark to 3-5.

Quarterback Walt Richards scored for the Cowboys on a 15-yard run and Mike Hughes added the last tally on a five yarder.

IT WAS THE night of the jolly Blue Lion at Bexley, when Grandview previously unbeaten and once-tied in league action, yielded the top spot of the BPC to Bexley.

Bexley, with its 14-12 comeback win, tied Delaware for the title.

Bexley marched 61 yards in 13 plays as Colby Crall smashed over from the three for the winning touchdown late in the third period.

Grandview held a 12-8 lead starting the second half after falling behind the Lions 8-0 midway through the second period.

ART THOMAS raced 28 yards for the first score, and quarterback Gary Bosart tossed to Barry Walton for 17 yards and a halftime lead.

Rick Weber, the workhorse of the Lions, last Friday, squeezed through Grandview early in the second period for a one-yard TD.

Grandview marched to their own 18 in the fourth period only to have Weber snatch a pass, stopping the drive and the Bobcats for the night.

ACADEMY was involved in a championship tussle also last weekend but ended up on the wrong end of the 26-16 score board. Reynoldsburg, won the Franklin County League crown all by themselves.

Raider troublemaker Gene Harshaw darted for two touchdowns on 38 and one-yard runs to down a game but undermanned Academy bunch that refused to yield.

The spunky Vikings started the second half, 18-0, in the hole but had the ball in the end zone on the first drive, climaxed by Herb Lape's 32-yard pass to Steve Mahaffey. Academy brought the ball back to its own six after recovering a Reynoldsburg fumble on their own 33 on the ensuing kickoff.

REYNOLDSBURG ground and foiled any upset effort.

The Raiders got a 26-8 cushion with 2:03 showing on Dave Herrmann's 13-yard pass from Gary Shade.

The Vikings scored with 23 seconds left in the game on Al Unetic's one-yard plunge.

EASTMOOR went to Portsmouth last Friday, and brought back a scalp.

The browny Warriors piled up a 20-0 lead before the Men of Troy shifted into drive.

Warrior quarterback Randy Yoakum passed and ran his team into the lead.

He hit Jack Parry on a 22-yard scoring strike, and kept the ball for a two-yard touchdown run.

YOAKUM ALSO added the only Warrior extra point of the night.

John Wymer intercepted a Trojan pass and returned it 18 yards for another E-M score.

EAST FUMBLED its way out of contention in the City League title business Friday night.

The Tigers amassed 269 yards and held Marion Franklin to 116 (a minus six in the second half).

Rod Crabtree scored in the second period on a six-yard pass from quarterback Dale Darnell for the game's only touchdown.

East dropped eight balls, but lost only two to the Red Devils. The other six stalled the Tiger offensive machine.

DAVE BELLI was the major factor in Gahanna's 24-0 win over Mifflin. The spunky senior stepped off touchdown runs of 20 and 59 yards, and picked up 167 rushing yards in 25 carries.

Mike Bokros scored on a 24-yard passing strike from quarterback Bob Mach.

Mach picked up 73 yards himself and tossed for 48 more in Gahanna's seventh win against a lone defeat.

Bexley Wins, Splits BAC Pennant With Delaware; Rams, Hawks, Warriors, Lions Pick Up Victories

By Jack Wittenmeier

If you're planning to attend Saturday's big Watterson-Hartley game (7:30 p.m. at North Stadium), you'd better take along a gas mask.

It's unlikely that the "smoke screens" sent skyward by Watterson's Dick Walker and Hartley's Jack Ryan this week will be cleared away by that time.

IN FACT, you'd never believe the Hawks (7-1) and Eagles (8-0) were entering the game with such enviable marks with both mentors sounding like two men doomed for a dawn firing squad.

Walker, for example, says: "I'm really worried. They (Hartley) have lost only one game and have the best team in the school's history. But everybody seems to be taking them for granted. Backs like (Scott) French and (Mike) Cunningham give them the fastest team in the CCL."

Veteran mentor Jack Ryan (whom Walker amiably refers to as "the old fox") states it a little bit more piously.

"YOU KNOW how you read the Bible and are impressed. Well, that's how I feel when I read about Watterson this season. It'll show a lot of guts on our part just showing up. I just hope we can make a contest of it."

If you aren't choked up too much at this point, we might submit a few statistics on the two elevens.

Hartley's lone setback came at the hands of DeSales (38-16), the same club which Watterson downed, 18-14, last weekend.

STATISTICALLY, the Eagles have the point edge in both offensive and defensive departments — 317-228 in the former, 71-82 in the latter. (Almost half of the points scored against the Hawks are attributed to DeSales).

Both clubs might have some key personnel under par for Saturday's tilt — a win for Hartley providing a three-way divvy of the '65 CCL crown.

Walker reports wingback Tom McKeen "doubtful" with a sprained ankle incurred vs. DeSales.

THE HAWKS will be without big (215 lb.) tackle Sam McKee again this week (knee) although running mates Doug Parker (broken hand) should be back.

"The old fox will have something new for us," Walker comments. "I look for them to throw a lot. We've showed some weaknesses in that department this season and, added all up, that spells trouble."

The young Eagle coach has not forgotten what the "old fox" pulled the last time the two met with teams which had comparable records to this season's.

THAT WAS 1963 (Ryan's last year at St. Charles) and the Carolians (6-2) upset the Eagles (6-1-1), 20-14.

What Saturday's game might boil down to is Watterson's explosive breakaway offense that depth wore DeSales down last weekend) against Hartley's yard-stingy defense.

The Eagle forte is the long TD run and Hartley hasn't given up a gain longer than 21 yards thus far this season.

"WE'VE BEEN able to pursue well this season," Ryan states. "But they're ready to go al lthe way anytime one of their backs gets his hand on the ball. I just hope it (Hawk defense' holds up."

Speaking of defenses, Ryan looks for Watterson's reliable 6-1 alignment (with a "monster") for his Hawks Saturday with little variation.

Ryan will be sending his defenses out Saturday to stop Watterson quarterback Joe McDonough and his favorite target—end Don Hollard.

IT WAS a little bit different a few years back when Ryan tutored both players' dads at St. Charles.

Whitehall (7-1-1) gets a "sneak preview" tomorrow night of one of its future Metropolitan League opponents when Reynoldsburg (6-1-1) comes calling.

The Raiders were crowned 1965 Franklin County League champs last week, closing their loop sked with a clean 5-0 slate.

"IT GIVES us a chance to find out what they're like," says Ram grid boss Jim Bline. "I know they've improved a lot since the early part of the season."

Bline, who figures the two schools might be initiating another Whitehall-Eastmoor type rivalry, looks for an "offensive game, with lots of surprises."

"Both Reynoldsburg and us have similar offenses and defenses. In fact, they are similar to us in more ways than any team we've faced this season," Bline added.

"WE'LL JUST have to see who does the best job."

The Whitehall mentor added that Reynoldsburg likes the off-tackle play and the belly series and pass. Number one Raider runner on the "get" list is fullback Gene Harshaw, who likes the off-tackle belly and pitch sweep.

Junior quarterback Gary Shade is another top Ram consideration. "He (Shade) directs an offense similar to Ohio State's. Fullback, halfback and then a quarterback roll out. Our offenses will have to "stay at home against them."

ALTHOUGH Bline admits that this is the first time this season his Rams will outweigh an opponent, the Whitehall mentor warns that Reynolds-

COACH RALPH WEBSTER hopes this sextet of Walnut Ridge gridders will be able to get the Scotties back on the win path tomorrow when Central's Pirates invade for the City League finale for both elevens. Facing the Scots this season have been (kneeling, from left): quarterback Dick Wellett, fullback Dan Ariedge and Webster. Standing are guard Bob Kautz, halfback Jay Hill, halfback Jim Waller and end Pat Beveridge. Missing are another pair of Scots who have been standouts this season — tackle John Cruse and end Rick Houchen, the latter out for the season via a broken collarbone.

Little Bucks Retain Lead With Shutout

The Little Buckeye downed the McDonald Golden Eagles, 36-0 and the Lockbourne Skyhawks defeated the Bremen Black Hawks, 19-6 in Ohio Valley Conference League play last weekend.

Buckeye halfback Mike Egger came up with two TD's and quarterback Bill Vest scored twice on a 73-yard pass interception and a 13-yard run. Quarterback John Todhunter added a one-yard plunge.

Skyhawk halfback Bill Hinton scored on a 28-yard run and Steve Barth recovered a fumble in the end zone to pace the Skyhawks.

Tackle Mike Shea also scored for Lockbourne on a 40-yard run after grabbing a free ball.

Bremen halfback Steve Ashbaugh scored for the Black Hawks on a 15-yard sweep.

This memorial program is being sponsored by the Columbus Jewish War Veterans Post No. 122.

Included on this program will be the regular Friday evening services, conducted by the war veterans and a reading of the names of all the comrades who have passed away. These names appear on the memorial plaque, which will be displayed.

Commander Norman Cohen invites all of the community to attend the memorial services and participate in the Kiddish to follow.

Dr. Sobol is scheduled to arrive by plane from Washington, D.C., on Friday morning.

SPORTS

DOWN IN FRONT!..

—IS SOMETHING our sports staff wouldn't hear too often if it were made up of people like pretty Susan Gale. Unfortunately, Susan is only modeling one of the new jackets issued to The Spectator Sports Department last week. Around game-time each week, the new jackets—and their not-quite-gorgeous wearers—can be found gracing the sidelines of several of the 40 high schools in our circulation area.

Bantam 'Tri-header' To Fix Whitehall King

Whitehall Bantam Football League fans will get an opportunity to view all six local elevens Sunday in a big grid triple-header at Yearling High School.

The Steelers and Vikings (finished sixth and seventh place respectively in league) will kick off the action at 12:30 p.m.

IMMEDIATELY following will be a re-match between the Redskins and Bears—two clubs which battled to a 7-7 deadlock earlier this season. Game time is approximately 2 p.m.

The third tilt will settle the mythical championship of Whitehall since the 49ers and Browns (both tied for second place in league) will face off in the finale.

The triple-header will be open to the community and, although no admission will be charged, fans will be asked to make a donation for league operating expenses.

BANTAM LEAGUE president Mark Wilson urges all Whitehall grid fans to attend the game and see what the Bantam program has to offer Whitehall youngsters.

IMPORTANCE TO THE SCHOOL

DECA Chapter activities are always school-centered, thus contributing to the school's purpose of preparing well-adjusted, employable citizens. Chapter activities serve the teacher-coordinator as a teaching tool by creating interest in all phases of marketing and distribution study, and serve as an avenue of expression for individual talent.

The Chapter is the "show window" for student achievement and progress. It attracts students to the DE program who are interested in marketing, management and distribution careers, and assists in subject matter presentation.

IMPORTANCE TO THE COMMUNITY

DECA members have made numerous studies and surveys to aid the economic development of their own community. Creative marketing projects continue to encourage this type of contribution.

Many businesses favor employing DE students because of their interest in training and their related school study of that particular business. Many leaders in business and government have praised the DECA program for its civic-related activities.

Bexley—

burg's Oklahoma "offset" defense is plenty tough.

"They move and are real good on pursuit. They just hit and go and don't stay in one place too long."

Bline admitted that his Rams did OK against Urbana after getting off to a slow start.

QUARTERBACK Mike Allen hit on seven of 13 passes for 94 yards and Ram rushers added 208 more yards to that total.

Bline felt his offensive ends Tom Kleinline and John Bankes turned in their best effort of the season, credited punter Gary Stimmel with another fine job, thought second quarterback Lewis Anderson "showed a lot of promise" and lauded "hatchet man" Randy Rhoades and soph middle guard Dave Graff for outstanding defensive effort.

Pat Packard, who sustained a knee injury earlier this season, is now out for the season. Reynoldsburg's visit will mark Whitehall's homecoming.

IN OTHER area games tomorrow night: West Jefferson (6-4) is at Academy, Bexley (3-5) journeys to Arlington (8-0), Central (2-5-1) visits Walnut Ridge (1-7), East (5-3) journeys to Whetstone (3-4-1), Eastmoor (3-5) hosts West (3-5) and Gahanna (7-1) heads for Grove City (0-7-1).

Adeline Lists 'Modus Operandi' For Column

I have been asked many times how I find time to write this column. For the curious, the following is my modus operandi:

Q: Do you set aside certain days of the week for writing?

A: Yes, my only problem being that something extraordinary always seems to happen at those specific times. Last week, for instance, the kids got into the leftover paint, the cat got stuck in the sewer pipe, two kids required emergency medical treatment (we're in competition with the Kennedy kids, you know) and a friend I hadn't heard from in 12 years telephoned to fill me in on what she had been doing for the past 12 years.

Q: Aside from these unavoidable obstacles, do your kids interrupt you while you are working.

A: Only for "important" reasons. During the past hour as a matter of record I have been called upon to:

1. Settle three fights.
2. Tie eight pairs of shoelaces at least six different times.
3. Determine whether one of the goldfish was still alive. It was floating on top of the bowl like William Holden in "Sunset Boulevard." (It was dundee.)
4. Adjust the lawn sprinkler so that the kids could run through it.
5. Adjust the sprinkler so that the milkman wouldn't get soused.
6. Change into dry clothes myself.

Q: What do you find is the hardest thing about writing?

A: Jan's left foot, which she digs into my back when she watches me type while standing behind me on the same chair.

Q: What have you found has helped you most in your writing?

A: A pitcher of water with Dixie cups, band-aids and a jar of cookies next to my desk. I computed that I had to get up to fetch these the most often.

Q: Do you feel that in your writing you have "found yourself"?

A: I may have found myself, but unfortunately I get lost again when I walk into our living room and see what the kids have done to the house.

Q: Do you actually have seven kids?

A: At last count — so help me Planned Parenthood.

'HE' GETS LETTERS

Dear Fearless,

I'm a member of the 1965 Franklin Heights football team and darn proud of it too!

I do think, however, that Pleasant View could act more like a champ instead of a bunch of "jackasses."

In all fairness, congratulations (to Pleasant View).

Catch Thieves, Receive Reward

Five employes of the Norfolk and Western Railroad recently received reward checks totaling $1,000 from the Columbus Transit Company for their part in capturing robbers of a CTC operator last June.

The reward checks were presented by CTC President Edward A. Pellissier at a luncheon at the Athletic Club to Charles A. Livingston, Blacklick; Frank L. Packard, Westerville; James Mather, Grove City; David M. Kelly, Gahanna and Everett L. Keese, 960 Weber-rd.

The train crew saw two men attempting to smash a CTC fare box near the N&W track on Nelson-rd the day after the robbery. They gave chase and helped Columbus police make the arrest in Franklin Park.

Handicapped Helped By Public's Donations

Handicapped workers earn as they learn by renewing donated clothing, and household items for sale in Goodwill stores and by doing contract work such as packaging, sorting, inspecting and sub-assembly, for local business firms. After training, the workers are ready for community employment.

Home donations are picked up, upon request, by Goodwill trucks throughout 21 counties in Central Ohio, and 204 blue and yellow collection centers in the area serve as handy depositories for clothing and small portable items.

SPORTS

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Spectator Sports Editor

A Vote For Joe . . .

Baseball's got the "help wanted" sign out these days for what the big time sportswriters refer to as a "czar."

More appropriately, the term is "commissioner" and the shoes to be filled belong to Mr. Ford Frick, who wants to step down from the throne just as soon as an heir apparent can be rounded up.

MAJOR LEAGUE baseball owners, whose job it is to select Frick's successor, adjourned recently, apparently no closer to landing a "czar" than they were when Frick expressed his desire to call it quits over a year ago.

Wittenmeier

More people have turned "thumbs down" to feelers than Wittenmeier have expressed interest in the job. Nevertheless, the announcment is expected by the annual baseball convention next month.

Frick's turn at baseball's reins has been far from stormy as compared to a similar role played by pro football boss Pete Rozelle, who quaked the sporting world two - and - one - half years ago by kicking Paul Horning and Alex Karras out of the game for a season.

IN FACT, baseball hasn't had a really dark day since the Black Sox scandal.

That's not to say that being commissioner of the sport is an easy task. Far from it.

The thing that's most puzzling to this writer, however, is the owners almost dedicated effort to land someone out of baseball for the position.

Three names most frequently mentioned in the category have been former Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert, ex-Air Force Chief of Staff Curtis LeMay and G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

LEMAY, WHO admitted he had seen six games in the last ten years, graciously declined the offer last week, suggesting the boys might be wiser to select "someone more familiar with baseball."

We don't know how familiar the president of the Stock Exchange is with baseball (he probably goes to Met games — and still might not be familiar with baseball) but his introduction as "czar" ought to be just enough to get Congress moving on another "baseball is big business' probe.

Zuckert always made a pretty good appearance in the Air Force News Parades we're subjected to once a month at reserve meetings but — commissioner of BASEBALL?

MAYBE IT'S too elementary, but what's so terrible about making a baseball man the game's commissioner? We know several construction workers who could lift this typewriter we're using with one finger but would have one heck of a time trying to remove their fingers from between the keys if they tried to pound some words out of it.

Baseball has a number of problem areas and needs someone "who's been there" to understand their complexities.

Stan Musial would make and ideal commissioner. He knows baseball and certainly would command the respect of all involved.

BUT MUSIAL has his hand in another pie (national physical fitness program) and isn't available.

Best bet among the "favorites" as far as we can see is American League prexy Joe Cronin, who apparently has been delegated to the "dark horse" category.

We also believe a guy like Bill Veeck could serve the new alignment as well.

WE COULDN'T quite buy Veeck as commissioner but his person should pump some vitality into baseball at its upper echelon where — in this writer's opinion — it is needed most vitally.

Better Check These Ground Rules Before You Sight In That Big Buck

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

If you are going to hunt deer in Ohio with your old blunderbuss, better read the rules.

There are a total of 34 counties or parts of counties where you may level off at a nice fat buck. If you want a doe for the table, stay home or go elsewhere, they are very illegal.

FOR THE first time in many years, we have a bucks-only law and the bucks must be sporting antlers three inches or longer. I know you are used to blasting away at the first deer you see coming up the draw but this time, please take a long look first.

Our deer herd is in bad enough shape without gunning them down and leaving them in the woods.

In the five northwestern counties (Defiance, Fulton, Lucas, Paulding and Williams) you may hunt Nov. 9-10-11 and kill any size, any sex. That is if you have some kinfolks up there.

YOU MUST get a letter from the landowner where you plan on hunting and then apply for a permit from the Division of Wildlife and, oh yes, you must also buy a deer tag for $5.25, plus your regular hunting license.

To hunt the 29 counties and parts of southeastern Ohio, you must still buy the $5.25 tag and your $2.25 hunting license. The southeastern season runs for four days, Nov. 8-9-10-11 for three-inch bucks only.

The boundary lines for the bucks-only area are as follows: all south and east of highways 41, 50, 159, 22, 13, 62 and 39. If this confuses you, join the crowd. Be sure you study the map on the back of your yellow digest of hunting laws.

I HAVE heard that there will be almost as many game protectors in the woods as there are deer hunters. While the deer shotgun season is open, it is illegal to hunt anything else. No squirrels, no grouse and no bow-hunting for deer.

All other (53) counties are closed to any kind of deer but open for squirrel and grouse hunting.

In talking to Don Thompson, Game Management Supervisor, I found that the road-killed deer (the only easy way we have to judge the health of the herd) in southeastern Ohio is up 46 percent over any other year in the 1960's.

This could also mean there were more cars traveling that area but we won't get into that subject at this time.

ACTUALLY, I am very opinionated about our precious deer herd but I don't discuss the results of this season until we have results to discuss. Everyone that has talked deer with me knows I tried to get the State to close our deer season until we were sure we had deer to hunt. I'll save my best swings for the hot stove league.

Now 16—Do I Hear 15?

BY JACK WITTENMEIER

Football fans who aren't too sharp, mathematicswise, should enjoy attending a Hamilton Township football game.

In fact, if they're real sharp, they could do the job on two hands and one foot.

COACH DARIO Gatti, who was greeted on opening day last August with a robust squad of 25 hopefuls, sounded the alarm for more players early in the season.

In fact, the H-T school newspaper even devoted a good slice of its front page to advertising for prospective gridders.

But the effort went for naught and injuries etc. dwindled the squad to 20 by mid-season.

NOW, GATTI'S got another problem. Proving that "when it rains, it pours," the Ranger coach has the U. S. Air Force to contend with.

"Uncle Sam's cut me down to 16," Gatti lamented last week, refering to the transferal of two families from nearby Lockbourne AFB to Louisiana (each had a football-playing son on the H-T roster).

Gatti might have one solace in the fact that referees love to officiate H-T games these days.

Sure — it's easier to count the bunch that the field on kickoffs.

EVERYBODY can count to five — can't they?

Central Ohio Heart Fund Pin Tourney Opens Nov. 7

The ninth annual Heart Fund Bowling Tournament gets under way Sunday, Nov. 7.

Kick-off for the tournament will be a one-hour bowlathon on WTVN-TV at noon on that date.

Bowlers can compete in the week-long event by paying the $1 entry fee and bowling with their respective leagues. Thirty cents of the fee goes for cash prizes at individual lanes and 70 cents goes for heart research.

A week's stay in Fort Lauderdale with transportation furnished is the grand prize for winners — a man and a woman — of the roll-off to be held Sunday, Nov. 28, at Olentangy Village Lanes.

The roll-off is open to top scorers—a man and a woman —at all houses in the Central Ohio Heart Association's 47-county area, including Franklin.

MAVERICK

With Muddy Shoes

By RICHARD L. PAUGH

Pheasant Safari . . .

What happened to the "good old days"?

How many times do you hear that question asked by today's hunter? If you talk to as many of the sportsmen as I do, you'll hear it quite often.

IT SEEMS to be a catch-all phrase that not only does not do justice to our modern times but also covers up a lot of lack of spirit.

Paugh

Sure, there is less field and forest today and I'm sure there's less game therein. Add in the undeniable fact that there are many more hunters now than yesteryear and you get a fairly gloomy outlook.

It's gloomy, however, only if you are what we term a "table hunter." What many hunters do not understand is that the hunt—the real reason for getting out of the house — is still there.

PERHAPS IT would be better if we changed the term "hunters" to "seekers." It would point up the real purpose of the sport. We should shoulder our weapons, take a deep breath of the stimulating ozone and say to ourselves "If I scare up a rabbit, I'll have to shoot it in self-defense."

We pride ourselves on coming of age as a world power within three centuries of our founding. Our armies and industries are second to none. Our scientists and scholars are leading the rest of the world.

Yes, British hunters have, for many generations, been riding to the foxes and turning them loose. Will our sporting gallantry ever come of age?

I WAS talking of this very problem to Harry Swearingen, Assistant Chief of Wildlife, recently. He mused that a fisherman will fish the day away and go home empty-handed but not be heard to say the lake is void of fish.

If a squirrel hunter sits against the same oak trunk for two hours and sees no bushytail, he is certain there are no nut-crunchers within miles. I cannot believe fishermen are that much superior to hunters as sportsmen.

If you would like to bring back the days of good pheasant hunting, there is a tried and true way to accomplish it. I just received word from Jim Perrill of Fayette County that his Lions Club will once again hold their famous Pheasant Safari.

FOR THOSE of you who have not heard of this wonderful, wild affair, here are the details: On the 19th and 20th of November, 200 lucky hunters will be furnished guides and transportation into Ohio's best pheasant country — the farms of Fayette County. They will hunt lands that have not heard the boom of a scattergun this year—land reserved for them.

At lunchtime they will be brought back to the finest harvest feed imaginable where they will enjoy the hams and roasts of Ohio's best country cooks. After lunch, they will be taken back into virgin fields to try their eye again on Fayette pheasants.

At supper time, they will be invited to partake again of the harvest board. To top it all off, sandwiches and coffee will be packed for the hunters to eat on the way home. Every little detail has been worked out by the Lions Club to make those two days "just plain" perfect.

IF YOU ARE interested in joining them at Bloomingburg, five miles out of Washington Courthouse, get your request in early to Jim. He tells me they had to turn down hunters last year.

They will not take new hunters if they are already committed to their capacity (20,000 acres this year).

You may hunt either day for 20 bucks or both days for 30 bucks. You must send a five spot to Jim in care of the Lions Club, Bloomingburg, O., as soon as possible. This will hold your reservation.

LAST YEAR I wrote this story and many readers thanked me for bringing it to their attention. The Lions Club raised $800 for seeing-eye dogs and $200 for eye research on the Pheasant Safari.

They put your money to work in such a way that—who knows — you might be the benefactor.

Show this column to your hunting buddy and get those five bucks in. You do indeed need an up-to-date hunting license to take part in this "old fashioned" hunt.

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One," who announced last week he would achieve a .667 percentage this season (two right for every one wrong) didn't have much success in that direction last week — running his '65 mark to 133-49 with only two weeks of forecasting to go.

With 26 Spectator-area elevens completing play this weekend, the perplexed prognosticator will need to get his crystal ball working overtime.

Here's the lineup for week nine:

BEXLEY AT ARLINGTON —Lions improved but won't spoil Bears' second straight perfect season. UA.

BROOKHAVEN AT SOUTH — Bearcats wrap up first City title. Brookhaven.

ST. MARY AT CANAL WINCHESTER — Rams close with scalps intact.

CARROLL AT FAIRFIELD UNION — Hosts strong but Bulldogs need win to guarantee winning season. Carroll.

CENTRAL AT WALNUT RIDGE — Pirates close on top. Central.

CIRCLEVILLE AT FRANKLIN HEIGHTS — Tigers tough. Circleville.

DELAWARE AT WORTHINGTON—Maybe Cards have found right combination. Try Worthington.

EAST KNOX AT DUBLIN —Shamrocks get even. Dublin.

EAST AT WHETSTONE—Dethroned champs close on winning note. East.

WEST AT EASTMOOR—Two in row for Warriors. Eastmoor.

GROVEPORT AT WESTERVILLE — Wildcats could surprise but . . . Groveport.

GREENFIELD AT HAMILTON TOWNSHIP — Both suffered two-TD setbacks to Hillsboro. Try Greenfield in tossup.

NORTH AT LINDEN—Win would grant Panthers winning season. Linden.

LONDON AT MIFFLIN—Looks like a co-championship in Mid-Eight. London.

Robert M. Chiaramonte Is New Patrol Chief

Robert M. Chiaramonte of 6040 Cleveland-av is the new superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol.

The appointment was made by Governor James Rhodes.

Chiaramonte at 45 is one of the youngest men to command the patrol.

He replaces Col. Anson B. Cook, who has resigned as superintendent to become executive director for the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council, according to Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson.

Along with the superintendency, Chiaramonte has been given the rank of colonel in the patrol.

A 23-year veteran, Chiaramonte has been assistant superintendent since Jan. 16, 1964. He is a graduate of the 17th Highway Patrol Academy class of April, 1942. From 1942 to 1946, he served as a radarman second class in the U.S. Coast Guard.

He served tours of duty at the Hebron and Warren posts of the patrol and was promoted to general headquarters as an instructor in the patrol training academy. In 1957, he was made chief of the personnel division.

A native of New Lyme, Ashtabula County, he graduated from New Lyme High School in 1938. He attended Ohio State and Franklin Universities.

Chiaramonte completed a course in police administration at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute in 1955, and was valedictorian of his class.

A year after his assistant patrol superintendent appointment, he was promoted to lieutenant colonel, a position he held until his present advancement.

The new patrol chief is often a guest instructor at the Southern Police Institute of Louisville, Ky., and at Northwestern.

Chiaramonte said the patrol is organizationally sound and that he is going to make only minor changes. However, he would like to see more law enforcement schooling offered his men.

Robert Chiaramonte

He is a member of the Lockbourne Masonic Lodge, the Aladdin Shrine, the American Legion, International Association of Chiefs of Police and the Society of Scientific Detection of Crime. He is married and has two daughters, Kim, 12 and Sandy, 8.

A New Halloween Prank—Just For Kicks

By CHUCK HASTLE

Today's youngsters are not inclined to spend the time and effort carrying out elaborate Halloween pranks such as made their elders famous (or infamous). They seem more interested in treats than tricks.

One exception this weekend was the stunt which could have led to a point-after disaster. Just prior to the OSU-Minnesota game Saturday, groundskeepers discovered that someone had strung nylon fishing line above the bar between the uprights of one of the goal posts at OSU Stadium. The lines, spaced about every six inches, would have deflected one of those crucial kicks if they had not been noticed in time.

• • •

Speaking of tricks and treats, the OSU-Minnesota game turned out to be a little bit of both for home fans Saturday. A point-after place-kick that turned out to be a trick run for the two-point conversion made it possible for the Buckeyes to emerge with an 11-10 victory after a fourth-quarter field goal. A real treat!

• • •

Those OSU students supporting their nation's involvement in Viet Nam are set to out-do the "anti's" who have been demonstrating recently. the "Pro's" expect 1,500 people to join a "bleed-in" during which 1500 pints of blood will be collected for use to support the war effort.

A WRAPUP OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

This demonstration will take place Nov. 10 and 11 at the Ohio Union. Faculty and public are invited to participate.

• • •

They ain't gonna just sit around up there at OSU and make do with bad grammar. They's gonna do something about a new type of grammar. According to U.S. Rep. Samuel L. Devine, a federal grant of $261,756 will finance the project. Headed by Grammrians Frank Zidonis and Donald Bateman, it deals with a system of grammar that don't rely none on memorized rules.

Hot diggity!

Columbus City Council Monday night approved legislation to cut the electric rate for Municipal Light Plant customers. This put the city plant one day ahead of the referendum on Tuesday's ballot which would reduce the Columbus and Southern Ohio electric rate.

A total of $375,000 of federal money is now available to begin studies for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dams. This money, for "preliminary studies," is in addition to $840,000 already spent for plans under the Scioto Conservancy District.

• • •

On the heels of Halloween comes the hunt for the "Silent Killer." Thirty-five sleuths from the City Housing Inspection and Building Regulations division, have been spending the week looking for faulty flues which could lead to deadly monoxide poisoning. They plan to inspect 2500 homes.

Anyone wishing to have his home inspected may call 469-7565 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. weekdays, or call the fire department on weekends.

OSU homecoming queen elected last weekend was pretty Sherri Phillian, from Delaware. She is a home economics major and the representative from Bradley Hall.

Even though the Temple of Goodwill lowered the price on its Civic Center Drive site, the Ohio Historical Society has chosen the Ohio State Fairgrounds for the $8-million historical center. The decision came after trustees learned that Gov. Rhodes recommended the fairgrounds location.

As part of a program to prepare for a future enrollment of 3,000, Capital University has started a $2-million campus center which will include three dining rooms, bookstore, heading and music rooms and a lounge.

A plan has been presented to Franklin County officials which calls for a four-lane divided highway linking Rt. 33 at Lane-av with the proposed outerbelt at Roberts-rd. Cost of the projects is estimated at $4.5 million.

Direct from the World's Fair comes "Faces of Freedom," an art exhibit at the Ohio Union on the OSU campus. The much-heralded exhibit will remain until Nov. 15.

It's a marvelous age in which we live. It's an age of remarkable progress and achievement. And, within our lifetime, the most spectacular advances have occurred in medicine and allied fields.

These advances have touched the lives of all of us. Youngsters born in 1965, for instance, have a life expectancy of 70 years—7 full years more than those born a generation earlier in 1943. They will never know the awesome fears of epidemic disease which once swept the land when polio, small pox, malaria and others struck. Many such diseases have been nearly eradicated in the United States. In 1952 there were 57,879 cases of polio. In 1964 there were only 121.

New or more widely-used discoveries, like vaccines and drugs; new or better laboratory equipment; new or improved techniques of treating the ill; and expanded, more diversified health facilities and services, are improving health and lengthening life.

Death rates for many diseases, like influenza, tuberculosis, arteriosclerosis—to name only a very few—have dropped sharply. There's new hope for the mentally ill, who once faced a long, bleak confinement in mental institutions. Today, many such patients can be treated effectively in their own community, often at home. Hospitals have made dramatic inroads in reducing birth decay. Modern surgery, with its heart-lung machines and new tools, has allowed surgery on the heart, organ transplants and implantation of artificial blood vessels.

And who knows what medical miracles lie in the future?

The vast achievement already attained has resulted from the cooperation and coordination of the many members of your community health team and from the sincere interest of you and other citizens who have backed community programs to expand health care, services and facilities.

This week your community is taking time out to hail the advances which have been made in medicine and health and to focus attention on the wealth of health services and facilities which are available locally. Won't you join in observing Community Health Week?
